Our Millinery and Mantle Rooms are now in full operation and our customers can depend on seeing the latest novelties in these lines, and at the closest prices.

Dress Goods,

Dress Goods.

We have been fortunate in securing a large lot of fine French Dress Goods at about 30 cents on the dollar, and have now placed them on sale on the table in the centre of the store. Ask to be shown the fine All Wool Dress Goods, we are selling @ 6c. per yard. Ask to see the All Wool Debeige,@9c. per yard. Fine French Dress Goods worth 40c. for 15c. In all there is about 2800 yards and the sale is extraordinary. With these came a lot of Bavarian Curtains, bought at 50c. on the dollar, which are selling very rapidly.

House Furnishing Department.

We are showing unprecedented values in all classes of Carpets and Curtains; Oilcloths from the low grades to the heaviest English floor oils.

Tailoring Department.

As usual our display of Scotch and Canadian Suitings, English and French Worsted Coatings, and many novelties in Pantings have been appreciated, from the fact that our orders are far in excess of previous seasons.

We can show you some big bargains in Tweeds. See our All Wool Halifax Tweed 6s 25, 25, and 30 cents per yard. These lines are a marvel of cheapness, and are sold elsewhere at very much higher prices.

We cannot fully describe our stock, but we have plenty of display room where you can see it conveniently, and judge for yourself

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW.

TURNBULL'S COLUMN

Whatever the weather has been outside, it was the springiest of spring time in our store on Wednesday and Thursday last, when all the New Millinery and Millinery belongings were opened out of their close fitting boxes. For the benefit of those who could not get in on those days we will keep the display up all the first week of April. Among the leading changes noticeable in the trimming this season is Lace Ends and Scarfs and Long Veils drawn in with baby ribbon are the Leading Trimmings. The old fashion hoop that used to climb up the pole on the back door is now found falling over the Black Lace Hats. Having struck a cheap line of Flowers (German make), the Germans copy the French designs and give us the goods cheaper. We have a bouquet for everybody, bunches of roses in all colors for 35c. each. Our Stock of Children's Trimmed Hats is unusually attractive. Sailor Hats in endless variety, we have not room to give them a front show. We were disappointed at not being able to show with the millinery, the new Jet Capes, Silk Viscettes and Trimmed Dolmans, but there is time enough yet and we expect them in on the first freight train. A fine assortment of Cloths in the order department. All hands busy as bees in the work rooms up-stairs.

The Dress Goods Department is as lively as ever. A new line of Vigors and Cloth in 8 shades, 44 inches wide at 60c., came in this week. A glance at them will tell you they are serviceable. With them came a new line of German Dress Cloth, we have shown nothing similar before, is just what any lady would fancy for a Genteel Dress. Will show another new make next week. Miss Mercier is always pleased to help you with her advice as to length of dress, pattern, style of making and trimming, whether you wish to have it made by her or not.

Kid Gloves, fresh from the hands of the maker in Austria at 75c. and $1.00 a pair. This line we had in stock before, but the quantity was small and we only had a pair for a lady here and there.

Corsets. Spring brings changes and this one has brought one of the nicest makes we have ever shown. All the best makes from the leading manufacturers coming in and going out again. Large sizes for stout ladies always in stock.

A DYNAMITE PLOT.

NEW YORK, April 7.—An explosion, presumably of a dynamite bomb, Feb. 8, in the area of David Stevenson's brewery in Tenth-avenue made a terrific noise, tore away a large piece of wall and shattered numerous windows in the vicinity. It is alleged the explosion was the work of labor union men and four of them are now in custody. They are A. Fitzgerald, formerly walking delegate of the Ale and Porter Brewery Employes' Protective Association; John O'Connell, President of Local Assembly No. 8390 K. of L.; Patrick F. Close and Thomas Reardon, members of the Executive Committee of the Local Assembly.

Fitzgerald has made a confession which implicates the three other men. Stevenson had discharged all union men and refused to re-employ any but those who severed their connection with the union. The prisoners constituted the Executive Committee at the time. According to Fitzgerald's story this committee tried to invent some scheme whereby Stevenson would be made to re-employ the union and discharge scab workingmen.

The first plan approved of by the committee was to send union men to the brewery to apply for work and state that they were not attached to the union. The men who might thus secure employment were to place grease in the beer and ale vats and destroy the brew. Several applicants thus advised went to the brewery but were refused employment.

Subsequently the Executive Committee determined to appropriate $50 to continue the fight against Stevenson. The union ratified this action. The Executive Committee, made furious by the failure of their first scheme, conceived the plan to blow up the brewery. Reardon and Close were delegated to see a person, whose name is withheld, for instructions as to the destructive element to be used and the method in which it should be operated. The explosive, it was planned, should be set off in the engine room. The opportunity to reach that room was not afforded the conspirators and they became involved in a quarrel among themselves which delayed the use of the explosive.

In carrying out the boycott against the brewery Fitzgerald was charged with inactivity and was threatened with suspension from the position of walking delegate, which yielded him $27.50 per week. He finally was ordered to be suspended but resigned. The explosion followed. Detectives learned recently that O'Connell, who had been succeeded by Reardon as president of the union, stated at a meeting that it was one thing to blow up a brewery and another to prove it.

Inspector Byrnes took Fitzgerald before the grand jury on Friday, where he repeated his confession. Upon the evidence presented the jury indicted O'Connell, Reardon and Close for felony and they were arrested.

SENTENCED TO HANG.

An Indiana Murderer Fails to Convince a Jury That He is Insane.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., April 6.—This afternoon Mr. Benson was convicted of the murder of Jacob Mottweiler, near New Albany, Ind., and sentenced to hang. Benson was Mottweiler's farm hand. Mottweiler had no neighbors within a mile, and only his wife and a servant girl were on the farm with him and Benson. A quarrel arose about the girl, and one Sunday last Summer Benson shot Mottweiler dead and then tried to kill Mrs. Mottweiler with an axe. She was left apparently dead, but finally recovered. The girl fled and reported the tragedy. Benson made no attempt to escape. When taken he at first denied his guilt but then confessed. His attorney tried to show insanity, and on the stand Benson denied ever having made a confession and made other singular statements. The jury was only out half an hour. An appeal will be taken. The case was tried at Jeffersonville on change of venue from New Albany and the execution will take place there.

RISEN FROM THE GRAVE.

Strange Story Told by a Long Missing Maine Editor.

EASTPORT, Me., April 6.—H. F. Walder, proprietor of The Eastport Messenger, disappeared last November. His hat and a small boat, in which he had gone to Lubec, were found a short time afterward, the latter bottom up, and he was given up by his wife and friends as lost. Within three days his wife has received a letter from him at Pawtucket, R.I. He says the last thing he remembers is standing on the beach at Lubec. After that his mind was a blank until he found himself in the woods near Pawtucket, ragged and poor. At the time of his disappearance he was worn out by overwork and sickness in his family. These cares, with the loss of sleep, probably unsettled his mind.

Died in Exile.

HARRISVILLE, Mich., April 6.—Mrs. Annie Gardner, aged 32, was found dead in bed at this place yesterday morning. Five years ago she was a happy wife and the mother of two bright boys. She then lived with her husband in Toronto. An estrangement occurred and one night the husband took the two boys and came to Michigan. The distracted wife and mother followed and after a weary search located him near Green Bush, a small village six miles south of Harrisville. Mrs. Gardner came to Harrisville, but her husband learned of her arrival and at once fled to Saginaw, where the two boys afterward died. The mother followed her husband to Saginaw, only to learn of the death of her two boys and that the father had buried them in an obscure spot. After a long search she found their grave and had the remains exhumed and buried in the cemetery.

Removed Part of the Cattle Quarantine.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 6.—Gov. Larrabee has issued proclamation reciting the fact that the state veterinary surgeon has informed the executive department that the causes which led to a cattle quarantine against certain states have been removed, and revoking all such orders and proclamations, except so far as they pertain to Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland.

JUST A FIGHTING CHANCE.

THE GLADSTONIANS MAY POSSIBLY WIN IN BIRMINGHAM.

An Alleged Revolt Among the Rank and File of the Liberal Unionists—General Cable News.

LONDON, April 7.—It is possible as things stand that the Gladstonians may win the vacant seat in Birmingham. Tory anger is not yet appeased, and the Tories think they have been tricked by Mr. Chamberlain and ill-treated by their own Government. They may, or may not, patch up some kind of an understanding with the Liberal-Unionists, but they do not seem likely to enter upon the contest with any heart. "The rank and file have," says one of their leaders, "broken into revolt. They will not vote; they will not work. Disgust and resentment have taken possession of their souls, and unless some new basis of agreement is found, nothing but a miracle can avert a Gladstonian triumph." This, however, the Gladstonians do not themselves expect. Mr. Balfour went down to Birmingham last night and made a speech to the Tories. Under the influence of Mr. Balfour's eloquence they passed a resolution not to nominate a candidate against Mr. Albert Bright. Whether they will support him heartily is not yet clear.

Lord Randolph Churchill, whose conduct has earned him applause from all sides, has gone with Lady Randolph to the Leicester races, joining a large party at Gopsall, as guests of Earl and Countess Howe, to meet the Prince of Wales. Such are the consolations of English public life. His speeches, too, have appeared this week in two octavo volumes, edited and prefaced by Mr. Jennings, formerly of New York, now M.P. for Stockport. They will be read for their readableness, for their value as contributions to current political history, and above all for the evidence they supply that the Tory party of to-day owes its creed, as the Tory Ministry, does its existence to Lord Randolph more than to any other single leader of influence.

The Mania for Investment Trust Co's.

LONDON, April 7.—The Stock Exchange during the week was animated, values in every department improving. Buying was largely promoted by the formation of investment trust companies, the public zeal for which is rapidly reaching a mania. The total number of trusts formed in 1888 was fifteen with a capital of £9,500,000. Already this year nineteen have been floated with a capital of £25,075,000 and more are announced although it is known that existing trusts find difficulty in obtaining sound investments. During the week American railroad securities were steadily bought, speculative buying being active in spite of small encouragement from Wall-street.

Boulanger and the Prince.

BRUSSELS, April 7.—The Independence Belge maintains in spite of denials that General Boulanger visited Prince Victor Napoleon both yesterday and to-day.

Boulanger's Speech Read in His Absence.

PARIS, April 6.—The Revisional Committee gave a grand banquet this evening, at which 1000 guests were present. General Boulanger was to have presided. In his absence Senator Naquet read a speech which had been prepared by Boulanger for the occasion. In it the General promised that on attaining power he would proclaim a general amnesty and would abrogate the exile laws, which, he said, a strong government did not need. He denounced what he termed the miserable motives that had actuated the Government with respect to the rescinding of the decree of exile against the Duc d'Aumale. This action of the Government would have met with his approval if it had been dictated by a generous sentiment. He declared that he pitied M. Antoine, who was merely the tool of the Opportunists. Regarding Alsace-Lorraine he said it appeared to be a criminal offence to discuss questions relating to that province.

GOADED TO DESPERATION !

Evicted Iowa Settlers Adopt the Tactics of Irish Moonlighters.

FORT DODGE, Ia., April 6.—Every day adds to the seriousness of the strained situation of the Des Moines River land settlers. Numerous parties connected with the prosecution of settlers have received threatening notices and letters to-day warning them to desist. The recent action of the land owners in forcing evictions and threatening to call out the State militia to enforce writs of ejectment has transferred stolid determination to desperate daring. The settlers announce their readiness to die in defence of their homes, but say they will sell their lives as dearly as possible. In view of impending trouble evictions have been abandoned for the present.

Stabbing Affray at Windsor.

WINDSOR, April 7.—About 5 o'clock last night Robert Machie, formerly a bartender at the Imperial Hotel, got into a quarrel with Joseph Le Bonel at the Cosmopolitan Hotel and stabbed him several times. A doctor was called and examined the wounds, but thought that they would not result fatally. Machie has crossed the river.

Killed on the Track.

WINDSOR, April 7.—A Grand Trunk special, west-bound, struck Chas. Pelltier, who was walking on the track near Stony Point, yesterday, killing him instantly and cutting the body in a terrible manner. Pelltier did not hear the train coming. He is a farmer living near Stony Point, and the body was removed to that place.

Hunting Down a Scoundrel.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 6.—A posse of 300 men under Sheriff Dejarnet was organized in Rutherford County to-day to search for George Dunnaway, the man who some weeks ago killed his uncle and ravished his niece in the Lascassas neighborhood in that county. The belief is that Dunnaway is in hiding near the scene of his crime.

Not For Sale.

COLOGNE, April 6.—The Gazette, commenting on the report that Count Herbert Bismarck had made an offer on the part of Germany to cede Damaraland to England, says that the German Government does not desire to dispose of that territory.

Proposed Weaving School.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Representatives of the silk, woollen and cotton trades met here to-day and discussed the establishment of a weaving school. Silk manufacturers complain that foreign weavers who now form their entire corps will not permit young men to learn the trade here. A committee will be appointed to make plans for the establishment of a school.

This Cashier Was a Thief.

ANOKA, Minn., April 7.—P. F. Pratt, cashier of the First National Bank, is missing with $100,000 of the bank's money and $30,000 obtained on his personal note endorsed by an aged widow who trusted him to manage her affairs. The bank will be placed in the hands of a receiver.

A Big Storm in the South.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Despatches from all parts of Virginia and the Carolinas report that the worst storm of the season occurred on Saturday. It began with thunder, lightning and hail, snow fell heavily and was driven by a terrific gale. Wires are down in all directions.

This Boodler is Probably in Toronto.

ELMIRA, April 7.—George Ward, the assistant postmaster, who skipped last week with $1500, all the available cash in the office, is probably in Toronto, as just before his departure on the Erie train he enquired if it made close connection with a train for the Queen City.

Five Were Drowned.

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—The barge Sunrise from Norfolk for New York with coal anchored in Delaware Bay yesterday during a heavy gale, and at midnight foundered and sank. The captain, his wife and two children, also one seaman, were lost.

THE OTTAWA MYSTERY.

How Mr. Grant's Name Came to Be Mixed Up With the Recent Robbery.

OTTAWA, April 6.—The force of the old adage against judging by appearances has just had another demonstration in this city, by the return of Mr. John C. Grant, after a couple of weeks' absence, to investigate concerning the origin of certain statements which have been circulated connecting him with the recent robbery at the Police Clerk's office. He had been in Chicago on private business, but receiving from Ottawa a copy of a newspaper containing the story, at once returned to give it the most unqualified denial.

A reporter called upon Mr. Grant to-day and conversed with him about the circumstance. It seems that the police in endeavoring to solve the mystery, which quite baffled their ingenuity, had deemed it their duty to inquire into the movements not only of the members of the force but of all citizens who had had any possible means of intimacy with the workings of the office. Mr. Grant, who had had a good deal of professional business to transact in the office, was one of these. Of course the inquiries were conducted as quietly as possible, and it is not surprising therefore that, as Mr. Grant says, he knew nothing about them. A few days later he left for Chicago to transact some business, the nature of which happened to be private, and he left no word of his destination, simply stating that he was called away for a few days. Then the police inquiries got talked about and a local paper published with great wealth of detail the story of a young man supposed to be implicated in the robbery and who had fled upon hearing that the police were asking about him.

To-day Mr. Grant called at police headquarters to enquire what they wanted with him. His movements were explained, and as the Police Commissioners are still holding regular sessions inquiring into the robbery it was agreed that Mr. Grant should attend for their satisfaction on Monday morning.

MISS MACKELCAN FOUND.

Five Days Without Food—A Bed in the Snow—The Oaklands Sale.

HAMILTON, April 7.—Miss Louisa Mackelcan, who had been missing since Monday, was found by Mr. Leonard Foster yesterday afternoon in Frid's brick yards. She had slept in the warm ashes during three nights, and the other nights, according to her own statement, she slept in the snow. She had gone without any food, and Dr. Mackelcan says that had a physically strong person gone through similar privation and exposure it would likely have killed him, but her temporary mental affliction kept her up. She said she knew her people were looking for her.

The highest bid for the Oaklands farm was $17,000 and as this did not reach the reserve the property was withdrawn and put up in lots. The residence and 37 acres went to T. B. Townsend of Aldershot for $8000. The outbuildings and 40 acres were sold to H. T. Bunbury for $1500. The remainder of the lots were not sold.

MANITOBA MATTERS.

A Political Rumor—Gabriel Dumont Goes to Saskatchewan.

WINNIPEG, April 7.—The latest political rumor is that Colcleugh of St. Andrew's will succeed Jones in the local cabinet and be opposed by Robert Bullock.

A difference has arisen between the Northern Pacific and Manitoba Railway and the Hudson Bay Company respecting terminal grounds in Winnipeg, the latter declining to carry out the alleged agreement on the ground that the price is too low. The matter will be taken to the courts.

Gabriel Dumont has gone to Saskatchewan. Very few knew of his presence in Winnipeg.

The oldest son of Webb, the wife murderer lately hanged at Brandon, is wandering about with no one to care for him and is said to be losing his reason.

FIGHTING IN BORNEO.

Twenty Natives Killed, While But One Englishman Was Slain.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 6.—China mail of March 6, which arrived from Hong Kong to-day by steamer City of Sydney, has the following concerning the fight between the British North Borneo Company and a band of rebel chiefs. On the 11th the forces of the British North Borneo Company captured Galeola Fort after three and a half hours of hard fighting, taking nine guns. The rebel loss was twenty killed, while the British forces lost one killed and five wounded. Exporting arms from this colony has been prohibited for six months on account of the fighting.

The Rochester Car Men's Strike.

ROCHESTER, April 6.—Late this afternoon Sheriff Hodgson, in response to an appeal from the Street Railway Company for protection, issued a proclamation calling on the citizens to assist in maintaining order. No cars were sent out this evening and it has been decided not to attempt to run any cars to-morrow. This afternoon at 5 o'clock a collision occurred at the corner of Hudson-street and North-avenue, some one having tampered with a switch. An up car and a down car approached the switch simultaneously and the up car jumped the track, coming into collision with the down car. Nicholas Laver of New York, a passenger, saw the danger and arose to stop the car. As he reached the door the crash came and Mr. Laver was thrown violently through a pane of glass. He was badly cut and bruised. The cars were in charge of new drivers. No further trouble is reported to-night.

A Paradise for the Onion Club.

CANASTAOTA, N.Y., April 6.—This section is one of the greatest onion producing fields in the world, if not the greatest, many farmers raising nothing else. The yield last year was enormous and the onion raisers were delighted, because the bulbs had always met with a ready sale at remunerative prices. But the production was too large for the market and now the farmers weep. Thousands of bushels have been sold at one cent per bushel. One large producer recently consigned a car load of 600 bushels to New York and received in return a check for $1.55. The enormous stock on hand cannot be disposed of for enough to pay transportation charges. Despite this discouraging state of affairs the onion growers do not intend to reduce their acreage the coming season.

The Dakota Windstorm.

ELKTON, Dak., April 6.—The most terrific windstorm known to this country began on Monday and continued until yesterday. Tuesday afternoon a perfect hurricane began, causing sand to blow from ploughed fields and drifting in places one and 1½ feet deep. About 20 miles northeast of here on Tuesday the barn of Henry Kurth with three horses, wagons, etc., was consumed by a fire caused by burning straw setting fire to a timothy meadow, across which the flames flew at the speed of a running horse. In attempting to save his horses Kurth was fatally burned, dying after thirty hours of horrible suffering.

The Daily Collision.

TRINIDAD, Col., April 6.—At 4 o'clock this morning two passenger trains, each drawn by two engines, collided on the Santa Fe Railway 10 miles south of here, piled in a heap and one of the express cars was telescoped. An unknown man who was riding on the express car was killed and one of the train hands is missing and supposed to be buried in the wreck. Engineer Joe Hare had an ear torn off and his breast crushed.

Foiled by a Brave Telegrapher.

WINNIPEG, April 6.—Masked robbers entered the office of the Canadian Pacific and Dominion Express Company at Indian Head last night, placed a revolver at the head of W. H. Ross, the telegraph operator in charge, and demanded the money in his keeping. Ross suddenly blew out the light and opened fire with his own revolver. The robbers made off without getting booty.

Dying of Hunger at Panama.

PANAMA, April 7.—Since the suspension of work on the canal over 8000 laborers have been repatriated from the Isthmus. A consular investigation shows that there are still over 2000 persons on the line of the work who are destitute. Some deaths from starvation have already been reported and it is feared that many more will occur if prompt measures are not taken

SAVANNAH IN ASHES.

FIFTY BUILDINGS BURNT IN THE GEORGIA CITY.

The Loss Mounts Up to a Million and a Half—A Blaze That Was Kindled by Water—Other Big Fires.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 6.—Fire broke out at 6.53 to-night in D. H. Hogan's dry goods store in one of the finest business blocks in the city. The building was entirely destroyed, loss $150,000. The Odd Fellows' Hall went next, loss $125,000. Twelve or fifteen brick dwellings were also consumed, loss $75,000. The Independent Presbyterian Church, erected at a cost of $200,000, ten or fifteen wooden dwellings, the brick arsenal of the Savannah Guards Battalion and other buildings were also consumed. The total loss will probably reach $1,500,000, insurance much less.

Hundreds of Houses Burnt.

LONDON, April 7.—A despatch from India says that hundreds of houses have been destroyed by fire at Surat. The loss is placed at £200,000.

Water Kindled This Blaze.

NORFOLK, Va., April 7.—The cyclone, which began at 10 o'clock last night and continued until 5 this morning, heaped up a tide 18 inches above the record, and the flood, slacking lime on John A. Savage's wharf, kindled a fire which destroyed the entire block, the old Cotton Exchange building, 1400 bales of cotton and other property. The loss by fire is $200,000 and by water nearly as much more.

In Portsmouth, fire destroyed the lime and lumber yard of Trugie & Hall. The United States ship Pensacola sank in dry dock where she was being repaired for sea. The Simpson dry dock was flooded and the damage may reach $40,000.

A $500,000 Loss at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 7.—The extensive axe, shovel and saw factories of Hubbard & Co. were burned this morning. The loss will be $500,000, nearly covered by insurance.

Other Fires.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 6.—The Whitlock House at Marietta was burned this afternoon. The guests escaped unhurt. Loss, $40,000; insurance, $18,000. Adjacent residences were also burned, causing additional loss of $10,000.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 6.—A fire at Clarkedale, Miss., early this morning destroyed the principal business portion of the town.

IN THE ARCTIC CIRCLE.

PHILADELPHIA, April 6.—The Enquirer publishes details of Lord Lonsdale's travels given in a letter to Mr. Wolf, the Moravian missionary at Nushagak, near Fort Alexandria, on Bristol's bay, Alaska, in latitude 59° north. Lonsdale arrived at the mission December 15 last, after a journey of 4000 miles overland from Banks' Land, in latitude 73° north. This was the greatest distance north that he reached. He remained at the mission until January 14. His outfit consisted of eight sleds and seventy dogs in charge of Esquimaux drivers and some Indian servants.

The Earl was quite exhausted from fatigue and hunger. The country he traveled was rough, with very little game. The snow was terribly drifted and the sledding so bad that most of the journey was made on foot, the dogs barely managing to draw the sleds. The cold was intense. Dec. 1 the thermometer registered 105 degrees below the freezing point. Frequently stops were made for a week in favorable localities in order to hunt hares and reindeer for food. Terrible blizzards swept across the country continually and the utmost exertions were necessary to keep the party from being scattered and frozen to death. Eleven dogs died and many of the remaining 70 were in a bad condition.

Lonsdale estimates that he traveled 10,000 miles from Winnipeg in a little more than a year. In the Hudson Bay region, where the snow and ice were smooth, the dogs frequently carried them over 200 miles a day. Cold, hunger, scurvy and other misfortunes beset them constantly, but Lonsdale's courage kept up all the time and he was in excellent spirits. He had aimed to reach the North Pole. He left the mission at Nushagak on Jan. 14, and with his dog train crossed the peninsula to Katmai on the North Pacific. From here he crossed to Kodiac. On Kodiac island, where there is a whaling station, he sent word that he would sail for England at once, but no word has been received of his arrival at any American port, and it is possible he has turned whaler to get new experiences. To Mr. Wolf he expressed entire confidence in his ability to reach the North Pole, but said that open water north of Banks' Land prevented his further progress.

Thinks he Can Reach the Pole.

CHICAGO, April 6.—Alphonse Leduc, the half-breed who accompanied Lord Lonsdale part of the way to the Arctic, arrived in Chicago to-day from Manitoba. Leduc says that with funds and material he can reach the North Pole. His idea is to go overland by sled. He thinks that with 300 men a line of communication, for supplies north and news south, could be maintained without great difficulty. Headquarters would be on the Peninsula of Boothia, twelve days by courier from the nearest telegraph to Winnipeg. Leduc will attempt to interest a number of newspapers to get them to back him. It is possible that government aid will be asked. Leduc goes from here to New York within a day or two.

Making Ready for the Samoan Sufferers.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—Preparations are being made at the naval hospital at Mare Island for the reception of the sick and injured of the officers and crews of the wrecked Trenton and Vandalia. All are supposed to be en route to San Francisco and are expected to arrive shortly. Many of the men have some time to serve and will form a portion of the crews of the Charleston, Adams and Iroquois. A large force of men is engaged in this work, working at extra hours. The exact time the ships will be ready for sea cannot be told, but it will not be many weeks. The stores for each are being prepared and officers are being detailed so there will be no delay. At present over 500 men are employed at the yard and the number is being daily increased. The receiving ship Independence, an old line-of-battle ship here, has ample room for all who come from Samoa. It is understood 300 of the Vandalia's and the Trenton's crews will come by an Australian steamer.

Enforcing the Alien Contract Labor Law.

BUFFALO, April 6.—Collector of Customs Cutler at Suspension Bridge, has recommended the United States District Attorney to prosecute the Michigan Central, Grand Trunk and West Shore roads for violation of the alien labor contract law in employing laborers who live in Canada. The railroads cited will contest the matter, claiming that conductors who live in Canada and run in the United States would also come under the law, but have never been molested. The same move in the matter is being made at Detroit.

Represents the English Tin Syndicate.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Prof. M. C. Vincent of the Royal Geographical Society of London, arrived on the Adriatic to-day. He comes here in the interests of the great English tin syndicate that has recently raised millions of dollars to control the tin production of the world. He will proceed immediately to Dakota, where the tin mines in which the syndicate are interested are located.

Many Kinds of Weather in Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—A heavy snow, wind and rain storm has prevailed here since early this morning. The rain, which began falling some time before daylight, at about 9 o'clock changed to snow and from that hour until after dark to-night the air was dense with great flakes driven before a strong north wind, but the weather being mild it melted as it fell. Several times during the day heavy peals of thunder were heard and stray sparks of lightning frequently darted across the switchboards in the telegraph offices. The telephone and fire alarm wires throughout the city are more or less demoralized, and telegraphic communication with the south and west is wholly cut off

RESULTS OF EXTRAVAGANCE.

So long as the Mowat Government is allowed to sell timber limits, to dispose of bonds in which the remnants of the Sandfield Macdonald surplus is invested, to borrow money and to assess municipalities at will, in addition to receiving the ordinary revenue of the Province, it will probably be in a position to purchase supplies from its friends without tenders, use public positions and public money to secure votes, build sidewalks in villages for the same purpose, increase the number of public officials and increase the expenditure of the Province.

Peterborough will have another taste of the results of the extravagance of the Mowat Government. When it took over the administration of the license laws it professed to do so in the interest of temperance. It has used the power it obtained to maintain itself in its position and to rob the municipal treasuries. Not satisfied with the inroads it had made, owing to changes made in the law since Peterborborough was under the license law still larger sums will be taken from the town treasury after May 1st to replenish the coffers of the Toronto Government.

This is a natural result of the improvidence and extravagance of the Provincial rulers. Unnecessarily expensive buildings and careless management requires money, and the people have permitted the Government to go so far that it has probably come to the conclusion that any outrage will pass unrebuked. When the last assessment upon the treasury of Peterborough and a few other towns was being passed through the Legislature, Conservative members objected, but their protests were not heeded and the measure was passed through.

Why should the Government commit such an outrage if it was not hard pressed for funds? Why should it, in the last days of a session, rush through a bill to take money from the treasuries of a few towns if it was living within its present income, as it pretends, and had a large surplus, as it professes to have? The fact is that the Mowat Government has not made the revenue meet the expenditure. It has accumulated no surplus. It has not been economical and in its straits resorts to the expedient of taxing a few towns to help it in its difficulties.

THE London Advertiser reproduces a report from a London journal of gossip that Sir John Macdonald is to be British Minister at Washington and that Sir Charles Tupper will succeed him as Premier, and adds that it "is given for what it is worth." It is not worth much. But this recalls that before the last general election the Advertiser stated that when the elections were over Sir Charles was to succeed Sir John and that the people had to choose between Mr. Blake and Sir John. Mr. Blake is no longer leader of the Liberals, and Sir John is still Premier. Under the circumstances what are the Advertiser's statements worth?

IT is as important to guard civil liberty against the boodler, the briber, the charterseller, the logroller, the greeymanderer, and all the tribe of rascals as against the Pope himself.—Toronto Globe.

Was the Globe thinking of the "dark lantern" brigade of the Liberals, or of Mr. Purcell, M. P., when it referred to the boodlers and bribers? Mr. Mowat certainly gerrymandered the constituencies, and the organ might also have called attention to his raid upon municipal treasuries.

The Blind Chaplain of the House.

Rev. Dr. Milburn, the chaplain of the house of representatives, is a blind man. He has been blind from childhood, but a man of more distinguished appearance cannot be found in congress. He bears a striking appearance to Governor Gordon. The blind chaplain, as he is usually called, is an inveterate smoker. He smokes a dozen or more strong cigars daily and is seldom seen without one between his lips. His daughter leads him to the Capitol each morning about 11 o'clock, and from that hour until noon he sits in the reception room smoking while Miss Milburn reads to him the morning papers. Whenever anything is read which strikes him he asks to have it read a second time, and it is, indeed, a rare exception when in his opening prayers he does not refer to something his daughter has just read to him from the morning papers. By his reference to current events and the strikingly beautiful and eloquent language of his prayers, he has made a friend of each and every member, and some of the more religiously inclined always go to the Capitol early just to hear the beautiful morning prayer offered up by the blind chaplain.—Washington Cor. POPULAR CRAZES.

THEY COME UNANNOUNCED AND DISAPPEAR AS SUDDENLY.

It Is Impossible to Account for the Rapid Spread of a New Idea or Fad—Some of the Crazes Which Have Had Recent Runs in This Country.

A careworn philosopher met a Tribune reporter and made him the receptacle of his secret woe. That which burdened the philosopher's mind was his inability to trace to its first cause the impressionable nature of the mind, not as that quality is found in individuals, but in mankind collectively. Superior strength of will, or natural affinity or any one of a dozen other forces will fully explain the influence of one individual over another, but will not account for the manner in which certain ideas, confined perhaps to a few persons at first, spread rapidly and finally sway whole communities or nations. The names given to these phenomena vary with the character of the impression, and the impression itself may be lasting or it may disappear as quickly and mysteriously as it rose. A profound thinker gives some theory to the world, and it is dubbed philosophy; a theologian discovers, or thinks he does, some new meaning to a scriptural passage, and points out a new way to salvation, which is called religion; but when a general impression is made by something that has no connection with either philosophy, science or religion it is contemptuously called a "craze" by those who escape its influence, and made a butt for the ridicule of the unbeliever.

THE BLUE GLASS CURE ALL.

In the last named class there is no more conspicuous example than the blue glass craze which was inflicted upon the world by Gen. Pleasonton in a book printed in blue ink and bound in blue boards. This publication purported to demonstrate that the blue or actinic ray of the spectrum was the source of life and a panacea for all the ills to which the human flesh, and mind, too, for that matter, was heir. The new idea "caught on," as it were, and swept the country like a Manitoba zephyr. Blue glass windows, blue glass conservatories, blue glass spectacles, and blue glass in a dozen other shapes appeared as though they had been summoned by witchcraft. Every one who had an ache or a pain became his own physician and bathed the affected part in copious streams of sunshine filtered through a piece of blue glass. Regular practitioners were left to mope in their offices. The medical profession appeared to be on the point of annihilation. The newspapers of that day contained many accounts of remarkable cures effected by this remarkable agency—cures which a few skeptics maliciously attributed more to the absence of professional treatment than to the efficacy of blue glass. The reign of the cerulean school, however, was brief, and the actinic ray was allowed to resume its legitimate function of making photographs.

Another craze which seized upon the feminine mind and raged with great virulence for a season was the "crazy quilt" craze, which, it must be conceded, was felicitously named. Women are more prone to lose their heads over a novel idea or new bonnet than men, and hence the enthusiasm with which they took up the erratic thing under consideration called for no extraordinary expression of astonishment. When the craze struck it struck hard, and womankind surrendered unconditionally. Something of this kind seems to be essentially necessary to the female constitution. A natural and irrepressible force that otherwise might lead nobody knows where finds vent in the harmless occupation of making sickly sentimental mottoes, painting impossible flowers, or sewing the odd ends of silken finery into a conglomerate mass and calling the product a thing of utility. The crazy quilt affords an opportunity for working up into ornamental and useful shape all the silk, satin, plush, velvet and broadcloth scraps that have collected in the household during many years, and as no woman was ever known to despise the ornamental, no matter how she looked upon the useful, the crazy quilt soon became popular. It has, however, gone the way of all crazes.

RISE AND FALL OF THE ROLLER SKATE.

The most malignant type of this peculiar mental disease that has appeared in recent years was the roller skating mania, which placed all the world on wheels and set the inhabitants thereof to chasing one another around in endless circles, with no other apparent object than an imbecile ambition to see who could keep up the monotonous round the longest. Every village, town and city in the land had its roller rink or rinks, and many a shrewd speculator reaped a golden harvest while the craze was at its height. Many another speculator, not so shrewd, put all his capital into a rink just before the bottom dropped out of the fad and found himself the owner of a big barn like structure of no earthly use whatever.

The world has no reason to mourn the fact that roller skating is practically dead. Following hard upon its heels came the toboggan, which from a rural point of view cannot be said to be a great improvement.

The spectacle of a young woman seated on a shingle and shooting down an icy incline with her feet clutching the sides of a young man in front of her is not an edifying one for coldblooded observers, however pleasant the situation may be for the young woman and the young man. In the mad rush for the bottom of the slide and as the velocity of the toboggan increases, doubtless the weaker vessel finds it necessary to cling tighter and tighter to her bold cavalier, and doubtless the bold cavalier fully appreciates that feature of the performance. Added to the above attractions is the spice of danger which gives to the sport a piquancy that is often a little more pronounced than desirable, as recent events have shown, but the probabilities of fractured limbs, dislocated joints and broken necks will exercise no restraining influence so long as the slide is the fashion. —Chicago Tribune.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,

HATS!

Hats, gentlemen, Hats!

And why, Hats!

The Hat is the badge of respectability, the trade mark of civilization—that i any kind of a decent Hat. And properly, too.

Let us consider this question of Hats.

Had Bonaparte paused on the way to Waterloo to select a new Hat the result might have been different.

Had Christopher Columbus worn a shabby Hat, could he have made the fine impression he did on landing in Amerikay. No much. Not any.

Men have been crossed in love, fallen off scaffolds, been beaten at the polls, arrested on suspicion, failed in business, and lost the respect of their fellow citizens by wearing a bad Hat.

The moral of all this is, come to us for your Hats. It's a new department with us, and a mighty good one. It's good because its new, and wholly new and good. We do nothing by halves. See our Stock. See what we offer in Style, Material, Shape and Finish. You can take your pick of the Best Goods by the Best Makers. We discount the Town on Hats.

Idlers and Strangers.

A meeting of the "Idlers and Strangers" of the George-st. Church will be held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms to-morrow afternoon at 4 15 o'clock. All members of the congregation who have not heretofore taken an active part in church work is invited to be present.

The Officials Returns.

Returning Officer Stapleton was unable to make his official declaration of the Scott Act vote on Thursday last to-day, as he expected to. By consent of both parties the presenting of the returns was enlarged until Friday afternoon next. The back country returns are not yet to hand.

Carter's Flight.

It now comes out that before he left town Mr. A. E. Carter took advantage of his reputation around town to dupe a couple of the local storekeepers. One jeweller is now mourning the loss of a couple of watches which Carter went in on the Friday before he left and took away on the pretence of allowing his wife to see them.

The Talk of the Town

The people are wondering why Elliott & Tierney are giving 15 lbs. bright sugar for $1, and selling teas and other goods so much cheaper than any house in Peterborough. Call at the Palace Grocery and examine the goods, which will convince you. The "Palace" is the place to get best values. Great stock-taking sale now going on.

The Cause of the Scott Act Defeat.

There are various opinions as to the defeat of the Scott Act, some giving this reason, others that, but one of the principal points is, there has been such a sensation caused over the whole county that all plans have been frustrated. Instead of voters going to the polls to record their votes, they rushed to secure the tremendous bargains w. j. morrow has been offering in groceries, knowing well that they can buy goods cheaper from him than any other house in the line.

Father McEvay Goes to Hamilton.

After High Mass had been celebrated at St. Peter's yesterday morning, Rev. Father McEvay announced that he would leave with His Lordship Bishop Dowling, when the latter is translated to the diocese of Hamilton, in the early part of May. The announcement was received by the congregation with feelings of deep regret, as the rev. gentleman, during the year or more that he has been parish priest of Peterborough, has endeared himself to all the people. The friends of Rev. Father Rudkins will also be pleased to learn that he will, for a time at all events, fulfil the duties of parish priest.

A Daylight Burglary.

Some bold thieves were at work this morning, for it is not often that a house is entered and ransacked in broad daylight, but a case of this kind is reported to-day. Mrs. Bridget Dunn, who lives at [illegible] Water-st., went to church this morning and locked up the house as she had no one to leave in charge in her absence. Upon her return from worship she found that some person or persons had affected an entrance and rifled a couple of trunks. The robbers carried away about ten dollars in money and some clothing. Such bare-faced thieving is not common and if the daylight operator is captured he will undoubtedly be severely dealt with. No clue to the perpetrator of the robbery is to be had.

THE BIBLICAL CORONETS.

REV. MR. CROSSLEY SPEAKS OF THE EIGHT CROWNS.

Rev. Mr. Hunter not Present at the Service—The Laugh of a Christian—A Thanks-Offering—An Immense Audience.

Rev. Mr. Hunter was absent from the service in the George-st. church last evening, he not having arrived back from St. Thomas. The church was crowded to suffocation again, every inch of room, standing and sitting, being utilized. This was their last Sunday evening service in Peterborough, as they close their labors here on Thursday next. That the church will be crowded during the next four nights is a certainty.

Rev. Mr. Crossley's opening solo was the old familiar hymn "Abide with Me."

THE CHRISTIAN'S LAUGH.

Rev. Mr. Pearson assisted in the meeting, and after the usual opening hymns and prayers and the announcements had been made, Rev. Mr. Crossley read the evening lesson from the 126th Psalm, commenting on the verses profusely, speaking of the solemn faces of some of those who were Christians and urging the young converts not to go around, like some of the older ones, with a long face giving wrong impression of religion, but telling them they should wear, not a simpering smile, but a good broad laugh on their face. He said he had heard of a man who was never known to smile and shortly after he heard of the death of that same man from indigestion and liver complaint largely brought on because he did not laugh. He believed in a good hearty laugh, for man was the only animal who could laugh and what had God given them those muscles for if it was not so that they could laugh.

After Rev. Mr. Crossley then sang a beautiful solo entitled "No Night in Heaven." Rev. Mr. Pearson read the special requests for prayer.

THE CROWNS OF THE BIBLE.

Before announcing the subject of his evening's discourse, Rev. Mr Crossley made the request that all those who might be convinced during the service that it would be to their highest interest to become Christians should be honest with themselves and seek the Lord before they left the church. The subject of his address, the evangelist said, was "The Crowns of the Bible." He said the Lord told them about certain crowns and they were to so run that they might win these. There were eight crowns in all, and every crown was emblematical of and an incentive to something that the others were not. The first one he spoke of was the crown of loving kindness referred to in Psalm ciii, 3. This was emblematical of God's goodness to them here and the Lord had an incentive in His loving kindness which was given in Romans "The goodness of the Lord leadeth to repentance." He told them when they became Christians they would apprehend in a new sense God's goodness and he pointed out that every child of God was a prince or princess and he urged them to carry themselves with becoming dignity. Those who were not converted he wanted to come and be able to sing "I am a Child of a King." Some might not have a clear conception of God's loving kindness and to these he would speak of the Crown of gold spoken of in Revelations iv, 4—"And they had in their hands crowns of gold." This crown was emblematical of dignity and was an incentive to them to persevere in their Christian life. Some, he said, had been saying they could never hold out as Christians, but these persons had been

and he urged them to look at the crown and in so doing they would be inspired with an ambition. Then the third crown was that of glory, which was emblematical of the honor that would be theirs in Heaven—the honor of seeing and being led by Jesus—and was an incentive for them to be faithful in the Church of God. They were in the battle of life and the crown of glory allured them to victory, and he wanted them all as men and women to be faithful and trust in the Lord. Then the evangelist spoke of the crown of rejoicing, which was emblematical of the degree of happiness that would be theirs and was an incentive to Christians to labor for the conversion of others. The evangelist said this degree of their happiness would largely be determined by the number of souls they had been instrumental in bringing to the Lord on earth, and he wanted Christians to seek to win others and the joy they would experience would be akin to that which had been theirs when they were converted. Some persons said they would be satisfied if they just got into Heaven, but he believed that if they had no more ambition than just to get inside the gates they would never wear a crown at all or their feet would never strike the golden pavement. After dwelling on the duty of Christians in seeking others, the rev. gentleman sang the hymn, "We may all Meet There." Then the evangelist spoke of the "Crown of Life," referred to in Revelations ii; 10—"And I will give thee a crown of life." This was emblematical of the eternal life and glorious immortality that would be theirs in Heaven and was incentive for them to bear any trials incident to a Christian's life. After speaking of the Christian's life, the speaker passed on to the sixth crown, mentioned 1 Corinthians ix; 25—the incorruptible crown, which was emblematical of the fadeless glory that would be theirs and was an incentive to Christian self-denial. The majority of them had a wrong conception of what self-denial was. He held that the man who was not a Christian denied himself more than the Christian, for a man had three natures, physical, intellectual and spiritual, and the man who was a Christian denied himself the gratification of his lower or baser nature and kept his body under subjection that his intellectual and spiritual natures might be delighted, but the unsaved man was denying his intellectual and spiritual natures for the baser and lower gratification of his physical nature. The seventh crown he spoke of was the crown of righteousness which indicated that the Lord would claim as righteous every one who by His grace was saved and was an incentive to live a life of righteousness here on earth. In closing he dwelt on the eighth and last crown and said that if the other crowns were not sufficient to save them and this one failed he did not know what would save them. This crown was spoken of in John xx; 15—the crown of thorns. It was emblematical of cruelty and mockery and was an incentive to love. The evangelist concluded by pointing out the suffering of the Saviour on earth and urging all to look and seek to wear a crown.

After the Christians in the audience had testified of their conversion by standing the first meeting closed.

NOTES.

A thank-offering is to be taken up on Thursday night next, when the services close here.

Rev. Mr. Hunter will be here for to-night's services.

Cards will be discussed to-night by Rev. Mr. Crossley. The subject will be sure to be clearly and fairly treated.

A meeting was held yesterday afternoon in the George-st. church. There was a good attendance and the meeting proved a pleasing one. It was led by Mr. Richard Winch of Cobourg, who took for his subject "Faith." After his address several gave their experience, among the speakers being ex-Councillor Yelland, who referred to the many temptations incident to a councillor's life, and Councillors Winch and Hartley.

The Assessors.

A special meeting of the Town Council will be held to-night to consider the question raised at the last meeting as to the legality of Mr. McGrath, jr., acting for his father who is ill. It is understood that a new assessor will be appointed.

AN ARREST AT DAYBREAK.

In September last Chief Roszel received word from Orillia to arrest J. H. Brault, better known as Harry Freeman, but the telegram did not state the charge on which the man was wanted. On Saturday noticing Brault had been in town, Chief Roszel telegraphed to Orillia asking if Brault was still wanted and if so, on what charge. The story of Harry's troubles is told something like this. He had been running a boarding house in Orillia and had been selling a little whiskey on the quiet without a license, and was arrested for breach of the Crooks Act. After he was locked up his wife packed up their goods and chattels and left Orillia and some of her husband's friends went to the lock-up and assisted the imprisoned man to make his escape. Brault skipped from Orillia to Michigan, while his wife kept a boarding house in St. Thomas, until recently, when she came to Peterborough and shortly after her husband followed.

About five o'clock yesterday morning Chief Roszel and Constables Stewart and McGinty went down to Brault's house to arrest the man. Brault was in bed when the police arrived, but, slipping on some of his clothes while a friend was talking to the constables out of the window, he went out of a back window and dropped off of a shed and was getting nicely under way thinking to himself how cleverly he had fooled the clutches of the law, when he ran straight into the arms of Constable McGinty, who had made his way to the rear of the house to be on hand in case their man should take the back door as a means of escape.

Brault was locked up in the cells and complained of being very sick yesterday and this morning, but the doctor who was called in pronounced him able to travel.

THE OUTER MAN.

Cutaway coats should be very soft, and roll free when open.

The vests will be a little longer and cut rather lower than last season.

Checks, stripes, plaids of neat and genteel proportions are correct for trousers.

Either three or four buttoned cutaway coats are stylish. Flat braid must be used.

A fashionable sack suit for the summer will be open rolled, with rather low cut vest.

Buy your trousers nineteen inches around the knee and eighteen at the bottom and you will have them right.

No wardrobe will be complete at Easter if it does not contain three or four fancy vests. They are very much in vogue.

Double breasted vests, either with or without lapels, are going to be much worn. They will be mostly of fancy materials.

The man whose dress suit was in style last year will welcome the knowledge that it will be all right for this spring, at least.

The single breasted sack coat for business will be much worn. Four buttons and considerable curve at the bottom are the features.

The spring overcoat should reach within a few inches of the knee, just long enough to cover a Prince Albert—and will be rather looser than last season.

The principal style in spring overcoat will be a fly front faced with silk all the way to the edge. It goes by the name of Chesterfield, and will be made up in many new shades, light colors predominating.—Clothier and Furnisher.

HOW TO REMAIN YOUNG.

Take frequent recreation.

Preserve the feelings and habits of youth.

Keep free of intense excitements.

Keep a clear conscience and lead a life void of offense.

Insist upon an abundance of regular sleep.

A man cannot long keep young who gives up all the active, health giving exercises of youth.

It is the intense excitement, the excitement of social life, the ballroom, the theatre and the various forms of fashionable dissipation, that make our American girls fade so rapidly.

Why should a girl remain ugly? There are exercises and systems for filling out her cheeks, neck and bust, developing her limbs and forming her nose. The experts will straighten her eyes and fix her teeth. What nature has not done for her hair, eyebrows and complexion can be supplied by art. The plain girl may not find it in her power to become a thing of beauty, but she can come very near it.

A woman near Ventura, Cal., recently made $100,000 in land speculation. This fired her with the ambition to get up a special "boom," and make $1,000,000, if possible. So she chartered a train from San Francisco, 600 miles away, gave a free ride, a free lunch and free music to all who would come, and held a big sale. But though the train was crowded with people from San Francisco, no one would buy, and instead of making a fortune she lost $40,000.

It is a sad duty to us to state to the many readers of this paper that we are actually in need of a suit of clothes. We would like to attend preaching, but remain away because we are ashamed to enter the church with the suit that is worn daily. We go occasionally, but have to slip in quietly and take a back seat. This piece is not written for the purpose of soliciting some kind friend to donate us a suit of clothes nor some free hearted merchant to sell us a suit on time, but to arouse the sympathies of those owing us. We have spent the last dollar in our possession to accommodate you; now come to our needy assistance and receive the blessings that only a poor, oppressed newspaper man can bestow.—Senora (Ala.) UNDER THE SNOW.

Living Five Weeks on Goats' Milk Under an Avalanche in the Alps.

A remarkable instance of three persons surviving an imprisonment of five weeks under an avalanche is recorded in "Narratives of Peril and Suffering." In the valley of the Upper Stura, at the foot of the Alps, is the little hamlet of Bergoletto. In the winter of 1755 the falls of snow were uncommonly heavy. On the 19th of March the parish priest, who was on his way to the church, heard a noise from the mountains, and, casting up his eyes, he saw two avalanches descending towards the village. He gave the alarm to some villagers and then retreated into his own house.

The avalanches came and buried over thirty houses, and twenty-two persons were found to be missing, among them the parish priest who had given the alarm. The amount of snow which lay over the ruined dwellings was about 42 feet deep, 270 feet long and 60 feet wide.

When the surviving peasants had shaken off the terror and depression which such an event must necessarily cause, they set about trying to save any life or property possible. More than 300 peasants from neighboring villages came to their assistance. But they could do little; the thickness of the snow mass was so great, and the snow continued to fall from the clouds in such amount that they were obliged to discontinue their fruitless exertions, and wait till the setting in of the warm April winds which would partly melt the gigantic snow piles.

On the 18th of April the villagers returned to their melancholy task. It was with no hope of finding any human being alive. One of them named Roccia, whose whole family was beneath the avalanche, was most active in the search. By the 24th of April he had advanced so far, that after breaking through six feet of ice he could touch the ground with a long pole. Three friends worked with him.

The four worked vigorously, and made their way, at length, into Roccia's house, but no one, dead or living, was there. As it was probable that, at the fatal moment, the victims had sought shelter in the stable, which was about a hundred feet from the house, Roccia and his companions directed their efforts in that quarter.

After they had burrowed for some time, one of them thrust a pole through an aperture, and on withdrawing it heard a hoarse, faint voice say:

"Help, oh dear husband! Help, dear brother! We are alive."

They now worked with redoubled activity, and soon made a considerable opening. And there, under the snow, Roccia, to his joy, found his wife, daughter and a sister-in-law.

The three sufferers were incapable of moving, and were shrunken almost to skeletons. They were carefully removed from their place of imprisonment and conveyed to the house of a friend, and proper measures adopted for their restoration. In a few days they were fairly recovered.

Their lives were preserved during these long five weeks in the following manner: They had taken refuge in the rack and manger, which, being strong, had withstood the strain, though the roof fell. Fortunately two goats were near them, which supplied them with goat's milk in quantity sufficient to sustain life.

To feed the goats was of prime importance. Immediately over the manger was a hole into the hay loft; through this hole one of the women was able to pull down fodder into the rack, and when she could no longer reach it, the sagacious animals climbed upon her shoulders and helped themselves.

Through the whole of their imprisonment they were in total darkness. After the first five or six days they suffered little from hunger, though a quart of goat's milk had to suffice for three. They suffered far more from the excessive coldness of the snow water that trickled over them, and from the constrained posture into which they were forced.—Youth's Companion.

REVIEWS.

THE CENTURY MAGAZINE.—The April number of the Century is a centennial number—celebrating the centennial of Washington's inauguration as President. The frontispiece is an excellent representation of the inauguration at New York, and the accompanying article, by Clarence Winthrop Bowen, is an interesting account of the inauguration and of the events leading up to it. "Washington at Mount Vernon after the Revolution," by Mrs. Burton Harrison; "Washington in New York in 1789," also by Mrs. Harrison; and "Original Portraits of Washington," by Charles Henry Hart, are of great interest at this period and are profusely illustrated. Other timely articles are "A Century of Constitutional Interpretation," by John Bach Master, and "Some Aspects of the Samoan Question," by George H. Bates, who was the commissioner sent by the United States to Samoa in 1886. Mr. George Kennan's article in this number is on "The Russian Police," with fac-simile of a police photograph, and the interest in these articles is sustained. The "Abraham Lincoln" history is continued by his private secretaries, and "A Scout with the Buffalo Soldiers," by Frederic Remington, is a good western sketch. There are several short stories, the usual good poetry and the departments are up to the standard. The number is altogether a most attractive one.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.—The April Harper's has for the frontispiece a copy of the Gibbs-Channing portrait of George Washington, and the first article is on "Washington's Inauguration," by John Bach Mc Master, with numerous excellent illustrations, including one of the inauguration ceremony. "Characteristic Parisian Cafes," by Theodore Child, well illustrated, shows the readers the characteristics of cafe life in the French capital. "Footprints in Washington Land," by Moncure D. Conway, gives further glimpses of the life of the father of his country. Three able articles, each elegantly illustrated, take the reader through interesting places in foreign countries—"Tangier and Morocco," by Benjamin Constant; "Gablons of Abbotsford," by Sir Walter Scott and with an introduction by Lady Maxwell Scott; and the third paper on "Norway and its People," by Bjornstjerne Bjornson. "The Family Physician," by Andrew H. Smith, M.D., contains valuable suggestions for the heads of households. "Jupiter Lights," by Constance Fenimore Woolson, is continued and grows in interest as it proceeds. "Flying Under Water," by John R. Coryell, with eight illustrations, is a most interesting article for naturalists or general readers, regarding birds that live on the water. The short stories and poems of the number are of a high class, and the departments are replete with interesting reading. The engravings, as usual, are of a very high order of merit.

"Silken Threads," a novel, by the author of "Mr. and Mrs. Norton," is one of the latest publications from the press of J. Theo. Robinson, Montreal It is a detective story very well written and full of interest. Mr. Robinson, who seems to have faith in the book publishing business in the Dominion, has also lately issued "Mr. Naydian's Family Circle," by the author of "Lusor Lustratus," a book that has something of a mystery about it which everyone will take a delight in unravelling, and a moral that everybody will not be slow to appreciate. For sale by all newsdealers.

"A Bad Man's Sweetheart," by Edmund E. Sheppard, published by the Sheppard Publishing Co., Toronto, has been received. The scene of the story is laid in Toronto and the characters are chiefly lawyers and their families. Perhaps Toronto society is correctly depicted in its pages, but if so we pity Toronto.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The ball gowns worn by married women are remarkable for their elaborate ornamentation. They offer a striking contrast to the simple dresses affected by rosebuds and debutantes.

The newest mousselines de soie are very filmy, gauzy tissues and the zigzag figures with which they are worked look as if suspended on rose, blue, mauve and amber tinted mists rather than woven stuffs.

The Grecque toque is in special favor with the more fashionable milliners. One model in green velvet has a rich, unique arrangement of velvet folds on one side and on the other a silver gray bird called minutas. The edge of the toque is bordered with a rich gold galloon in Grecian pattern.

Pretty silk and wool costumes are exhibited with plain wool skirts and long Grecian overdresses finished with a very deep hem and with cloth jackets to match the skirt. A small portion of the braided bodice, visible between the shawl revers of the jacket, plays the part of a waistcoat very effectively.

In Brief, and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature. The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this and business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

CHINA HALL

CHINA
AND
QUEENS WA

Immense sums have been paid for rare specimens of antique China. Think of $5,000 being given for a china plate cracked at that. Consider $24,000 as the market value of a set of 120 pieces of sèvres china. Hold in one hand a cup and saucer and in the other hand the $2,400 that the cup and saucer brought at a Parisian auction. Truly, the craze of collectors for rare specimens of Palissy ware, has given fictitious values to many an unpretentious plate and cup. When money is tight it is a comfort to think of $2,000 being paid for a hawthorn jug that would barely hold a quart of milk. These are prices that astonish, but the serious side of the question is that at China Hall you can secure full sets of China that will grace any tea table for so little money that anyone can afford the outlay. Not only China, but good substantial dinner sets fit to set out the table of an M. P. or Mayor. Come to CHINA HALL and see what money will do. You'll not have to spend the value of six first-class farms for a China Tea Set.

BEAUTIFUL JIM.

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER

"[illegible] mocking," said Jim, promptly, "so far as the poor lad is concerned, I have neither feeling nor pity. I would willingly see him hanged to-morrow, for I think he richly deserves it. It is very well for you to excuse him by saying that he did not know what he was doing, that he was not himself when he did it, and for him to say he was in a blind passion and never meant it. On your part it's a mistake, but on his it's a lie. If I had suspected on the day of the inquest what I know now, nothing on earth, not even the considerations which will keep me silent now, would have induced me not to disclose the subject of that conversation between Capt. Owen and myself, which was a full account of his interview with you, and his annoyance at Mr. Earle's proceedings. As it happened, he left the ring with me, and I have it now, so that I have but to speak the word to put the rope about the young scoundrel's neck. As I tell you, if it were only for him I would not hesitate; on the contrary, I should do everything to help the law. But when I declined to speak, it was because I did not believe he could have had anything to do with the matter, and it was only last night that I discovered the truth. Yet, although he persists that he was in what he calls a blind passion, and did not know what he was about, even last night he tried to my face to make me believe that he thought me guilty of this horrible crime, and it was only by the merest chance that I happened to be able to unmask him."

"Then why do you spare him?" asked the bar maid, in a tone of genuine wonder.

"Because there are others to think of. His father is a very old man, infirm, and in bad health. Such a blow would be his death. His people are all very good, and would be crushed forever by a shame so horrible; he has a sister who is an angel, who has always been taught to stand aside because he is the boy, the heir, the last of the name. It is for the sake of these, and these alone, that I mean to keep silent, though I know that I ought to speak."

"It's good of you," said the bar maid, admiringly, "for it will cost you a good deal, I've no doubt. I'm afraid, Mr. Beresford, that you'll find a good many people who'll be ready and willing to throw it at you—the murder, I mean. But I hope you and the young lady will be happy. Oh! yes, I guessed at once. [illegible] ope she'll never know it, poor thing, I [illegible] ure."

"Miss Mocking," said Jim, [illegible] you have my best wishes for the future. I will write to you by and by, when matters are a little more settled, and if I send you a little present in return for your straightforwardness to me this afternoon, I hope you won't refuse it."

"Indeed I won't, Mr. Beresford," she said, quickly.

"And if ever there is anything I can do for you, be sure I shall be ready to do it," Jim went on, and then he held out his hand, and she laid hers in it. "And I needn't say, need I, that I'm very sorry I misjudged you at first?"

"Not a word," said the bar maid heartily. And then they shook hands again, and they parted. How relieved he was it would be hard to tell. Of course he knew that he ought, in strict justice, to go and tell the colonel everything, and simply leave Tommy to his well deserved fate. But he had taken the wrong upon his own conscience for her—for her and the old man who was so proud of his good old name and his own unstained honor.

For the old man's sake! Ah! and not out of much consideration for [illegible] for was it not all for the sake of [illegible] was only a girl, the Earle who did not count? Assuredly, yes.

It was not many days before young Tommy Earle was ordered to return to headquarters, and another came to take his place; also one of the senior subalterns came to relieve Beautiful Jim, who was to return to headquarters, and one Capt. Moore came to take up command of the detachment.

And as soon as Jim found himself once more in Blankhampton, the colonel told him that he could have ten days' leave at any time that he liked. Naturally enough, he replied that he would like to have it at once, for, in the course of his conversations with Tommy, he had elicited the fact that his father and sister had returned to England and were in truth at their town house at that very time.

Therefore, Beautiful Jim packed up his traps—or had them packed up, which amounts to the same thing—and took himself off to London town, there to see the lady of his love.

The journey to London seemed to him a terribly long one, although the train by which he went was the fastest express in the kingdom; but to Jim's impatient heart it seemed to crawl, although when he reached the terminus he found that they were in to the minute, and that his watch had neither gained nor lost. And then, being nearly 8 o'clock in the evening, he had to wait until morning before he could venture to show himself at the house of his divinity—he had to think of his dinner, after which, for the sake of killing time, he dressed himself and went out very late—and what he called "looked in" at the Savoy theatre. He had some sort of vain hope that she might be there—but she was not. He was lucky enough to get a stall, the only one vacant, and scanned the house narrowly; but alas! there was no such lovely saint's face and dove's eyes as hers, although there were lovely women in the audience by the dozen.

So he went back to his hotel and straight to bed, only because the sooner he got to sleep the nearer he would seem to morning and to her. And in the morning, ridiculously early, that is to say between 11 and 12, he started off to Hans place, and was told that Miss Earle was at home. Better still, she was alone, and best of all, there was something in her face and manner as she rose to greet him which made Beautiful Jim forget all ceremony and take her in his arms. "Oh, my darling, my darling!" he cried, "my own darling"—

A SENSATION PROMISED.

Suit for Heavy Damages Against a York County Farmer.

TORONTO, April 8.—One of the most sensational cases which will be heard at the present sittings of the Civil Assize Court is the action of Robinson v Duncan. Some of the facts were gleaned from a few of the parties to-day by a reporter, but the startling disclosures which will be revealed on either side have been hushed up by the different counsel, who desire to obtain their full effect in court.

The plaintiff, Henry Joseph Robinson, is a Toronto blacksmith, and the plaintiff Sarah Robinson, is his wife. William Duncan, the defendant, is a farmer who lives somewhere in the county of York. Sarah Robinson claims that on the night of Oct. 11, 1888, at her residence, No. 84 Portland-street, the defendant indecently assaulted and abused her. She and her husband sue for $2000 damages with costs.

William Duncan alleges that the first time he ever saw Mrs. Robinson was on Sept. 1 last, when he called at her house to see his brother, who was dying of consumption, and who passed away that same day. The deceased and his wife had rented rooms from the Robinsons. Duncan went home after the funeral, and called again on Sept. 8 to see his sister-in-law, but Mrs. Robinson said she had moved. Feeling unwell at the time, he asked for a drink of water, and she insisted on giving tea. While he stood there two children came in, and then he went away and alleges that he never saw Mrs. Robinson again. He claims the whole story is a fabrication, and that he was not at Robinson's house since the date mentioned. He declares that on Oct. 11 he was at Rowntree's mills, above Thistleton, with a grist, and did not get home until after dark.

George Rowntree, of Rowntree's mills, it is said will prove that Duncan was at his mill on that day. The case is exciting much interest in West York, where the defendant is widely known as a man who has always borne a good character and a high standing in the community.

WILL FIGHT ANOTHER DAY.

Abandonment of the Projected Raid on Kentucky's Illicit Distillers.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 8.—The raid of federal deputy marshals and revenue agents against the illicit distillers near Hindman, Ky., who recently ambushed and killed Deputy Marshall Russell Wiseman has for the present been abandoned. Deputy Agent Brown and Commissioner Friend, who had charge of the expedition, found when they assembled their men at Prestonburg that only about twenty men would volunteer for the attack. A part of these even were deputy marshals who had just come in from a hard ride and were in poor condition for a fight. The moonshiners were reported strongly entrenched in their distilleries, nine miles from Hindman, and to the number of thirty-five men, well armed with Winchester rifles and revolvers. They were said to have sworn to stand together to death to resist arrest, for they regard arrest as only a sure road to execution in revenge for Wiseman's murder. With such odds against them Brown and Friend, in spite of the protests of the federal deputy marshals, determined it would be unwise to attempt to capture the outlaws. The mountaineers are under the leadership of Sam Adams, Randall Adams, Sam and Isaac Sloan and George Madden, whose brother, Arch Madden, was slain in the fight with Wiseman and his posse.

TO BURN THE BRIDGES.

Nefarious Scheme Said to Have Been Decided on by Oklahoma Boomers.

WINFIELD, Kan., April 6.—A reliable man just come from Oklahoma says he got on to the fact that the boomers, hundreds of whom are hid in the brush on the many streams in that country, have combined on a plan to burn all the bridges on the Santa Fe on the night of April 21 or sooner, so that no trains can get into Oklahoma on the 22nd. He says the boomers swear they are going to have the claims they have staked out at whatever cost. People bound for Oklahoma are arriving here daily from all over the union, and excitement runs high. Thirty-five waggons arrived from Meade and Comanche Counties to-day and camped just west of the town to await the proper time to move to Oklahoma.

Mr. Rykert and the Jesuit Bill.

ST. CATHARINES, April 8.—Mr. J. C. Rykert, M.P. for Lincoln, who voted with the Government against Col. O'Brien's motion and was censured last week by L.O.L. No. 473 of St. Catharines because of his action in the matter, explained his course to his Liberal-Conservative constituents in a long speech delivered in Albert Hall in this city on Saturday night. Editor McClelland of The Star also spoke, taking Mr. Rykert to task for his speech in the Commons. A resolution of confidence was carried.

Incendiary and Thief, but Not Kidnaper.

NEWARK, N. J., April 6.—J. S. Grier, special agent of the Governor of Colorado to take the cowboy, Herbert E. Coddington, back to Trinidad, in that state, on three indictments, for burning the hotel of Jas. Pyle, robbing a boarder of $200 and running away with Pyle's daughter, was looking for Gov. Green to-day to get his requisition signed. The only charge Coddington denies is that of kidnaping the girl. She claims to have been 16 years old when she left home.

Sad Fate of an Aged Lady.

LOUISVILLE, April 6.—Mrs. Bridget Courley was burned to death here to-day. She was 75 years old and lived with her son. She arose early this morning as it was cold, and going to the fire got too near and her clothing caught.

The Licenses Will Expire Dec. 31.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The Department of State has been informed by the United States Consul at Ottawa that the licenses to fishing vessels will continue to be issued this year by the Canadian Government on the same terms as last year. Collectors of Customs have been supplied with the same forms as last year, but the licenses will be granted to expire on Dec. 31.

Russell's Defence of the Land League.

LONDON, April 6.—Sir Charles Russell continued his argument before the Parnell Commission on Wednesday and Thursday, and then asked for an adjournment till Tuesday next, which the Court granted. He has devoted much time to an historical narrative of the condition of things in Ireland, which, in his view, made agitation and illegal organizations, and even some degree of crime, inevitable. His defence of the Land League is probably the best and most elaborate that has yet been addressed to the public. The League diminished, he urges, instead of increasing crime, and deserves, therefore, blessing, rather than cursing. He defended boycotting on the same ground. Without boycotting, if you believe Sir Charles, other crime, or what he calls "serious crime," would have been more frequent. His speech has been a masterly performance, obviously impressive to the Court and impressive even to the general public, which seldom reads forensic discourses, but has read summaries of this and the more exciting episodes. Of these there have been many, including a fresh attack on the unhappy Attorney-General, for making sundry grave charges in opening the case which he did not afterward attempt to support by evidence. The story that one passage moved Mr. Parnell to tears requires confirmation. It is difficult to imagine Mr. Parnell in tears.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure is sold on a guarantee. It cures Consumption. S. C. Wells & Co., proprietors, Le Roy N. Y.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Probabilities.

Light to moderate winds; mostly fair, continued mild weather; with showers in some localities.

Millinery Rooms.

Our Millinery and Mantle Rooms are now in full operation and our customers can depend on seeing the latest novelties in these lines, and at the closest prices.

Dress Goods,
Dress Goods.

We have been fortunate in securing a large lot of fine French Dress Goods at about 30 cents on the dollar, and have now placed them on sale on the table in the centre of the store. Ask to be shown the fine All Wool Dress Goods, we are selling @ 6c. per yard. Ask to see the All Wool Debeige, @ 8c. per yard. Fine French Dress Goods worth 40c. for 15c. In all there is about 2500 yards and the sale is extraordinary. With these came a lot of Bavarian Curtains, bought at 30c. on the dollar, which are selling very rapidly.

House Furnishing Department.

We are showing unprecedented value in all classes of Carpets and Curtains; Oilcloths from the low grades to the heaviest English floor oils.

Tailoring Department.

As usual our display of Scotch and Canadian Suitings, English and French Worsted Coatings, and many novelties in Pantings have been appreciated, from the fact that our orders are far in excess of previous seasons.

We can show you some big bargains in Tweeds. See our All Wool Halifax Tweed @ 25, 35, and 30 cents per yard. These lines are a marvel of cheapness, and are sold elsewhere at very much higher prices.

We cannot fully describe our stock, but we have plenty of display room where you can see it conveniently, and judge for yourself

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW.

TURNBULL'S COLUMN

Whatever the weather has been outside, it was the springiest of spring time in our store on Wednesday and Thursday last, when all the New Millinery and Millinery belongings were opened out of their close fitting boxes. For the benefit of those who could not get in on those days we will keep the display up all the first week of April. Among the leading changes noticeable in the trimming this season is Lace Ends and Scarfs and Long Veils drawn in with baby ribbon are the Leading Trimmings. The old fashion hop that used to climb up the pole on the back door is now found falling over the Black Lace Hats. Having struck a cheap line of Flowers (German make), the Germans copy the French designs and give us the goods cheaper. We have a bouquet for everybody, bunches of roses in all colors for 35c. each. Our Stock of Children's Trimmed Hats is unusually attractive. Sailor Hats in endless variety, we have not room to give them a front show. We were disappointed at not being able to show with the millinery, the new Jet Capes, Silk Visettes and Trimmed Dolmans, but there is time enough yet and we expect them in on the first freight train. A fine assortment of Cloths in the order department. All hands busy as bees in the work rooms up-stairs.

The Dress Goods Department is as lively as ever. A new line of Vigore and Cloth in 8 shades, 44 inches wide at 60c., came in this week. A glance at them will tell you they are serviceable. With them came a new line of German Dress Cloth, we have shown nothing similar before, is just what any lady would fancy for a Genteel Dress. Will show another new make next week. Miss Mercier is always pleased to help you with her advice as to length of dress, pattern, style of making and trimming, whether you wish to have it made by her or not.

Kid Gloves, fresh from the hands of the maker in Austria at 75c. and $1.00 a pair. This line we had in stock before, but the quantity was small and we only had a pair for a lady here and there.

Corsets. Spring brings changes and this one has brought one of the nicest makes we have ever shown. All the best makes from the leading manufacturers coming in and going out again. Large sizes for stout ladies always in stock.

THE TORONTO BUDGET.

THE DEPOSIT MADE IN THE CARDWELL ELECTION CASE.

Curious Case of Suspended Animation—"Whiskers" Leaves for Calgary—A Verdict of Wilful Murder.

TORONTO, April 9.—At the regular weekly concert of the Temperance Reformation Society in Temperance Hall on Saturday, as a performer with a cherry ripe complexion stepped upon the platform to entertain the audience. A colored man named Reuben Wilson, sitting up in the gallery, shouted, "Redhead! Fire!" in a loud voice. A large part of the assemblage immediately arose and a panic seemed inevitable. A few cool heads, however, pacified the throng and danger was averted. Wilson, when remonstrated with, became pugnacious and was ejected. Yesterday he was fined $20 and costs for his fun.

It was in vain that James Copeland protested that he was entirely innocent of the accusation that he stole a cash box from John Clarke, Queen-street west, and, having been caught at a similar game before, was convicted and sent to the Central for a year.

A curious case of suspended animation is reported from the north end of the city, on McMurrich-street. A little girl, the child of a laborer, was sick unto death, and to all appearances passed peacefully away. The remains were carefully dressed for burial, and flowers were sent in by friends. In the still small hours the mother thought she heard a faint cry from her little one, and woke her husband. To satisfy his wife's eagerness he agreed to go downstairs and visit the death chamber. To his own amazement he observed the little one's arm move, and, having summoned assistance, the delighted couple later on had their child restored, but very weak.

The Methodist Ministerial Association at its meeting yesterday morning appointed committees to arrange for the billeting of visitors to the coming conference.

Advance Agent Crocker of a theatrical company was nearly suffocated by gas in the Hub Hotel on Friday night. Yesterday morning he was able to move about.

Ernest Carson, who is charged with stealing from his father, who resides in this city was arrested at Niagara Falls. A detective left yesterday to bring him back.

P. F. Pratt, cashier of the First National Bank, Anoka, Minn., who is missing with $100,000, was reported to have arrived in Toronto, but inquiry yesterday failed to unearth him.

J. Lee West, the New Orleans boodler who was arrested here a few days ago with $1400 of stolen money on his person, is now on his way to Calgary, N.W.T. After being liberated and giving up the money he was around town for a few days and spoke of remaining in Toronto. But "Whiskers," as he grew to be called because of arrest over the wearing of a false beard, grew tired of living here and left by the 11 o'clock C.P.R. train last Saturday night for Calgary, which is much farther north than Mexico, where he originally intended to go. He took passage in a second-class car and drew down the blinds over his seat.

A reporter yesterday saw Walter Playter, shoemaker, of 198 Bay-street, who is the brother of Mrs. Carter, whose husband, Alfred E. Carter, late organist of St. Andrew's church, Peterboro, eloped with the sweet young choir singer Annie Graham last Friday. Mr. Playter went up to Peterboro on Saturday and returned yesterday morning. He stated that there is no trace of the whereabouts of Carter and the young woman and he and others who are interested have no idea as to where the flying pair are located.

At 4 p.m. yesterday Coroner Johnson impanelled a jury in the City Morgue to hold an inquest into the death of the three-weeks-old infant found on the lake shore of the Island within a few yards of the Lakeside Home. The medical evidence went to show that the child had certainly been born alive, but decomposition had worked so rapidly that it was impossible to arrive at the direct cause of death. A verdict of wilful murder against a person or persons unknown was returned.

Mr. Stubbs made his $1000 deposit at Osgoode Hall yesterday in the Cardwell election case.

THE JESUITS V. THE MAIL.

A Rumor Current at Montreal That the Case is to be Settled.

MONTREAL, April 8.—There was a rumor circulated at the Court House this morning that a settlement was imminent in the cause celebre of the Jesuits v. The Mail. "The cause is returnable on April 25," said Mr. Lamothe, one of counsel of the Order, "and then The Mail will have ten days in which to file their plea. I have no instructions from the Order other than these to proceed. All cases for libel can be settled by an apology and payment of costs."

FIRE LOSSES.

Disastrous Blaze at Orono—The Tannery Conflagration at Kingston.

ORONO, April 8.—The losses by the fire here are as follows: L. W. Underwood on stock, $3000, insured for $3000 in the Ætna, $1200 in the Gore Mutual; F. L. Andrus on stock, $2000, insured in the Phoenix for $1000; N. F. Hall on stock, $3000, insured in the Royal for $3000; W. W. Trull on building, $3000, insured in the Royal for $3000.

The Kingston Tannery Blaze.

KINGSTON, April 8.—Carrington's loss by the burning of his tannery will amount to $30,000 over and above his insurance of $10,000 in the Millers and Manufacturers' Insurance Company. About 25 men are thrown out of employment.

Three Villages Scorched.

HUDSON, N.Y., April 8.—The business portion of the village of Ghent was burned this morning. Loss, $8000 to $10,000.

ABERDEEN, Miss., April 8.—Eight business houses were burned here yesterday. Loss, $30,000.

RALEIGH, N.C., April 8.—Almost the entire town of Smithfield was burned yesterday. The loss is estimated at over $100,000. Much of the property was insured.

PRIVATE MEMBERS' DAY.

MANY MEASURES DISPOSED OF BY THE HOUSE

The C.P.R.'s Bill Passed—The Anti-Combines Bill Referred to the Banking Committee—Questions Answered.

OTTAWA, April 8.—If there is to be a long Canadian Pacific Railway debate in the House this session it will not be over the company's bill for the consolidation of its debentures which has been hanging fire so long, as the measure went through very quietly to-night without objection. The Government's new arrangement with the company will probably be brought down to-morrow. A large number of questions were answered by ministers at the afternoon sitting.

Mr. Shanly inquired: Has the Government received any petitions from the shareholders of the Grand Trunk Railway Company? If so, has any action been taken thereon?

Sir John Macdonald replied that a petition from Grand Trunk shareholders had been received, protesting against the grant of subsidies to any railways duplicating or competing with existing lines. No action could of course be taken on the petition, but it would be considered when any railway claims come before the Government in the future.

Mr. Mulock asked whether the attention of the Government had been drawn to the article in The Engineer pointing out structural defect in the St. George bridge whereby the recent disaster might be accounted for, and whether any steps are being taken as to other railway bridges to see whether they are also structurally defective.

Sir John Macdonald answered that the Government's attention had not been called to the article except by the above inquiry, but that steps would be taken to ascertain whether other bridges were structurally defective.

Mr. Charlton asked whether it is the intention of the Government during the present session to introduce a bill to incorporate the Orange Order.

Sir John Macdonald replied: "This would be a private bill, and it is not the intention of the Government to introduce such a bill, and my honorable friend will therefore be deprived of the opportunity of voting against the bill, which he did twice before." [Laughter.]

Mr. Charlton: "I might not do so again."

In answer to Mr. McMullen, Sir Adolphe Caron said tenders had been asked last fall for the bread supply of "C" School of Infantry, Toronto. Four tenders were received and the contract was awarded to Wm. Carlyle at 2.23 cents per lb., this being the lowest tender.

In answer to Mr. Watson, Hon. Edgar Dewdney said the Government had received a report upon the claims of the half-breeds for the value of their furs alleged to have been wrongfully appropriated at Battleford.

Mr. Watson: "Will it be laid before the House?"

Mr. Dewdney: "Yes, if asked for."

Mr. Laurier: "It cannot be asked for this session."

Sir John Macdonald: "That is not our fault."

General Laurie moved for the correspondence in reference to the importation of fish in bond for the purpose of subsequent exportation. He complained that the fishermen of Nova Scotia suffered injustice by reason of fish from St. Pierre Island and the French coast of Newfoundland being brought in free, ostensibly for exportation, but surreptitiously put into consumption in Canada, inferior fish being exported in their stead. He thought it unfair also that dealers were allowed to break bulk and, by curing and otherwise, improve the fish before exportation. Several members on both sides took part in the discussion, which was adjourned when the House rose at 6 o'clock.

After recess in committee of the whole the House resumed consideration of the Canadian Pacific Railway Debenture Consolidation Bill. Hon. Mr. Laurier inquired about the arrangement with the Canadian Pacific Railway respecting the Harvey and Salisbury link of the Short Line Railway, about which Sir John had spoken the other evening.

Sir John said that when he had mentioned that agreement it had not passed the Council. Since then it had become a minute of the Council but not an order, having been forwarded this evening for His Excellency's signature. He hoped to be able to lay it before the House to-morrow.

Hon. Mr. Laurier said that as this Canadian Pacific Railway bill was a private one and intended only to improve the efficiency of the service he would not oppose its passage pending the production of the agreements spoken of. He hoped it would not be found to be a violation of the pledges made by the Government a few years ago.

Sir John Macdonald said he thought it would be found that it was no violation of any pledges.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Bill was then adopted in committee and read a third time and passed.

The Bagwell, Wand and Middleton divorce bills were read a second time on a division and referred to committee.

Sir John Macdonald made the promised explanations respecting the Manufacturers' Insurance Company and the connection of Sir Alexander Campbell with the vice-presidency. When the company was organized in Toronto Sir Alexander Campbell was in England. He had left Mr. Fred Barwick to look after his affairs and when it was desired that he should accept the vice-presidency Mr. Barwick wrote to him stating the facts and asking him to subscribe for the stock necessary to qualify him. Sir Alexander answered by cable:

"Letter received. Answer, yes. Subscribe same amount of stock as Macdonald."

He also wrote a letter stating that he was very glad to accept the position of first vice-president under Sir John Macdonald, president, and would subscribe for the same amount of stock as Sir John had. Mr. Barwick having power of attorney to do so subscribed for the stock and paid the call demanded, and Sir Alexander was duly named first vice-president, but upon his return from England Sir Alexander Campbell changed his mind for reasons which need not be alluded to now and determined that he would not take up the stock or assume the office. As there were numerous applicants for the vacancy he was not further pressed.

When he found that his name was still being used in the newspapers, Sir Alexander had caused his solicitor to write to The World the letter which had caused the matter to be brought before Parliament.

Mr. Cook's bill to amend the Railway Act so as, amongst other things, to compel railway companies to provide proper landing facilities wherever they land passengers was objected to by Sir John Thompson because it would interfere seriously with excursion traffic and was otherwise against the public interest. He moved the three months' hoist, which motion carried.

Mr. Boyle's bill to prevent the practices of fraudulent tree peddlers and commission men in the sale of nursery stock and which makes it compulsory for all persons selling foreign grown stock in Canada to give bonds to secure purchasers against loss by fraud, was read a second time, and on motion of Sir John Thompson, referred to a select committee.

Mr. Boyle spoke at length in support of his bill, and pointed out that many States in the Union had passed similar measures. The State of Minnesota, for instance, only permitted the unrestricted sale of stock grown in that state.

Mr. Brown of Hamilton warmly supported the bill, as while many of those likely to purchase stock were quite well able to protect themselves there ought to be something done to protect the minority who were not so strong minded.

Mr. Paterson's bill to admit United States vessels to towing and coasting as well as wrecking privileges in Canada was withdrawn by that gentleman on the resumption of the adjourned debate on its second reading being called.

Mr. Cook's bill to provide for the examination and licensing of all persons employed as stationary engineers and all persons having charge of steam boilers or other devices under pressure was objected to by Hon. C. H. Tupper as defective in construction and impracticable in principle, and he accordingly moved the three months' hoist, which was carried.

Mr. Clarke Wallace moved the second reading of his bill for the suppression of combinations formed in restraint of trade. He made an able speech in support, pointing out the injustice arising from the combine system as shown by the investigation by the committee last year. He took occasion to refer to the contention that the tariff created the combines and pointed out that some of the most oppressive combines were in lines on which there was no tariff protection, coal for instance. One of the most powerful combines was that of the wholesale grocers who were not producers but handlers.

Mr. Guillet followed in support of the bill, and summed up his estimate of its opponents in the couple:

> No rogue ever felt the halter draw
> With good opinion of the law.

Mr. Adam Brown suggested that the bill should be referred to the Banking and Commerce Committee. Hon. David Mills thought this would be the best course to pursue when the bill got its second reading. The bill having been read a second time, Mr. Brown moved in amendment its reference to the Banking and Commerce Committee, where manufacturers and others interested might be heard.

Mr. Wallace characterized this as an attempt to burk the bill, as the subject had been very thoroughly discussed by the committee.

Mr. Fisher said that this bill was not a creation of the committee, but an evolution of Mr. Wallace's own brain. He thought the bill should certainly be considered in one of the select standing committees. Mr. Cockburn, who seconded Mr. Brown's motion, strongly objected to the statement that its object was to burk the bill, which was very important in view of its effect upon commerce and should be carefully considered in committee.

Mr. Sproule said if it went to committee there would not be time to report it so as to get it through the House this session. It could be considered in committee of the House.

Sir John said the bill could certainly not be passed to-night, so it would have to stand over until next Monday.

Mr. Sproule said he understood there was a notice on the paper to make the bill a Government order.

Sir John: "Yes, but before that motion was reached the promoter took to-night an earlier opportunity of putting the bill before the House. If you take it out of the Government's hands you must manage it after your own fashion."

Mr. Wallace asked if the Government would promise that the bill would be put through after it came back from the committee. Sir John said they could not promise that, but they would promise that it should have every opportunity to be put through did the House so desire.

The bill was then referred to the Banking and Commerce Committee and the House adjourned at 1 o'clock.

Synod of Hamilton and London.

BRANTFORD, April 9.—The Presbyterian Synod of Hamilton and London met here last evening in Zion church and was opened by a sermon from the Rev Dr. James of Walkerton. The attendance of ministers and elders was large and the congregation represented all the denominations in the city. Dr. James preached from Revelations v. 14, "The Exaltation of Jesus Christ Hailed as a Cause of Rejoicing by the Heavenly Host." After the sermon the synod was constituted and the roll called by Dr. Cochrane, the clerk. The Moderator then asked for nominations for his successor. On motion of Dr. Thomson, of Sarnia, seconded by Dr. Proudfoot, Rev. George Cuthbertson of Wyoming was unanimously elected. On taking the chair he returned thanks in a characteristic speech.

The clerk read the list of nominations for the committees on commission of elders, on licenses of students, on presbytery records and for preparing the business for the synod, which were adopted. The moderator was requested to nominate at an early sederunt to-morrow a committee to present names, to compose the standing committee of the year. Dr. Cochrane read an invitation from the directors of the Young Ladies College for to-morrow evening at 7 p.m., which was accepted. Arrangements were also made to hear a fraternal deputation from the Methodist clergymen of the city, and to hear Mr. J. K. Macdonald of Toronto on Wednesday at 11 a.m. on behalf of the aged and infirm ministers' funds.

Notice of motion was given by Mr. Caswell of Oneida for a committee to prepare a deliverance on the Jesuit question.

Georgetown Whitecaps

MILTON, April 8.—John Hume, alleged to be one of Georgetown's White Caps, was tried before Magistrates Barber, Ruston and McKenzie at Georgetown on Saturday on three charges. The first charge was that of writing a letter threatening to kill the second, one of sending by post an obscene picture, and the third criminal libel. The investigation took place with closed doors, the public being excluded. The prisoner was committed for trial on all three charges and will be up before the county judge to-morrow. J. G. Matheson, County Crown Attorney, prosecuted and G. S. Goodwillie appeared for the prisoner. William Joseph Dundas, alias Toad Dundas, of Georgetown, was tried to-day before Judge Miller on a charge of pointing a pistol. The Crown failed to make out a case against the prisoner, but for attempting to escape from a constable after his arrest, and to which charge prisoner pleaded guilty, he was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment.

Coal Tolls Reduced.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., April 8.—Freight agents of several railroads met to-day and reduced the tolls on anthracite coal from the Wyoming region and the Lehigh region to Philadelphia and New York 5 to 20 cents per ton. The rate from the Lehigh region to Buffalo was reduced 25 cents and corresponding reductions were made to Lake Ontario ports and New York State points. To Chicago the rate is reduced 50 cents. The reduction goes into effect April 15.

The Bequest Holds.

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—The hard fought legal contest instituted by the heirs of the late Dr. Scott Stewart to break his legacy of about $240,000 for establishing a hospital of the Methodist Episcopal Church was brought to a close to-day by a decision of the Supreme Court in favor of the trustees of the hospital.

The Latter Day Saints.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., April 8.—To-day's session of the world's conference of Latter Day Saints was given up to hearing of the reports of missionaries showing the prosperity and growth of the church throughout the country. The report of the Church Recorder shows that there are over 24,000 members of the church, a gain of 1463 in the past year. There were 1166 removals and expulsions. Elder G. T. Griffith reported that missionaries in Virginia had met vigorous opposition and been threatened with personal violence on account of the erroneous belief that the Latter Day Saints were polygamous.

A Famous Divorce Case Decided.

COLUMBUS, O., April 8.—Judge Pugh rendered his decision in the famous Church divorce case to-day, granting Mrs. Church a decree of divorce on the ground of cruelty, giving her custody of three children and $400 per annum alimony. Adultery, gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty were alleged by the plaintiff. The court held that only the charge of cruelty was proven but held that modern law and humanity regard cruelty on the part of the husband, when it is deliberate and habitual, not a less flagrant cause for divorce than that of adultery on the part of the wife.

A Clergyman's Disgrace.

LINDSAY, April 8.—Rev. J. G. Dunn of Fenelon Falls was before His Honor Judge Dean here to-day on five separate charges of indecent assault on young boys. On the first four charges the prisoner was found not guilty, but on the fifth charge, which occurred in January last, he was convicted and sentenced to three months in the common jail.

The Repeal Majority in Brant.

BRANTFORD, April 9.—Full returns of the vote on the Scott Act in the County of Brant show 1290 votes for the act and 1441 against it. 151 majority for repeal.

HOME RULE FOR SCOTLAND

THE LORD ADVOCATE'S LOCAL GOVERNMENT BILL.

The London Times Said to be Tottering—Stanley's Letter to the Geographical Society—General Cable News.

LONDON, April 8.—In the House of Commons to-night the Lord Advocate introduced a bill providing for local government in Scotland. The bill creates county councils, the members of which are to be elected by the householders. Boroughs with population less than 7000 will be merged into counties. The others will be self-governed. The powers of the councils extend to private bill legislation. The right of legislating on private bills has hitherto been vested in Parliament. The measure is therefore a step in the direction of Home Rule. The functions of the councils are otherwise similar to those of the English councils.

The Thunderer's Peril.

NEW YORK, April 8.—The Post's London special says there is some question whether The Times will be able to survive the consequences of the Parnell case. Not one of The Times' counsel has yet received a penny in fees; only the expenses of witnesses have been paid. The explanation is that The Times entered upon the commission business confident of an ultimate grant from the Government, but the collapse of the letters alters the situation, and a grant is out of the question. The Times therefore has to face an unexpected expenditure of £50,000 of law expenses, plus another £50,000 for libels. Mr. Walter is a very rich man, and he may come to the rescue of his fellow proprietors, but the position of The Times is threatened.

Another Letter from Stanley.

LONDON, April 8.—Henry M. Stanley's letter to the Royal Geographical Society was read at the meeting of that body this evening. The letter consists mainly of a repetition of what has already been published. He describes at length the various devices by which the natives endeavored to prevent the advance of the expedition. One of these was to dig shallow pits across the path of the column and fill them with skewers, which were deftly covered with leaves. The skewers pierced the feet of Stanley's men, inflicting wounds that in many cases developed into gangrenous sores. The men who were lamed in this manner were seldom of further service.

Mr Stanley calls the natives "cunning rogues" and says that for the purpose of extortion they always pretended that the country was suffering from a famine. The 'friendlies', he says, withhold information, but the natives who were captured by the expedition imparted all they knew. Mr. Stanley believes that the lake he discovered in 1876 belongs to the Congo.

Boulanger Says he Hasn't Been Asked to Go.

PARIS, April 8.—Boulanger has telegraphed from Brussels that the report that the Belgian authorities requested him to leave Belgium is untrue.

Russia and Bokhara.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 8.—The Ameer of Bokhara is about to send his son to Russia to be educated. The State Bank of Russia will open a branch in Bokhara.

King Alexander of Servia will visit the Czar in August at Charkoff.

The Luxemburg Regency.

LUXEMBURG, April 8.—The message of the Duke of Nassau accepting the regency of the Duchy of Luxemburg was read in the Chamber of Deputies to-day. The Chamber unanimously resolved to assent to the regency.

Milan Touring in Palestine.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 8.—Ex-King Milan of Servia has started on a six weeks' tour in Palestine.

Complained of Their Quarters.

LONDON, April 8.—The emigrants on the Red Star line steamer Noordland, which collided off Beachy Head yesterday with the schooner Carrie Dingle, and which put into Southampton for repairs, were forbidden to land. Sixteen Englishmen, however, fought their way to the shore and complained of the bad quarters provided for the passengers on the steamer.

THE ELECTION WAS ILLEGAL.

A Surprise for Chicago Politicians—The Republicans May Hold Over.

CHICAGO, April 8.—The politicians of this city were astonished to-day by the announcement of a discovery that the recent election in this city was illegal. This state of affairs grows out of a decision rendered by the Supreme Court of the state. This decision was that the town of Brighton Park and other portions of the township of Cicero had been by a vote of the people on Nov. 17, 1887, legally annexed to the Townships of South and West Chicago. Previous to the annexation South and West Chicago were entirely included within the limits of the City of Chicago. While the decision of the court annexed the new territory to the townships it did not operate to make it a part of the city, the power to extend the limits of which rests with the City Council. The general law of the state provides that wherever all of a township lies within the limits of a city the city election shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in April, and that wherever the township is not all within the city limits the election shall be held on the third Tuesday in April. Under the Supreme Court's decision the City of Chicago does not entirely cover the townships of South and West Chicago and therefore the election instead of being held on the first Tuesday in April, as it was, should have been held on the third Tuesday.

Moreover the law requires that 30 days' notice of an election shall be given, and as the time is too short between this date and the third Tuesday in April for legal notice, it seems questionable whether the mistake can be rectified by a new election on that day.

It is claimed that if the present Republican administration is willing to invoke the law it can hold over and prevent the newly elected Democrats from taking their seats. It is said that Mayor Roche has consulted the corporation counsel regarding the matter, but it cannot be learned that any decision has been reached.

Aberdeen Cattle Company.

LONDON, April 8.—The Aberdeen Canadian Cattle Company show a loss of £330 on last year's operations, due to the loss of a Danish shipment, also to the loss of 150 cattle on the seventh Canadian cargo during a heavy storm last November. The directors, however, do not regard the results as discouraging, having supplied farmers with nearly 2000 head of healthy and profitable store cattle, and in view also of the fact that the trade is only just opened.

Preparing for the Opening of Navigation Other News Notes.

Correspondence of the Review.

OBITUARY.—Willie Kennedy, a young man of about nineteen years of age, and son of Mr. William Kennedy, of Rokeby, died on Tuesday evening, the 2nd inst., after about a years lingering illness....On Friday evening last Mrs. John Moore, widow of late John Moore, of this place, departed this life after about three week's acute sickness. Both funerals were largely attended by friends and acquaintances who followed the remains to the cemetery where interment took place. The members of both families have the heartfelt sympathy in their sad bereavement.

SCOTT ACT.—The Scott Act excitement is over, and the village gave a majority of 27 for the repeal.

THE BOATS.—The Esturion is being thoroughly overhauled these days, so that she may be ready to ride the waves of Sturgeon as soon as navigation opens. The Maple Leaf is also being fitted up, so that she may be able to ply between this place and Bridgenorth as soon as the ice disappears in Pigeon Lake.

BOYD'S MILL.—Mr. Boyd's mill opened on Monday, the 1st inst., and on Friday towers were begun and things are fairly humming now at "Little Bob."

FROM ENNISMORE.

Notes of the Weather in March—An Uncommon Month.

Correspondence of the Review.

WEATHER NOTES.—Windy March, if the appellation can be given to the departed one, has once more come to a close, but I am not aware that a finer month was ever seen in Canada. The month came in pleasant and fine up to the 7th, when we had 3 days stormy and windy, but only little snow falling, and on the morning of the 11th the thermometer stood at 2 degrees above zero and at night 20 degrees, being the coldest of the month. The 23rd was the hottest, standing at 60 degrees in the shade at 2 p.m., leaving the mean temperature of the month at 28 20 31 degrees. Snow fell on 9 days to the depth of 3½ inches, being uncommonly light for March. No rain fell during the month and only 15-100 of an inch fell in February on the 16th. So we have had none for six weeks, the like of which I believe is unknown in Canada. Our migratory birds are once more hopping from tree to fence and from fence to tree. The first caw-caw of our black feathered friends was heard on the 11th, blue birds on the 20th, wild ducks on the 26th and robins on the 28th. Auroral lights were seen on the 24th and there was fog on two morning. The first ploughing was done on Patrick Brick's farm on the 21st, which, no doubt, is the first in this locality. The following is the different points from which the wind was blowing at sunrise during the month, namely:—South 3 days, south-east 5 days, south-west 6 days, north 2 days, north-west 5 days, west 2 days, east 7 days, and north-east 1 day.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A tiny gold basket, with a spray of violets in enamel trailing over the sides, makes a charming pendant for a queen chain.

Tiny pearls in the center of a string of buttercups are seen on a recent bracelet. The design is unusually delicate and pretty.

Twelve stones, diamonds and sapphires alternating, gradually diminishing in size from the center to either end, enhance the beauty of a gold band bracelet.

A magnificent opal, said to be one of the finest in the country, is seen within a setting of diamonds. It is in the form of a heart, and is worn as a brooch or pin.

Corkscrew handles in silver are seen in new designs. The most recent represent champagne bottles and horns. They are ornamented with etchings of hunting scenes.

The Duke of St. Albans, as hereditary grand falconer of Great Britain, receives a salary of $4,825 a year for holding the title. It's doubtful if he would know a falcon if he saw one. The duke is the direct descendant of the orange girl Nell Gwynne, who was for a time beloved by Charles II. Her son by the monarch was the first Duke of St. Albans.

No man in France probably look upon the present dire straits of the government with more personal complacence than Marshal MacMahon and M. Jules Grevy; especially the latter, who now grimly recalls what he said when he was turned out of the Elysee—that he left to those who turned him out the responsibility for all that might happen thereafter.

Not Alone.

Not alone, not alone, with eager footsteps pressing,
  Life's narrow pathway to its final goal;
Not alone, not alone, unaided by Heaven's blessing,
  Dost hour thy time, oh, thou immortal soul.

Not alone, not alone, while silvered bells are blending,
  With present charm, the music of the past;
Not alone, not alone, while future hours are sending
  A warning of the twilight gathering fast.

Not alone, not alone, when dark and threatening shadows
  Obscure the brightness of the morning sun;
Not alone, not alone, when evening's deeper shadows,
  Shall softly tell thee that thy work is done.

Not alone, not alone, a faithful Hand is holding,
  Continually thy own in close confide;
Not alone, not alone, now comes the years unfolding,
  Strengthen assurance of a Heavenly guide.

SUPERB SILVER SERVICE.

A DINNER SET THAT COST ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS.

It Is the Finest and Most Costly in America and Belongs to Mrs. William Astor. The Vanderbilts Eat Off of Gold Dishes with Diamond Ornaments.

There are at least one hundred thousand handsome dinner services of either silver or fine china in New York, says The New York Journal, but the one owned by Mrs. William Astor is the most costly and most beautiful. There is not its match in all America, and in Europe you must seek the dining rooms of kings and dukes to find its equal.

Twenty years ago Mrs. Astor determined to have a complete dinner service of solid silver. She traveled abroad with her husband and saw all the noted silver antiques in the Old World, and then a special artist was commissioned to draw designs for her service. Each dish was to be highly carved and of graceful form, and there were to be dishes enough for a twelve course dinner party for twenty-four guests. The order was given to a noted Paris firm, and the small silver, the knives, forks and spoons were made by a famous Baltimore silversmith, from special designs furnished by the artist. It was a full year before the superb service was finished and another year before it was packed, shipped across the ocean and used in the family mansion at No. 350 Fifth avenue. Is is valued at $100,000.

SOME OF THE PIECES.

There are eleven dozen plates in the service, each with a carved border and marked in the center with the monogram "W. A." and the family crest, with the motto, "Semper Fidelis"—"Always Faithful"—under it. These plates cost over $40 each, and $5,000 for all of them.

Then there are thirty-five dozens of the small silver knives, forks and spoons. Just think of it! Many families are content to own one dozen of solid silver teaspoons. Even each of the small teaspoons weighs over four ounces, and the workmanship on each one brings them up to $10 each. The tablespoons are unusually large, and there are curious oyster and fish forks. This small silver cost over $5,000.

A punchbowl of unusual size with a cover, a dozen vegetable and entree dishes, all with repousse carving and close covers; two dozen after dinner coffee cups and saucers wreathed in little Bacchantes and roses; tiny salt cellars and pepper boxes for each plate, and two dozen silver punch goblets are in the service. When one looks at the vast array, $100,000 does not seem too much for it; yet, were this sum out at interest, it would yield a yearly income of $4,000.

This service does not include all of Mrs. Astor's silver. She has an exquisite little breakfast service, which was one of her wedding presents, and which has been in her family over a hundred and fifty years, and another tea service is almost as old. Then her collection of china is one of the finest in America. Mr. Astor is a connoisseur in china, and each year he brings home from Europe some choice bit, or, perhaps, an entire set of Sevres or Worcester, worth its weight in gold.

THE DESIGNS DESTROYED.

Certainly the most costly desert set in America is owned by Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt. The first Cornelius Vanderbilt ate his pumpkin pie off a common white delf plate. The present Cornelius Vanderbilt cuts his orange on a golden plate set with uncut gems. Probably some future Cornelius Vanderbilt will eat candied violets from a plate of diamonds.

It seems like a fairy story to hear of a mortal eating from golden plates, set with rubies and emeralds, turquoises and garnets, but all the twenty guests at the dinner party given by Mrs. Vanderbilt ate from dessert plates of real gold. Mrs. Vanderbilt has two dozen of them. They are not very large, about seven inches in diameter, and are carved about the edge. No one, except the owners and the dealer, knows how much these golden plates cost, but a prominent jeweler has valued each one at $500. They were purchased in Paris.

Mrs. Vanderbilt has a silver service, not entire, that cost over $25,000. The fish plates are shaped like small salmon, and the eye is a jewel. The pate dishes are formed like tiny tubs with close covers, and are provided with carved silver handles, so that they can be served hot, and the ice cream plates are formed like clover leaves, and have special little silver spoons shaped like shovels.

Four very costly china dinner and breakfast services are owned by Mrs Vanderbilt. The one in common use is of deep blue and white china, and it cost over $5,000. The choice set is in Royal Worcester, and is complete except in platters and vegetable dishes.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt's special dinner service is in pink and white fine French china, and was made after special designs, which were afterward destroyed, so that no one could have a set like it. Her dessert set is of Royal Worcester and each plate is different. The fruit dish belonged to Louis XVI, and some of the plates once adorned Napoleon's table.

One of the loveliest of china services is owned by Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt. The design is in yellow and pale blue, and forget-me-nots and primroses border each dish.

Mrs. W. H. Vanderbilt has a set of Japanese dishes which cost over $5,000. Each dish, whether plate, platter or tureen, has a little vase on the edge in which a rose or pink can be placed, so that each course is served with a flower. This service is in deep Imari blue ware, touched with pink.

One of Tiffany's men, who is familiar with most of the costly silver and china in town, estimates that $10,000,000 would hardly cover their value.—New York Journal.

The Church Missionary Society.

The full and searching inquiry which it is proposed should be instituted into the management of the Church Missionary society would be one of the most interesting, and perhaps exciting, events of the day. The income of the Church Missionary society last year was nearly £229,000. It is stated that of this enormous sum nearly a fourth—that is to say, close upon £30,000—is spent before any of the money is paid out for mission work. That, at all events, is the rumor. The Church Missionary society was founded at the beginning of the century. It has numerous missions in western Africa, India, Egypt, Persia, China, New Zealand, America, the North Pacific—all over the world, in fact. It has 294 stations in all; upwards of 500 missionaries in holy orders, and 3,700 European and native teachers of all sorts. The supporters of other missionary societies are beginning to complain of extravagant home expenditure. Even the London Missionary society, whose management was regarded by Canon Taylor as contrasting favorably with that of the Church Missionary society, has not escaped criticism, and complaint is made in The Methodist Times that £30,000 of the income of the Wesleyan society is spent at home.—Christian at Work.

Cut glass mucilage bottles in the shape of bells, with chased silver covers and brush attachments, are pretty and useful.

HATS!

Hats, gentlemen, Hats!

And why, Hats!

The Hat is the badge of respectability, the trade mark of civilization—that is any kind of a decent Hat. And properly, too.

Let us consider this question of Hats.

Had Bonaparte paused on the way to Waterloo to select a new Hat the result might have been different.

Had Christopher Columbus worn a shabby Hat, could he have made the fine impression he did on landing in Amerikay. No much. Not any.

Men have been crossed in love, fallen off scaffolds, been beaten at the polls, arrested on suspicion, failed in business, and lost the respect of their fellow citizens by wearing a bad Hat.

The moral of all this is, come to us for your Hats. It's a new department with us, and a mighty good one. It's good because its new, and wholly new and good. We do nothing by halves. See our Stock. See what we offer in Style, Material, Shape and Finish. You can take your pick of the Best Goods by the Best Makers. We discount the Town on Hats.

A meeting of the Y.M.G. of St. John's church is called for this evening at eight o'clock in the school house, when all the members and any person interested are given a cordial invitation to be present.

A Nocturnal Row.

A disturbance occurred last night in Chamberlain's saloon on George-st., and it is just possible that the participants in the row will appear before the Magistrate to-morrow.

A Coming Concert.

We understand that it is the intention of the Chevaliers of Canton Peterborough to hold a grand concert on the evening of 26th of April and no doubt the Oddfellows and public will have a treat in store for them if the past record of the Canton is any criterion. The committee will issue tickets in a few days.

Adam's Request Granted.

Adam Dobbin put in a special request at police headquarters this morning to be sent up to gaol for a month. Adam says he does not feel well, and he has the idea that the atmosphere of the elevated castle will agree with him. Police Magistrate Dumble gave him the required certificate for a month's board.

The Talk of the Town

The people are wondering why Elliott & Tierney are giving 18 lbs. bright sugar for $1. and selling teas and other goods so much cheaper than any house in Peterborough. Call at the Palace Grocery and examine the goods, which will convince you. The "Palace" is the place to get best values. Great stock-taking sale now going on.

A Modern Exhibition.

A lumberman, who probably had just returned from wintering in the woods, and his lady love, who also had a rather rural-district appearance, gave the general public an exhibition of modern love-making on the Goose-pond viaduct on Water-st. this morning. Needless to relate the sight of the brawny river man with both arms entwing the waist of his fair one as he murmured his sugar-coated words into her ear caused considerable amusement to the passers-by, who are seldom treated to such an exhibition on a public street.

The Cause of the Scott Act Defeat.

There are various opinions as to the defeat of the Scott Act, some giving this reason, others that, but one of the principal points is, there has been such a sensation caused over the whole county that all plans have been frustrated. Instead of voters going to the polls to record their votes, they rushed to secure the tremendous bargains w. j. morrow has been offering in groceries, knowing well that they can buy goods cheaper from him than any other house in the line.

Chain the Brutes.

Some little difficulty has arisen between Mrs. Sutherland, corner of Aylmer and Hunter-sts. and her neighbor, Mr. Lowe, and the cause of the little unpleasantness is the too neighborly conduct of some of Mrs. Sutherland's hens, which, so Mr. Lowe says, are coming into his yard and making themselves altogether too much at home. The nuisance has so irritated Mr. Lowe that the Magistrate will probably have the stories of both parties poured into his ear at the Police Court.

Two Lost Children.

A woman came into the police station this morning and reported to the Chief that two little youngsters, a boy and girl, had been found wandering around the streets in the neighborhood of St. Peter's Cathedral this morning, and were unable to find their way home or to tell where they lived or what their names were. The little girl said her first name was Minnie but she could not pronounce her last name. The little prodigals were taken into the convent and cared for by the sisters, until upon enquires their anxious parents ascertained where they were.

Raising the Fallen.

Frances St. Clair, one of the two unfortunate girls who were sent up to gaol a short time ago for a month for keeping a house of ill-fame in town, was sent to Toronto this morning by the ladies of the W. C. T. U., where she will enter one of the institutions in that city for fallen women.

Taken to Orillia.

Constable Clark, of Orillia, arrived here this morning to take Henry Brault, alias Freeman, to stand his trial on a charge of selling liquor without a license contrary to the Crooks Act. Brault has been ill ever since he was locked up, being troubled with fainting spells.

Personal.

Rev. M. L. Pearson went to Belleville this morning.

Rev. Mr. Hunter returned from St. Thomas this morning and will be at the meeting to-night.

Mr. T. G. Hazlitt has been confined to his home for the last few days with a slight illness, but will be convalescent in a few days.

Young Men's Welfare.

Mr R. J. Colville, assistant secretayy of the Toronto Y. M. C. A., arrived here last night and will remain for a few weeks to assist in working up the local Association work. Mr. Colville is a young man whose whole heart is in his work and is of a genial disposition. He was present at the meeting last night and will be found during the day at the Y. M. C. A. rooms and will be delighted to meet and talk with any young men who may feel at all anxious about their soul's welfare. It being some considerable time now since the local Association has had a Secretary, the work has fallen off a little, but it is expected that a little earnest endeavor and effort will put new life and impetus into the work.

A Dog Causes an Arrest.

A strange chain of circumstances this morning led to the arrest of Mr. R. N. Roddy, of the C. P. R. Hotel, who, though not guilty of any offence, still by the letter of the law he had to be arrested. The cause of the whole trouble was a small, innocent pet dog, which belonged to Mrs. Enos Dunford. It appears that the dog had attracted the attention of a couple of ladies boarding at the C. P. R. Hotel and they delegated a man to go and try to strike a bargain with Mrs. Dunford for her canine pet. The man, however, failed to effect a purchase with the dog's mistress, but yesterday Mr. Dunford sold the dog to its lady admirer for five dollars without either the consent or knowledge of his wife. Mrs. Dunford this morning swore out a search warrant for her dog and Chief Roszel in executing the search found the dog in the C. P. R. Hotel and, of course, had to arrest the proprietor, Mr. Roddy. Mr. Roddy was not locked up, but appeared at three o'clock this afternoon before the Magistrate. At three o'clock the case came up before the Police Magistrate, when the little black and tan which has caused all the trouble was produced. Mrs. Dunford claimed the dog, but her husband said he had as much right to sell it as she had. The woman who had bought the canine was opposed to giving it up as she had purchased a pretty little collar for the animal with her name engraved thereon. Mrs. Dunford gave the Magistrate five dollars, the sum her husband had received for the dog, but still the parties who had purchased it would not give up their claim. Finally the Magistrate enlarged the case until ten o'clock to-morrow when the question of title will be investigated and the woman who bought the dog will be summoned to appear. Of course Mr. Roddy was not connected with the dog deal in any way and is not concerned in the case, only that he was unfortunate enough to have the woman boarding with him who purchased the dog.

ONLY A GAME OF CHANCE

REV. MR. CROSSLEY CONDEMNS CARD PLAYING.

An Immense Audience Listens to the rev. Gentleman Discuss Card Playing—Reasons why it is Wrong—Methodists who Play "Nations" Rev. Mr. Hunter Absent—Notes.

As was expected the George-st. church was crowded last evening to hear Rev. Mr. Crossley discuss the subject of card playing. Rev. Mr. Hunter did not arrive from St. Thomas on the 7.50 train as it was anticipated he would, but he will be present at the meeting to-night in all probability.

Rev. Mr. Crossley's first solo was the hymn "Christ for all," and after the special requests for prayer had been read by Rev. Mr. Parker, the evangelist sang by request as his second solo the beautiful hymn "My Mother's Prayer."

CARD PLAYING.

Rev. Mr. CROSSLEY said he had been requested to discuss the subject of card playing and would do so in a most kindly spirit and as clearly as possible. He chose for his text the words:—

"They parted my raiment among them and for my vesture they did cast lots.—John xix, 24.

The rev. gentleman said the crucifixion was in progress and the soldiers threw dice, cast lots or indulged in a game of chance to see who should have His raiment. This seemed a strange and startling thing to them, but there were stranger things than this, for some of them had been sitting down and asking "Will I have to give up this or that game of chance for Jesus," and he said their sin was as much greater than that of the soldiers as Christ was above His raiment. The evangelist said he would first speak of three mistakes which some persons made when speaking of the game of cards. The first of them was that of comparing cards to croquet, chess, bicycle-riding, checkers, etc. He said he wondered at the ignorance of any one who did this. Chess and checkers were games of skill and and croquet and bicycle-riding were games of dexterity, while cards was purely a game of chance. Cards did not, as did a game of chess or checkers, depend on the skill of the player so much as on the chance of getting a better hand than your opponent. Another mistake was contrasting the ordinary cardplaying with the game of nations. The speaker said he wanted to tell those Methodists who had the cards for nations in their house, that people laughed at them and, if he was them, he would not have nations in the house. If they were going to have cards they might just as well get

RIGHT DOWN TO THE OLD DECK.

Another mistake was made when it was asked was it harm for Christians to play cards. The question was not is it harm for Christians, but is it harm for any person to play cards, for there was no rule or obligation that bound the Christian that did not obligate everyone, and it was a wrong idea that people had who made no profession in thinking that they were at liberty to do things which they could not do if they were Christians. There were several reasons why card playing was wrong. In the first place it gave a person a wrong idea of life. Being a game of chance it made them think that their success in other things depended on chance, and so they heard people talking of luck in this life when it rested upon a person's earnest and down-right merit as to who would win in the game of life. His second reason for objecting to cards was because the game had a bad name. Bicycle-riding, croquet or chess had not a bad name, and they could not associate with people or things which bore a bad name, or other people would class them with those with whom they went. The third reason was because it was a questionable thing. They never heard people asking if it was any harm to play chess, but the question was continually being asked, "Is it wrong to play cards?" Another reason was because it led so many astray. Some parents said they played with their boys to keep them in the house at night. But, he asked, how long would they keep those boys in? Just until they became so expert that they could beat their parents and then they would go out and play with some one else. But suppose, he said, they did keep them at home while they were boys, they did not always intend to remain at home, and when they did go away and were asked if they could play cards they would have to answer "Yes," and then after playing a short time some one would say, "Let us play for a dollar all round," and so the gambling would go on. He knew many persons who learned to play cards at home because their fathers and mothers thought it was a good plan to keep them at home who were now the

MOST CONFIRMED GAMBLERS.

Dr. Talmage had said—"While I consider the number of young men, whose name is legion, who have been led away by the game of cards, I would just as soon go out to the cemetery and say "Come on and have a game of skulls,' as say 'Come on and have a game of cards'." Another reason why he considered card playing to be wrong was because it destroyed a person's influence with those who were not Christians. Another reason was because they could not pray about a game very well. He asked if any of them could ask God's blessing in a game of cards as they did when the gathered around their daily meals. Another reason was because the love of Christ would expel, if not the desire, the wish or purpose to play cards. Another reason was because they could not play without gambling. The evangelist said many would say that was not so, but he would stake his reputation as a man of logical mind if he did not prove this statement. What was gambling? Some say it was playing for money. But it was more than that. Gambling was seeking to win anything without earning it. They need not necessarily be seeking to win money but might only be playing to win the game. If they won a game of checkers or chess they would earn it as it depended on their skill, but a game of cards depended on chance or luck and they were therefore seeking to win the game without earning it. Why was it that men usually gambled with cards? Because the transition between the game for amusement and the game for money was so easy. All would say that gambling was wrong and he said if gambling was wrong card playing was equally so. Another reason the evangelist gave was because card playing led so many to backslide, and his last reason was that it kept so many from coming to Christ. The evangelist dwelt on the position of those who allowed this or any other game to stand in their way and in closing he in a very impressive manner urged them all to seize hold of the life lines which God had thrown out to them and be drawn up to a place of safety.

The first meeting then closed and the church was crowded for the after meeting.

NOTES.

The usual song sermon will be given by Rev. Mr. Crossley to-night.

An afternoon meeting was held this afternoon in the Baptist church, when the questions concerned were:—Is it proper for women to speak and pray in church, and fasting.

Another afternoon meeting, and probably the last, will be held on Thursday afternoon next in the Baptist church.

Rev. Messrs. Huff, of Smith, and Burns, of Millbrook, and Mr. Richard Winch, of Cobourg, were on the platform at the meeting last evening.

THE ASSESSMENT.

Mr. C. McGrath's Illness—Mr. Aldridge to Complete the Work.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held last evening. There were present His Worship Mayor Stevenson in the chair and Councillors Cahill, Davidson, Winch, Kelly, E. H. D. Hall, Dawson, Baptie, Langford, Kendry, A. Hall and Hartley.

The MAYOR said that he had consulted Mr. Edwards, the Town Solicitor, who had advised him to call a meeting of the Council to appoint an assessor. Owing to the illness of Mr. C. McGrath, young Mr. McGrath had been acting for his father, but the Solicitor thought this would not do and suggested that Mr. McGrath, jr., be appointed.

The CLERK read Mr. C. McGrath's resignation, in which he asked the Council to appoint his son, T. B. McGrath, in his place.

The resignation was accepted, and a By-law was introduced to appoint another assessor.

ONE ASSESSOR.

Councillor E. H. D. HALL moved, seconded by Councillor HARTLEY,—That Mr. Aldridge be authorized and empowered to complete the assessment for this year as sole assessor.

Councillor KELLY said that the greater part of the work was yet to be done, and Mr. Aldridge would not be able to do it.

Councillor LANGFORD did not see why Mr. Aldridge could not go on and complete the work as he had been doing it.

Councillor KENDRY said it was better to have two assessors than one.

Councillor DAWSON said the Councillors were satisfied at the last meeting with Mr. Aldridge working alone, and did not see why it was not right now.

The MAYOR said that they were acting on the Solicitor's advice.

Councillor LANGFORD—Where is his advice?

Councillor KENDRY said they had asked the Solicitor's advice and he had embodied it in a by-law to appoint Mr. T. B. McGrath.

Councillor HARTLEY said that if what had been done already was legal, why not complete it in the same way?

The MAYOR said their advice was that appointing Mr. T. B. McGrath would legalize the assessment.

After further discussion Councillor Hall's motion was adopted.

The matter of Mrs. Coe's taxes were referred to the Court of Revision.

CURFEW SHALL NOT RING.

Councillor DAWSON moved, seconded by Councillor HARTLEY,—That Mr. James Keglish be authorized to ring the town bell at 5 o'clock every afternoon, the hour the corporation employees quit work.

As the Mayor was putting the motion several Councillors left their seats, leaving no quorum, and the Mayor endorsed it as referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

CHINA HALL

Immense sums have been paid for rare specimens of antique China. Think of $5,000 being given for a china plate—cracked at that. Consider $24,000 as the market value of a set of 120 pieces of sèvres china. Hold in one hand a cup and saucer and in the other hand the $2,400 that the cup and saucer brought at a Parisian auction. Truly, the craze of collectors for rare specimens of Pallissy ware, has given fictitious values to many an unpretentious plate and cup. When money is light it is a comfort to think of $2,000 being paid for a hawthorn jug that would barely hold a quart of milk. These are prices that astonish, but the serious side of the question is that at China Hall you can secure full sets of China that will grace any tea table for so little money that anyone can afford the outlay. Not only China, but good substantial dinner sets fit to set out the table of an M. P. or Mayor. Come to CHINA HALL and see what money will do. You'll not have to spend the value of six first-class farms for a China Tea Set.

BEAUTIFUL JIM.

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER

CHAPTER XXI.

"I LOVE YOU!"

It was some little time before either Nancy or Beautiful Jim could collect their senses enough to say a single word. Then Nancy made a remark which fairly took Jim's breath away, acting on him very much like a pail of iced water might do on a cold and frosty morning.

"Oh! you don't know. I've been nearly mad," she cried; "nearly mad! They all say you have done it, and then Stuart wrote"——

"What did Stuart write?" he demanded, sternly.

She looked at him half frightened and with doubtful eyes.

"Ought I to tell you? It is all over now and proved to be a mistake."

"I insist upon knowing," he returned, harshly.

In spite of the anger in his face, the sunshine broke out over the girl's lovely countenance.

"Oh! my dear, don't put that word 'insist' between you and me," she said, gently. "It sounds ugly, and it looks uglier; but it feels the ugliest of all. There is no need of it, for I will tell you if you wish it, without any insisting."

Jim was penitent in a moment.

"Forgive me, my dearest," he said, beseechingly. "I have had a good deal to try me since I saw you last; and the worst of it all was that I wasn't sure that you cared a button for me. It would all have been so easy if I'd only been sure of that!"

Nancy gave a great sigh, not entirely a doleful one, for a distinct thrill of satisfaction ran through it.

"And I was just the same. As soon as I heard the awful news that suspicion had fallen on you—you of all men in the world—I sat down and wrote to tell you that I for one did not and never would believe it. And I"——

"You wrote to me? I never had the letter," he broke in, impatiently.

"Because I never sent it," she answered, quickly. "I—I—remembered that I wasn't sure whether you cared about me or not, and the letter I had written was rather affectionate, and it seemed hypocritical to write a stilted one; and besides, I couldn't think of anything to say in such a one, or what reason to give for writing at all. And then Stuart wrote, and—and he seemed so prejudiced against you, said everybody believed you had done it, and that so far as he could see there could be no doubt at all about it, and that he was very sorry I'd ever met you, and all that sort of thing, you know. But still it wasn't that which made me not write, for I didn't believe a word of it—not a word."

"God bless you for that, my darling," said poor Jim, passionately. "But tell me just what it was that kept your sweet letter from me?"

"Well, Stuart said—of course, I dare say it was only gossip that was floating about in the regiment at the time," she added, apologetically; "but he said it was very well known among the others that though you and poor Capt. Owen had always been great friends, that he had lately cut you out with one of your cousins of whom you were awfully fond, and that it was undoubtedly this that was at the bottom of it all; and I thought if you were fond of her that you wouldn't care anything about a letter from me."

"Jim!" she exclaimed.

"Forgive me, dearest," he said, softening instantly. "I forgot for the moment that young Tommy was your brother—we don't call him 'Stuart' in the regiment, you know," he ended, with a sad smile—"but by the unromantic name of Tommy; and it is rather a blow to me to find that he of all the fellows has been the one to blacken me, and to you."

"I dare say it was only what he heard," she answered, still clinging to the old habit of shielding her boy, though all her love and sympathy were with Jim.

Jim shook his head.

"No, my darling, Tommy knew when he wrote that to you that I was absolutely innocent, and I'm afraid he trumped up all the story about my little cousin out of his own head and to suit his own ends."

"But why? How could he know? Then there is a cousin?" she cried.

"Yes. I have two cousins, great friends of mine, and poor dear Owen was utterly gone on one of them," he answered. "I should have been enchanted if she had taken him, but she didn't, or rather I believe she didn't, for Owen never said a word to me or I to him about it. As for her, I've never seen her since the week I was in London before I met you."

"But how could Stuart know?" she persisted.

Beautiful Jim's face turned like a stone.

"He knew that I had no hand in it—that I was absolutely innocent," he replied. "Don't ask me any more, darling. The subject is too painful to me, for you know old Owen was the best friend I ever had in all my life."

For some minutes Nancy stood looking at him, her sweet dove's eyes filled with a light such as he had never seen shining in their clear depths before.

In Brief, and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature. The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

On Friday last a friend of Morrison agreed to find him and make an appeal to him to give up. The friend was provided with letters from all the leading men and magistrates in the country. Magistrate Dugas suspended operations until he had heard the result. Should he fail to give himself up twenty-four warrants are lying ready and twenty-four of his friends will be in Sherbrooke jail. His friends will be arrested wholesale and the police will be scattered in every direction until they find and take the fugitive.

MONTREAL, April 8.—These telegrams which Mayor Grenier received from Attorney-General Turcotte were laid before the City Council to-day:

"I am anxious to know if you will leave your policemen a few days more at Megantic. It is very important. Please answer and oblige."

"The Government of the Province of Quebec have information from Judge Dugas to the effect that the Montreal city police now in the County of Compton are absolutely required to effect the arrest of Morrison, which we expect will be soon accomplished, and I trust that your council will not recall those men but will allow them to complete the public duty to the accomplishment of which they have so far very efficiently contributed."

The council decided to let the police stop over for another fortnight.

The Salvation Army established a new corps yesterday morning in Barton street near Wellington.

TRADE AN TRAFFIC.

Leading Features of the Grain and Produce Markets at Home and Abroad.

TORONTO, April 9.—St. Lawrence market was quiet yesterday. Little was offered and the demand was slight. Receipts of hay and straw were small and prices steady, hay selling at $17 and $18 and straw at $10. Hay is likely to take a big drop soon. The large quantity coming up from Quebec is keeping prices down. One day last week there were nearly 100 cars for sale along the Esplanade, and within a couple of weeks it is probable that hay will sell down to $12.

The sales of grain on the street were: 100 bushels of wheat at $1.07 for fall, $1.06 and $1.09 for red, $1.09 to $1.14 for spring and 87c. for goose; 100 bushels of barley for 51c. and 100 bushels of peas at 70.

Dressed hogs are quoted at $7 per 100 lbs., geese 9c. per lb., turkeys 14c., ducks 70c. per pair, chickens 85c., butter 24c. for rolls and 20c. for tubs, lard 13c., eggs 12c., potatoes 30c. per bag, apples $1.25 per bbl.

BEERBOHM'S REPORT.

Beerbohm reports: Floating cargoes—Wheat and corn, quiet and steady. Cargoes on passage—Wheat slow, corn steady. Mark Lane—Wheat steady, corn turn dearer, flour quiet. Good cargoes Australian wheat, off coast, 37s 9d, was 37s 6d; present and following month 38s, was 37s 9d. French country markets, slow. Liverpool—Spot wheat, rather easier; corn steady. No. 1 Cal. 7s 4d; No. 2 Cal. 7s 1½d; American red winter 7s 1½d; Western mixed 7s 3½d; all ½d cheaper. English farmers' deliveries of wheat during past week 50,417 qrs; average price 30s 1d, was 30s 2d.

LIVERPOOL MARKETS.

Liverpool reports: Wheat dull; demand poor; holders offer moderately. Corn, firm; demand poor. Spring wheat, 7s 10½d; red winter, 7s 2d; No. 1 Cal., 7s 4d and 7s 6½d. Corn, 3s 10½d. Peas, 5s 6d. The Cat in Montreal.

MONTREAL, April 8.—On March 5 last a man named Andre Mainville assaulted a young 10-year-old girl, and was only stopped in his infamous purpose by the arrival of the girl's brother, who had him arrested. In the Court of Queen's Bench he was sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment in jail and fifteen lashes. The lashes were administered this morning at 7 o'clock. The wielder of the "cat" was a tall, powerful Irishman, and the second stroke brought a scream and appeals for mercy from the scoundrel's lips; but they were of no avail.

Packed With Human Bones.

MONTREAL, April 8.—Three weeks ago two gentlemen from New Brunswick left a tin case at the Canadian Pacific Express office. As it was not called for the case was opened yesterday, when it was found to be packed with human bones. The coroner was notified and had the case removed to the morgue.

THE POSTAL CHANGES.

THE HOUSE IN COMMITTEE ADOPTS THE RESOLUTIONS.

A Number of Measures Advanced a Stage—No More Chance This Session for Private Members

OTTAWA, April 9.—The House sat late to-night and in the two sittings managed to get through a good deal of business. The proceedings, however, were mainly of a routine nature, and aside from the passage of Mr. Haggart's postal resolution possessed little of general public interest.

The bill from the Senate respecting the collection of certain tolls and dues was read a third time and passed.

The bill amending the Fisheries Act so as to prohibit the catching of salmon by seining in certain streams up which the fish pass to spawn was read a third time and passed on motion of Hon. C. H. Tupper. A six months' hoist moved by Mr. Ellis was negatived on a division, 72 to 108.

The Senate amendments to the bills to amend the Winding-up Act, the Civil Service Act and the Supreme and Exchequer Court Act were concurred in.

The House then went into committee on the Franchise bill.

After recess the House resumed in committee consideration of the Franchise Act Bill, which was at length reported. The bill will be reprinted as amended in committee before coming up for third reading.

The Senate bill respecting interest on judgment debts and fixing it at 6 per cent' was read a second time.

Hon. John Haggart's resolution respecting the rates of postage on letters was considered in committee of the whole. The changes contemplated have already been explained. Respecting the increase in the rate on drop letters to 2 cents per ounce in all cities and towns where there is a delivery system, the Postmaster-General explained that the law was thus assimilated to that of Great Britain and the United States. The proposition to remove from the free list newspapers published at intervals of more than a week has been abandoned, and all published at intervals of not more than a month will be allowed to go free as in the past. Printers' manuscripts and proofs, lithographs and many of that class will be charged for in the future 1 cent for two ounces in place of four ounces as at present.

The proposition to raise the rate on drop letters from 1 to 2 cents was vigorously opposed by many members. Mr. McKay of Hamilton strongly protested that it would not only be unpopular with the public but would decrease the revenue, as the merchants would have the bulk of their circulars, etc., delivered by messengers in place of paying the 2-cent postage. He read a resolution passed by the Hamilton Board of Trade condemning the proposed change. The resolution was at length adopted in committee and a bill founded upon it introduced.

The House then went again into committee on the bill amending the Customs Act. The bill having been adopted by the committee the House adjourned at 1.05 o'clock.

CAPITAL NOTES.

Final Meeting of the Frauds on Farmers Committee.

OTTAWA, April 9.—The Frauds on Farmers Committee had their final meeting to-day and adopted the report to be submitted to the House. After the committee had thus closed its labors and before adjourning Col. Amyot moved, seconded by Mr. Moncrieff, that the thanks of the members of this committee be tendered to their chairman, Mr. Adam Brown, for his courteous conduct throughout the whole of the committee's investigations and that they particularly desire to record their appreciation of the services Mr. Brown had rendered to the farming community of this country by his untiring efforts to bring to light all the different classes of imposition and fraud practised by cunning agents and salesmen throughout this country.

As an outcome of an agitation which has been in progress for a long time, a deputation of members from the district served by the Rideau Canal waited upon the Government to-day to ask the deepening of the canal to seven feet throughout, and that a survey with this end in view be immediately commenced. Sir John Macdonald promised to refer this matter to the superintendent for a preliminary report.

Sir John Macdonald has given notice of a motion that Government measures shall have precedence on every Monday during the remainder of the session after questions put by members. This will leave no day at all for the private members.

Mr. Vanasse had a question on the paper as to whether the Government is aware that several officers and men of the 9th Battalion are at the present moment in the woods round Lake Megantic with their arms and other stores belonging to the battalion and whether they have received permission from the military authorities to proceed on this expedition.

Mr. Vanasse inquires also whether the Government are aware that certain cheese dealers in the United States are in the habit of marking on cheese exported by them to England via Montreal. "Canadian Product," greatly to the detriment of the real Canadian article in the English market and do the Government propose to adopt means to put an end to this fraud?

Acting in the capacity of Ottawa district representatives, Messrs. Alonzo Wright, W. G. Perley and W. C. Edwards this evening entertained at dinner in the Commons restaurant the members of the Press Gallery and those members of Parliament who are or have been connected with the newspaper business. About sixty persons enjoyed the hospitality of the King of the Gatineau and the two lumber kings associated with him.

Hon. Peter Mitchell has added one to the list of nominees for the vacant cabinet portfolio. He says the rumor has reached him in the corridors frequently in the past few days that the coming man is Alonzo Wright of the Gatineau, and Mr. Mitchell says there is apt to be a good deal of truth in the rumor. The King has never been looked upon as an aspirant for office, his inclinations being pastoral. Like Mr. Pope, he is an English-speaking representative of a Quebec constituency.

DAIRYMEN IN COUNCIL.

An Association Formed at Ottawa to Promote Dairying in Canada.

OTTAWA, April 9.—About fifty dairymen from all parts of the Dominion and many members of Parliament met in one of the Commons' committee rooms this morning for the purpose of forming a dairymen's association. Mr. W. S. Foster of Knowlton was voted to the chair, and after some discussion it was resolved that an association be formed to promote the general interests of dairying in Canada.

FOUND IN TORONTO BAY.

PARTIAL LIGHT THROWN ON A MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.

Seymour Porter Drowned but Whether by Accident or Design is not Known—Other Toronto Topics.

TORONTO, April 10.—Toronto Bay gave up another of its victims yesterday in the body of Seymour Porter who disappeared last New Year's night, but how he met his death is a mystery and will probably remain one. Deceased was head bookkeeper for the hardware firm of Rice Lewis & Son with whom he had been connected for 23 years, was widely known in business and financial circles. He was a prominent Mason, about 45 years of age and very popular among his acquaintances. The body was discovered at 6.50 yesterday morning by George Sexsmith, who was going to work on the new steam yacht being built for Mr. George Gooderham at the mouth of the Don. It was brought ashore by means of a pole and tied to the wharf until the police had been notified and came with a patrol wagon in which the corpse was removed to the Morgue. By papers found on the body it was identified as that of Mr. Porter; there were also found $1.23 in silver, an open-faced ladies' gold watch, stopped at 6.05, a bunch of keys and a knife. An inquest was held yesterday afternoon. There was no evidence of foul play and the jury returned a verdict of found drowned. The funeral takes place this afternoon with full Masonic honors. Deceased had about $6000 insurance on his life.

At least a thousand ladies belonging to all parts of the Dominion assembled in the St. James' Square Presbyterian Church yesterday morning to take part in the thirteenth annual meeting of the Presbyterian Woman's Foreign Missionary Society. After devotional services, Mrs. Kellogg gave an address of welcome to the delegates, which was suitably replied to by Mrs. Rodgers, of Deseronto. The morning was taken up with reading the reports of the various committees. The Treasurer's statement was a most satisfactory one, showing that in all about $29,000 has been collected this year. The numerical strength of the society is 14,356.

There are 200 writing in the primary and 160 in the final medical examinations here and 50 and 40 respectively at Kingston. Here there are 5 ladies writing their primary and 3 their final and the same number at Kingston. The results will be announced May 24.

Already ice dealers are charging $1 more a ton for Lake Simcoe ice and 50 cents more for Toronto ice than they asked last year and the price is likely to be away up before the season closes.

Owing to the small attendance at the annual meeting of the Fire Insurance Agents' Association of Ontario, called for yesterday, the meeting was adjourned to a date next summer to be named by the executive.

Charlie Wright, the 9-year-old son of William Wright, 95 Pearl-street, while playing on a raft at the Credit Valley Wharf yesterday morning fell into the bay and was drowned. The body was recovered at 7 o'clock last night.

The $377,587 waterworks bylaw was voted upon in the city yesterday and was carried by 527 majority. The new ward of St. Alban's was the only division that gave a majority against the bylaw, that majority being but 2. Like all other money bylaws that are presented in Toronto little interest was taken in it, only 1259 votes being cast.

W. H. Pearson, jr., superintendent of the Consumers' Gas Company, was united in marriage at St. Philip's Church last night with Annie, the eldest daughter of Mr. James Smith of Chestnut Lodge. Rev. Dr. J. F. Sweeney officiated.

MAINVILLE IS SORE.

The Montreal Malefactor Suffers From His Flogging.

MONTREAL, April 9.—Andre Mainville is in the jail hospital, his back being very much swollen from his flogging of yesterday. "He will be all right in a couple of days," said Deputy Sheriff Dubreuil. "He is such a strong fellow."

Mr. Deloge, a hotelkeeper at Verdun, is a victim of a confidence game to the extent of $25.

Joseph Wright, an English workman 57 years old, living at 36 Robillard-street, was going home alongside the Canadian Pacific track and crossed the metals just as a train came along and was felled by the engine. The train was stopped and medical aid got without delay, when it was found that the unfortunate man's right leg had been severed from the body and his lower jaw broken. The doctors report him sinking gradually this afternoon.

Found Dead.

WINDSOR, April 10.—P. Johnson, a colored man about 60 years old whose family reside in Windsor, was found dead in a shanty in Sandwich East, about six miles back of Windsor. The decomposed state of the remains showed death had taken place several days ago. The body was brought to Windsor and an inquest will be held.

Held up by Footpads.

SAULT STE MARIE, April 9.—Wm. Kentella, a capitalist who is buying real estate at the Canada Soo, was held up by a gang of footpads last night composed of H. O'Neil, J. Neville, J. Doyle and W. Driscoll, all from Ottawa, and W. McKenna of the Canada Soo. They brutally assaulted him with clubs and revolvers and after relieving him of $600 and a gold watch left him for dead. All the gang have been arrested.

Navigation Open at Goderich.

GODERICH, April 10.—Navigation opened here yesterday. The tug W. H. Seibold left for Georgian Bay with three fish boats in tow. The tug Arcadia cleared last night with more fish boats for the north. Vesselmen are busy repairing and getting things in order for the season's work. A schooner passed up to-day, name unknown. The weather is fine and springlike and there is little ice in the lake.

The Situation in Panama.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Mr. Adamson, United States Consul-General at Panama, reports that the troubles feared on account of stoppage of work on the canal have not occurred. He states that great railroads are to be built in Chili and that American capitalists are projecting extensive railroad enterprises in Jamaica. He says the Panama Canal Company are ordering work to be done at several points, probably for the purpose of preventing questions arising from total abandonment of the project.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 9.—The Saxton Ballot Reform Bill passed the Assembly, 74 to 44.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 9.—Francis E. Warren was inaugurated Governor of Wyoming to-day with military and civic honors. The Governor's address took strong grounds for early admission of Wyoming into the Union. His speech was enthusiastically received.

FIRES OF A DAY.

Two Losses at Brantford, One Supposed to be Incendiary.

BRANTFORD, April 9.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon a fire broke out in a stable in Darling-street owned by Mrs. Ott and rented by A. G. Malcolm. The stable was close to other buildings, but firemen prevented the fire from spreading. There were two cows burnt. The fire is supposed to have originated from a spark from a blacksmith shop which was close adjoining.

At 9.15 p.m. an unoccupied house in Chatham-street, owned by Mr. Hunt, was destroyed by fire. The fire is said to be incendiary.

A Farmer's Loss.

RIPLEY, April 9.—John Jones, lot 8, concession 10, Huron, had his two barns burned last night, together with a quantity of hay, three head of cattle, five pigs and a lot of farm machinery, &c. Total loss $2500, insured in the London Mutual and Western Insurance Companies for $900 on building and $1100 on contents. The fire originated through the handle of a lantern becoming detached, allowing the lantern to drop, after which it exploded.

Incendiary Fire at Collingwood.

COLLINGWOOD, April 9.—The old Catholic church situated at the west end of the town was totally destroyed by fire at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The building had not been occupied for some months, and the fact that the fire started in the roof is taken as proof of incendiarism. Fully insured.

Firebugs at Woodstock.

WOODSTOCK, April 9.—The other evening an audacious attempt was made to fire the Elgin House. Some inflammable material saturated with coal oil was placed in the sitting-room and fired. It was discovered before any harm was done. This is the third attempt to fire the Elgin House in the past two months.

A $500,000 Fire at Boston.

A committee was appointed to bring in at an early sederunt a report on the Jesuits' Estates Act. A communication was read from the principal of the Ontario Institute for the Blind extending a hearty invitation to the Synod to visit the Institute.

The remainder of the time was taken with a discussion of the difficulties anent the retiring allowance to Rev. Thos. McPherson from Knox Church, Stratford. Yesterday afternoon the reports on temperance and separate schools were presented and considered. A deputation of ministers from the Methodist Church were also received.

The Trains Met on a Curve.

LOS ANGELES, April 10.—The west bound overland passenger train on the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad collided Sunday with the east bound train near Peach Springs, Arizona. The trains met on a sharp curve on a high embankment. The engines were demolished and thrown down a bank into a stream with three or four cars. One engineer jumped on the wrong side and fell down a rocky steep 80 feet. He was fearfully injured. The rest of the train men and the passengers were badly shaken up. A laborer stealing a ride was crushed to death.

An Editor Banqueted.

COLBORNE, April 9.—Mr. T. J. Jewell, editor of the Northumberland Enterprise, who is about leaving for the editorial chair of The Stayner Sun, was entertained last evening to a supper at the Brunswick House. A large number of the leading men of the town and surrounding country were present. Reeve W. D. Payne was chairman and there were also present Dr. Willoughby, M.L.A., Dr. Mallory, ex-M.L.A., Rev. Mr. Dowling, Dr. H. H. Hawley, F. M. Field, M. H. Peterson, G. A. Fowler and D. L. Simmons. Speeches were made by the chairman, Dr. Willoughby, Dr. Mallory, Rev. Mr. Dowling and others. SAN FRANCISCO, April 9.—Prof. Holden of the Lick Observatory telegraphs as follows: "An approximate orbit of the comet discovered here March 31 by Mr. Barnard has been computed by Prof. Schubert. It is probable that the comet will become seven or eight thousands times as bright as at present with a distance from the sun of about 4,000,000 miles. On May 26 next it should be carefully observed.

Killed by Gas.

PORT HURON, Mich., April 9.—This morning at 10 o'clock James Clammo and Stephen Porter met their death in a horrible manner. Clammo is a ship-caulker and was sent to caulk one of the large vats of the Universe Bath Co. A few minutes after he had entered the vat Porter, not hearing him at work, went in to investigate and found him asphyxiated with gas, and in attempting to rescue him was also overcome. A few minutes later Dr. Stephenson, the proprietor, thinking something wrong, also ascended a ladder to the top of the vat and seeing both men lying insensible at the bottom was about to enter, was instantly overcome by the gas, but fortunately fell outwards and escaped with but a few slight bruises. The engineer, attracted by the noise, procured assistance. A hole was cut in the tank near the bottom and the men were taken out, but both died shortly after. They were married and leave families.

Tortured and Robbed by Desperadoes.

BUTLER, Pa., April 9.—Lewis Patterson, a wealthy farmer living near Centreville, was robbed last night by three masked men. There was nobody in the house with him but his mother, aged 80. The men burst in the door. Patterson felled one with a poker. The others overpowered him, however, and dragging him barefooted to the barn threatened to hang him if he refused to tell where he kept his gold. They placed the rope around his neck, but as he persisted in saying he had no money they took him back to the house and burned his feet and face at the fire. They then searched the house, and after securing $43 and Patterson's gold watch departed, declaring that if he moved before half an hour he would be shot. There is no clue to the desperadoes.

The Virginia Storm.

NORFOLK, Va., April 9.—Reports from Norfolk, Princess Anne and Nansemond counties show serious damage was sustained there from the storm and tides Saturday night and Sunday. In many localities cattle and other property were destroyed by the extraordinary high tide. The potato crop will be greatly damaged by water, which will rot the seed in the ground.

Sheehy's Luck.

LIMERICK, April 9.—In the case of John Finucane, M.P., who appealed from his sentence of four months' imprisonment for offences under the Crimes Act, the court to-day confirmed the sentence. In the appeal of David Sheehy, M.P., who was convicted and sentenced to 10 months' imprisonment, the court reduced the sentence to five months.

WHO WILL SUCCEED HIM.

MR. W. H. SMITH TO BE ELEVATED TO THE PEERAGE.

The Scottish Home Rule Resolution Defeated—Riotous Scenes in the French Chamber of Deputies.

LONDON, April 9.—The St. James Gazette announces that William Henry Smith, First Lord of the Treasury, is about to be raised to the peerage and that he will accordingly resign the Government leadership in the House of Commons and take his seat in the House of Lords. The Gazette insists that of the possible candidates for the leadership in succession to Mr. Smith, namely, Lord Randolph Churchill, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Mr. Goschen and Mr. Balfour, the last named is the best choice, and it declares that the Conservatives will not tolerate any leader other than Mr. Balfour.

The Scottish Home Rule Resolution.

LONDON, April 9.—The House of Commons this evening by a vote of 200 to 79 rejected Mr. Clark's Scottish Home Rule motion. Mr. Gladstone opposed the motion.

Sir Charles Russell's Defence.

LONDON, April 9.—When the Parnell Commission reconvened this morning Sir Charles Russell resumed his long argument in behalf of the Parnellites. The eloquent orator continued his review of the testimony given by the witnesses for The Times and was followed throughout with the closest attention by court and spectators.

Dion Must Pay the Alimony.

LONDON, April 9.—Agnes Boucicault, divorced wife of Dion Boucicault, applied to the Divorce Court to-day for an order to enforce payment of the alimony of £400 a year awarded her in 1889. She asked that payment be made from the proceeds of her former husband's British copyrights.

Mr. Boucicault, in answer, averred that all proceeds from these copyrights were assigned in 1888 to a Mr. Cadogan of New York for the benefit of Boucicault's present wife. The presiding judge expressed doubt as to Cadogan's existence, and said that in any case the assignment was fraudulent and void. He ordered that all such copyright moneys in possession of the court be paid to the plaintiff.

Failure of the Indian Pearl Fisheries.

LONDON, April 9.—A despatch from Western India announces the failure of the pearl fisheries owing to the prevalence of cholera. The failure involves a loss to the Government of 4 lacs of rupees. The premium on gold in the Argentine Republic has reached 64 per cent.

Disorderly Scenes in the French Chamber.

PARIS, April 9.—The Chamber of Deputies to-day discussed the bill prescribing the mode of procedure to be followed by the Senate when sitting as a court for the trial of Boulanger. De la Fosse denounced the measure as a mockery of justice and an insult to the public conscience. He declared that the Senate being a political body could not act impartially. This caused a great uproar, members exchanged abusive epithets and the scene was one of wild disorder. De la Fosse continuing said that law and decency required that Boulanger be tried at the assizes. These remarks caused a renewal of the uproar. The members of the Left did not reply but moved to apply closure. The motion was carried, 253 to 242. A motion to begin discussion of the bill by clauses was carried, 321 to 222.

The Chamber rejected all amendments suggested by members of the Right. A proposal by M. Ribots, that a majority of seven-twelfths of the Senate be necessary to make valid any sentence pronounced upon Boulanger, was also rejected. The bill was adopted by a vote of 318 to 265.

The General Must Not Agitate.

BRUSSELS, April 9.—The Government has warned Boulanger to abstain from political agitation in Belgium. If he complies he will not be expelled.

THE MALONEY CASE.

A Rumor That the Prosecution Will Move to Exclude the Press.

MONTREAL, April 9.—In the Maloney case to-day H. C. St. Pierre objected to sundry letters from Von Reinholtz to his employers, Ellis & Co. of Toronto, being produced. This objection after argument was upheld by Judge Desnoyers, who refused to admit them as evidence.

It is reported that the prosecution will move to exclude the press on the ground that the proceedings are of a private nature.

LAW ADMINISTRATION.

Since the defeat of the Scott Act in so many counties there has been considerable discussion as to the cause of the revulsion in public opinion since three years ago. Different causes are said to have brought about the result, and different influences have no doubt had an effect, but the chief reason undoubtedly was that the Mowat Government, which undertook its enforcement and appointed officers for that purpose, used the Act as a political engine. Seeing that the object for which the Act was designed and adopted had not been attained numbers of voters who had supported it either voted for repeal or refrained from voting. It has been argued that the Act could not be enforced, but at any rate an honest effort to do so was not made by the Government, and that it was utilized for political purposes was practically admitted by the chief officer of the Scott Act bureau who, in answer to a letter from Dr. McCully, wrote:—

PROVINCIAL SECRETARY'S DEPARTMENT, LICENSE BRANCH.
Canada Temperance Act Division,
(Unofficial.)

TORONTO, Feb. 14, 1889.

DEAR SIR,—I am in receipt of your favor of the 16th inst., and in reply thereto, without intention to enter into a controversy upon the points of your letter, I beg to call your attention to the fact that the Ontario Government is the only Provincial Government that has made any efforts to enforce the Scott Act, and that I am not concerned to defend their bona fides in the matter—and as the matter has been mooted by you, I would simply say that a gentleman of considerable influence and position called on me the other day to say that a more rigid enforcement of the Scott Act would be highly injurious to the Mowat Government, and thus we have again the difficulty of pleasing both parties.

I have the honor to be, sir,
Your obedient servant,
J. W. MANNING,
Chief Officer.

That the Scott Act is not the only liquor law that is thus made use of by the Mowat Government to sustain itself in power was shown by the sworn evidence quoted by Mr. Meredith in the Legislature. The Crooks Act is used in the same way, and license holders are influenced by those who hold the licensing power to vote for candidates of the Mowat Government. The remedy is to take the administration of such laws out of partisan hands and to place it in the hands of a more independent body. To do so might be "highly injurious to the Mowat Government," but it would be beneficial for the country. It would remove the administration of the law from the political influence that hampers it and free those who are engaged in the trade from the pressure put upon them in the exercise of the franchise.

TWO-ROWED BARLEY.

We learn from a late letter of Professor Saunders, of the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, says the Empire, that the results of his last season's experiments with different varieties of two-rowed and Chevalier barley in many parts of the province were generally unfavorable. Last year the weather just before harvest was too hot and dry for producing heavy plump grain, and this is the only kind which will realise a good price in English markets. Except as to deficiency in size and weight of berry, the experiments were otherwise satisfactory.

Professor Saunders has ordered, and expects to receive soon, a few bushels of the very best Saale barley which he can get. This is the description of German barley which commands fancy prices in English markets, and is of the Chevalier variety, standard weight, 56 lbs. per bushel. Mr. Saunders is now actively engaged in distributing sample bags, 3 lbs. each, of the varieties he has now on hand to several hundred different points in the Dominion, from Prince Edward Island to British Columbia. The Saale barley will also be distributed when received.

Much credit is due to Professor Saunders for his active exertions in this important matter. It will be owing to the work of the Experimental Farm at Ottawa that Canada will be put in possession of such information as will enable our farmers to judge whether the cultivation of two-rowed barley is likely to prove remunerative or not.

We do not attach any importance whatever to the unfavorable report which Hon. Mr. Drury has received concerning the sample of two rowed barley which he sent to Liverpool in February. The quality of the sample sent was very poor, the weight per bushel, 51 lbs., or 5 lbs. under the standard.

With California shipping nearly all its Chevalier barley to England and realizing much better prices than in the Eastern markets of the United States; with fine Danish barley now selling in London as high as 38s. per English quarter; and Saale barley bringing 46s. to 56s. there is every inducement for Professor Saunders to continue his experiments on the most extensive scale.

The Talk of the Town

The people are wondering why Elliott & Tierney are giving 18 lbs. bright sugar for $1, and selling teas and other goods so much cheaper than any house in Peterborough. Call at the Palace Grocery and examine the goods, which will convince you. The "Palace" is the place to get best values. Great stock-taking sale now going on.

Presented with the Prize.

Major McLean, as winner of the second prize in the officer's competition of the Dominion Artillery Association, has been presented with a very handsome, gold-mounted riding-whip, says the Port Hope Times. The gold-mounted consists of a ferrule about the centre of the whip, and a heavy knob on the handle, upon which are engraved the words: "Dominion Artillery Association, 2nd Prize, Officers' Competition, 1888, won by Major McLean, Durham Field Battery."

The Cause of the Scott Act Defeat.

There are various opinions as to the defeat of the Scott Act, some giving this reason, others that, but one of the principal points is, there has been such a sensation caused over the whole county that all plans have been frustrated. Instead of voters going to the polls to record their votes, they rushed to secure the tremendous bargains w. j. morrow has been offering in groceries, knowing well that they can buy goods cheaper from him than any other house in the line.

Touching Teas.

Twenty-five years ago people paid $1 per pound for a good tea. The tea was not actually worth it, but the cost of carriage, handling and selling fixed the price. Now see the change 25 years has wrought. Hawley Bros. will sell you as good a tea as formerly cost $1 per pound for 40c., single pounds. Take 5 lbs. and you get it for 30c. per lb. Take 10 lbs. and pay 27½c. per lb. Hawley Bros., No. 370 George-st., divide profits with customers and give satisfaction every time. Their specialty is tea, clearly tea, absolutely tea, positively tea and particularly tea. d&w

A Popular Man's Obituary.

The Winnipeg Siftings thus speaks of an old Peterborough boy, Thomas Brown, who left here in 1856 when about 17 years of age, and who died in Winnipeg last week:—"On Monday morning our citizens were pained to learn of the untimely taking away of one of the best known and most popular men in the community, Mr. Thomas Brown. Deceased caught cold during the late bonspeil and the illness, slight at first, developed into pneumonia which carried him off on Sunday forenoon, death occurring while he slept. Mr. Brown came to Winnipeg when it was still a mere village and showed his foresight and faith in the future by investing his all in the site and building so widely known as Winnipeg's first hotel, the Queen's. Associated with Mr. O'Connor they passed through some trying times in the early days, but Mr. Brown's unbounded confidence in the town had its reward in their ultimate success. It is a matter of deep regret that he was not spared to enjoy the fruits of his years of energetic work; his worthy partner, Mr. O'Connor, will feel his loss most keenly deprived of his invaluable assistance in the administration of the business. Mr. Brown was a general favorite, his genial manner and generous, off handed ways making his guests feel at home from the moment they entered the house. From Halifax to Vancouver the news that 'Tom Brown of the Queen's is dead' will be heard with heartfelt regret by the travelling public."

TRIED, BUT NOT CONVICTED.

An Unnatural Foster Father Before the Police Magistrate.

Geo. Herrington, a watchmaker who has been doing business in Peterborough for several years, and who at present occupies the shop at the corner of Hunter and Chambers-sts., was arrested late last night on a charge of having seduced Edith Craig, his fourteen-year-old adopted daughter. The case was one which accidentally came under the notice of Chief Roszel yesterday afternoon, and upon making inquiries that officer thought he had good reason to believe that the vile suspicions which were being circulated about Herrington were well founded, and therefore he swore out a warrant, and just before 12 o'clock last night went to Herrington's on Stewart-st. and arrested him and also brought the little girl to the cells.

AT THE POLICE COURT.

This morning the case came up at the Police Court and was tried with closed doors, no one except those interested and the reporters being allowed within. The man who sat on the prisoner's bench charged with such a serious crime, is well known around town, and does not possess a countenance which is any too attractive or signifies that its possessor is a man of extraordinary intelligence. The man's wife was seated by his side, while their adopted daughter occupied a seat near the Magistrate. The little girl is well developed for her years and has rather pretty features. She told her story with the innocence of a child, and one could hardly credit the facts that came out during the case. The prisoner elected to be tried summarily by the Magistrate.

THE LITTLE GIRL'S STORY.

It appears that the little girl's mother was married some two years ago to a man by the name of Alexander Sharpe, who lived in Burleigh, and that after this marriage she acquiesced to a request of Mrs. Herrington to allow the latter to adopt Edith. Accordingly about 2 years ago last November Edith was brought here and was received by Mr. and Mrs. Herrington as an adopted daughter and has since gone by the name of Edith Herrington. In September last, when the crime is said to have been committed, Herringtons were living on Stewart-st., and occupied the little brick shop on Brock-st., just east of the Little Windsor hotel. At this time Mrs. Herrington was engaged as nurse with a lady in town and was absent from home night and day. During her mother's absence Edith slept at the house alone while her father remained at the shop all night, there being a bed in the back part of the store. The little girl prepared all the meals for Herrington after school hours and nothing appeared to have gone wrong for a couple of weeks and then, as they both complained of feeling very lonely, Mrs. Herrington told Edith that she could go and stay at the shop at night and so be company for Herrington. The night after she was told this Edith went to the shop and prepared her school lessons for the next day and occupied the same bed with her unprincipled foster parent and it was on these occasions that he took advantage of the innocent child and committed the offences which led to his arrest. He warned the little girl never to tell any person of what occurred and she has kept a silent tongue from that night until to-day in the court room. A few of the friends of the Herrington's heard about the girl remaining with Herrington at the store and became suspicious, for as one of the witnesses said this morning "knowing Herrington as I do I would not allow any of my daughters to go with him."

The girl admitted, however, that one other young man, Jim Payton, a brother of her foster mother, who boarded at Herrington's, had prior to September last had similar relations with her. This, of course, quashed the case as far as seduction could be carried, as it destroyed the girl's previous chaste character. The little girl said her father knew of her relations with Payton and she had been punished for them.

THE PRISONER DISCHARGED.

The Magistrate in discharging the prisoner told him that as the charge had been laid for seduction he would escape the law, but would never escape the punishment of his own conscience for the terrible wrong which he had done the little girl—one of the vilest crimes committed on a poor, little foolish girl who had not yet matured into womanhood. He told the prisoner that if the charge of rape was laid against him he believed with the evidence that had been produced that a strong case would be made out against him, but as it was he would have to discharge him, but would take good care that the little girl did not go back under his care again.

Mr. R. E. Wood appeared for the prosecution and Mr. E. H. D. Hall was present for the prisoner.

There was an affecting scene at the close of the trial in the court room when the question of who the girl should go with was being discussed. She did not want to go to her mother's and her foster mother was anxious she should not leave her. Mrs. Herrington told the Magistrate of her efforts to guard the girl's virtue and throwing her arms around the child's neck she said, "Mr. Dumble, I love this girl like my own child," and then they both burst into tears. They afterwards left the court room together.

The Dog Case Settled.

The dog case which came up before the Magistrate yesterday afternoon was settled out of court. The woman who bought the dog from Enos Dunford took the five dollars Mrs. Dunford offered and gave up her claim on the animal.

An Assault Case.

Charles LeGros was charged at the Police Court this morning with having committed an aggravated assault upon George Prinova on Monday night last. The case was enlarged until Monday as Prinova was unable to appear. Mr. A. P. Poussette appeared for the defendant.

The Local Irish League.

The local branch of the Irish National League met last evening in the Murray st. school. President Thos. Cahill occupied the chair. A circular letter was received by the President from Mr. M. Walsh, of Ottawa, asking the society's opinion regarding the treatment of political prisoners in Ireland, to forward to the Dublin Freeman's Journal, which is publishing a series of articles on the question. A committee was appointed to draft a resolution to be presented to Mr. Walsh condemning the present manner of treatment of political prisoners. It was also decided to forward another hundred dollars to the Parnell defence fund. This will probably be the last meeting of the League for some time.

St. John's Church Notes.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Young Men's Guild of St. John's church last evening. The Rev. J. C. Davidson presided. On motion of Mr. J. H. Burnham it was resolved that the meetings of the Guild be held on the first Tuesday of each month. A suggestion made by Mr. W. H. Budden, that addresses on matters connected with religion be delivered before the Guild from time to time, was adopted. A large number of reports made by individual members showed that the young men were entering heartily into the work and that special efforts were being made to increase the church membership among young men. Mr. J. H. Long reported on behalf of the Visiting Committee. The committee had divided the town into sections, one member taking charge of a section for systematic visiting. Members of the Guild had also been detailed to visit the hotels every Saturday evening to invite strangers to attend the Sunday services, and this work had been begun the previous Saturday. Under the head of auxiliary work Mr. H. Long suggested that members of the Guild assist in the floral decoration of the church for Easter and several volunteered to do so. The meeting passed off very pleasantly and considerable enthusiasm was manifested.

A large number of the ladies of St. John's church met yesterday afternoon and made full arrangements for a congregational reception to take place on Thursday, May 2nd. While all members will be asked to participate, the reception has for its special object the entertaining of the young men of the congregation.

The handsome new pulpit for St. John's, made from a design by Mr. J. E. Belcher, C. E., is nearly completed.

Canon DuMoulin, of St. James Cathedral, Toronto, will deliver a lecture after the evening service this evening. His subject will be, "The Church Service Outlined." Many will no doubt be glad of this opportunity to hear a lecture by a man of Canon DuMoulin's high reputation and popularity.

ON THE WAY TO GLORY.

REV. MR. CROSSLEY TAKES HIS AUDIENCE FROM GUILT TO GLORY.

The Christians' Path and Their Hope Hereafter—Wrong Ideas of Death—Rev. Mr. Hunter and the Women who go After Style—Advice to Wives—Only two More Nights.

Tuesday and Thursday evenings, those on which Rev. Mr. Crossley gives his song sermons, have always attracted unusual crowds to the services and last night the George-st. church was crowded to its fullest. Rev. Mr. Hunter was once more on the platform after having been absent from three meetings and after the usual opening with songs and hymns he read the evening lesson from the fourteenth chapter of Luke, beginning at the sixteenth verse—the parable of the great supper. Dwelling on the seventeenth verse the evangelist said that running all through the Bible from Genesis to Revelations was to be found that word "c-o-m-e," inviting them all to see the Lord and partake of his goodness. Then he passed on to the next verse where it says "And they with one consent began to make excuses." This was exactly the case with many of them, they were ALWAYS READY WITH AN EXCUSE.

They had not, he said, any excuse for not receiving God, but they made them. They could make more excuses why they were neglecting the call of the Lord, but they could bundle them all together and mark on them "lies" and throw them right down to hell where they belonged. Then he dwelt on the several excuses given by those who were invited to the great feast and when he came to the last "I have married a wife and therefore I cannot come," he said there was a difference between the excuses. The first two asked to be excused but the man who had married a wife said "I cannot come." The evangelist said God help the man who had this kind of a wife. Women should never stand in the way of their husbands, yet some of them did. Some of them would run off to another church just for style. He knew a woman not twenty miles from Peterborough who left her church for style and went to another where she could dance, play cards, drink a little wine, paint, powder and puff—just for style—and he had gone into her home not long ago and found an unhappy scene—the poor mother with her drunken sot of a son by her side, and as she looked up she said, "I made a mistake, I made a mistake." That woman, he said, ran away for style and found the consequences, and he prayed God to help any such women who would make a change just for style. He told the wives they should help their husbands in every way and never stand in their way. There were some men who said, "I don't believe the Bible, its like a pack of riddles to me." Well, there were things in the Bible he did not understand, but he looked to God and in faith said he would trust Him until they were made plain. If he was eating a plate of fish he would lay the bones aside and eat only the meat, and so with the truths of the Bible, if he came to things he could not understand he would lay them aside until he received some light, and he could always find enough meat in the Word to supply him. He offered any man five or ten dollars who would read one chapter of John's gospel every day for twenty-one days and begin with the prayer, "Oh, God, show me myself," and when half through pray "Oh, Lord, show me Thyself" and not be converted at the end of the twenty-one days.

"My Ain Countrie" was Rev. Mr. Crossley's first solo, after which a number of requests for prayer were read.

ON THE WAY TO GLORY.

Rev. Mr. CROSSLEY said the subject of his song sermon would be "From Guilt to Glory," and he chose for his text the words:

"And the ransomed of the Lord shall return and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads: they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away."—Isaiah xxxv.; 10.

In opening the rev. gentleman spoke of Christian influence and said that outside of Christian influence there was no such thing as music. Some with an uncultured ear might think there was melody, but none of them would go so far as to say there was such a thing as musical harmony. Then he passed on to his subject "From Guilt to Glory." He said there were two kinds of persons—those who were in guilt and those who were justified. The latter class were those boys and girls whose hearts naturally went out to God and who had never wilfully departed from God and those who had wilfully gone from God but who had been justified. The other class were those who had departed wilfully from God or those church members who felt within themselves that there was still lurkings of sin in their hearts. He first spoke to all those who were in fault and wished to show them how they might be saved. They were told in Isaiah xlv; 22—"Look unto Me and be ye saved." He said they had been looking to this source and to the other instead of looking to Jesus Christ. Satan did not care where they looked as long as they did not obey the injunction "Look unto Me." Looking, he told them, meant thinking, and if they would only turn their thoughts to Him all would be well. The evangelist then sang the hymn "Look and Live." Then he took a step further and spoke to those who had obeyed the injunction. He said they might say their prayers and yet not pray—for it was one thing to pray and another to simply say prayers. On the way to glory he wanted them to think not of working for God as a servant, but with God as a child, as they were told in I Corinthians iii and 9. If they would always think of being co-laborers with God and as the Lord impressed them and filled their hearts with love allow nature to take her course and they would accomplish more for God. He also impressed upon them the importance of laboring for the classes as well as the masses, for each individual would have some influence in his own particular and more intimate circle than among strangers. Then Mr. Crossley sang the beautiful hymn "This year for Jesus." Then he dwelt on the privilege that Christians enjoyed on the way to glory of having as they were told in Hebrews iv. 19—"Which hope we have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and steadfast, and which entereth into that within the veil." After impressing upon Christians the undoubted surety that they possessed of a glorious hereafter and urging the unsaved to come and receive this hope, he sang the hymn "Until I awake in Thy Likeness." Then lastly he spoke of something which troubled many on their way to glory—the transition from earth to heaven. He gave them the words of the 37th Psalm and 37th verse—"Mark the perfect man and behold the upright, for the end of that man is peace." The Christian died well in every land and of no other class could it be said "the end is peace." He referred to the ideas that people had of death, from the types that had been used to represent it—"the dark valley" and "the passage of the Jordan." Some of them had thoughts of a dark, black tunnel and of wading through the stream, but he wished to dispel all such thoughts. People also talked of the pain of death, but he said there was no more pain in dying than there was in going to sleep. The Bible spoke of it as going to our Father's and passing from earth to heaven. Some of them feared lest they would not have sufficient faith to carry them through death, but he wanted them on the way to glory not to be looking for grace to die by but grace to live by. Then the evangelist dwelt in beautiful language on the royal welcome they would receive in glory—"For so an entrance shall be ministered unto you abundantly into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ."—II Peter i, 11. The Saviour would welcome them, the angels would welcome them, the loved ones gone before and those with whom they had associated, and those whom they had been instrumental in saving would all welcome them to the golden city, and in closing he urged all who had loved ones gone before to say "By the grace of God that royal welcome will be mine."

After a short prayer by Rev. Mr. Hunter the audience joined in singing the hymn "I have a Father in the promised Land," and then Rev. Mr. Hunter earnestly exhorted the unsaved to make a start for the Kingdom, and many rose asking for the prayers of Christians.

NOTES.

Only two more evening services.

The evangelists went to Port Hope this morning where they were to hold a meeting at ten o'clock.

The meeting in the Baptist church yesterday afternoon was largely attended. Another will be held to-morrow afternoon in the same place.

Rev. Mr. Hunter said some were thinking that they did not intend to close on Thursday night, but he said that to-morrow night would surely be their last service in Peterborough.

A Step Backward.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—The citizens of Peterborough have a right to be thankful to our Councillors who devote their time and talents in managing our civic affairs. Upon the whole, Peterborough, during the past, has been well handled. Very few mistakes have been made and any that have been made were of minor importance and compared with other municipalities, we have to congratulate ourselves on our very favorable and gratifying position at the present time. Our citizens are remarkably enterprising and they are noted for their public spirit. Owners of properties, especially on George-st., have vied with each other in erecting handsome buildings and beautiful shops; and our churches, public buildings and private residences are in good taste and creditable. But, sir, I fear we are now going to make a new departure and take a STEP BACKWARD. I have noticed with very much regret that it is contemplated, or under consideration, to erect a long, two story building on the south east corner of the market square, for a market house. Strangers coming into town from the railway stations would be struck with this unsightly building which would be in such striking contrast with Cavanagh's fine hotel, and the general appearance of the town.

Then, it is proposed, I understand, to make the lower flat a kind of arcade to be lined with butchers stalls and small shops. Not more than two butchers stalls would be required, and no one with common sense would think of opening a small shop in that out of the way and isolated place.

Then the market square is already too small to accommodate the crowds that meet there on Saturdays from the surrounding country to dispose of their products. I, and many other ratepayers think that it should be a great mistake to spend $6,000.00 in erecting the proposed building, which, besides being an eye-sore, must, I think, be money and valuable ground wasted.

If the Town Council would allow me, I would respectfully suggest that it would be better to extend the present market building north on the vacant ground that could be occupied without injury to any one. This could be done at comparatively small cost and would meet the necessities of the case, until the Council felt like building a market house that would be in keeping with this progressive and prosperous town.

Yours truly,
E. GREEN.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

THE ANIMAL KINGDOM.

John Dennett, of Santa Cruz, Cal., recently found a two headed snake, about a foot long. The heads were distinctly separate and both were perfect. The heads were a little over an inch in length. When aroused the snake would throw a forked tongue out of each head simultaneously, as if they were one.

CHINA HALL

CHINA
AND QUEENS WA

Immense sums have been paid for rare specimens of antique China. Think of $5,000 being given for a china plate cracked at that. Consider $30,000 as the market value of a set of 120 pieces of seivres china. Hold in one hand a cup and saucer and in the other hand the $2,000 that the cup and saucer brought at a Parisian auction. Truly, the craze of collectors for rare specimens of Palissy ware, has given fictitious values to many an unpretentious plate and cup. When money is tight it is a comfort to think of $2,000 being paid for a hawthorn jug that would barely hold a quart of milk. These are prices that astonish, but the serious side of the question is that at China Hall you can secure full sets of China that will grace any tea table for so little money that anyone can afford the outlay. Not only China, but good substantial dinner sets fit to set out the table of an M. P. or Mayor. Come to CHINA HALL and see what money will do. You'll not have to spend the value of six first-class farms for a China Tea Set.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 10, 1889.

BEAUTIFUL JIM.

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER

"I believe," she said, slowly, "that you know who committed that murder."

Beautiful Jim returned her searching gaze with one as steady and as true, but he kept silent.

Apparently Nancy took it as an answer, for she made no attempt to press the question—for a question it was, though not put in the form of one—further; instead, she put another, and one much more difficult for Jim to answer.

"Does Stuart know also?"

The words rang out clear and sharp, as such words might fall from the lips of an accusing angel.

Jim said nothing, and she repeated the question imperiously. Then he spoke.

"Nancy, my dear, if you love me and trust me, ask me no more about this miserable affair," he said imploringly. "If I keep silence when I know, will not you, who trusted me when appearances were dead against me, trust me still?"

"It is not that I do not trust you implicitly, utterly, absolutely," she said, gently; "but if you know anything and are shielding a guilty person, let me beg of you, for your own sake, for mine, to hide nothing. Jim, my dear, do you realise that you are not safe yourself so long as this crime remains unpunished? At any moment matters might take a fresh turn against you and you might be—hanged."

"No; I could always speak."

"And you would?" eagerly.

"In that case—yes."

"Then let me beg and pray of you to speak now," she cried, earnestly. "Jim, believe me, it can do no good to shield the guilty. It is kind of you—but in such a case silence, even from the kindest motives, becomes a crime. Jim, dear, it is the first thing I have asked of you."

The sadness in Beautiful Jim's honest eyes turned to distress.

"My dear," he said, "you don't know how hard it is for me to refuse you anything. If I had done it myself I would go and give myself up at once; but as it is, if I speak the blow will fall the heaviest upon those who are perfectly innocent, who do not even guess that such a shadow has or ever could come near them."

"They would probably be the first to say, 'Let justice be done!'" she cried.

Jim looked at her keenly. He saw that she had no suspicion of the truth; that it never entered her mind that it might be over her that this black and shameful shadow hung! He knew that she had been from her cradle taught to look upon honor as before all; that the traditions of her house contained many and many an example of fair and gracious women who had bidden the men they loved go forth to battle, and, cost them what it might, had never flinched in the hour of parting; who, even though the one life dearest of all on the earth to them had been laid down, had yet, heart broken as they were, gloried in their own fortitude. He saw that she was of the same race, this girl he loved so dearly.

"Supposing that such a test came to yourself?" he asked.

"If it was my own brother I would deliver him up to justice!" she cried proudly.

"And your father?"

"My father! Ah! I might hesitate for him," she admitted, "though, mind, he would not hesitate himself."

"That decides me," said Jim, heaving a great sigh of relief. "This man has a—a parent too, who is old and without reproach. That is why I have stained myself with a crime, Nancy; for a crime it is, though I hope it will not go hard with me hereafter, being committed through mercy."

The girl was conquered.

"Jim, you have a better heart than I. You are more merciful by far. I will take back my request, but only on one condition."

"Which is?" he asked.

"That if personal danger from this silence should ever threaten you, you will speak out."

"I promise you that."

"And you are sure it is safe?"—anxiously.

"From the worst—yes! I shall be severely blamed, and probably severely punished, if it ever comes to light that I have hidden my knowledge, when my allegiance to the queen commands me to speak; but there will always be sympathy for me, I think."

"And you actually have the proofs? There is no mistake about that?" she persisted.

"I hold the proof myself," he answered; "and shall do so as long as I live, or until the truth comes to light."

She professed herself satisfied—gently said that she would have been better pleased if no such mystery had been hanging over him; nor could he in any way blame her for that.

"You will see my father when he comes in?" she asked. "He is at his club now, but he will be in to lunch."

"Oh! yes. I would like to see him and get it all settled as quickly as possible," Jim answered, with alacrity. Poor fellow, the prospect of seeing her father was a much more congenial topic of conversation than the details of poor Owen's cruel murder and the likelihood of his bringing the murderer—young Tommy, be it remembered—to justice.

"I don't think he can object to me," he said, cheerfully. "My family and income are all right, and my colonel will give me a good character if he needs it. I'm glad, my darling, and more than ever now, that I always went in for a good character. It's a tie sometimes, when you can't do things that you see other fellows doing, and be apparently none the worse for; but going straight pays in the long run. Nothing like it. Not, all the same, that I ever calculated on any end at all. I don't want to blow my own trumpet in the least, but I've gone straight simply because I hate everything that's crooked."

"And I love you," said Nancy Earle, softly.

DEATH OF M. CHEVREUL.

PARIS, April 9.—Michel Eugene Chevreul, the distinguished chemist, is dead in his 103rd year.

[Michel Eugene Chevreul was born at Angers, Aug. 31, 1786. After completing his studies in the central school of Angers he studied chemistry under Vauquelin in Paris and subsequently took charge of the latter's laboratory. In 1810 he became preparator of the chemical course in the natural history museum, and in 1813 professor in the Lycee Charlemagne. In 1824 he was appointed director of the dye works and professor of special chemistry at the Gobelins, where he distinguished himself by important researches on colors. In 1823 he received a prize of 12,000 f. for his work Recherches chimiques sur les corps gras d'origine animale, which is yet of high value, having given rise to the manufacture of stearine candles and to the use of oleic acid in the preparation of wool for cloth. Another work of M. Chevreul's introduced the practice of charring the interior of water casks. He published numerous works which have been translated into various European languages. M. Chevreul continued his lectures on chemistry until very recently, and the 100th anniversary of his birth was celebrated three years ago with great enthusiasm, at which time the aged scientist was in full enjoyment of all his faculties.]

Two qualities of Flannelettes in all colors out of the cases. We have quantity enough for a large city, but the price takes them, 10, 12½c. a yard.

Cottons, Cottonades, Shirtings, Linens, etc. have advanced suddenly and rapidly in the wholesale trade. We were fortunate in having a large stock bought before the advance. Note this fact.

PREMIER MERCIER TALKS.

HIS OPINION OF THE ANTI-JESUIT AGITATION.

He Thinks the Result Will be to Strengthen the National Party and the Institutions of the Catholic Church.

MONTREAL, April 11.—Premier Mercier spent all yesterday at the Government offices receiving deputations, etc. He found time to grant an interview to a reporter and gave his opinion on some of the topics which are just now interesting the public mind.

"Have you anything to say concerning the resolution adopted by the Ministerial Association charging you with discourtesy to that body in connection with the license question?" Mr. Mercier was asked.

"I feel very much hurt about this resolution," replied the Premier, "because it has been passed by a very respectable body, but I am sure it is not merited. I never acted discourteously towards the association, and I am satisfied that in connection with the license matter the Government has done all its duty.

"The reproaches made on this subject against the Government are of the same nature as those made by similar associations in connection with the Jesuit bill. Although very strong, very energetic and very numerous protestations were made against the Jesuit Act they were rejected in a quasi unanimous way by the House of Commons. I am very sorry to have to add that I believe these protestations, either on the license or on the Jesuit question, are not made to serve public interests but party interests, and that they are directed against the National party, which the gentlemen making these protestations have always opposed, not on its merits but by prejudice and ill-feeling towards me personally and politically."

"What do you believe will be the political result of the anti-Jesuit agitation?"

"To strengthen the National party and our religious institutions. The Jesuits especially have gained very much by this agitation. They were ignored and now they are known; they were accused and they have been so well defended that they are now respected even by those who were their enemies before. Although I am sorry at this agitation I cannot fail to rejoice at the result for many reasons, the main one being that which I have already stated.

"Another reason is that it shows that after all religious fanaticism has no place in this country and will not be tolerated even in the House of Commons, where a large majority are Protestants.

"A third reason is that it is proved that union is possible between Liberals and Conservatives when it is necessary and that in Ottawa they are disposed to follow on certain occasions the good example we have given them in Quebec and to put aside our regretable division and unite for the success of a great cause.

"The last reason which I wish to mention is that the vote of the House of Commons is the most emphatic sanction that could be given to my policy, which is now acknowledged not only by my political friends but also by my political opponents as a wise, honest and just one, and I consider the result as a great victory for my Government and my party."

Several other topics were touched upon, and Mr. Mercier in turn denied that any Cabinet changes were impending or that the Legislature would be dissolved just yet.

NO NEW LICENSES.

The Edict of the Hamilton Board—Preparing for Bishop Dowling's Reception.

HAMILTON, April 10.—A meeting of the Board of License Commissioners of this city was held this morning to consider the applications for licenses. There are seven applicants for new licenses, but the chairman emphatically stated that the board had decided to grant no new licenses. A number, it is thought, will be cut off.

Morrison's Whereabouts.

SHERBROOKE, Que., April 10.—The Megantic expedition is believed here to have completely failed. One thing is sure. That is, it will benefit the hotelkeepers to have the police around all summer and it will improve the health of the men of the police force. There are two stories regarding Donald's whereabouts, one that he has retired to a den or cave amply provisioned for months to come. This is supposed to be situated somewhere in the wild mountain region of almost unbroken forest at the head of Lake Megantic. The other is that having evaded the police he has left the district altogether. It is probable that he has gone to the United States.

Drought in the Michigan Woods.

DETROIT, April 11.—Light snows and no heavy rains during the past winter have resulted in the most remarkable drought this spring that the lumber woods of Upper Michigan have ever experienced and over one billion logs banked and ready to be floated to mills below are hung up because there is not enough water in the streams to float them. Heavy and continued rains alone will rescue this winter's cut and thus keep the mills running the season through.

The Maloney Jewelry Case.

MONTREAL, April 10.—The case of Andy Maloney, charged with stealing $14,000 worth of jewelry, the property of Messrs. Ellis & Co., Toronto, was continued to-day. A carter testified that Von Reinholtz came out of Maloney's gambling place in Craig-street and said he had lost $5000. He said he must make that up at once. The man was then driven to his lodgings in Mansfield-street, when two heavy trunks were brought back to Maloney's place. The case was then adjourned.

Belleville Briefs.

A public subscription has been started to pay off the debt of $2180 on the hospital and home buildings.

Mr. Charles Phillips has left here for British Columbia where he will engage in missionary work among the Indians.

The saw log drive has reached Tweed.

The Hebners' Trial.

BARRIE, April 10.—The trial of the Hebners for the murder of Philip Morrison was begun at 9.30 this morning. The evidence against the prisoners was much the same as that given at the coroner's inquest. Counsel for the defence moved for the discharge of David Hebner on the ground that there was no evidence to go to the jury against him. His Lordship concurred and directed a verdict of not guilty.

Due to Drink.

MONTREAL, April 11.—No less than six cases for not providing have been inscribed in the Police Court the last two days. Nearly all the complaints are from middle aged women and their invariable story is that their husbands drink up what money they can earn and let them and their children starve, so far as they are concerned.

Murder in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—This morning William Smith went to the house of James Easley in the upper part of the city and began tearing it down, saying he had authority to do so. Easley warned Smith off, but as he persisted in his work of destruction [illegible] gun and killed him. Easley was [illegible]

THAT MORTGAGED MILL.

The Sheriff in Hot Pursuit—The Mill Now on Its Way to Canada.

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., April 11.—The scene of the Moiles mill controversy has now been transferred from Detour to the open lake. Tuesday evening Sheriff McKenzie and his deputy from the Soo arrived here. So did the tug Dowling with the Moiles party on board, but the Soo sheriff did not ascertain that fact till yesterday morning, just after the Dowling had been reprovisioned and left for her consorts, two schooners, said to be fast in the ice near Drummond's Island. These schooners have the Moiles Bros.' saw mill machinery on board, which was loaded at Detour a few days ago and on which there was a mortgage of $45,000 held by Buffalo parties.

Sheriff McKenzie when he learned the Dowling was part of the Moiles outfit chartered the tug George W. Cuyler and started to overhaul the Dowling. He is but a few miles in the rear. The officers will board the Dowling if she is overhauled in American waters and demand immediate possession. Of course if the Moiles party refuses that will undoubtedly end the chase for a while as the sheriff is without an adequate force and the Moileses have a crew of 1000 men with them. The master of the tug on which the sheriff sailed this morning has been instructed by her owners here only to land the sheriff and his deputy on the Dowling, as she was chartered for that purpose, and to avoid altercation.

WEST VIRGINIA ON A DOG HUNT.

A Mad Animal Creates Havoc—The Colonels and Captains in Full Chase.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., April 10.—The people of Tyler County are much excited over the appearance of dozens of mad dogs. Friday a large dog owned by Capt. W. H. Henderson of Long Beach went mad and bit every animal within reach. The brute attempted to bite Henderson but only tore his clothing. That night it attacked the animals on Col. Dan Johnston's farm and sprang at and caught the Colonel by the sleeve. Johnson, who was armed with a poker, beat the dog off. The animal then started across the country along the railroad, biting dogs, horses, cows and every living thing within reach. A number of armed men pursued it on a hand car 9 miles, when they shot and killed it. The country is now believed to be full of bitten animals. A general hunt is in progress and every animal suspected of having been bitten will be killed.

HEARTLESS CRUELTY.

A Paralytic in the Chicago Home for Incurables Beaten by Attendants.

CHICAGO, April 10.—James Batten, a bed-ridden paralytic, also suffering from Bright's disease, was a patient at the Home for Incurables here. A few days ago his wife and daughter visited him and found his face bruised, his eyes blacked, and his tongue badly cut by his teeth. He said the injuries were inflicted by the attendants at the institution who struck him with their fists to prevent him from groaning when in pain. The wife and daughter complained to the Woman's Protective Association, which made an investigation. The results indicate that the management was guilty of heartless cruelty to the unfortunates in its care. Batten died yesterday. The coroner's jury found he died from heart clot, but expressed the belief that he was abused and recommended that the grand jury investigate the matter.

A Hamilton Brute Sent for Trial.

HAMILTON, April 11.—The preliminary hearing of the charges against George Dawes was held before the Police Magistrate yesterday morning. The prisoner, a baker, about 23 years of age, and who came to this city from Belleville, was charged with having on March 4 last unlawfully assaulted an 8-year-old boy, John Halcrow, with the intention of committing an obnoxious and unnatural crime. Mr. A. D. Cameron defended him. He pleaded not guilty, and declined to elect as to whether he should be tried by the Magistrate or a jury. The evidence of Halcrow was very straight. He swore that Dawes attempted most horrible indecencies. The Magistrate decided to send the case for trial to a higher court. There were three other charges of a similar nature; the complainants being Peter Johnston, Thomas McMaster and John McHendrie, all boys under 12 years of age. They were investigated, and the prisoner was committed for trial.

The Fire Record.

ST. THOMAS, April 10.—Yesterday afternoon the Michigan Central Railway freight house on the south side of the track at Charing Cross was totally destroyed by fire, together with its contents, consisting of a large quantity of freight, the company's scales, etc. The fire, it is thought, was caused by a spark from a passing locomotive.

LISTOWEL, April 10.—Fire broke out this morning in a brick store in Main-street owned by P. Harvey and occupied by Geo. Funston as a grocery. The building was insured in the Citizens' of Montreal for $900, which will cover the loss. Funston's stock is a total loss; insured in the City Mutual of London for $500.

Fled to Canada.

ALGER, Mich., April 11.—Jerry Ashley of this place, who disappeared recently and was last seen in Bay City, is now believed to be in Canada. He was treasurer of Moffatt Township and the settlement that has been made with the township shows he was short $2024 for which his bondsmen will suffer most. It is not known how many people he has deceived. The township authorities have attached all of Ashley's property they could reach.

Found in the Canal.

MONTREAL, April 11.—A body found in the canal yesterday proved to be that of Pierre Blais, navigator, aged 60, who disappeared about the end of November. When seen last, the unfortunate man was around Cantin's dock and it is supposed that he fell into the canal, as it was then getting dark. Blais was formerly a well-to-do merchant of Quebec, but failed in his business and went down ever after, being obliged to take work at the wharf last summer.

Didn't Believe in Infant Damnation.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., April 10.—The Presbytery of Rochester has for two days been considering the case of three deacons who were ordained by the First Presbyterian Church of this city a few weeks ago although at the time they expressed disbelief in the doctrines of fore-ordination and infant damnation. After full deliberation and discussion the act of ordination was sustained by the Presbytery.

An Ex-Torontonian Nearly Murdered.

TIFFIN, O., April 10.—Yesterday Joseph Dechamps, a Belgian glassblower, assaulted Francis Lannery, president of the Belgian Glass Company and late Belgian consul at Toronto, nearly killing him. Dechamps was jailed for attempted murder. To-day Dechamps' 75 fellow-workmen, who are all experts, quit work, declaring they would not return until Dechamps was released.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE LOAN OF LAST YEAR CRITICISED AND DEFENDED.

Many Members Take Part in the Debate—A Condemnatory Amendment Lost by a Strict Party Vote.

OTTAWA, April 11.—In the House of Commons yesterday the main feature of the proceedings was the discussion of the three per cent. loan. Before that matter came up several questions were asked and answered.

Some questions of more than usual interest were asked by members this afternoon.

Mr. Mulock inquired whether it was the intention of the Government to take any steps towards meeting the demands of the millers for an increased duty on flour. Hon. G. E. Foster said the question was one which could not be answered at present. He returned the same answer to a question by Mr. Wilson of Elgin respecting the duty on pork.

Mr. McMullen asked if it was the intention of the Government to pay the costs incurred by the Government of Ontario in the case of the St. Catharines Milling Company v. The Queen; also whether the company had made any demand for indemnity for the failure of the Federal Government to maintain them in possession. Hon. G. E. Foster said it was not the intention of the Government to pay any costs except as ordered by the courts. The company had made no demand for indemnity.

Upon motion to go into committee of supply Sir Richard Cartwright challenged the course of the Government upon the loan of 1888, his speech being summed up in this amendment which he offered:

That it appears from the public accounts and from statements made in this House by the Minister of Finance and from the prospectus of the loan that the Government of Canada placed a loan of £4,000,000 sterling on the London Market in the month of June, 1888.

2. That the said loan bears interest at the rate of 3 per cent. per annum and is made payable at the end of 50 years.

3. That the said loan was sold at an average price of 95.1.

4. That while the said loan had no new special sinking fund attached thereto, it is provided in the prospectus issued in connection therewith by Messrs. Baring and Glyn, the financial agents of the Government of Canada, that with a view of rendering the sinking funds of the various loans more effective than heretofore the Canadian Government intends to apply the sums annually required for the reduction of the national debt in the purchase of the stock now offered. The amount at present annually applied to the redemption of the national debt is [illegible], and as the sinking fund is accumulating the amount yearly increases.

5. That the effect of the said clause is that the Canadian Government will be obliged, in order to comply with the obligation thereby entered into on their behalf, to repurchase the entire loan of £4,000,000 sterling above mentioned in ten or more annual instalments averaging £400,000 each.

6. That the said loan will be thereby, as far as the Dominion of Canada is concerned, converted from a loan having, nominally, 50 years to run into a loan having a little over five years to run.

7. That all former unguaranteed loans having sinking funds attached contain a provision inserted in the bond or prospectus, and equally in both, setting forth that the Government of Canada shall not be obliged to purchase said stocks on account of investment for sinking fund if said stocks should rise above par.

8. That neither the prospectus nor the bond issued in connection with the said 3 per cent. loan of £4,000,000 contain any such provision.

9. That the natural tendency of the existence of the obligation to apply a sinking fund of this magnitude to the purchase of a loan of £4,000,000 will be to raise the price of the said stock abnormally and may result in the loss of a large sum to this country.

10. That in any case the cost of the commission, brokerage and other charges incurred in negotiating the said loan spread over a period of about five years, will add greatly to the rate of interest payable on the same loan.

11. That even if the said loan can be repurchased at an average of par it will involve the payment of a rate in excess of the price obtained for the said loan which will make the annual charge for the said loan, till the same be repurchased, equal to a rate of interest of about 5 per cent per annum and will at best make the transaction unduly onerous to this country.

12. That the said transaction is improvident and evidences negligence on the part of those charged with the interests of Canada in this matter.

Hon. G. E. Foster in reply said this loan had been floated by the same financial agents who had floated loans for Canada for a great number of years past and who had been extolled by Sir Richard Cartwright as men of ability and honor who would not give advice against the interest of Canada. He thought the agents were entitled to the same character now.

The statement in the prospectus upon which this question had been raised was merely a declaration of the intention of the Government, and simply carried out what had been the practice of the Government from the time of Confederation. The bond of the loan, which was advertised upon the very same page of the prospectus, stipulated that the principal and interest should be chargeable to the consolidated fund, but there was no mention of or provision for a sinking fund in the bond. If the loan were exhausted in ten years, though nominally to run for fifty, and the bonds were thereby appreciated to par or above, the country would not have suffered because another 3 per cent. loan having to be put upon the market we would not have to again offer it below par.

He did not think that the financial history of Sir Richard Cartwright was such as to enable him with good grace to criticise the management of his successors in the office of Finance Minister in placing loans upon the market, for no such heavy discounts had been paid on any loans, before or since, as on the loans floated by Sir Richard. After attempting for many years past, as far as he was able, to depreciate the credit of this country, that gentleman now engaged in an attempt to lead the hounds of speculation to fatten themselves if they possibly can upon the credit of Canada. But the Government would be found well able to protect themselves from loss by the operations of speculators.

Mr. Paterson of Brant and Hon. L. H. Davies followed, criticising the loan on the line of Sir Richard's speech.

After recess the debate was resumed by Mr. Weldon of St. John and Mr. Waldie, who spoke in condemnation of the provisions of the loan.

Sir John Thompson gave it as his opinion that the Government were under no obligation to purchase this stock if the price were unduly inflated. He pointed out that the adoption of Sir Richard's resolution would put the Government at the mercy of stock speculators.

Hon. W. Laurier and Messrs. Mulock, Peter White and Colter followed.

The House divided on Sir Richard Cartwright's amendment, which was lost, 74 to 117. The vote was a strictly party one.

The House then went into supply.

The vote for Indian affairs and also the miscellaneous items in the main estimates were passed and the House adjourned at 1.40 a.m.

The English Beer Syndicate.

MONTREAL, April 11.—Mr. Charles Landy who is representing a syndicate of wealthy English capitalists is at present in the city and has interviewed the large brewers here with the object of investing English capital in Canadian breweries. The plan is to buy out two-thirds of the stock and let the proprietor retain the remaining third and run the business in his own name as formerly. This syndicate has been in operation a little over a year and has bought a number of very large breweries in different parts of the States. The object is not to corner beer and raise the price on it, but simply to get a good paying investment for the vast amount of unused capital that a number of English gentlemen are burdened with. The results accruing from these investments in the States are said to be most satisfactory as the addition of so much capital has improved the business. Nothing definite has been arrived at here.

The Iowa Evictions Postponed.

FORT DODGE, Ia., April 10.—The continued threatening aspect of river land settlers has resulted in an indefinite postponement of evictions. The officials declare they do not desire bloodshed but vainly hoped to overawe the settlers with their forces to such a [illegible] they would submit peaceably.

CAMPBELLFORD CULLINGS.

STOCK NOTE.—Mr. R. Bertrand, of Campbellford, a few days ago, made the sale of his stallion "Young Napoleon," to Mr. Thomas English, of Otonabee township, for the sum of $800. He is a fine animal, and the sire of some good stock in this locality.

CHEESE FACTORY DESTROYED.—The cheese factory at Menie, Seymour township, a few miles east of Campbellford, was wiped out of existence by fire, on Sunday morning last, between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock. The building was the property of Mr. John Bray, and was insured in the Mercantile for $800. It was valued at $1,200. The fire was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary. Steps will be taken to rebuild the factory at once, to be in readiness for the season's work now commencing. The Mercantile Insurance Company have had to give their cheque for several losses by fire which has occurred in this locality within a few weeks.—Herald.

METHODISTS AND JESUITS.

Resolutions Adopted by the Superintendents and Conference Presidents.

Taking advantage of their meeting as the Transfer Committee of the Methodist Church in Canada, the principal officers of that denomination adopted the following resolution regarding the Jesuit Estates Act:—

We, the General Superintendents of the Methodist Church of this Dominion, and the presidents of the annual conferences assembled, without assuming to speak for any other men's consciences or intelligence than our own, and with only the desire to obtain righteous ends by righteous means, deem it our bounden duty to protest against the aggressions of the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church, as we believe, to the serious prejudice of our civil and religious liberty, more especially in the recent Act for the incorporation and endowment of the Jesuits, a society which has been suppressed in Great Britain and again and again disqualified by Imperial statutes to hold property within the British realm, and has also been expelled from all Christian and civilized lands because of its influence in the supervision of government and the corruption of morals, and notably from the Republic of France as lately as 1879-80, and which society, for similar and other causes, was abolished in all the world by the Pope himself.

We further protest against the recognition of the authority of the Pope in any civil affairs of a British Province, as we believe to be the case in this Act respecting the settlement of the Jesuit Estates, and further, against the appropriation of public funds to ecclesiastical and secular uses as a discrimination betwixt religious bodies, and subversive of the principle of separation of Church and State, as recognized in the British North American Act; and influence shall be given to all efforts to test the constitutionality of these Acts before the proper tribunals, and we cannot but express our deep regret that the House of Commons, in its recent vote upon the subject, should have manifested so little regard to petitions asking for disallowance, and to the strong expressions of feeling from influential bodies in various parts of the Dominion.

In putting forth thus moderately our convictions on these important matters we disclaim any and every intention to interfere with the full rights of our Roman Catholic fellow-citizens in civil and religious matters. We appeal to the history of Methodism as to her advocacy and guardianship of equal privileges to all. We desire earnestly the peace and prosperity of our commonwealth, and must cast upon aggressors the responsibility for disasters which we gravely apprehend. Ever confident that Protestantism in the fear of God will stand for the liberty of the subject, the honor of the Crown and the full freedom of worship according to the dictates of conscience, under the sense of personal responsibility and the exercise of individual right.

LO THE POOR INDIAN

AND OTHER IMPRESSIVE FIGURES ON THE THOROUGHFARES.

Facts About the Manufacture of Dummies. The Wood Used for the Purpose—Cost of the Noble Savage and His Associate Graven Images.

In a recent interview with a citizen of Brooklyn who makes dummies, I acquired considerable information relating to this branch of the art of wood carving which proved entertaining as well as instructive. As I entered his place of business he was busily engaged in putting the finishing touches of color on a huge, grim looking Indian, which vainly tried to look me out of countenance during my conversation with its owner.

"I always finish them up myself," said he, "for no two painters tastes are alike, and I like to have them finished to my taste as nearly as possible. The fine, big fellow goes to New Orleans to-morrow, and will bring me a neat sum, too."

ORIGIN OF FIGURE CARVING.

"I suppose hard wood is always used for figures," said I, "on account of having to withstand all sorts of weather and temperature?"

"You were never more mistaken in your life. We use soft pine for carving entirely. I get my logs from a spar yard down in Erie basin, pay from 30 to 60 cents per running foot for them, and they are mostly ends which have been detached from logs in constructing spars and masts in the yard. The only thing we find to contend with is the number of knots always found in pine logs, but it's the only kind that's ever been used, so I take it for granted it's the best."

"What was the origin of dummy carving, or is it not a trade in itself, but a branch of the common wood carving trade?"

"I don't know how dummies in the first place became associated with the tobacco business, but this I do know: Figure carving is a complete trade in itself—a trade in which artistic instinct is essential to success, and without which no workman can become proficient. It descends from the now obsolete art of figurehead carving for vessels in ancient times, and requires equally skilled workmen to properly execute the designs now used. At least twelve or fourteen years' apprenticeship is necessary to become proficient in this branch, even though possessed of the necessary talent, and considering the wages paid it's little wonder no apprentices are to be found now and that very few men follow it for a livelihood."

"How do you commence work on a figure?" I asked.

"It is the simplest thing in the world. The log is suspended horizontally between two blocks, just high enough for the carver to reach handily. He draws with pencil the outline of front and back of the proposed figure, and hews it out roughly to within half an inch of the line. Then the log is turned over and a like process is gone through regarding the sides, which completed the fine work begins. The sharp tools are produced the carver puts his thinking cap on, and in the course of a few days a perfectly formed and expressive face will have made its appearance. The rest, of course, is easier, the most difficult part of the remaining work being the pose, for a poor attitude spoils the effect of the most perfect facial expression."

A KING FOR $350.

"How long does it take to turn out an Indian, from first to last?"

"For an average five foot warrior about five days is required for the carving and as many more for painting and finishing up, but for a monster like this fellow," pointing to the fierce visaged chieftain he had just finished touching up, "nearly a month is required for its completion. It's tedious work, but a figure like that will bring me about $150, and an average sized one from $25 to $100, according to design."

"What do you pay your carvers after their spending so many years acquiring the necessary knowledge?"

"Four dollars per day is the highest rate paid, and as steady work can never be assured it is a very low price for the work done."

"Is your demand mostly home trade?"

"Not by any means. I have plenty of repairing here, but sell very few new ones, as a figure with moderate care lasts a lifetime. My demand is mostly from inland cities and mostly for Indians, which will always be the substantial stand by in way of design. I get occasional orders for clowns, or darkies, or dudes, or some such specialty as a Pickwick or a king, but rarely. The finest job I ever turned out was a likeness of King William I, several years ago, for which I received $350."

"What was the most novel design, in your opinion, that you've yet undertaken?"

"I think the most ridiculous figure I ever got up was one ordered by a St. Louis man a couple of years ago—a likeness of Knox Dunlap, the dude, a character in Mestayer's 'We, Us & Co.,' which was very popular then in the west. It represented a very homely young man, with the tightest of pants and the largest of mouths, the latter extended to its utmost capacity in a desperate attempt to smile; a nose ornamented with numerous buds which threatened soon to become blossoms, and a beard conspicuous for its irregularity of length, scarcity and vermilion shade."

"Do you have busy seasons, as is the case with most businesses?"

"Only in the repairing line. In the spring—housecleaning time, you know—dealers in tobacco and cigars generally treat their figures to a new coat of paint and a general overhauling, but orders come in about the same the year around, and that," he added, "is slow enough, slow enough."

The huge Indian here shed a tear of sympathy with its master, and feeling as though I had awakened unpleasant thoughts I quietly withdrew to the street, leaving both in a brown study.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Satirical.

Gen. Timothy Ruggles, of Hardwick, was quite a noted man in his day, though few readers of the present time will remember his name. He was chief justice of the county court, which was composed of all the justices of the county. Ruggles entertained a poor opinion of a court thus constituted.

One day a dog belonging to one of the members came in and took a seat beside his master, whereupon the chief justice administered to the animal a solemn reprimand.

"You must go and be sworn as a justice of the peace," he said, "before taking your place as a member of this court."—Youth's Companion.

A Live Question.

An aged couple in Providence had been without food in the house so long that finally, when their last penny had been spent for a candle, the hungry rats devoured it, and they were too weak to resist. When finally the old man crawled out for help the rats attacked the prostrate woman. Such sad scenes are constantly occurring in great cities. At the same time the Andover theological disputants are fighting month after month over the question whether a dead heathen in Burmah can be saved though he never heard of Him who had not where to lay His head.—Boston Globe.

To the inquiring minds of the citizens of Freehold, N. J., is due the discovery that a pig has no brains. A discussion upon this subject arose, and to settle the question it was decided to sacrifice the most intelligent pig in the community, and have his brain scientifically analyzed. After the pig was killed the head was examined and found to be brainless. The cavity in which the brain should have been was extraordinarily small and empty.

The horses on some of the stage routes in Nevada are trained to wear snow shoes. After an animal becomes used to them he can travel four or five miles an hour where it would be impossible to go that distance in a week without them. The shoes are made of thin steel plate, and measure about nine by eleven inches. The horses are shod with long heel calks, which go through the snow shoes and prevent their slipping going up and down hill.

Successful Meds.

The names of two young men from Peterborough county appear among the successful students in the recent examinations of Trinity University for the degree of M. D. C. M., Messrs T. J. Introducing Steam.

Mr. Ed. Green, window shade and blind manufacturer, is about to improve his facilities for manufacturing by introducing steam power into his factory. A seven horse power engine will be put in to run the slat cutter and other machinery. This will be a new departure in this special line of manufacturing as this will probably be the only slat cutter in a factory of this kind which will be operated by steam.

Ashburnham Aggression.

A man by the name of Welsh, from Ashburnham, was picked up on the streets last night by the police in a helpless state of intoxication. He was not at all boistrous or noisy, but was locked up for his own individual safety. He had evidently had a rather sudden and too emphatic meeting with the sidewalk, and his nose gave evidence that he had not struck a soft spot, as it was badly bruised. This morning he was allowed to go.

The Conference in June.

The Belleville Intelligencer says:—"In Methodist circles the meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference in Bridge Street Church in this city on Thursday, the 6th of June, is already creating considerable interest. At the last conference a committee composed of the President of the Conference, the Rev. M. L. Pearson, of Peterborough, the pastor of the Methodist Churches in Belleville, and Mr. Wm. Johnson was appointed to arrange for the billets and conference services. This committee met in this city on Tuesday."

Touching Teas.

Twenty-five years ago people paid $1 per pound for a good tea. The tea was not actually worth it, but the cost of carriage, handling and selling fixed the price. Now see the change 25 years has wrought. Hawley Bros. will sell you as good a tea as formerly cost $1 per pound for 40c., single pounds. Take 5 lbs. and you get it for 38c. per lb. Take 10 lbs. and pay 37½c. per lb. Hawley Bros., No. 376 George-st., divide profits with customers and give satisfaction every time. Their specialty is tea, clearly tea, absolutely tea, positively tea and particularly tea. d&w

Read this to the Boys.

Ye small boys beware, for the eagle eyes of the police are watching you, and if any of you who are caught indulging in that harmless (?) amusement of throwing stones by means of catapults you may get into serious trouble. A case was reported to the police yesterday where a little boy was struck on the head by a stone from one of these catapults and a serious wound inflicted. The police will confiscate any of these dangerous toys which they see the boys using in the streets, for the public generally are not safe when boys are regardlessly firing stones from these instruments, for a dangerous and serious wound might easily be inflicted by one of these slings. It must and will be stopped.

THE SERVICE OUTLINED.

CANON DUMOULIN, OF ST. JAMES' CATHEDRAL, AT ST. JOHN'S.

The Seven Ascending Steps in the Church of England Service—Demands made upon Those who Possess a Proper Conception of the Worship.

After the evening service at St. John's Church last evening, Canon DuMoulin, of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, delivered an eloquent and very lucid lecture on "The Outlines of the Church Service." The learned divine has a very fluent and easy delivery, and his language is especially fine, and last evening his address was listened to with great interest by the large congregation which had turned out to hear such a celebrated and popular gentleman. In opening, the speaker said when God had given full instructions to the children of Israel concerning the Passover He said unto Moses, "And it shall come to pass when ye come to the land which the Lord will give you according as he hath promised that ye shall keep this service; and it shall come to pass when your children shall say unto you, what mean ye by this service, ye shall say, it is the sacrifice of the Lord's Passover," etc. From this, he said, they could see two things clearly—first, and, secondly, that it was quite lawful to ask the meaning of the service and quite necessary to its proper and right performance that they should understand the service. The propriety of the question was divinely recognized, and it was admitted that they should have an answer to it. He asked them to transfer this to themselves in their services. They had an appointed order of worship in their evening and morning prayer and they could not invert or disturb the order of that service. This order was so formed as to lift souls from the lowest to the highest—to pick them up as sinners confessed and set them down with angels and archangels and all the company of angels. The fifteen psalms following the 119th were known as the song of degrees, and a great many critics were of the opinion that this name was given to them because they were chanted by the Levites as they ascended the fifteen steps leading to the temple—step by step until they were in His very presence. So it was with their service—they were taken step by step until they enjoyed full communion with God. Then the lecturer dwelt on the several advancing steps in the church service. The first step in the order was that termed Conviction. This was produced in the soul in two ways. First, by the living Word of God, and, second, by exhortation, the sermons delivered with texts prefixed. This was the first step and it would commend itself to the hearts and conscience of all. Then the second step was Confession. The speaker here pointed out

THE DIVINELY ORDERED SERVICE,

THE MORAL ORDER OF THE SERVICE.

Nothing was so dreadful as a conviction of sin. If the Word of God and exhortations had kindled within their souls a self accusation and feeling of dependence God had bridged over the chasm by which they were relieved and brought back to confidence. This means was confession of sins—sins of omission and sins of commission. Then the third step was higher and more blessed—absolution, a declaration of pardon made by authority to those who on their knees in confession truly repented. The fourth step was one he wanted them to think upon as it was very blessed. It followed upon the others in a natural order and was the full access of the soul to God, the Father and the reconciled child, when they said "Our Father which art in Heaven." Then higher and yet higher they rose in the glorious order, they took the fifth step. Could they enjoy anything higher than communing with God as "Our Father." Yes, there was something higher. They could take the place of angels. They arose from their knees and burst out in the glorious language of the invitatory song, and not only called God Father, but lifted up their voices in song to laud and magnify His name in the language of the Psalter in the morning and evening prayer. Next they assumed and were allowed to sit at His feet as learners. In this the sixth ascending step they were called upon to hear His most Holy Word, in the lesson, in the epistle and gospel, pure and unadulterated. Once a year they heard the whole of the Old Testament and three times a year they heard the New—no selection according to any ideas, tests or proclivities of any man, but the pure Word of God read through systematically and profitably to their souls. The seventh step was the highest and greatest of all, when they entered into communion with God and presented their alms and worldly goods, their souls and bodies as a reasonable sacrifice to Him. This was the last, highest and most perfect stage. He told them when children asked the meaning of the service to be sure and tell them and show them how it led them on step by step until they basked in the unclouded presence of the Most High. They should understand the service and worship intelligently for just in proportion as they were intelligent worshippers would they be spiritual worshippers with their whole soul in the service. He closed by calling his auditors' attention to several things which a proper conception of the service of the church demanded. (1) It demanded punctual and regular attendance; (2) it demanded an implicit faith in their creed and articles; (3) it demanded a faithful adherence to apostolic rule and divine ordinance; (4) it demanded reverence. After impressing each of these upon his hearers the lecturer asked them to remember the rules set down and that each step was an ascending one and closed with the words "God is a spirit and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth."

THE ATTITUDE OF DISCIPLES

The Talk of the Town

The people are wondering why Elliott & Tierney are giving 18 lbs. bright sugar for $1, and selling teas and other goods so much cheaper than any house in Peterborough. Call at the Palace Grocery and examine the goods, which will convince you. The "Palace" is the place to get best values. Great stock-taking sale now going on.

Remarkable Preservation.

The remains of the late Mrs. Stevenson, the first wife of Mayor Stevenson, were to-day removed from the old Methodist burying grounds to the family plot in the Little Lake Cemetery. The deceased lady's remains were interred in 1852, yet when the coffin was unearthed to-day, it was found to be almost as good and sound as the day it was lowered into the grave, thirty-seven years ago. The preservation of the coffin was remarkable. It was made of black ash.

A St. Andrew's Hall.

The St. Andrew's Society, as was announced some time ago, decided to secure and fit up a suitable hall for the use and comfort of members of the Society, and have leased the hall on Simcoe-st, over Mr. Flavelle's flour and feed store. The committee which have the matter in hand are now making arrangements for the fitting up and decorating of the hall, and when these are completed the Society will have pleasant and comfortable quarters, where the Sons of Auld Scotia can meet and enjoy a pleasant hour and discuss the business of the organization.

OUR FLEET OF STEAMERS.

Preparations for the Coming Season on the waters.

The ice is now out of Little Lake and the waters are all open. Peterborough's little fleet of steamers will soon all be afloat and in the near future the steamers will be on their regular routes and excursion parties and picnics will be in order. Already preparations are being made for the season's operation and two of Mr. Calcutt's steamers are afloat. The Pearl has been launched and was up to the wharf yesterday, and is hardly recognizable. She has been thoroughly overhauled and has received a coat of paint from stem to stern and has a remarkably trim and natty appearance. She has been painted white, which is rather an improvement, as far as appearance is concerned, on last season's coat of black. The Golden Eye, which has been on bents in the locks during the winter, has also been entirely overhauled and is now almost a new boat. Her bottom has been carefully gone over and corked and she has been given a coat of paint throughout. She is now afloat and her machinery is being repaired and when this is finished she will be ready once more to plough the waters of the lakes and river a trimmer looking boat than ever. The craft which has been under construction on the lake shore in Ashburnham will not be run by steam power this season at all events, Mr. Calcutt having decided to fit her up as a palace scow and then next season an engine may be put in and the scow transfered into a steamer. Mr. Fred Hall's little pleasure yacht "Mazeppa" is also afloat and is looking gay in a new coat of pait. Mr. Hall had the first trip down the river this season, he having taken a short spin on Thursday last, the 4th of April.

The old Whistle-Wing which was hauled up on the lake shore is now a thing of the past, as she been torn apart and nothing now remains but the boiler. The other pleasure yachts have not been unhoused but this glorious weather will soon see them all repainted and once more afloat.

Per Steamer Alaska.

It will be to the interest of all persons buying Dry Goods, Mantles and Millinery to call at H. S. Griffin & Co.'s. They have just received several lines that they imported direct from the old country. These goods cannot be found in any other house in town and are very cheap and stylish. 2d85 1w45

A New Land Surveyor.

At the April meeting of the Board of Examiners of Land Surveyors, for Ontario, just held, among those gentlemen admitted to practice as land surveyors was Mr. A. J. Cameron, son of Mr. Chas. Cameron, of town. Mr. Cameron is to be congratulated on his success as he is only a student of three years preparation.

An Unfortunate Illness.

The wedding that was to have taken place in St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, yesterday afternoon between Mr. Wm. Fairbairn, of Toronto, and Miss Edith Mills, of Ashburnham, was postponed under very sad and unfortunate circumstances. Miss Mills received a telegram early in the morning, informing her that Mr. Fairbairn was seriously ill, and the guests who were invited were immediately given intimation of the postponement of the ceremony. However, quite a few who were not aware of the unfortunate illness of the prospective bridegroom went to the church at three o'clock, but, of course, found the doors locked. Miss Mills went to Toronto last evening, but no word has been received to-day as to the condition of Mr. Fairbairn.

Personal.

Mrs. Robert Innes, Mrs. T. M. Fairbairn and Miss Roger were the local delegates who attended the annual meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society which closed in Toronto last night.

Mr. R. W. Rooney stood first in second class honors at the recent medical examination for the degree, M.D. C.M., in Trinity University, Toronto. Dr. Rooney is a brother of Mr. J. J. Rooney of the Peterborough Business College.

Mr. W. D. Nicholls, of Beatrice, Neb., U. S., a son of Mr. W. C. Nicholls, of Peterborough, is in town on business matters connected with settling up claims for some property in his neighborhood and owned by a resident of this county. Mr. Nicholls is a native of this county and went west some twenty years ago to grow up with the country. He looks prosperous and happy.

The Institute By-Law.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I saw in you paper after the last council meeting that there is to be a by-law for raising funds for a new Collegiate Institute submitted for a vote on May 1st. Now I have been waiting for some one who has influence and who is well known to take some interest in this by-law and to bring it before the people. No one appears to be doing anything in its favor, not even the papers are saying a word for it, so I would like to tell a few of the reasons why I think it should be carried by a large majority when the day of voting comes. As a citizen of the town I think the by-law should be carried on account of its economy. At present we are paying large salaries to a staff of teachers, we are at the expense of supplies, heating, etc., yet from the government officer's report, even if the teachers were the best in the country they cannot do good work because of poor accommodation. In this way it is easy to waste more money than would pay the interest on the whole sum wanted for the new quarters. Taxation in Peterborough is now very low, so that the very small increase for the sinking fund on account of this by-law would not be felt at present. In a few years, though, this rate of taxation may have to be increased, and if the money for new buildings has then to be raised the extra rate may be worse to bear. I do not know the assessment of the town, but taking it at three millions, which I am sure is below the mark, the $20,000 for the Institute would be ⅔ per cent of this, and ⅓ per cent scattered over 20 years is a very small sum, even for the big property holders to pay in any one year. But there are some other things to be taken into this account. As a town we never let an opportunity go by, but we try to get all the factories, tradesmen, workshops and settlers of every description to stay with us. One of the reasons why men who have families like some places better than others, is that they may be able to give their children a good education. If we have not as good schools as other towns, we are in want of one of the chief attractions to draw people from the villages and towns and country around here to live in Peterborough. It would not take many more families settling here every year to pay the whole amount of the extra money, by their taxes and purchases, for the new building. From the reports of the School Board meetings last fall, it seems that they must either get a new institute or spend about $5,000 fixing up the old one, but this is not all. I read about one meeting where the institute pays rent of $750 a year for that part of the old building they use. Now, $750 is the interest on $15,000 so that they can have a new school on a lot by itself and fixed up in good style for no more money than will be wanted to put the part of the old building that they use in such shape as the Government wants. Besides, in one way the Board owns its institute building, in the other way they have only some rented rooms and may be turned out and forced to either rent again or build at any time. I think there must soon be a time when all the old building will be wanted for the public school. There is to be a new school in the north ward and the south ward school is to be enlarged. When the scholars from all these schools are promoted to the central school where will they be put? I saw in the papers a few days ago that in Lindsay there are 216 scholars at the Institute while in Peterborough there are only 140. I was thinking why this is, and it must be because Lindsay school is much better than ours. If they can get 60 or 70 young men and women to come and live with them, and spend money for board, books and clothing, they are getting a return for part of what they laid out on their new school. Peterborough is a larger and better town than Lindsay in every way except this one, and I would like to see it so, that we who cannot afford to send our children away to Toronto or some other town, could get them just as good an education here as any place else. I think the way to do this, and the cheapest and best way to do it, will be to carry the by-law by a big vote when the day comes.

A POOR MAN.

KING AGRIPPA'S ANSWER.

MR. CROSSLEY ADDRESS THOSE ALMOST PERSUADED.

Mr. Hunter Tells How to Build up a Church—The Audience Greatly Moved—The Last Meeting To-Night.

There was the usual immense audience at the evangelistic meeting in the George-st. church last night. In the opening exercises last evening Mr. Wm. Johnson, of Belleville, and Rev. James E. Ford, of London, led in prayer.

TO-NIGHT THE LAST.

Rev. Mr. PEARSON said that he had hoped that the evangelists would stay at least until Tuesday next, but he had been definitely informed that such would not be the case, and the last meeting would be held the next evening, when the collection would take the character of a thank offering. The evangelists had come without any business arrangements as to remuneration, and he hoped they would have a liberal thank offering. He dwelt on the great success of the services and expressed his thankfulness to God for their visit.

Mr. Crossley sang "Come Unto Me," a beautiful solo.

FRIENDS IN HEAVEN.

Mr. HUNTER referred to the death of Mr. John Mitchell, formerly of Peterborough, who died suddenly at Winnipeg on Thursday and who was converted at the evangelists' meetings in Winnipeg last winter. "We'll have many friends to meet us when we get to heaven, Bro. Crossley," said Mr. Hunter.

After singing a verse of "Nearer My God to Thee," Mr. Hunter read from the ninth chapter of Acts. He said that when persons were converted they should get to work, and not sponge on the Lord. If they were surrounded by a wall of difficulty, and trusted in the Lord, they would be "let down in a basket," the Lord would open the way. He wanted them to remember

HOW TO BUILD UP A CHURCH.

They should be converted, get in the church and encourage the minister by attending all the church services. He did not want them to praise the evangelists, but if they had been benefitted they should praise the Lord. They should also avoid criticism, co-operate in church work, be sociable, show the minister sympathy, pay him promptly, encourage the members, avoid contention, pour oil on the troubled waters, know no party or clique, utter no complaints, have broad charity, let no day pass by without inviting someone to Jesus and bring others to church. If they would do these things the revival would go right on.

Mr. Crossley then sang "The Hand Writing on the Wall."

A large number of requests for prayer were read by Mr. Hunter, who offered a brief prayer.

ALMOST PERSUADED

Mr. CROSSLEY announced that his text was Act xxvi., 28:—"Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian." There were two ideas regarding Agrippa's answer. Some thought he was speaking sarcastically, and others believed he was in earnest. He (the speaker) did not know which was right, but he believed the answer might be received in both ways from the audience. He wished first to speak to those who were trifling with or neglected salvation. They were the hardest cases, for drunkards, swearers, etc., had been converted while they had not. He wished them to come out of that class and be converted. To those who had been fully persuaded, he said, be conscious Christians; know that you are saved. They should not depend on feelings, but rise to a higher plane, depending upon God's promises. He wanted them to be consistent, and to be uniform Christians—remember Isaiah xxvi, 3. The third class he spoke to were those almost persuaded to be Christians. Were they going to stay out among the hardest cases while their wives, children and friends had come in? Then it was so glorious to have their sins forgiven and be heirs of God. It was wicked not to be a Christian, for that was rebellion against God. It was inhuman not to be a Christian, for it was human to love those that loved them. They believed in the reality of Christianity. Some confounded temptation to doubt with doubt, but he did not believe there was an infidel in the house. Time was short and life uncertain and they should be prepared. Some of them felt they ought to be Christians, and some had been awakened but had only become more devilish. "Almost persuaded, but only almost!" They had heard of others missing the pearly gates, and would they miss them? Avert the possibility of missing heaven by yielding to God's love.

Rev. Mr. Shorey led in prayer and "There are Angels Hovering Round" was sung.

Mr. HUNTER gave an earnest exhortation. Some of them, he said, had been on the very doorstep of the Kingdom, yet were only almost persuaded. It was a terrible thing to put this matter off. He would not for his right hand advise one of them to wait until to-morrow. "To-morrow! To-morrow the sun may shine through the window on your dead form." He strongly urged them to come to a right decision.

The first meeting was then closed, but only a few went out, and the crowd was still so great that Mr. Hunter asked about two hundred Christians to go out so they would have room to move about among the audience. A large number went into the inquiry room during the after service.

NOTES.

A meeting was held in the George-st. church at 10 o'clock this morning, and another was held at 2 30 this afternoon.

To-night's meeting will be the last of the series and will be in the George-st. church. The galleries will be reserved for ladies, and men only will occupy the body of the church. Children were asked to remain at home.

A Forester's Funeral.

The remains of the late James Duncan were followed to their last resting place in the Little Lake Cemetery this afternoon by a very large funeral cortege. The burial took place under the auspices of the Order of Foresters, and the brethren, headed by the Fire Brigade Band, turned out in large numbers to pay their last respects to their deceased brother.

—Mr. L. Poivin, grocer, George-st. north, has bad an ingenius piece of workmanship sent to him from Quebec. It consist of three crosses, a ladder and a spade made of wood and arranged within an ordinary pint bottle. The curiosity of the affair is the placing of the work in the bottle.

Purchase of Imported Jerseys—Encounter with a Bear.

Correspondence of the Review.

JERSEY STOCK.—At the sale of Oakland Jersey herd belonging to Mr. Valiancy E. Fuller, near Hamilton, last week, Mr. F. Birdsall purchased two choice imported cows. One was Leda Cicero, 22865 A. J. C. C., imported cow, known on Island of Jersey as Leda F. S. 6691, dropped May 28th, 1882, solid color, black tongue, black switch. The get of Cicero (the sire of this cow) is very uniform in appearance, with rich yellow skins and unusual udder developments. They have always found favor with breeders, thirty of his calves having averaged $604 each at J. S. Cooper's sales, Cicero himself selling for $3 100. Lady Fair, by Cicero, has tested 56½ pounds of butter in four weeks, when only 24 months old, for Mr. W. L. Conyngham, Wilkesbarre, Pa. Count Cicero (by Cicero) won second prize over all Jersey in 1883, and at the Trinity show in March 1884, the first prize for yearling bulls was awarded to a son of Cicero. Vertumnus G., grandsire of Leda Cicero, sired many prize animals and his get show much quality and are very bloodlike in appearance. He has the following to his credit:—LaRogue 12405, 14 lbs. 2 oz; Lady Valentine 15771, 17 lbs. 2 oz; Punchinello 12405, 2 lbs., 8¼ oz., in one day. Belle of Jersey, 22210 A. J. C. C., the second cow bought by Mr. Birdsall, is an imported cow, dropped 16th February, 1881, solid light gray fawn, black tongue, and black switch. Two crosses of Jersey Boy 92, who sired Oakland Cora 18853, with test of 19 lbs. 9 oz., in 7 days by official test, and 81 lbs. 5½ oz. in 31 days, 4 months after calving, and who is dam of Oakland Cora 22362, who tested at Provincial Exhibition grounds, Guelph, in 1886, 3 lbs. 11½ oz. in one day at public test, equal to 26 lbs ¼ oz. in 7 days. Jersey Boy 92 is also sire of Esmerentia, rate of 15 lbs. in 7 days. Welcome 172, sire of Jersey Boy 29, sired Stella Le Brocq 4956, 13lbs. 3 oz.; Hero 90, with six daughters in the 14 lb. list, and Tom 77, sire of Brunette le Gros 9753, 16 lbs. In making these purchases, Mr. Birdsall has given another evidence of his enterprise as a progressive farmer.

A BEAR.—Mr. Wm. Lynn, on comming home, from his brother-in-law's on Friday night, says the Star, had a narrow escape from being devoured by a bear. Mr. Lynn was walking on the C. P. R. track, about 300 yards from the residence of Mr. Michael Herr, when he heard a crash in the woods beside him, and on looking around, saw a large black bear inside the fence, making desperate efforts to get through the barbed wire fence, at him. Quick as thought, Mr. Lynn armed himself with stones, and showered them at Bruin, at such a rate that his bearship thought it well to make himself scarce.

CHINA HALL

CHINA
AND
QUEENS WA

Immense sums have been paid for rare specimens of antique China. Think of $5,400 being given for a china plate cracked at that. Consider $34,000 as the market value of a set of 120 pieces of se'vers china. Hold in one hand a cup and saucer and in the other hand the $2,400 that the cup and saucer brought at a Parisian auction. Truly, the craze of collectors for rare specimens of Palissey ware, has given fictitious values to many an unpretentious plate and cup. When money is tight it is a comfort to think of $2,800 being paid for a hawthorn jug that would barely hold a quart of milk. These are prices that astonish, but the serious side of the question is that at China Hall you can secure full sets of China that will grace any tea table for so little money that anyone can afford the outlay. Not only China, but good substantial dinner sets fit to set out the table of an M. P. or Mayor. Come to CHINA HALL and see what money will do. You'll not have to spend the value of six first-class farms for a China Tea Set.

BEAUTIFUL JIM.

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER

CHAPTER XXII.

A REASONABLE OBJECTION.

It was not more than half an hour after this that Mr. Earle returned from his club, and entered the little room where his daughter and Beautiful Jim were sitting.

And who his daughter's visitor was, Mr. Earle had not the very smallest idea, until she introduced him by name.

"And Mr. Beresford has waited to see you, dear father," she said; "he wants to ask you something, so I will leave you a few minutes before lunch."

This implied that her father was to invite the visitor to join them at that meal, a hint that was not lost upon him.

"Well, Mr. Beresford," he said, as the door closed behind Nancy's retiring form, "you wanted to ask me something?"

He settled himself with his back to the fire with the air of a man who was accustomed to be asked favors and had no objection to granting them in a pompous sort of way. Evidently he had no suspicion of the nature of Jim's request, and indeed his daughter had given him so little trouble in that way that it was hardly likely that he should know just what was coming, as he would undoubtedly have done had he been an aristocratic old lady instead of being an aristocratic old gentleman.

"You wanted to ask me something?" he repeated, blandly.

"Yes, sir, I did," said Jim. "It is for your consent to my engagement to your daughter."

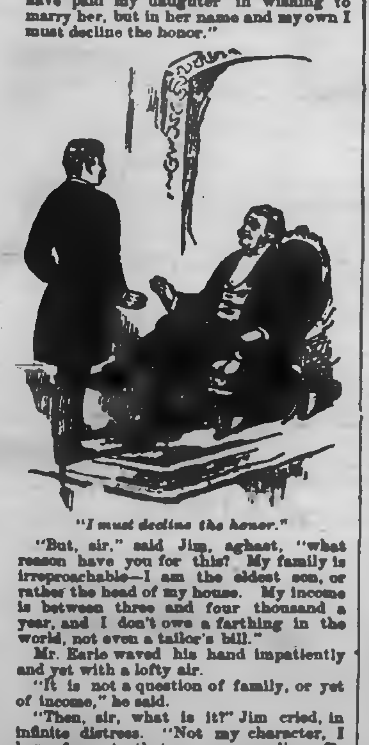
"To my daughter!" Mr. Earle echoed, looking as he felt, simply thunder struck.

"Yes, sir, I met her frequently during the time she was staying at the Deanery at Blankhampton, and I should have come up to see you about it then, only I felt it was a little hurried—a little premature. Besides, I was not by any means sure that Miss Earle would be inclined to listen to me—and I intended to be in town during the autumn, and thought I might see more of her then. I was in town, but you and she were abroad, sir, and I could not get foreign leave, so I had simply no choice but to await your return."

"And you have spoken to my daughter?" the old man asked, stiffly.

"This morning, sir," Beautiful Jim replied.

"Mr. Beresford," said Mr. Earle, speaking in the most formal tones possible, "I am very sensible of the compliment you have paid my daughter in wishing to marry her, but in her name and my own I must decline the honor."



"I must decline the honor."

"But, sir," said Jim, aghast, "what reason have you for this? My family is irreproachable—I am the eldest son, or rather the head of my house. My income is between three and four thousand a year, and I don't owe a farthing in the world, not even a tailor's bill."

Mr. Earle waved his hand impatiently and yet with a lofty air.

"It is not a question of family, or yet of income," he said.

"Then, sir, what is it?" Jim cried, in infinite distress. "Not my character, I hope, for as to that my commanding officer will speak for me, and I have been eight years in his regiment, so he ought to know."

"Mr. Beresford," said the old man, gravely, "it is very painful for me to have to speak with greater plainness; will it not be best for us to consider the conversation at an end and your proposal declined?"

"I would rather hear your reasons for declining it plainly, sir," said Jim, with admirable coolness.

"Is that so?" asked Mr. Earle.

"Yes, sir," returned Jim, "that is so."

"Then I must speak out," said the old man, with a sort of groan. He hated everything unpleasant, and made a rule of shirking all disagreeables whenever possible. "Well, Mr. Beresford, I must tell you frankly that if you had come to me last autumn and asked for my daughter, I should, if my daughter had been willing, have considered yourself, your family and your income a perfectly desirable and suitable match for her; but since that time a great deal has happened. You, for instance, have been arrested since then on a suspicion of murder."

Jim fairly staggered back as the words passed the old man's lips.

"Mr. Earle," he said, hoarsely, "you don't—you surely can't believe that I committed that foul crime?"

To be Continued.

The Canada Stained Glass Works, of Toronto, have again increased their staff in every department. The Church and House Ornamental Glass turned out by this firm can be relied on both for durability and excellence of design. Persons requiring glass in every style or quantity whatever should address the makers, McCausland & Son, Toronto.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Hess Bros.' Failure—Escape of a Convict From the Central Prison.

TORONTO, April 11.—There was a meeting of Hess Bros.' creditors yesterday. An offer of 50 cents on the dollar was made and accepted by a majority of those present. The statement presented showed total liabilities of $124,814, of which $96,666 is secured. The total assets are $115,354, leaving a nominal balance of $18,000 to meet the unsecured claims of $28,000. It is hardly likely the firm will re-build their lately destroyed premises in Toronto, the evidence going to show that their trouble was caused by over-spreading their works and a lack of capital.

William Butler, a colored convict from Chatham, cleverly escaped from the Central Prison yesterday morning. Some cars were being shunted in the yard, and one of these he entered unperceived and thus escaped, leaving the bulk of his prison clothes in the car. He has not been recaptured.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society yesterday decided to meet in Hamilton next year, condemned the aggression of the Jesuits and elected these officers:

President—Mrs. Thomas Ewart.

Vice-Presidents—Mrs. John Harvie, Mrs. H. M. Parsons, Mrs. J. C. Hamilton, Mrs. Hugh Campbell and the presidents of the presbyterial societies, auxiliaries, societies and mission bands.

Hon. Vice-Presidents—Mrs. Topp, Mrs. J. Jennings, Mrs. W. Reid, Mrs. J. McLachlan, Mrs. John McMurrich; rec. sec., Mrs. George H. Robinson.

Home Secretary—Mrs. Shortreed.

Foreign Secretary—Mrs. MacMurchy.

Secretary of Supplies—Mrs. Hugh Campbell.

Treasurer—Mrs. James Maclennan.

There may be a fight over the $200 reward offered for the recovery of the body of the late Seymour Porter. Sexsmith was the first man to see the body in the bay, and while he was away looking for some one to help him pull it out, another man came along and made the same discovery, putting in a claim for a share of the reward.

The funeral of Seymour Porter, who was found drowned in Toronto Bay, took place yesterday and was largely attended by the Masonic body and prominent citizens.

Seven young ladies have passed the examination for nurses at the Toronto Training School. They are:

Miss Sara Snyder, Mount Forest.
Miss Elizabeth McKenzie, Woodstock.
Miss Jennie Graham, Toronto.
Miss Nettie Lauder, Whitby.
Miss Bessie Sutherland, Embro.
Miss Margaret McIntosh, Toronto.
Miss Carrie Watson, Kingston.

The Farquhar-Robertson libel suit is still on trial and bids fair to last all week.

The Eastern Gap entrance to Toronto harbor will probably be deepened this season so as to be open to steamers and large vessels.

Thomas Anderson, 266 Farley-avenue, had his foot crushed on the Esplanade yesterday, necessitating his removal to the hospital. He was engaged unloading ballast from a C.P.R. gravel train at the foot of Yonge-street and in boarding a flat car while in motion slipped, his right foot being ground to pieces beneath the wheels.

Thomas Hennigan, a newsboy, was arrested last night by Detective Davis on a telegram from Paris charging him with the larceny of a silver watch and chain from that town.

Kingston's Canal Petition.

KINGSTON, April 11.—The following petition numerously signed has been forwarded to the Acting Minister of Railways and Canals: "In view of the Welland Canal opening on April 16 and of the very large quantity of grain that is waiting for the opening of said canal and destined for Kingston, and also in view of the fact that the larger portion of the river fleet had to lay up in Montreal last fall on account of the break in the Cornwall Canal, they having been frozen in at Montreal before they could be discharged, we beg to urge upon the Government the great necessity of having the St. Lawrence canals opened at the same time as the Welland Canal and thus prevent the blockade that is otherwise sure to occur, causing great loss and detention to the forwarding interests and discredit to Kingston as a point of transhipment.

The Flour Output.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 11.—The Northwestern Miller says: There was another slight decrease in the flour output last week, partly due to the head of water not being as good as most of the mills could use, and partly to the fact that some of them ran only three days. The aggregate production for the week was 88,150 barrels against 90,870 barrels the week before and 131,400 barrels for the corresponding time in 1888. The present week will probably make a better showing. Twelve mills were running yesterday, and two more of the medium class will start to-day.

In sympathy with wheat the flour market is dull and unsettled and prices are quoted 25 cents or more lower than a week ago. However, the inquiry from both the east and abroad is on the increase. Some of the flour stored in this city and at Duluth is being sent east, mostly for export. The direct exports last week were 48,960 barrels, against 30,110 the preceding week. This is the largest amount exported in several months, but considerable of it was consigned. The greater part of the export consists of bakers' grade.

Niagara Falls Board of Trade.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 11.—The Niagara Falls Board of Trade held their first annual meeting last evening in the Council Chamber. All the representative business men of the town were present. The board added 20 new members, making in all a membership of 80. The election of officers for 1889 resulted as follows: President, Henry Preston; vice-president, J. A. Langmuir; secretary and treasurer, Harry Ingles. Council—Charles J. Bampfield, John Logan, John Waugh, William Doran, Thos. F. Ellis, William J. McMurray, John Robinson, Wm. McHattie.

This Boodler is Safe in Windsor.

WINDSOR, April 11.—John G. Thompson, the missing postal clerk of Columbus, O., who left Detroit suddenly Monday night when he learned the authorities knew of his whereabouts, is now at the British American Hotel, Windsor. Thompson is safe from the United States authorities so long as he stays in Canada. The penalty for his alleged crime is from one to ten years in the penitentiary.

Father Paradis' Appeal Successful.

MONTREAL, April 11.—L'Etendard says that according to information from most reliable sources in Rome it is in a position to state that Father Paradis' appeal to the Holy See has been heard and has had the very satisfactory result of having him reinstated in his rights to celebrate mass.

Chicago in a Fog.

CHICAGO, April 10.—The fog this morning in the vicinity of Chicago was so dense that trains could be moved only under disadvantages. On the Northwestern road six freight trains were running slowly under five minutes' headway into the city. Three got badly tangled up and a disabled engine and three wrecked box cars were the result. No trainmen were injured. The tracks were blocked for hours.

NEWS OF THE DOMINION.

TIMELY TOPICS FROM CANADA'S CHIEF CITIES.

The Hull-less Oats Swindle—A Peterboro Brute Tried for the Seduction of His Daughter.

TORONTO, April 12. The Executive yesterday unanimously rejected Rev. W. F. Wilson's claim for the costs of his appeal against the decision of the Police Magistrate in the famous "move on" case.

The police estimates for 1889 are $195,005, an increase of $17,000 over 1888.

Early yesterday morning the residence of Mr. Edward Reid, Ontario-street, was entered by burglars and a quantity of silver carried off. The thieves cast a covetous eye on the goods and chattels of ex-Councillor Miles of Parkdale, but the plunder did not amount to a great deal.

In a runaway accident near the Humber Mr. James Matthews, soda water manufacturer, was thrown out of a buggy and fractured his leg.

Property holders residing near Knox College will hold a public meeting to discuss the chances of getting the college buildings removed. The agitation against the present site is popular.

W. J. Wilson, a well-known hotel-keeper at the corner of Adelaide and Widmer-streets, died very suddenly while attending to his bar yesterday morning.

David Christie pleaded not guilty to having robbed Samuel Woodland of between $45 and $50 and a check for $50. The victim gave his evidence to the effect that on the night of Jan. 14 last he was knocked down by a man on Tecumseth-street, near King, and relieved of the amount mentioned in the information. Christie will present his defence to-day.

The News in Belleville

BELLEVILLE, April 11.—The body of A. S. Gilbert, a fisherman drowned in the gale of Jan. 9, was found last night on the bay shore at the cemetery.

Alex. Robertson of this city, agent for the hull-less oats concern, was charged before Wm. Anderson, J.P., at Rossmore with having by fraudulent means procured the signature of Harriet A. May to a note for $200 with intent to defraud. The evidence was heard and argument will take place on Tuesday next.

Within a few days $240 has been stolen from the house of Reuben Vermilyea, 4th concession of Sidney.

Three tons and a quater of fish were shipped to the United States yesterday.

Seven Years for Philip Moran's Slayer.

BARRIE, April 11.—At the assizes last night, after the acquittal of David Hebner on the charge of murdering Philip Moran, David was called as a witness for the defense. His evidence contradicted the Crown witnesses in many particulars, but chiefly in regard to threats made by Charles, the witness stating that he heard no threatening language whatever. The jury brought in a verdict of manslaughter against Charles Hebner, and he was sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary.

THE PRESIDENT'S SON.

Russell B. Harrison Arrested in New York on a Charge of Libel.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Russell B. Harrison, son of the President, was arrested this afternoon in the offices of Judge charged with libel. Mr. Harrison came on from Washington last night for the purpose of having the papers in the suit served on him. The warrant was issued by Judge Beach of the Supreme Court, who fixed bail at $5000, and it was promptly furnished. The libellous article referred to accused ex-Governor Crosby of having stolen jewels from a Washington lady and was published in a paper in which Mr. Harrison owned an interest.

The Barley Market.

BUFFALO, April 12.—Barley prices are very unsettled. Although sales are being made every day the prices if given would be of no assistance in solving the mystery of the value of barley. For instance sales were reported yesterday of 10,000 bushels No. 3 at 55c., 10,000 No. 3 extra at 58½ and 5000 nearly No. 1 at 68c. This transaction according to other dealers was made some days ago when the market was weak and only closed yesterday. Still the Canadian dealer who sold this offered No. 1 at 70c., No. 2 at 65c., No. 3 extra at 60c., and No. 3 at 55c. to-arrive. At Albany the market is practically closed. One car was received but there is virtually no trade. Chicago nominal, Milwaukee quiet at 55c for No. 2.

Suicide at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, April 12.—The mother of Chas. W. Knodel of Niagara-street went up to her son's room at 7 o'clock this morning and called for him to get up. He replied that he would in a few minutes. She went down stairs and a minute later heard the sharp report of a revolver. She ran back upstairs and on going into Charles' room was horrified to see blood coming out of a little hole in the young man's forehead. He had shot himself in the left temple and the ball came out of the right. Knodel died in half an hour. The cause of his rash act is not known.

BALFOUR THE COMING MAN

ALL INDICATIONS POINT TO HIS SUCCESSION.

Rumored Wounding of the Czar in an Attempt on His Life—Earthquake in Epirus—General Cable News.

LONDON, April 11.—It is generally believed that last night's dinner to Hon. W. H. Smith, coming so closely on the announcement of Mr. Smith's intention to retire from the House and take the higher though less prominent seat that will be the reward of his active party service, was designed to mark the approaching step, and that Mr. Smith's resignation of the Tory leadership and acceptance of a peerage will very shortly follow. At present all indications point towards Mr. Balfour's succession to the leadership. Four-fifths of his party are in favor of the mantle of the illustrious news vendor falling upon the Irish Secretary. The coming session needs a strong, aggressive man at the head to lead the Tories, and Mr. Balfour's Irish record is cited as evidence that he is the only man able to assume the leadership. The friends of Mr. Goschen, however, think that he is entitled to the honor, but the Balfourites hint at other honors for the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The Sugar Conversion Bill.

LONDON, April 11.—Baron Henry De Worms introduced the Sugar Conversion Bill in the House of Commons this evening. In commenting on the injurious effects of bounties he warned the House that the system might be extended to other than raw materials, that America's enormous sur, lus might be devoted to bounties on manufacture and thus destroy the Lancashire industries. The second reading of the bill was fixed for May 2. Sir Lyon Playfair gave notice that he would move the rejection of the measure.

The Sage on Woman Suffrage.

LONDON, April 11.—Goldwin Smith writes to The Times on Woman Suffrage, saying the movement has made little headway in the United States in the last forty years, but admitting that the question would change position immediately if the parliamentary franchise was carried in England owing to the national habit of looking to England for political precedents. He adds that the chief obstacle to woman suffrage in America is the hostility of the party bosses.

The Hunt Tragedy.

LONDON, April 11.—The coroner's jury that inquired into the death of Goldsmith Hunt, the relative of Lady Scott, who killed his mistress and himself, has returned a verdict stating that Mr. Hunt was temporarily insane when he committed the deed. All save the technical evidence in the case was suppressed and not made public.

Violent Earthquakes in Epirus.

LONDON, April 11.—Violent earthquakes are reported to have occurred in Epirus. The extent of damage is unknown.

Bismarck Not Pleased With Bates.

LONDON, April 12.—The Berlin correspondent of The Daily News says that Germany has not protested officially against the appointment of Mr. Bates as one of the American commissioners to the Samoan conference, but that the Government would prefer to have someone else appointed in his place.

By Way of Bucharest

BUCHAREST, April 11.—It is rumored here that an attempt was made upon the life of the Czar Sunday and that His Majesty was wounded by an exploding shell. The affair is said to have been hushed up by the Russian authorities.

Adjournment of the French Chamber.

PARIS, April 11.—The Chamber of Deputies has adjourned till May 14.

The Temps says the Government is disposed to agree to Germany's proposal for an international conference on the slavery question.

The Marseilles Strikers Returning.

PARIS, April 11.—Later advices from Marseilles are that the strikers are resuming work.

Drought in Egypt.

CAIRO, April 11.—Owing to the scarcity of water the area of cotton culture this season is much restricted.

Nassau Takes the Oath.

LUXEMBURG, April 11.—The Duke of Nassau took the oath of office as Regent of the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg to-day. In an address to the Chamber of Deputies the Regent expressed a determination to maintain the autonomy of the country.

Bismarck Calls on Empress Frederick.

BERLIN, April 11.—Prince Bismarck had a brief audience to-day with ex-Empress Frederick.

FIRES OF A DAY.

NEW YORK, April 11.—The Howard building, No. 778 Broadway, was badly damaged by fire this morning. The losses are as follows: Henry C. Squier, dealer in sporting goods, $50,000; W. Skidmore, shoe store, $5000; Vanderpoel and McLanahan, owners of the building, $80,000.

Cheese Factory Burnt.

WINGHAM, Ont., April 11.—The new brick cheese factory at Bluevale was last night completely burned, nothing being saved. The loss is about $6000, insured $2000. The cause is supposed to be incendiarism and there are strong suspicions as to who are the guilty parties. There was no fire protection.

A Petrolia Loss.

PETROLIA, April 11.—Fire last night completely destroyed the derrick, engine house and machinery of the Baxter Wells, owned by J. L. Englehart & Co. Loss, $2000; insured.

A Blaze at Belleville.

BELLEVILLE, April 11.—The unfinished residence of C. F. Smith in Pine-street was burnt to the ground by an incendiary fire early this morning. Loss, $1000; insurance, $800.

A Peculiar Smoke.

MILWAUKEE, April 11.—A fire in Sanger & Rockwell's wood working establishment last night developed a dense and peculiar smoke to which two-thirds of the members of the fire department succumbed. Out of 150 men not over 30 would have been available had another fire occurred. Forty had to be sent home and five are in the hospital. All are expected to recover. Loss, $25,000.

A Dozen Stores Burnt.

CAMDEN, Ind., April 11.—A dozen stores were burnt here yesterday. Loss, $40,000.

Firebugs in a Michigan City.

JACKSON, Mich., April 12.—Five fires have occurred here within the past 24 hours, the origin of which is known in but one instance. The police department is making an active investigation. A gang of incendiaries are supposed to be working systematically for the purpose of robbery.

High License in Mississippi.

JACKSON, Miss., April 11.—Jackson, after being dry nearly 2½ years, is again a wet town. The first saloon opened yesterday opened under the local option law, to be followed by half a dozen more. The city council fixed the license at $2000.

LABBY'S GOSSIP.

He Takes a Radical View of Stanley's Work—The Aristocrats Again.

LONDON, April 11. It is impossible not to admire Stanley's pluck and endurance, but I venture to question the use of marches like his into the interior of Africa. The plea was that Emin wished to be relieved. He does not want to be relieved. He is only desirous to be left alone. What benefit is it then to the cause of civilization that a white man should hire a vast number of carriers and undertake an expedition in which half of them die of fatigue and some are hanged for wishing to desert in order to force his way through tribes by burning their villages and shooting them? The net result seems to be that it has been discovered that one lake is not so deep as it was 100 years ago, that another lake lies to the south of the first, that there is a very dense forest, mainly inhabited by dwarfs, on the road to these lakes, and that somewhere in the vicinity of this forest there is a high mountain hitherto unknown, the top of which is covered with snow. All this is, no doubt, interesting. But is it worth impressing carriers who die of fatigue or are hanged, and is it worth shooting dwarfs and destroying villages?

I should like to hear the carrier or the dwarf on the question.

Prince Alexander of Battenberg having furnished a satisfactory explanation to the Emperor of Austria on the subject of his marriage, which is a perfectly legal one, he has received permission to take up his residence at Gratz, and in the course of a few months will receive a high command in the Austrian army.

The Duchess of Cambridge was the last survivor of the George IV. generation of the royal family, and she was decidedly the most estimable and most talented of them. She will be much lamented by the Queen, who will feel that she has lost one of the few remaining persons who had been about her all her life who really cared for her, and upon whose affection and sympathy she could always rely.

The accouchement of Princess Beatrice will take place at Windsor, the event being anticipated in about three weeks.

A reliable correspondent at St. Petersburg informs me that the betrothal of the Czarewitch to Princess Anastasia of Montenegro, the third daughter of Prince Nicholas, will be announced at Easter, and my friend adds that the marriage will be very popular in Russia.

The marriage of the Duke of Portland to Miss Dallas Yorke will take place in town the week after Ascot.

The Rose Fenwick is a collapsible or crush bonnet. It was invented by Miss Rose Fenwick, the daughter of an admiral, and is being now taken up by the Paris milliners. Play-goers who frequent the pit will have reason to bless the inventor if it proves to be the coming bonnet. It shuts up like a crush hat and when in its collapsed state looks like a fan or fan shaped reticule. It can be made to serve as such hooked on to a girdle. When open it is like any other bonnet of the Fanchon form, but prettier. One of its virtues is that it does not require a big band box. Indeed, one might thrust it into a glove box. For matinee dances it would be ideal.

HENRY LABOUCHERE.

Had to Take Loose Silver or Nothing.

PHILADELPHIA, April 12.—A prominent citizen of Salem said to-day: "The refusal of the City National Bank of Salem to accept certain terms of exchange offered by the Woodstown National Bank has involved these institutions in a war which has assumed a comical aspect. As the Salem bank receives on deposit daily a large number of the Woodstown Bank checks, a messenger is dispatched to the latter place twice a week, to receive the money for the same. In order to punish the Salem people Cashier Fliteraft, of the Woodstown Bank imported from Philadelphia thousands of dollars in silver coin, counted out in bags, to meet these checks. Messenger Powell, whom the Salem Bank sent down last week, protested against being paid with silver. Yesterday, when Powell appeared with $4800 in checks Fliteraft wheeled out the money in a wheelbarrow to the middle of the bank and dumped it loose on the floor, compelling Powell to count out the entire amount. When bags were asked for in which to carry the money to Salem, Cashier Fliteraft politely responded that "banks were not in the habit of furnishing their patrons with purses." The war continues and is the topic of conversation of the citizens of the two counties."

A Village Wiped Out by Flames.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich, April 12.—The village of Canonsburg, 16 miles northeast of this city was almost swept out of existence by fire yesterday. The fire started in John Thomas' Hotel. Men, women and children carried water or did what they could to remove property from the reach of the flames. Feather beds, blankets and carpets soaked with water were hung from the eaves and on the roofs of threatened houses and by heroic efforts the fire was finally subdued. Thomas' Hotel was entirely destroyed, loss $8000, the grocery store, owned by George Hartwell, was burned, loss $3000; general store of drugs, groceries, etc., owned by Dr. J. C. Benbow was destroyed and his barn and dwelling also burned, loss $3000. Many other buildings including a grist mill and Joyce's Hotel were slightly damaged. Most of the destroyed property was partially insured.

Murdered at a Beer Party.

WEST BRANCH, Mich., April 12.—At an evening beer party at the residence of Stephen Weigers in Edwardo Township Frank Buhlman was struck on the head with a heavy stick of stovewood by Steve Kartes. Buhlman died about four hours afterwards. Steve Kartes and his brother Peter, who was also fighting with Buhlman, have been arrested, and Coroner Cochrane is holding an inquest. Great excitement prevails over the matter.

Killed in a Fight.

BUFFALO, April 12.—Daniel O'Connell, 50 years of age, boarding on Carroll-street, got into a fight Wednesday night at the corner of Seventh and Massachusetts-streets. He was terribly bruised up and when the fight was over O'Connell was found lying on the sidewalk in an unconscious condition. He was taken to the Emergency Hospital, thence being removed yesterday morning to the Sisters' Hospital, where he died at 12.30 yesterday afternoon.

WINDSOR, April 12. The Canadian Pacific Railroad Company put 100 extra men at work on the Windsor end of the line yesterday morning and also large forces to work all along the line. The slip dock of the company will run to the edge of the channel, further than the slips of either of the present companies.

Lost His Leg.

KINGSTON, April 11.—A sad accident occurred Wednesday night on one of the K. & P. R. R. tracks near the station. W. Cooper, a brakeman, was engaged in making up a train, and while coupling the cars his left foot caught in the guard rail and the train began to move before he could relieve himself. He tried hard to pull his foot away, but his exertions were so severe that he twisted his leg and broke it. He fell back when one of the car wheels ran diagonally across his leg mashing it dreadfully. He was removed to the hospital and the limb amputated.

THE OCEAN MAIL SERVICE.

ENGLISH MAILS TO BE FORWARDED VIA NEW YORK.

The Postmaster-General Says the Arrangement is a Temporary One—Topics from the Capital.

MONTREAL, April 11.—This despatch was received by the postmaster here this afternoon:

OTTAWA, April 11.—From and including to-day, all mails to England to be forwarded via New York. WILLIAM WHITE, Deputy Postmaster-General.

A Temporary Arrangement.

OTTAWA, April 11.—Speaking to a reporter to-night Hon. John Haggart, Postmaster-General, said the despatch of the European mail via New York was a merely temporary arrangement, the order issued applying only to the mail now being made out. The change arose out of the expiry to-morrow of the mail contract with the Allans. A satisfactory arrangement would no doubt be made for sending the mails for the future by the fast line of steamers which it was proposed to place on the Canadian route.

IN THE HOUSE.

Adjournment to Be Only Over Good Friday The U.S. Cheese Frauds.

OTTAWA, April 11.—In the House this afternoon in answer to Mr. Vanasse Sir John Macdonald said the Government were aware that United States cheese exporters were in the habit of marking their inferior goods as Canadian cheese to the detriment of the character of our exports. Without a change in the law so as to make it an offence the Government could not put an end to the practice.

Sir John Macdonald moved that Government measures shall have precedence on every Monday during the remainder of the session.

Mr. Laurier protested that a good many important measures promoted by private members would not have an opportunity under this arrangement of being put through.

Sir John said the more important of such measures would be transferred to the Government order paper so as to facilitate their progress.

Hon. Mr. Laurier said it seemed now impossible to have prorogation before Easter, as had been proposed, and he asked how long the Government proposed to adjourn.

Sir John Macdonald said that with the consent of the House the adjournment would only be over Good Friday. There would be a sitting on the following day, Saturday, and on Easter Monday.

On motion to go into committee of supply Mr. Flynn offered an amendment condemning the route chosen for the Cape Breton Railway now under construction. Discussion on this amendment occupied the time of the House all the rest of the afternoon.

After recess the debate on Mr. Flynn's resolution was continued, and the resolution having been negatived without division, the House went into Committee of Supply. The Canadian Northwest Mounted Police and sundry appropriations for miscellaneous purposes were passed.

The House adjourned at 2.20 a.m.

Senator Wark's Resolution Defeated.

OTTAWA, April 11.—At 12.30 this morning the Senate concluded the debate on Senator Wark's resolution to the effect that it would be unjust to the United Kingdom to levy higher duties on goods imported from thence than on goods of the same character imported from any foreign country. Hon. Mr. Abbott's amendment was adopted instead by a vote of 36 to 11. The amendment is to the effect that it would not be in the interest of Canada to establish entire reciprocity of trade with any foreign nation upon any conditions that would restrict it with regard to others.

THE DOMINION FISHERIES.

The Total Yield Last Year Nearly $1,000,000 Less Than in 1887.

OTTAWA, April 11.—The annual report of the Fisheries Department for 1888 was presented to-day. This shows the total yield of the fisheries during the year to have been $17,500,000, the figures by provinces being:

Nova Scotia	$7,[illegible]
New Brunswick	[illegible]
British Columbia	1,[illegible]
Quebec	1,[illegible]
Ontario	1,[illegible]
Prince Edward Island	[illegible]
Manitoba and Northwest Territories	1[illegible],677

The total is nearly a million dollars less than that of last year, the decrease being in the Maritime Provinces, while Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba show increased yields.

The kinds of fish of which more than a million dollars worth were taken were:

Cod	$4,[illegible]
Herring	2,[illegible]
Salmon	1,[illegible]
Lobsters	1,[illegible]

Satisfaction is expressed at the continuance of the steady increase in the yield of the Ontario fisheries. The increase shown in 1888 was $308,019. This, it is stated, has been largely brought about by judicious protection allied to a strict enforcement of the fishery laws.

There are eleven hatcheries now maintained by the Government and 88,000,000 young fish were distributed from these during the year.

The expenditure of the department was:

General service	$ [illegible]
Fish breeding	41,[illegible]
Fisheries protection service	77,[illegible]
Fishing bounty for 1887	[illegible]
Total	[illegible]

UNITED STATES RAILWAYS.

CHICAGO, April 11.—The Railway Age presents tables showing that 666 new railroad lines with an aggregate mileage of 53,436 miles have been projected in this country since Jan. 1 last; that on these lines 14,818 miles are under construction or contract, 8617 are surveyed and 29,001 are incorporated or projected. The Age says:

"The fact that in the first three months of the year only new lines representing over 53,000 miles have been brought to public notice and that their construction is urged and to a large extent is probable, is impressive evidence of the enormous field for railway enterprises which the United States still affords. The mileage proposed in these three months is equivalent to almost one-third of the entire railway mileage of the country now in operation, and yet the projection and inauguration of other lines is still going on at an equally rapid rate, and the prospect is that the roads projected and in various stages of development during 1889 will exceed in aggregate mileage our entire present completed system. How many of these enterprises will fail entirely or will drag along through years, of course cannot be foretold. But the great fact remains for consideration that the map of our country shows apparent room for all these enterprises and for many more."

THE SCOTT ACT RETURNS.

The Majority Will be Smaller than Expected—No Official Declaration.

The committee of each party in the recent Scott Act fight met this morning with Returning Officer Stapleton and made the official count of the vote. Dr. Fife and Mr. Geo. Hilliard represented the Scott Act party and Messrs. Jas. Stewart and E. A. Peck were present for the antis. The official declaration, however, could not be made to-day by the returning officer as there were fifteen districts from which the returns were not visible. The declaration was postponed for one week. However from the figures received the majority against the Act is let down considerably, and it is hardly probable that it will exceed 250. The returns are as follows:—

OVERCOATS AND HEALTH.

A Claim That It Is Better to Wear Heavy Clothing Next to the Body.

The teaching of modern science and of ancient custom goes to show that heat production within the body has much to do with the tissue changes concerned in muscular activity and with healthy digestion. It is conserved by warm and moderate, wasted in evaporation by excessive, clothing. Finally, by a simple nervous reaction, it is increased after the contact of external cold. It follows from these observations that, if we be so clad with comfortable underclothing that surface evaporation is not formed in excess and is rapidly removed, one great cause of chill—sudden evaporation—is done away with. Outer cold, then, provided it is not too severe, only touches, as it were, the spring of the heat-making metabolism, and, exciting an elastic rebound in the chain of vaso-motor fibers, awakens that oxidative action by which every tissue is made to yield its share of heat to the body. This bracing influence is lost wholly or partly to those who are too heavily clothed, and in its place we may have a dangerous excess of surface heat.

It is for this reason that we have before protested, as we now do, against the indiscriminate use of the thick and heavy overcoat. We would rather see men in fairly robust condition, especially if young, clad warmly next the skin, and wearing either a light top coat or none at all. There can be no doubt that the habitual use of great coats is indirectly accountable for the chills which they are intended to prevent. Were the overcoat worn continuously, it might attain its object. Its intermittent use, even when ample underclothing is worn, affords no solid guarantee of safety, but rather the reverse.

The man of sedentary habits has especial need to remember this. He emerges daily from a warm breakfast room clothed in his ordinary winter garments, with probably woolen underwear, and over all the heavy ulster or top coat. After a short walk he finds that the sense of warmth he began with is more than maintained. He arrives at his office or place of business, and off goes the overcoat, though the air of the newly opened room is as cold as that without, and draughty in addition. During the day perhaps he travels to and from adjacent business houses wearing only his house clothing. The overcoat is laid aside till closing time reminds him of the journey home. The frequent result is that somehow, between the hours of his departure and return, he is chilled. No doubt he would run as great a risk if, lightly clad, he were to face the rigor of a winter day. In this case, however, exercise and habit might do much to develop the power of endurance, and there would, at all events, be less danger of sudden cold acting upon a freely perspiring surface.

Woolen underclothing represents a state of healthy comfort intermediate between these extremes, and more resistant to chill than either. In commending its use, however, we do not assert that the influence of age and constitution is to be overlooked. Youth can oppose a power of resistance to depressing agencies which does not reside in the worn out nerve centers of a riper age. Similarly, that elastic reaction which characterizes the nervous and sanguine types is not to be looked for in the lax tissues of the lymphatic. The weaker physique naturally calls for fuller protection than the stronger, and any rule requiring the disuse of the overcoat should allow of reasonable exceptions in favor of the old and constitutionally feeble.

Unusual severity of weather, especially if associated with night air and the loss of sleep which this implies, is another condition which might well constitute an exception. In such a case we are compelled to add some form of overcoat to the ordinary amount of clothing. Some parts of the body—for example the chest, throat and feet—are certainly more susceptible to cold than others. As a useful safeguard, cold or tepid bathing of such parts is in merited favor. The custom so common with many persons, especially women, of walking out in thin soled boots often plays an important part in catching cold. The progress of time and of rational thought may be expected to bring in a more comfortable arrangement by clothing the foot in woolen hosiery and a stouter boot.—Lancet.

When Cocks Crow.

Another habit of animals that has attracted much attention and has called forth many explanations, all of which are more or less unsatisfactory, is the crowing of cocks at midnight. In the first place there is not much dependence to be placed in the cock as a time keeper. His crowing in the night time varies with the seasons, his time of going to roost, etc.

The explanation of the cause of his crowing is founded on a physiological function. Stand near a chicken roost early in the night and you will hear a continuous rattling sound coming from the fowls. This sound is produced by the muscles of the gizzard in grinding the food in them.

As these muscles agitate and triturate the gravel and sand that the fowls have swallowed to aid digestion, the sound is given off. In about six or seven hours after going to roost the rattling sound ceases. This indicates that digestion is finished. The fowls are now ready to take a sound sleep. They celebrate the event by crowing, cackling, shaking out their feathers and then settle down to roost for another and sounder sleep.

Sometimes the crowing is heard at irregular intervals. This is probably because of a lack of food or imperfect digestion. It is generally caused, no doubt, by the difference in time in which different individuals complete the work of digestion.

These last two observations are not given as conclusive or final, but as the best explanation that can at present be thought of for a natural phenomenon. It is a fact, however, that the work of digestion is seldom heard after the night time crowing.—Kansas City Journal.

Great Canal Schemes.

It was on the 17th of February, 1867, that the first ship entered the completed Suez canal of Ferdinand de Lesseps and the great French engineer found the first project of his life a brilliant success, which is all the more remarkable when contrasted with the dismal fiasco of the Panama enterprise. It is unfortunate that a career with so auspicious a beginning should have such a melancholy sequel. The millions which have been wasted on the isthmus recall the disastrous consequences which followed the South sea bubble, that unapproachable swindle of all time which has given the name of John Law an unenviable immortality.—Philadelphia Times.

Foreign Commercial Travelers.

The commercial traveler who goes abroad finds himself sometimes subject to irksome and expensive regulation. In Sweden he must pay a tax of 100 crowns for the first three months of his stay and 40 crowns for each subsequent month, with a fine of 100 to 800 crowns for any evasion of the tax. In the colonies travelers are subject to a license of £12 to £20, and this tax makes no inconsiderable sum when the traveler, as is customary, visits all the colonies. In France, however, the commercial man is free from burdensome taxation, and is also allowed transportation on the railroads at a reduction from the usual rates.—San Francisco Chronicle.

About Car Cables.

The strain put upon a cable in operating a cable road is very heavy, while the power required to move one is enormous. On most lines a cable one and one-fourth inches in thickness is used, which consists of a hemp or jute heart wrapped with six strands composed of nineteen wires of crucible steel. The weight of the cable is three and one-half pounds to the foot, so that a mile of cable figures up a dead weight of ten tons. The force necessary to draw this weight extended over the entire line is very much greater than would be required to move the same weight in a compact body. The breaking strain guaranteed by cable manufacturers is forty-five tons, but the maximum strain we use is only ten tons. An average of 75 per cent. of power is spent in pulling the empty cable, and the balance is all that is used for profit. A cable can be used only about seven months, when it becomes so worn as to be of no further use.—Kansas City Journal.

Fire in a Bedroom.

The fire brigade were called out shortly after nine o'clock last night for a blaze in a house situated on the Mud Lake road owned by Mr. Albert Dixon and occupied by Mr. A. Cooney. Before the brigade reached the scene of the fire however the flames had been extinguished and their services were not required. The fire originated in a bedroom, it is supposed that a spark fell on a bed from a defective stove pipe and ignited the bed clothes. The fire was put out before any great damage was done.

The "Idlers and Strangers," who have the arrangements in charge, are making great preparations for the day. A number of gentlemen will be present from a distance to take part in the platform meeting including Mr. Geo. A. Cox, of Toronto; Prof. F. H. Wallace, M.A., B.D., of Victoria University; Rev. I. Tovell, of St. Catharines; Rev. Thos. Manning, B.A., of Orillia; and Rev. George W. Dewey, of Lindsay. All of these gentlemen, except the last named, have resided in Peterborough, and they all have many friends here who will be pleased to meet them on this occasion. There can be no doubt as to the success of this meeting on April 19th.

Not Correct.

The Lindsay Warder says:—"While houses cannot be had in Lindsay, in Peterborough according to their own papers there 300 vacant." No, not according to the Peterborough papers; the REVIEW has not made such a statement. With the large number of new houses which have been erected here, and the consequent moving, there are a few empty dwellings, but less than a hundred—less than three-quarters of a hundred. Mr. Aldridge, the assessor, has gone over the greater part of the town, and kept a count of the empty dwellings in parts of it. He estimates that there are less than seventy-five unoccupied in the whole town, including all classes and conditions of dwellings, some not altogether completed. Last year the impression went abroad that little building was being done here, but when the REVIEW published a list of the new buildings that impression was shown to be wonderfully wide of the mark. Please correct the misstatement you were misled into publishing, Mr. Warder.

A MAGNIFICENT CLOSING.

THE FAREWELLS AND GOOD-BYES OF THE TWO EVANGELISTS.

Their Great Work in Peterborough—An Immense Audience Last Evening—The Local Divines Each Express their Thankfulness for the Visit—Rev. Mr. Crossley's Farewell Address—He Speaks of the Choir and Organists—Rev. Mr. Hunter Takes a Tender Farewell—He Remembers the Reporters—A Farewell in Poetry.

The evangelists are gone, but they will by no means be forgotten, for they leave behind them as monuments of the workings of the Spirit in their meetings converts from all classes of our citizens—the prominent and the humble, the moral and the wicked, the rich and the poor, the old and the young. It is now nearly six weeks since they opened their series of services in Peterborough and that their labour has not been in vain or the seed has not all fallen in unfruitful soil is shown by the 1,020 names which have been subscribed to the seekers' roll. It has indeed been a a mighty revival and the evangelists will in future be remembered in the prayers of hundreds and hundreds of families and individuals in Peterborough. Rev. Mr. Hunter and Rev. Mr. Crossley have both endeared themselves to many in town and will be followed by wishes for success in their labors elsewhere.

THE CROWD AT THE CHURCH.

When the doors of the church were thrown open at 7 o'clock there was a crowd waiting in the church yard that almost entirely filled the church. The ladies were largely in the majority in the crowd and as a result the gallery, to which the gentler sex had been confined, was filled as it was never filled before. But the fact that the portion of the church allotted to them was packed to its utmost did not discourage those ladies who were still left on the outside, but they stood and with eyes of envy watched the men walk in and take their choice of the seats in the body of the church, and finally by some means or other they broke the barriers at the door and crowded in and filled up all the remaining available space in the body of the church. The whispering and chattering that arose from the vast assemblage while they were waiting for the service to commence was something worth listening to, but when the choir and the nine or ten devines filed in and took their seats on the platform and Rev. Mr. Hunter stepped to the front and with a few words of opening called on Rev. Mr. Parker to open the meeting with prayer, the whispering and chattering of tongues was hushed and with bowed heads the two thousand persons in the audience listened to the earnest words which rose to God from the Baptist divine.

THE WORK TO CONTINUE.

After the opening hymns Rev. Mr. Hunter said the several local ministers had announcements to make.

Rev. P. CLIFTON PARKER, of the Baptist Church, announced a thanksgiving meeting in his church for to-night at 7.45 o'clock and gave a special invitation to new converts to attend this meeting.

Rev. A. C. WILSON, of Mark-st. Church, Ashburnham, said he proposed to continue the meetings in Ashburnham. He announced a meeting for to-night in his church and said a service would be held every evening next week, Saturday excepted. On Sunday a reception service would be held at eleven o'clock.

Rev. E. F. TORRANCE, of St. Paul's, announced a thanksgiving meeting in the school-room of his church for to-night. Next week special services will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, when Rev. Mr. Mitchell, of Cobourg, would assist. It was his intention to form a Young People's Association in his church and he extended an invitation to all new converts to attend.

Rev. M. L. PEARSON, of the George-st. Church, announced a meeting in the lecture room of his church to-night, when Rev. Mr. Dewey, of Lindsay, would be present to assist. Next week services will be held every night.

Rev. S. J. SHOREY, of the Charlotte-st. Church, made his announcements of Sunday services and also that services would be held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings of next week. Monday night was specially for the young people.

Rev. Mr. HUNTER announced that the services would be held in the Roman Catholic Church as usual on Sunday and also in the Episcopal Churches and the Salvation Army. He also explained that it had been impossible for Mr. Crossley and himself to accept the many invitations they had received to call at private houses and expressed his sorrow that they had been unable to visit the Barnardo Home or the gaol.

THE LADDER TO HEAVEN.

The rev. gentleman then read the evening lesson from the 28th chapter of Genesis beginning at the 10th verse—the vision of Jacob's ladder. When he had concluded reading Mr. Hunter said he wished to give them a few thoughts in connection with Jacob's ladder. There was a passage, he said, from earth to heaven. The ladder came to Jacob and so Jesus Christ came to them all and He was the ladder that reached from earth to Heaven. He pointed out that they could not make the ladder. Some of them were trying to climb to heaven on the ladder of morality, but this was too short and they would never reach heaven. Then others were attempting to climb up on the ladder of formality—by going to church, by taking the sacrament and supporting the church. But the formalists might run up and get up very high, but their ladder would not reach from earth to heaven. There was no other ladder but Jesus Christ and He alone. Then he asked them to look at the length and strength of that ladder. Little infants, such as Bob Ingersoll and Tom Paine, had been picking away at the bottom of this ladder, but it stood firmly still and had stood for 1800 years and would stand until the end of time. Then, he said, this was a very broad ladder, so that they could all go up together. If they did not know the way to this ladder then they should go to their minister and he would point it out. They should begin at the bottom and go up step by step daily. They must not quarrel on the ladder, for it would be a poor place to settle differences at the top. They must not fall asleep on the way up or they might tumble off and get hurt. He wanted them to take hold and hold fast with both hands, and not try to climb with only one hand. He saw one member of the church climbing the ladder rather slowly and he looked and saw he only had hold with one hand, while in the other he clutched a big bag of gold, but a man could never get into heaven with a money bag in his hand. Then he looked at another and he saw him staggering along with a whiskey jug under one arm. They could never get into heaven with a whiskey jug under their arm. He said the recent fight had not been one of temperance against intemperance, and he believed they were nearer victory now than ever before—never so near Prohibition and he believed when the bells would ring in the year 1900 the cursed liquor traffic will have been driven from their midst. Then in closing he told them he did not want them to come down from the ladder to bring others up or he did not want them to back down or be a hindrance to others.

Then Rev. Mr. Crossley sang the beautiful solo, entitled "The Better Land," and prayer was offered for a number of special requests.

THE LOCAL MINISTERS REJOICE.

Rev. Mr. HUNTER said they would change the order of the service and he would call upon some of the ministers who had assisted in the work and hear what they had to say. The evangelist said the work that had been accomplished was not his or Mr. Crossley's, but they had only come as extra harvest hands when the fields were white for the harvest, and they had enjoyed a glorious reaping time, for hundreds and hundreds had been converted to God. The services would have been a complete failure if the ministers had not assisted and held up their hands. They had a Presbyterian minister on the platform, and as they were always glad to hear a good Presbyterian he called upon Rev. Mr. Parker.

THREE ROMAN CATHOLIC CONVERTS.

The Baptist divine thought the evangelist had made a mistake in calling on him, but Mr. Hunter told him to go ahead.

Rev. Mr. PARKER said if he was not a Presbyterian he was very near it, for his wife was a good Presbyterian. The Presbyterians had some good features and he was greatly in sympathy with them. As regarded the meetings, he said, no person should be more thankful than he, for there were three Roman Catholics associated with families of his congregation who, through the influence of these services, had been converted to God. He was sure that if this was all the good accomplished, the work had not been in vain. Through these gatherings he himself had been brought closer to God, and also to the brethren, for the nearer he was drawn to the Father's throne the nearer he would come to the children kneeling around that throne. There were some, he said, who thought the work was just commencing, but he believed it was just commencing and he hoped the churches would keep up the work and have another thousand converts to report before long. He was specially interested in the young men, and said that young men who consecrated themselves to God would have more real pleasure than those who tried to drink the cup of pleasure in their youth and then had to quaff the bitter dregs in their old age.

THE ASHBURNHAM PREACHER.

Rev. Mr. HUNTER said their Roman Catholic friends had not been with them very often, but they would be glad to hear one and he would therefore call on Rev. Mr. Wilson.

The Mark-st. preacher said as the man who had gone and heard Dr. Newman Hall had said, he came away filled with Christ, so he could say when looking back over the past six weeks that he was not filled with Brother Crossley but was filled with the exposition of the truth given by Mr. Crossley and the thought of the terrible state of men who were without Christ. He was not impressed with Mr. Hunter, but with Christ, the strong power which had been behind everything he had said. The way they sang, prayed and spoke showed that God was in them.

THE ST. PAUL'S METHODIST.

Rev. Mr. HUNTER in his introduction of the next speaker caused a little laugh. He said the Methodists were not left out and he knew they liked to hear a good loud and hard shouting Methodist, and he would call upon Rev. Mr. Torrance.

The St. Paul's pastor said his introduction had made him feel as though the power of speech had departed from him. He said he expected to be introduced as an Episcopalian as he had so many friends in that church and had a great deal affection for that church and the mighty work it was doing for the glory of God. He had also the most kindly feelings for the Methodists and had always worked harmoniously with the ministers of that church. One reason why he rejoiced in the work of these services was because they had got out of the old rut and had been brought closer together. He esteemed it a great privilege to have been engaged in that work because the spirit of God had been working among the people. This was evidenced by the immense congregations that had turned out. Such crowds could not be attracted in any other way. It was not the singing of Mr. Crossley or the sparkling sayings of Mr. Hunter, but the spirit of God in them that made the people come out in such numbers. He said some people looked suspiciously upon the revival from a distance, but he said it was unfair to criticise and speak disparagingly of the services merely because something had been said or done which did not accord with their ideas of what was proper. He considered it to have been an honor and privilege to have worked with such men as Messrs. Crossley and Hunter. Then they could look at the results. Numbers of young and old men and women, among them prominent individuals, had been led to seek forgiveness at the foot of the cross, and who could say it was a farce?

THE GEORGE-ST. PASTOR.

Rev. Mr. HUNTER then said they would next hear from their Episcopalian brethren and he would call upon the Bishop—Rev. Mr. Pearson.

Rev. Mr. PEARSON said he had great respect for the Church of England, for he believed he had been baptized by a Church of England minister, and after all the Methodist Church was a child of the Church of England. After referring to the Episcopal Church and the separation from it of the Methodist body, he said he had greatly enjoyed these services. He believed in spiritual evangelists—men divinely gifted and qualified—and these were the kind he believed they had had with them. He believed that the large audiences were the result of the working of the Spirit and the clear and able manner in which Mr. Crossley had presented the Truth. He also believed in tact such as Mr. Hunter possessed and he praised God for having raised up such a man. He spoke of the kind treatment he had received from his congregation and said he could thank God for what had been done in his own church. He rejoiced in the strength of the union of the religious bodies in Peterborough and said it was a source of great pleasure to work side by side with the brethren of other denominations. He was glad at the number of persons of all classes who had been converted. He respected position and riches but he esteemed it the highest honor to lead the poor to Christ, and he hoped that this class would feel that if they had no other place to go they were always welcome to the church of the Lord Jesus Christ. He also thanked God for what He had done for him and hoped that this was only the beginning of a great work.

KNOWN THEM BEFORE.

Rev. Mr. HUNTER said they had a Baptist preacher and it was said he was the greatest in town, and they would be glad to hear from their Baptist brethren. He call upon Rev. Mr. Shorey.

Rev. Mr. SHOREY thought it was unfortunate that he had been called upon to represent the Baptists as he had never had an opportunity, until he came to Peterborough, of making the acquaintance of that denomination. He could speak of the evangelists from a different standpoint than any of the others as Messrs. Crossley and Hunter had worked in his church in Toronto last winter and he had found out what style of men they were then. He flattered himself that he had had a little to do with bringing the evangelists here, for when in Toronto he had extorted a promise from them to come to Peterborough. He said he did not need to endorse them, for they required no endorsation. He was not a conventional man, but, he said, if ten times as many objections had been made to the services as was the case, he only had to look at the immense gatherings night after night and the great work that had been accomplished to make him say "Who would harp on little things when souls were being brought to God." He had been struck by one thing, and that was the large number of prayers that had been answered. He had singled out one by one members of his congregation and made them subjects of prayer and many of these prayers had been answered. He had counted and about 130 of those converted were from the Charlotte-st. church. He felt under an obligation for what God had done for him and his church, but he could only determine to be more faithful and earnest in his work in the future.

Rev. Mr. HUNTER said he had intended to call upon Rev. Mr. Mitchell, of Port Hope, to tell them what had been done in that town, but it was too late. He then asked all those, converted and unconverted, who would remember he and Mr. Crossley in their prayers and ask that they might be blessed in their work in Woodstock, Exeter, Hamilton, Brantford, Kingston and Montreal to rise to their feet, and the entire audience responded.

REV. MR. CROSSLEY'S FAREWELL.

Rev. Mr. CROSSLEY then made his farewell remarks. He said they labored once in a town and they never expected to hold a series of meetings in Peterborough again. Life was short and the world was large, and new places were pressing them. They were promised for, a year ahead, but they might drop in for a night or two just to see them. They had learned to love the people of Peterborough and the townspeople had secured a place in their hearts from which they would never depart. He said he had been delighted with the choir and, only that the newspapers went everywhere, he might have said something more. The choir had with their voice and harmony sung people into the Kingdom. But he was specially pleased with the organists, not only in the chorus accompaniment, but he had been helped and held up in his solos, and the playing was highly complimentary to Messrs. Parker and Dingle. The rev. gentleman said he did not intend to preach a sermon, but only to say a few words. If he had to take a text he would chose the words:

"This second epistle, beloved, I now write unto you, in both which I stir up your pure minds by way of remembrance."—II Peter iii;1.

He said he just wished to stir up their minds a little and hoped that the stirring up would reach their heart and bring them to God. He first spoke to those seeking to be converted, then to those who were careless, thirdly to those who had been halting, and lastly spoke a few words to the new converts. To the last of these he said he wanted them to be happy Christians, to be Christians at home, to be church Christians and to be covenant Christians. He wanted them to say

"Here's my heart and here's my hand,
To meet you in the heavenly land," and by the grace of God they would all meet there.

AN EFFECTING GOOD-BYE.

Then Rev. Mr. HUNTER rose to say good-bye. He said they had been rejoiced with their work here and were glad to hear the words of the rev. gentlemen who had been engaged in the work. He felt rich, a millionaire in riches which were better than silver and gold. He said they were delighted with the support the newspapers had given them while in Peterborough and dropped a few words to the reporters and asked the prayers of all for the reporters. He said his work was a peculiar one and he was often misjudged, but any things he had said he had intended kindly. There were three things he wanted them to do—to work, to begin systematic giving and to pray and erect in their homes a family altar. Then the evangelist with a few kind words to each passed along and shook each of the local divines by the hand, saying that by so doing he was shaking hands with each minister's congregation. There were many in the audience who were moved to tears as the evangelist said his good-byes. Then turning to the audience he said his farewell in the following verses of Sankey's:—

"Farewell, faithful friends, we must now bid adieu,
To those joys and pleasures we've tasted with you;
We've labored together, united in heart,
But now we must close and soon we must part.

"Our labors are over and we must be gone,
We leave you not friendless to struggle alone,
Be watchful and prayerful and Jesus will stay,
Cleave close to your Saviour, let Him lead the way.

"You've help all-sufficient, on Jesus depend,
Let not this revival with this meeting end,
Let each ask the other, Why should the work cease?
Till all these poor sinners have yielded in peace.

"Farewell, trembling sinner, and time now with you,
Our hearts sink within us to bid you adieu,
One step back or forward may settle you down,
'Mid the glories of heaven, or eternity's gloom.

"Farewell, every hearer, we now turn away,
No more perhaps to meet till the great judgment day,
Though absent in body, we're with you in prayer,
And we'll meet you in heaven—there's no parting there."

All seekers were then given an invitation to go into the enquiry room as the choir sang the hymn, "Calling," and quite a number responded to the invitation.

NOTES.

This morning quite a large number of friends gathered at the C. P. R. station to bid a last adieu to the two evangelists as they left on the 7.30 train. As the train moved away from the platform, the crowd joined in singing the hymn, "Sweet bye and Bye."

The thanks offering last night amounted to $120.

The meeting yesterday afternoon in the George-st. Church took the form of an experience meeting, and a large number testified to the saving power of Christ.

A Bad Line to Fool With.

The driver on the engine that pulled the 5.50 train from the east into the C. P. R. station last night reported a rather strange case. He said when about two miles east of the Peterborough station that he noticed a man sitting on the side of the track, and apparently not the least concerned at the approach of the express which was flying along at the usual high rate of speed of trains on "the fastest line on earth." The engineer pulled the whistle, but the fellow seated on the edge of the ties never heeded, but sat still, and when the train rushed past him he simply bent his head forward to avoid being struck by the steps of the coaches. It was thought that the fellow might either be drunk or foolish and a couple of the station men took a hand car and ran down the track for a couple of miles, but could see nothing of the man. His strange conduct cannot be accounted for unless he was wanting to see how near he could approach death without trembling, or wanted to give the engineer a scare.

THE BOARD OF TRADE

Holds its Meeting to Organize and Elects the Officers and Council.

The corporators of the Board of Trade met at the Council Chamber on Thursday evening and organized. Mr. W. Lech was placed in the chair and gave a short speech urging the Board to go to work and promote the best interests of the town. He commented on the statment made to him that the labor unions were taking alarm at the formation of a Board, supposing that such would prove inimical to their interests. Such, he wished to say, would not be the case, as to promote trade and manufactures was the aim and object of the organization.

Among those present were Messrs. Manson, Kelly, Belleghem, Macdonald, Pollie, Dobbin, Brown, Innes, Langford, Kingan, Lee, Fair, Mulhern, Wilson, Sherwood, Mathews, Cahill and Lech, all of whose names appeared on the roll of petition, with many others, asking that a charter be granted the Board.

The election of officers was taken up, and by motion the following gentlemen were placed at the helm of affairs:—

PRESIDENT.—Mr. Geo. Hilliard.
VICE-PRESIDENT.—Mr. R. Innes.
SECRETARY.—Mr. J. H. Burnham.
COUNCIL.—Messrs. Macfarlane Wilson, D. Belleghem, W. Lech, J. Pollie, H. S. Macdonald, T. Cahill, W. Paterson, T. Kelly, W. H. Meldrum, W. E. Matthews, Wm. Manson, T. G. Hazlitt, R. Fair, W. J. Sherwood, F. H. Dobbin, W. Langford, W. J. Minore.

Some discussion took place over the number that should be placed on the council. The act requires not less than eight but no limit is placed as to the number. The meeting decided to have as large as possibe a full representation of the mercantile, financial and manufacturing interests of the town and pronounced in favor of a large council. It is probable that additional members will be elected to the council at a future meeting.

It was agreed that the council and officers should meet on Monday evening next and prepare a constitution and by-laws for the use and guidance of the board, after which the meeting adjourned.

Persons wishing to improve their memories or strengthen their power of attention should send to Prof. Loisette, 237 Fifth Ave., N. Y. for his prospectus post free, as advertised in another column.

Origin of the Great Lakes.

Mr. A. T. Drummond, a Canadian geologist, has recently published an interesting paper on the origin of the great lakes of North America. It has been the opinion of most geologists that these lakes were formed by glacial action, a view which seemed to find corroboration in the fact that a very large amount of debris apparently worn from the basins occupied by these sheets of water lies on the country to the south of their borders in positions where it could only have been brought by ice action. Mr. Drummond holds that glaciers had not much effect in eroding the lake basins proper, or in shaping their present outline. He furthermore holds to the conclusions that Lake Superior is the most ancient basin of this chain, and that it was formed in the Cambrian and Huronian times, i. e., in the earlier stages of the earth's history. He regards it in part due to a down folding of the rocks, as in the trough of a mountain valley, but that much of the detail of its shape was due to long continued volcanic action, which has clearly occurred about its borders.

Michigan, Huron and Ontario he considers to have been low areas on the path of an ancient river, which existed before the glacial period, the basin like character of the country having been given by the relatively recent warpings in the surface of the country. Erie and St. Clair he regards as the last formed of the lakes, these basins also being due to warpings in the rocks about them, which created barriers across the original outlets of the valleys.

There is no question that Mr. Drummond's explanation of the lakes shows that the circumstances of their formation were more complicated than is commonly supposed by geologists. It does not appear, however, that he has given quite sufficient weight to glacial action or to the processes of solution by which the waters of such great lakes extend their shore lines. A large part of the rocks about these basins other than Lake Superior are of a limy nature, and in parts more or less charged with saline materials, all of which readily pass into solution and go away to the sea. This dissolving process is of more importance in fresh water basins than in the seas. The sea water is already so far charged with mineral matter held in solution that it cannot readily dissolve the rocks with which it comes in contact. Where, however, fresh water basins have their shores in contact with rocks containing a considerable quantity of lime they readily and rapidly extend their margins by this process of decay.—Boston Herald.

CHINA HALL

CHINA
AND QUEENS W

Immense sums have been paid for rare specimens of antique China. Think of $5,000 being given for a china plate cracked at that. Consider $24,000 as the market value of a set of 120 pieces of selveres china. Hold in one hand a cap and saucer and in the other hand the $2,400 that the cup and saucer brought at a Parisian auction. Truly, the craze of collectors for rare specimens of Palissy ware, has given fictitious values to many an unpretentious plate and cup. When money is tight it is a comfort to think of $3,500 being paid for a hawthorn jug that would barely hold a quart of milk. These are prices that astonish, but the serious side of the question is that at China Hall you can secure full sets of China that will grace any tea table for so little money that anyone can afford the outlay. Not only China, but good substantial dinner sets fit to set out the table of an M. P. or Mayor. Come to CHINA HALL and see what money will do. You'll not have to spend the value of six first-class farms for a China Tea Set.

BEAUTIFUL JIM.

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER

"If I believed it," Mr. Earle answered, "I should have asked you to go out of my house some minutes ago. Yet there is the fact—you were arrested on suspicion, and a verdict of willful murder against some person or persons unknown is returned. Do you not see that until the case is set at rest one way or the other, you are not, and never can be, free from suspicion? At any time it is liable to rise up against you, not a mere suspicion, but a hideous danger which may overwhelm you! Do you think, Mr. Beresford, that I could or would let my young daughter go headlong into such a danger as that? No, sir, a thousand times, no; and let me tell you that although I may have antiquated ideas of love and honor, I think you show your wish to love and honor her very poorly indeed by even dreaming—dreaming of subjecting her to even a remote chance of such a misfortune."

Beautiful Jim looked as he felt, more staggered than ever; and, worst of all, he felt that from his point of view the old man was right.

"You are right, sir," he said. "I—knowing my own innocence—forgot that all the world did not know it also. Do you mind telling me one thing—suppose that this mystery is ever cleared up, and Miss Earle is still willing to be my wife, will you give your consent then?"

"Certainly I will," the old man replied.

"And you will not forbid me to see her?" Jim pleaded.

"I will not forbid you, Mr. Beresford. No, on the contrary, I will show you willingly that I trust you as an honorable gentleman, by simply asking you not to attempt to marry her without my permission, and not to compromise her by being seen about with her. If she likes to correspond with you, well and good. If you care to come here now and again, when you are in town, I will not prevent it or forbid it. I dare say, under the circumstances, this is a somewhat unusual way of proceeding; but I have always given my daughter the most absolute trust and she is worthy of it in every way. I believe you to be innocent and I believe you to be honorable, for I see you had not thought of the danger to which such a marriage would expose her—so I will trust you also."

"Mr. Earle," said Jim, holding out his hand, "this has been an awful blow to me—one I never expected. But you have spoken to me fairly and well, and I thank you. You may depend that I will never betray your trust. Miss Earle shall be as safe from any persuasions of mine as if I were a Malay Indian and could not speak a word of English."

"It may all work out smooth enough," the old man said, kindly.

But Jim shook his head. "I have very little hope of it, sir," he answered, sadly. "I have very little hope of it; but I thank you all the same for the consolation."

After a moment of silence Mr. Earle spoke again.

"My daughter must be told," he said, uneasily. "She is so sensible, so clear headed, that I feel sure she will see perfectly the advisability of the objection, or rather stumbling block, which I have been compelled to raise. But it will be a sad blow to her, I fear, poor child, and—well, really, Beresford, on the whole I think the news had better come from you."

"It will be a hard task for me," said Jim.

"I don't doubt it," returned the old man; "but the question is—from which of us will she take it the best? She will see then, even if she does not see it already, that you are convinced of the truth of what I urge; and—yes, I think it had better come from you, Beresford, I do, indeed. I will go out and lunch at my club and leave you a clear field, so that you may tell her and get it over. Yes, that will be the best, I am sure. You see, my dear fellow, I trust to your honor absolutely."

Before Jim could say a word against this plan the old gentleman had shaken his hand again, and had slipped out of the room. So he had no choice but to await the meeting with Nancy and the necessary disclosures which it would entail with the best grace that he could.

Not that he waited very long, he heard the hall door close behind the master of the house, and then, as Nancy did not come, he rang the bell and asked the servant who came in answer to his summons if he would ask Miss Earle to be good enough to see him. And in less than two minutes she came—with her dove's eyes all alight with love and the sweetest and brightest smile upon her lips—the lips that were his and yet not his.

"Well?" she said, gayly, as she crossed the room to his side.

Beautiful Jim took her outstretched hand in his.

"My dearest, I am afraid I have the most sorry news for you," he said, humbly.

"Sorry news?" sharply. "Then, where is my father?"

"He has left me to tell you—gone to his club."

"To tell me—what?"

For a moment Jim could hardly speak.

"To tell you that our engagement is impossible; for the present, at least," he answered, with an effort.

"Father said that? But why? What do you mean, Jim—that he refuses?"

"At present."

"At present—oh! do tell me the worst at once. What do you mean by at present?"

"My dearest, your father is quite right, though it is hard upon us," said Jim, gently. "He does not forget that I have been arrested on a suspicion of murder, and that while the affair remains a mystery, I am not free from further suspicion."

To be Continued.

A Toronto Lad Arrested in Hamilton—"Settled Out of Court."

HAMILTON, April 11.—About 1.45 this morning Constable English found Frank Fisher, a lad, sleeping in J. S. McMahon's barn, Emerald-street south, and arrested him on a charge of vagrancy. The lad admitted at the Police Court that his parents live in Toronto and that he ran away from home. His father is George E. Fisher, a bookkeeper, who lives at 76 Vanauley-street. He ran away because his father would not let him go to work, but wanted him to remain at school. The lad was remanded until Monday and his parents were notified.

The adjourned charge against Samuel Harris for obtaining a quantity of cigars from John B. Lovell by false pretence was to have come up at the Police Court this morning, but the parties did not turn up. Counsel for the private prosecution said he had no evidence to offer, as the prisoner had paid $120, the price of the cigars. The Magistrate said he didn't like to see debts collected in that way, and at the request of the Crown Attorney laid the case over until to-morrow.

There was another long discussion over the site for the Free Library at the meeting of the board last night, but no decision was reached. Mr. Witten reported verbally on behalf of the library committee that the members are engaged in preparing a list of about 14,000 books, which, it is expected, will be ready shortly.

Charles Watts, the well-known Toronto Secularist, lectured here last night on "The Jesuit Conspiracy." Mr. Watts brought against the Society of Jesus an indictment more scathing, sweeping and comprehensive in its character than any that has yet been made from the most ultra-Protestant pulpit.

P.C. Williams, formerly the fattest member of the Hamilton police force, is now on the police force in Dunedin, New Zealand.

Judge Muir held a special sitting of the criminal court this morning, at which George Steves was convicted of stealing three rifles from the Ancaster armory and sent to jail for three months. Henry Eydt was acquitted on the charge of larceny.

William Snapps, the old man who tried to commit suicide on Monday by cutting his throat, is gradually improving and will be around again before long.

Central American Federationists.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The five Central American Republics, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Salvador and Honduras, in February agreed upon a treaty which provides that if any difficulty shall arise between any of them it shall be settled without war, by the arbitration of any one of the following nations: United States, Argentine Republic, Chili, Mexico, Switzerland or any of the great European powers; that none of the five Republics shall form alliances with outside nations without the consent of all, and that delegates from the five Republics shall meet annually to consider matters of mutual interest. It is the hope of the ablest men in these Republics that this will help to bring about a federal union of these States.

He Was a Walpole Man

PORT HURON, April 11.—The body of the man found dead in bed in the Lindsay House, Smith's Creek, about two weeks ago, has been identified by J. Prentiss, of Worth township, as that of his father, Solomon Prentiss of Walpole, Ont. He says his father left Sanilac county the day before his death with $600 in his pocket. When the body was found there were but $172 on it. Where the rest of the money is gone is a mystery. The mother is in Buffalo. The son knew his father had some trouble at home, but he did not know what it was.

Attica's Sleeper Again in a Trance.

LOCKPORT, N.Y., April 12.—The "Attica sleeper," on Bennington Hill, is again in one of her long trances. Mrs. Emma Althouse went to sleep on March 27, and is now asleep. From March 23 to 27 she did not sleep at all. She has taken no nourishment since she went to sleep on the 27th. Her teeth are closed as tight as a vise, making it impossible to force the least particle of liquid or solids between them. Before falling into the present trance she predicted a long sleep, but she did not say how long. She is very weak. Physicians and relatives who have watched the previous trances, when the woman has slept for 35 days at a time, predict that she is fast reaching her end.

"DE GANG" COULD CARE FOR HIM.

Street Arabs Maintain Their Dignity Under Adverse Circumstances.

A small band of bootblacks, newsboys and street arabs were playing in Chambers street, just in front of our $15,000,000 court house. They were skylarking in their own peculiar way, when a heavy grocer's wagon came dashing down the street. The boys scattered, but one of them was too slow. He stumbled and fell, and before he could recover himself the wheels of the wagon had passed over one of his legs. The driver whipped up his horse and escaped. There was no policeman near, and but few passers by. But the boy had friends. Every boy who had been playing with him was at his side in an instant. The boy was badly hurt.

It was plain at a glance that his leg was broken, and, rough and ignorant as his companions were, they saw this. Then "Corkey," the newsboy, who is the chief of the arabs of the City Hall park, took command and ordered him to be taken up. Two of the strongest of the lads lifted the boy, and no child was ever more tenderly lifted from its bed by its mother than was this rough waif of the street by his fellows. Then he was placed on the back of the strongest of his friends.

"Ter der Chambers street hospittle," ordered Corkey. Then he bent over the injured boy. "Does yer tink yer kin stan' it?" he asks solicitously.

"It's pretty tough, Cork," is the reply, "but I ain't lost me nerve yit."

At this juncture a gentleman who had come up suggested that a policeman be hunted up and that an ambulance be called. Then Corkey asserted himself.

"Dere ain't no policeman wanted," he said, "an' dere ain't no amberlance wanted. Me friend," continued the self possessed child of the street, oracularly, "yer means well, an' we tanks yer. Yer a gentleman. But lemme tell yer this. Dis yer gang ain't very high toned, an' dis yer gang don't count fur much, but w'en one of dis yere gang gits hurt dis yer gang don't go back on him. See?"

The gentleman did see, and left the scene, slipping a dollar into Corkey's hand. Then the latter ran after his army, which had nearly reached the hospital. After they had delivered the boy over to the hospital physicians the whole gang camped out on the street until Corkey reported that their friend had a broken leg, but that the doctors had said there was nothing serious about it.

Delegations visited the hospital every day, and "Corkey's" dollar and other sums contributed by "dis yere gang" have been expended in delicacies for "Chimmy," as they call their friend.

The New York street arab is not the worst in the world.—New York Mail and Express.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

How do they open out, you say? Just handsome, is not too much to say of them. Ingram Cloths will be much called for or we will be mistaken.

Miss Mercier, our dressmaker, executes all orders promptly. The Millinery season is right on us and we are prepared for it. We keep well posted in all the changes in styles and buy the newest. Object lessons are in order now; call in and inspect and get our low prices.

GEN. BOULANGER ON TRIAL

THE SENATE SITTING AS A HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

Members of the Right Ignore the Request to Appear in Evening Dress—Commissioners Appointed to Conduct the Case.

PARIS, April 12.—In the Senate to-day the President read the decree constituting that body a tribunal for the trial of General Boulanger, Count Dillon and Henri Rochefort. Procureurs General Quesnay and Beaurepaire read a statement setting forth the grounds upon which the prosecution of the accused is based. The Senate went into secret session and the public withdrew. The trial of Gen. Boulanger and his associates was then formally begun. The Senators had been requested to appear in evening dress for the occasion. This request was ignored by the members of the Right, all of whom wore frock coats. The members of the Left were attired in evening dress, and wore white cravats.

A motion from the Right declaring that there was no ground for a judicial inquiry into the conduct of Boulanger was rejected by a vote of 200 to 56. The Senate then resolved, by a vote of 210 to 55 to proceed immediately with the trial. Thereupon the doors were reopened and the public session was resumed. Mr. Leroyer read the decree authorizing the Senate to sit as a court and directing that the trial proceed.

Boulanger's Prosecutors.

PARIS, April 12.—The following commissioners have been appointed to conduct the trial of Boulanger and the other accused persons: Senators Merlin, Cazot, Cordelet, Trarieux, Munier, Demarcere, Demole, Lavertujon, Morellet and Humbert. Assistant commissioners have also been appointed, who will replace their colleagues on the regular commission if necessary.

Senator Dubriel will not attend the trial. He holds that a political body like the Senate has no right to try a delegate of the people. He delares that the trial is a revolutionary measure and a defiance of universal suffrage.

Senator Leon Renault will abstain from participation in the trial.

Violence of the Parisian Press.

PARIS, April 12.—The violence of journalistic polemics has reached an extraordinary pitch in the Parisian press. Exasperated by recent measures taken by the Government against Boulanger, the party that acknowledged him as chief no longer restrains itself in the matter of abuse of the party in power. The amount and character of insults the Boulangist organs manage to turn out daily is astonishing. Henri Rochefort, who has hitherto enjoyed a monopoly in this line, has now numerous imitators. The Ministers are daily compared to all sorts of celebrated criminals and assassins. Paul de Cassagnac indulges almost daily in the most violent abuse of the Senators of the Right who have signified their intention of taking part in the proceedings of the Senate as a High Court of Justice. There are not more than three or four Boulangists in the Senate, and the Conservative Senators will in all probability vote against Boulanger in a body. They have, however, given it to be understood that if the charges against the accused are not substantiated at the first sitting, or if the acts prove not to be of a treasonable nature, they will press forward a motion for the Senate to declare itself incompetent.

A Brooklyn Blaze.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., April 12.—A fire occurred at 1 o'clock this morning in Buchanan & Lyle's jute mill at Hoyt and President-streets, while 300 girls were working over time, and two of them were badly burned. The others escaped amid great panic and confusion. The loss will reach $6,00,000. All the inmates were rescued, but there were many narrow escapes. Within five minutes after the girls had been rescued the boiler blew up with a great explosion, and shortly after this the entire building tumbled. Opposite the jute factory is the tobacco factory of the same firm, Buchanan & Lyle, and close to that is a flat house four stories high. The occupants fled in great alarm. When the boiler exploded the roofs of six houses adjoining the jute mill were set on fire, but the flames were extinguished. The property was insured on the co-operative plan.

Collapse of a Meat Company.

NEW YORK, April 12.—It is reported that the American Meat Co. has collapsed. The company was incorporated under the laws of New Mexico, and acquired considerable property, among which were 1,850,000 acres of land and 230,000 head of cattle, with ranches and all the equipments for conducting the largest business in the dressed beef traffic yet undertaken. The authorized capital stock was $11,000,000, of which $7,000,000 was subscribed up to April 10. The collapse of the scheme is said to be due to pressure brought to bear upon the company by Armour & Co. of Chicago.

Battles and Earthquakes in Hayti.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Advices from Hayti state heavy fighting took place on March 28 between St. Marc and Gonaives, and that on the same day great damage was done by an earthquake at Port Depaix, many houses being wrecked and several persons injured. No lives were lost.

THE BIRMINGHAM BATTLE.

MR. ALBERT BRIGHT MAKES HIS FIRST SPEECH.

Peroration of Sir Charles Russell's Great Speech—The Eloquent Advocate Complimented by Justice Hannen.

LONDON, April 12.—"On the whole," writes a well informed person, "Chamberlain, if he is really responsible for the defeat of the hopes of the Tories in Central Birmingham, may be pretty certain that he has gained nothing by snatching the seat from their grasp. On the contrary, he has done more than could have been done in any other way to render a working alliance impossible."

This expresses the pretty general feeling that Chamberlain, by excluding Lord Randolph Churchill from Birmingham, has really struck a blow at that Unionist alliance which stands in the way of Home Rule. Birmingham continues, at any rate, the central point in politics. The details of the controversy between the Tories and Liberal-Unionists fill the local papers. Even the London papers, which are sometimes willing to print news of events which do not happen in London, enlarge upon Rowland's resignation and statement. To-day's news is, however, that the Tories are slowly coming around to Bright's support, and that Beale's chances are daily diminishing. A compromise is expected by which Bright will retire at the next election in Lord Randolph Churchill's favor.

Albert Bright made his first speech yesterday. He had meant not to speak, for obvious reasons, but political pressure put personal feelings aside. His speech was clever and very uncompromising against Home Rule, a question on which the Tories professed to regard Bright unsound like his father. He goes to America for illustrations on the Irish question. Referring to American sympathy with Home Rule, "I should like," said Bright, "to have an intelligent American on this platform and ask him what would happen if there were 30 or 40 members of the American Congress known to be supported by English money in order to introduce free trade into the United States?"

Battering Rams and Secret Circulars.

LONDON, April 12.—In the House of Commons this evening, Prof. James Stuart (Rad.), asked Mr. Balfour whether the circular sent to the Irish police, directing them to collect all secret information regarding the doings of members of the National League, was designed to aid The London Times.

Mr. Balfour replied that he made it a rule neither to own nor to deny the truth of allegations regarding the issue of secret circulars.

Mr. Parnell demanded a straightforward answer. Referring to the use of battering rams in forcing evictions in Donegal, Parnell protested against such cruelty and barbarity.

Mr. Balfour ignored the question regarding the secret circular. Regarding the battering rams he held that it was necessary to use them, as the tenants had built elaborate fort works inside their doors.

Sir Charles Russell Concludes.

LONDON, April 12.—Sir Charles Russell to-day concluded his speech before the Parnell Commission in defence of the Parnellites. He undertook to show that the money Parnell gave Byrne, which the prosecution allege was given for the purpose of enabling Byrne to escape, was meant by Parnell to be used for the ordinary purposes of the National League, and that Parnell did not know Byrne was in peril of arrest. The Court, Sir Charles said, was trying the history of the Irish revolution. He asked that fair and generous consideration be given it. If prosperity was returning to Ireland, thanks be to God, but affairs were unhealthy in that country, where the people considered the imprisoned members of the House of Commons heroes and martyrs. Sir Charles declared he did not speak merely as the advocate of the accused members of the House of Commons, but for the land of his birth, and, he believed, in the best interests of England. The inquiry which was intended to be a curse had been a blessing. It had been designed for the purpose of ruining one man, but it had proved the means of his vindication.

In his peroration, which lasted half an hour, Sir Charles Russell said: "In opening our case I said we represented the accused. The positions are now reversed; the accused sit there (pointing with indignant scorn at Mr. Walter and Mr. McDonald of The Times). This inquiry will not vindicate individuals but it will remove misconception of the character, action and motives of the Irish people and their leaders. It will set earnest, honest minds to thinking and will hasten true union and effect a true reconciliation. It will dispel the weighty clouds that have darkened the history of a noble race and dimmed the glory of a mighty empire."

There was a sensation when Sir Charles concluded his speech. It is the general opinion that he never spoke better. When Sir Charles had finished Presiding Justice Hannen passed a note to him, in which he said:

I congratulate you. Your speech was a great one and worthy of a great occasion.

The Court adjourned until April 30.

The Archbishops of Dublin and Cashel will be among the witnesses who will testify for the defence.

The Artillerymen Celebrate.

LONDON, April 12.—The Field Battery of the Honorable Artillery Company celebrated the return of its guns from Woolwich last night by a big supper. Captain Fry, who presided, read a cable from the Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, congratulating them on their victory and hoping that the cordial relations between the two companies would always be maintained. The hope was expressed that the Prince of Wales would be induced to take command of the regiment again.

Tired of the Beauty.

LONDON, April 12.—Count Festitich of Vienna has sued for separation from his wife on the ground of adultery. She was formerly a Mrs. Fischer, and was the greatest beauty in Vienna a decade ago.

Made Insane By a Prairie Fire.

LINCOLN, Neb., April 12.—Mrs. John Lawson, the wife of a farmer near Riverton, died Monday at the insane asylum. She was made insane by excitement caused by a prairie fire which threatened her home.

A Yellow Fever Bale.

MOBILE, Ala., April 12.—The yellow fever hospital at Ship Island, and all its fixtures, were burned last night by order of the authorities.

Roasted by Molten Metal.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 12.—An explosion of molten metal occurred last night in the foundry of Wm. Tod & Co. George Bryant, foreman, was literally roasted. He cannot survive. Frank Lee was almost as badly burned, but will recover.

Bsolved for Truth. [illegible]

NORWALK, Conn., April 12.—James B. Sellick of Darien, formerly a member of the Connecticut Legislature, jumped into a well yesterday and was drowned. He was in poor health.

No Hotels in Town.

BENNINGTON, Vt., April 12.—The liquor raids upon the hotels resulted this morning in the closing of the Putnam and Stark houses, leaving Bennington without hotel accommodation.

THE JESUITS' OATH.

Full Translation of the Vow According to La Minerve.

MONTREAL, April 12.—La Minerve publishes what it declares is the correct vow taken by the Jesuits. They take no oath, says La Minerve, but simply the vow of obedience, poverty and chastity. The following is a translation:

"Almighty and Everlasting God: I, although in every way most unworthy to present myself before You, but confiding nevertheless in Your goodness and infinite mercy and urged by a desire to serve You, vow to Your Divine Majesty, in the presence of the most holy Virgin Mary and the whole of Your heavenly court, poverty, chastity and perpetual obedience in the Society of Jesus, and I promise to enter this society, to live and die therein, interpreting all things according to the constitutions of said society.

"I therefore most humbly beseech Your infinite goodness, through the precious blood of Jesus Christ, that You may be pleased to agreeably accept this holocaust, and that as You have given me the desire and the means to offer it to You, You may furthermore give me abundant grace to accomplish it."

THE SCOTT ACT IN OXFORD.

Temperance Promoters in Session at Woodstock—Both Governments Denounced.

WOODSTOCK, April 12.—The Oxford Temperance Association was convened in Chalmers' Church this afternoon with a goodly representation. President James Lund occupied the chair. A series of resolutions were passed, in which the association repudiated any sympathy with the license system as vicious in principle and powerless as a remedy, and appealed to the electorate of the county to sustain the Scott Act on May 9.

Another resolution severely censured both the Ontario and Dominion Governments for neglect of duty in reference to temperance matters.

A third resolution was introduced declaring that both the political parties of this country have proved themselves abjectly subservient to the power of rum and that the time had come when Christian and temperance people should shake themselves loose from the present parties and unite in the formation of a third party whose supreme object will be to secure and enforce prohibition and maintain civil and religious liberty.

Definite action on the last resolution was deferred to a convention to be called for the purpose at an early date, but the sympathy of the convention was strongly in favor of the resolution.

THE GREAT TELEGRAPH SUIT.

Plea of the Montreal Company—A General Denial.

MONTREAL, April 12.—The Montreal Telegraph Company have filed their plea to plaintiff's declaration in the action taken by the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company against them. They make a general denial of the facts stated in the declaration and plead that plaintiffs have been put in possession of the entire system of telegraph which defendants possessed and have never been troubled in possession of it; that they have not acted simply as lessees, but have closed and abolished several of their existing lines and suppressed connections with other lines; that if there is a decrease in the income of plaintiffs it is not due to the cause alleged in declaration but to other causes altogether independent of the agreement between plaintiffs and defendants.

The Moiles' Mill in Canadian Waters.

ST. IGNACE, Mich., April 12.—The Moiles Bros.' mill plant is safe in Canadian waters, the crew having sawed their way through the ice. TIMELY CAPITAL TOPICS.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS BUSY WITH THE ESTIMATES.

The Postmaster-General on the Ocean Mails and the Postal Deficit—The Anti-Combines Delegations.

OTTAWA, April 12.—The House of Commons today was occupied mainly in Committee of Supply, considerable progress being made with the estimates. Before going into committee a couple of questions were asked, the replies to which contained little information.

In answer to Sir Richard Cartwright Hon. G. E. Foster said the Government were not yet in a position to announce what tariff changes, if any, would be proposed this session.

In answer to Hon. A. G. Jones Hon. Mackenzie Bowell said that whatever might be the intention of the Government no authority had been given to any newspaper to state that it was the intention to abandon that part of the Customs Bill now before the House proposing to add the cost of inland carriage to the value for duty.

The House then went into Committee of Supply, taking up the Inland Revenue estimates.

While the postoffice estimates were being discussed Hon. John Haggart, Postmaster-General, was asked about the sending of the European mails via New York just ordered. He said that the contract with the Allans was supposed to expire to-day and in view of this he had ordered notifications to be sent out that in case the Allans should decline to continue to take the mails under the old arrangement they would be sent via New York. By a misunderstanding an unconditional order was issued and the mails had been sent via New York. The Allans contend, however, that their contract extends until such time as the negotiations for the proposed fast line are completed.

In answer to another inquiry with respect to his expectations regarding the large annual deficit resulting from the postal operations, Mr. Haggart said that if he got his bill to increase the drop letter and the registration rate through parliament the increased revenue from these sources would probably be $140,000, but nearly this amount would be required to pay for the increased car accommodation lately demanded of the Canadian Pacific Railway. As long as newspapers and periodicals go free, and the department were compelled to carry such a mass of matter free, he thought there was but little hope of reducing the annual deficit.

On the discussion of the appropriation for Dominion lands Hon. Edgar Dewdney presented to the House a detailed statement of the cost of the Interior Department at present compared with its cost under the administration of the Mackenzie Government. This statement had been prepared, he said, in view of the criticism already made in the House this session. The statements then given, he said, made a very unfavorable showing, but he had found that the showing was really very much in favor of the present administration of the department.

Hon. David Mills disputed the accuracy of the statement submitted. Several hours were then spent in discussion of the details of the Dominion lands expenditure.

The members of the Commons, sleepily sitting out the Northwest affairs, were suddenly roused by Mr. Tom Daly, the fire-eating member from Selkirk, who rose to dress down Sir Richard Cartwright for certain remarks that he had made derogatory to the Northwest in comparison with Manitoba and with Dakota. Speaking with intense warmth and vigor, Mr. Daly accused Sir Richard of persistently slandering the Northwest.

Mr. Laurier interrupted, mildly protesting against the tone and tenor of Mr. Daly's remarks, but that gentleman continued as warmly as before;

"I respect you, sir," he said to Mr. Laurier, "you are a gentleman, but I cannot sit quietly and hear the member for South Oxford's misrepresentations."

Mr. Lister followed and dressed down Mr. Daly as a youngster and a new importation into the Northwest, and quite a lively time ensued. When he had finished Mr. Lister was leaving the chamber, when Mr. Hesson shouted: "Don't go out, young man, I want to talk to you."

"Come outside and talk to me," retorted Mr. Lister.

The two gentlemen left the chamber by different doors but turned in opposite directions when they got outside.

In the meantime Sir Richard said it was a deliberate falsehood, by whomsoever made, to say that he ever preferred Dakota to the Northwest, though it was true that Dakota had the greater population.

Mr. Daly said a great proportion of the Canadians in Dakota dare not come back to Canada.

Hon. David Mills declared that any one who made such an assertion was an unveracious calumniator and proceeded in such strain as to draw from Mackenzie Bowell the heated declaration that Hon. David Mills was indulging in insolence and impudence and falsehood.

This ended the liveliest passage of the session and the committee, now thoroughly awake, settled down to work.

The House adjourned at 1.55 a.m.

THE CALGARY MURDER TRIAL.

WINNIPEG, April 12.—In the Calgary murder case there was strong circumstantial evidence against Jumbo Fisk. Counsel addressed the jury to-day.

The body of Fletcher, the escaped lunatic, was found three miles from the asylum to-day.

James Cameron, who displaced the C.P.R. switch in this city, was discharged to-day, it being shown that the prisoner, who is a "greeny" from the Old Country, did it through ignorance and mere curiosity.

Winnipeg will lose at least $40,000 through bad investments of its sinking fund.

About 420 immigrants arrived from Ontario to-day.

Murderer Harvey.

GUELPH, April 12.—Wm. H. Harvey, committed for the murder of his wife and two daughters, is doing well in the jail. He is reticent except to parties whom he may desire to see, and when he consults these it is principally on business matters. DID MR. MOWAT ENDOW THEM?

As so much is being said in reference to the Jesuits Estates Act of Quebec, the Empire a few days ago pointed out that although the principle of the complete separation of church and state was a desirable one, it could not see why its violation should be made the ground of disallowance of an Act now, when it had been certainly violated before without objection being urged, giving as a case in point the endowment of the Jesuits at Port Arthur by Mr. Mowat, in making a grant to them of a valuable property in the heart of the town. This statement was questioned by Father Hamel, who said the property alluded to was advertised for sale, purchased by Mr. Geo. Calvert and later sold to the Catholic school trustees. In reference to this the Empire says:—"We gave this example because it seemed to be a case exactly in point, referring to the same class, the Jesuits, the recent grant to whom in the Province of Quebec has raised such a commotion, and supposed we were simply stating a fact so well known that there could be no dispute about it. Since the accuracy of our statement has been questioned, we have been looking up the facts again, and we think if Rev. Father Hamel will enquire further into the matter he will find that we were substantially correct. He refers to a portion of the Government Reserve, purchased by the Separate School trustees, and deeded to them in 1886, but our reference was not to this property at all, which was bought and paid for, but to two other separate pieces of property, lying alongside of this, and part of the same Reserve B. It is well known that the work of the Roman Catholic Church at Port Arthur, as at several other points in the Algoma district, is carried on by the Jesuit fathers, and has been carried on by them ever since a mission was established there. Well, it will be found on reference to the records of the Crown Lands Department that in order to assist them in carrying on their work, the Mowat Government made a free grant of an acre of land off the most prominent corner of Reserve B, the deed being issued on the 16th of September, 1873; and in 1884, as more land was wanted by them, another free grant from the reserve was made by the Government of about an acre and a half adjoining the piece formerly granted, the deed for the latter being issued on the 17th of April of that year. This is not the property Rev. Father Hamel refers to as having been bought by the Separate School trustees, but lies alongside of it. It is true that the Jesuits not being an incorporated society in Ontario, property could not be held in the name of the Fathers, and the first deed was to the R. C. Episcopal Corporation of Hamilton, and the latter one to the R. C. Episcopal Corporation of Peterborough—but both properties were given for carrying on the work of the Jesuit Fathers, and are being used by them for that purpose. So that our original statement that Mr. Mowat had endowed the Jesuit Fathers at Port Arthur by a free grant of a valuable property in the heart of the town was substantially correct. But as our object in mentioning the circumstance was to illustrate the fact that the connection between Church and State had not ceased in Ontario, our illustration would be as complete by the grant being made to a church as to society within a church."

Look After the Yards.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Allow me to say a few words as to sanitary work.

The early spring necessitates earlier cleaning up this spring than usual. Complaints are beginning to come in freely, and it is important that yards and premises should be put in good order as soon as possible. In some shaded places ice may remain very late, but this is no excuse for not removing what can be taken away. It must be remembered that according to the statute all refuse, whether unsanitary or not, such as ashes, scraps, rubbish, metal clippings or anything unsightly must be removed in the spring. The Inspectors are beginning their rounds and have orders to enforce the law strictly.

It is only by persistent cleanliness that such diseases as diphtheria and typhoid fever can be kept down. The death ratio of the town has been steadily decreasing, and it is to be hoped that this year the present low rate may be maintained and even reduced.

Yours, etc.,
J. CLARK, M. D.,
Medical Health Officer.

SATURDAY, APRIL 13, 1889.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Dr. Kincaid's

Sale on Saturday, April 20th, 1889, is causing considerable excitement as it is one of those choice properties that is only offered for sale once in a life time. See advertisement and large posters for particulars.

The Place to Buy.

The public are well aware that Elliott & Tierney's is the place to get the best Value in Groceries; their goods require no puffing. The bargains in all lines of goods are wonderful. Call at the Palace Grocery for square dealing and good articles at lowest prices. A full line of Vanderous & Holmes (New York) biscuits, very fine goods.

Kind of a Surprise

for the public to buy peaches at 15c. per tin, 3 lb. tins. Tomatoes 3 for 25c. We have been carrying a very large stock of tomatoes and canned goods of the finest brands. Some houses have been selling off brands at lower figures, so we have decided to sell our fine brands at the above prices to put a damper on them. It is useless for houses to try to compete with us. W. J. Morrow, 349 George-st.

New Streets in Ashburnham.

Mr. Dumble has laid out two new streets in Block N. The corporation will grade and gravel them, Mr. Dumble furnishing the gravel. Mr. Dawson is about erecting a fine brick house, two veneered houses are now being finished and a number of other new ones will go up this summer. The land is beautifully situated, and, being so near the heart of the town, is a very attractive location. The entire block will probably be taken up this summer, as the lots at their low price are in great demand. 2d88

Railway Changes.

Among the improvements to be made by the Grand Trunk railway in the Lindsay district this year and next, says the Warder, are the running a new line through Fenelon Falls below the falls so as to avoid a swing bridge, or else a new swing bridge where the present one is; the lowering of the grade on Victoria Avenue in Lindsay; the erection of a new passenger, freight, telegraph, library and general station at Lindsay; and probably in 1890, the rebuilding of the first bridge, 76 feet high, east of Omemee, in stone piers and iron spans. G. T. Asst-Engineer Carney has already taken the levels at Fenelon Falls and at the bridge; and at an early date will level Lindsay grade.

Floating Birch Logs.

The Lindsay Warder says:—"Since publishing our former article on the plan to float birch logs, we further learn from Mr. J. A. Ellis, of Fenelon Falls, that his experiments were fully tested, the logs having been floated all the way from Stanhope, and lay months in the water without becoming waterlogged. Mr. Ellis thinks that painting the ends would have a further beneficial effect where the drive would have far to go. From Mr. Wm. Gainer, of Minden and Allsaw, we learn also that he has successfully floated the birch in the same way as Mr. Ellis, and that Mr. James Aikens, of Stanhope, has brought them to Peterborough. The plan of these gentlemen is to cut down the birch in the last of May or early in June when the sap is running well, strip it of its bark and leave on skids off the ground. In October cut into logs and they will float anywhere."

MEETINGS LAST NIGHT.

Services in all the Churches—A Christian Endeavor Society for St. Paul's.

As announced last evening services were held in all the evangelical churches in town. They were termed thanksgiving services, and they were all well attended. The pastors of each of the churches conducted the services in their own churches. Rev. Mr. Dewey, of Lindsay, who was to have been present at George-st. to assist Rev. Mr. Pearson, was unable to be present at the meeting, which took the form of an evangelistic service and was enjoyed by those present.

A CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIETY.

At St. Paul's Rev. Mr. Torrance was assisted in his services by Rev. Mr. Mitchell, of Port Hope, and the Sunday school room was well filled. Both of the rev. gentlemen gave good addresses, and after the service initiatory steps were taken towards the formation of a "Christian Endeavor Society" among the young people of the congregation. A committee of young ladies and gentlemen was appointed to draft a constitution for the Society and a report will be presented at one of the meetings next week, when the society will be fully organized.

Next week services will be held in all the churches as follows:—

GEORGE-ST. CHURCH.—Every evening, Saturday excepted.

CHARLOTTE ST. CHURCH.—On Monday, Tuesday and Friday evenings.

MARK-ST. CHURCH, Ashburnham.—Every evening, Saturday excepted.

BAPTIST CHURCH.—On Monday, Tuesday and Friday evenings.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.—On Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday.

Assessment Appeals.

As the assessors near the end of their tramping, the appeals against their assessments have began to come in, but not in very great numbers. There have been now only some six appeals altogether handed in to the Town Clerk.

Mud Lake Bridge Broken.

The Mud lake bridge was broken last night by the wind and ice shove. Traffic over the bridge will not be possible until the ice leaves the lake so that the bridge can be repaired. Ennismore people coming to town to-day had to go by Fowler's corners.

Personal.

Mr. Meek, who has for some time filled the managing editor's chair in the Kingston Whig office, has accepted the position of Secretary of the Oddfellows' Relief Association. Mr. J. G. Elliott, of the Whig staff, has been promoted to the position vacated by Mr. Meek, a position which he will undoubtedly fill with credit.

Collegiate Institute Talent.

The Collegiate Institute Literary Society held one of its regular weekly meetings yesterday afternoon when a good programme was rendered. An excellent reading was given by Miss C. Wilson, an admirable essay was read by Miss A. Cromie, a well executed violin solo was contributed by Miss Yokome, C. Bell gave a well written essay and Miss M. McNamara supplied a very acceptable reading.

Rip-Rapping the Spur.

The C.P.R. company, as usual, are making a first-class job of the Dickson spur line. The work of ballasting has been about finished, an immense amount of gravel having been put on the line. The last few days the train has been drawing stone for the rip-rapping of the road along the river. The work of drawing the stone is now about completed and a week will see the line finished in A-1 style.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

To-night (Saturday) a young men's meeting will be held in the rooms at 8 p. m., conducted by young men.

On Sabbath evening at 8.15 a gospel and song service will take place, when a short address will be given by Mr. H. S. Griffin. All are welcome.

A meeting was held at the residence of Mr. H. S. Griffin of the Executive and Chairmen of Committee last evening to arrange for our Y. M. C. A. work. The following were appointed as delegates to the District Conference to be held at Cobourg on the 21st and 22nd inst:—Messrs G. S. Bean, G. J. Early, Jno. Miller, H. S. Griffin, Charles Collins, J. W. Bennet. It was decided to hold a reception for our members and young men of the town on the evening of Tuesday, 23rd inst., when an interesting programme will be given. Refreshments served by the ladies, when new plans will be laid so as to interest our young men showing them the great need of doing more aggressive work for Christ among their fellows.

Gentlemen of Leisure.

For the last two days there has been a gang of five American aristocrats, who toil not, neither do they spin, camped on the grassy slope by the side of the C.P.R. track in the cut in Ashburnham just east of the bridge. They were not all typical tramps, but at the same time they were not wearing themselves out looking for work. One of them remarked that they were looking for work but praying at the same time that they would not find any. Their arrangements for camping were none of the most elaborate, their covering being the broad canopy of heaven and their couch the grassy earth. Cooking utensils they had none, and all the edibles to be seen was a loaf of bread and a bottle of whiskey. Two of the party were young fellows about 18 years of age, and the other three were older, but could not apparently teach their younger companions a great deal in the way of foul language and bad talk. As is usual with this class of the community the men were apparently light-hearted and contented. They intended to "get out" just as soon as they could "catch" a train going east, they having came from the west and were making for Montreal.

THE WATERS GIVE UP THEIR DEAD.

The Doubt as to the Cause of the Disappearance of Mr. Thomas Coe Removed The Body Found.

Yesterday evening all doubt as to the cause of the sudden disappearance on the 14th of February last of Mr. Thomas Coe were removed and the cloud of mystery which has hung around that disappearance was cleared away when the body of the unfortunate man was found shortly after 5 o'clock floating in Little Lake.

THE CIRCUMSTANCES.

The circumstances of the drowning will perhaps be remembered. In the REVIEW of Thursday, 14th February, the following appeared under the caption of "Supposed Drowning":—"Since early yesterday morning, Mr. Thomas Coe, Queen-st., has been missing from his home and it is feared that he has met a watery grave in the Otonabee river. Mr. Coe has been unwell for over a year. About a year ago he fell and injured his head and since has been troubled from the effects of it. Latterly his mind has not been strong, but he was always quiet and gentle and able to move about. On Tuesday night he appeared to be better than for some time, but Wednesday morning he left his room and passed out of the house without being noticed. When his absence was observed, fears were aroused that he might have wandered away. All day his family and others made diligent enquiry but without avail. When he left the house Mr. Coe had not put on his shoes or slippers. Late Wednesday night footprints were noticed leading to the river from Hunter-st. and when they were closely examined, the marks of socks without shoes were seen. As there were no corresponding footprints returning from the water it is feared that Mr. Coe has gone out to Hunter-st. and wandered down to the water."

FINDING THE BODY.

The supposition in the above item at the time of the disappearance is undoubtedly correct. The body was found floating in the current just where the Little Lake empties into the river. Mr. David McGreggor, of Ashburnham, was the man who found the body. It appears that since the lake has been at all open that McGreggor has gone out for a short time every day and searched for the traces of the missing man, and yesterday afternoon his search was rewarded. He attached a rope to the body and drew it to shore, where it was left in the water until Dr. Fife, coroner, had been notified and decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The remains were then taken from the water and removed to Clegg's undertaking establishment where they were prepared for burial. The unfortunate man was hardly recognizable, but there was sufficient around him to identify him as Thomas Coe. He had no shoes on his feet, but his clothes were not torn, nor the body at all bruised, although it was, of course, considerably decomposed. Many persons with a morbid curiosity went down to the lake shore and viewed the remains, but it was far from being a desirable sight. The relatives of the deceased man will now be relieved from that state of doubt which has rested for the past eight weeks upon them.

Mr. Coe was an old resident of Peterborough and at one time did a large trade as a butcher in Ashburnham, and afterwards in town. He was a man of about 60 years of age, of quiet habits and was respected by all. He carried an insurance of $1,000 on his life the Sun Life Assurance Company, but, of course, until the finding of the body there was no proof of his death, and therefore the relatives could not obtain the insurance. Now that his death is a certainty, the family's claim has been forwarded and they will receive the money without further delay.

The funeral took place from the family residence on Queen-st. this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock to the Little Lake Cemetery.

Literary Notes.

Mr. Wm. Bryce, Toronto is one of the chief sources of the supply of fiction for the Canadian public. "A Transaction in Hearts," by the cynical Edgar Saltus, and "Le Docteur Rameau, or A Broken Life," by George Ohnet, translated by J. C. Curtin, are among his latest publications.

Taking Advantage of the Opportunity.

Mr. T. V. Powderly, General Master Workman of the Knights of Labor, lectures on the labor question in Toronto this evening, and will pass through here on the C. P. R. to-morrow night on his way to Ottawa, where he speaks on Monday night. Arrangements have been made with the railway authorities, through the local station agent, Mr. J. P. Dunn, to have the 11.24 train delayed at the station here for ten or fifteen minutes in order to allow the local labor men to take advantage of the opportunity to present an address to the able head of the order. There is no doubt but that a large crowd will be at station to see the man of such world-wide reputation.

The Porter Bros.' Assignment.

Before the Master in Chambers yesterday at Osgoode Hall, the case of Hall v. Fortye, which is of local interest, came up, and the Mail has the following report of the case:—Motion by the defendant to compel the plaintiff to speedily deliver his claim in an action by the sheriff of Peterborough, a subsequent assignee for creditors of Porter Bros., insolvent debtors, against the prior assignee, to establish the plaintiff's rights as assignee, and to restrain the defendant from selling the stock-in-trade of the debtors. A motion for an interim injunction restraining the the sale was refused by Boyd, C., some days ago, but the sale was in fact prevented from going on by the action of the solicitor for the plaintiff, who also represented the insolvent debtors and, by appearing at the place of sale and warning persons not to purchase in effect blocked the sale. Mr. Dalton, Q. C., held that the conduct of the solicitor brought the case under the same rules as if there had been an injunction or lis pendens, and that he was therefore justified in speeding the trial of the action. He ordered that the plaintiff should deliver his statement of claim on or before Monday next, 15th April. Shepley for the defendant, Hoyles for the plaintiff."

Canada's New Party.

The first branch of Canada's New Party, as the party of which Rev. Dr. Sutherland is the head is called, was organized at a meeting held here last evening, and it is said to have been organized under most favorable auspices. The principles of the New Party were considered and endorsed by those present. The motto of the new party is "For God, Home and Our Country," and the platform is a follows:—

1. Righteousness and truth in public affairs as well as in private business, and no compromise with wrong.
2. Equal rights for all creeds, classes, and nationalities, but exclusive privileges to none.
3. A national sentiment, a national literature, and in all matters of public policy—our country first.
4. The prompt and absolute prohibition of the liquor traffic, and the honest and vigorous enforcement of all other laws for the repression of vice and intemperance.
5. Retrenchment and economy in public expenditure, with a view of reducing our enormous national debt.
6. Manhood suffrage, with an educational qualification; that is, a vote to every freeman of legal age who can read and write.
7. The extension of the franchise to women.
8. An elective Senate.
9. Civil service reform.

UNDER HORSES' FEET.

An old Lady Eighty-one Years old has a Narrow Escape From Death.

An old lady eighty-one years of age had a most mirraculous escape from being killed on Water-st. at noon to-day. Her name was Mrs. Renwick, and it is said her home is in the township of Otonabee. She has been visiting her son, who lives in town on Bonaccord-st., for the past week or more and was down town this morning, for notwithstanding her advanced years she is still quite smart. The unfortunate lady was crossing Water-st. from the Kennealy to the Morgan House when she was knocked down by a team of horses driven by Mr. Andrew Hall, of Smith. The horses were attached to a low phaeton and Mr. Hall did not observe the old lady on the crossing, and she likewise was not aware of the approach of the team, until the pole of the phaeton struck her on the cheek and knocked her down. Fortunately the horses were going only at a moderate gait, and their driver was enabled to pull them in before the carriage passed over the prostrate woman. Mrs. Renwick was picked up and carried into the Kennealy House and Dr. Yelland was summoned and attended to her injuries, after which she was driven to her son's residence. Her injuries are happily not serious, although she was badly bruised on the face and one foot, and had a bad cut on one hand. Had the horses not been stopped as promptly as they were it is probable that the accident would have resulted fatally, as a broken limb to a lady of eighty-one years would be a serious thing.

CHINA HALL

CHINA
AND QUEENS WARE

Immense sums have been paid for rare specimens of antique China. Think of $5,000 being given for a china plate cracked at that. Consider $24,000 as the market value of a set of 120 pieces of Sevres china. Hold in one hand a cup and saucer and in the other hand the $3,600 that the cup and saucer brought at a Parisian auction. Truly, the craze of collectors for rare specimens of Palissy ware, has given fictitious values to many an unpretentious plate and cup. When money is tight it is a comfort to think of $2,800 being paid for a hawthorn jug that would barely hold a quart of milk. These are prices that astonish, but the serious side of the question is that at China Hall you can secure full sets of China that will grace any tea table for so little money that anyone can afford the outlay. Not only China, but good substantial dinner sets fit to set out the table of an M. P. or Mayor. Come to CHINA HALL and see what money will do. You'll not have to spend the value of six first-class farms for a China Tea Set.

BEAUTIFUL JIM.

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER

"But he does not believe it, surely," she cried, with blazing eyes and lips tightly compressed.

"No, he does not believe it, thank God," Jim replied quickly.

"But if he does not believe it, why let it affect us?" she exclaimed. "I have never known my father influenced by the opinion of others in all my life, never. And to think that he should begin to be so when the consequences are so serious for me, is too hard—it's too hard!"

"But you don't understand," said Jim, gently. "It is not the opinion of others he is thinking of at all—only, that as I am not cleared yet, the suspicion might at any time rise up against me and overwhelm both of us."

"But you are innocent."

"Innocent men have been hanged before today, my darling, and your father feels it," said he, more full of pity for her than of sorrow for his own broken hopes.

"But, Jim," she cried, eagerly, "did you not tell father that you could prove yourself innocent at any time?"

Beautiful Jim shook his head. "No, I did not tell him that."

"But why?"

"Because he would insist that I should speak."

"Oh! no. I shall tell him. Yes, it is no use trying to persuade me against it. I have made up my mind to do it. It is all very well to be generous and merciful to others; but I ought to be your first thought, and it will be but a poor sort of generosity to secure some one their peace of mind at the cost of breaking my heart."

"But he will certainly deliver that person up to justice," Jim persisted.

"And if he does, does not that person deserve it?" she said, passionately. "Why should the innocent have to suffer for the guilty? Or if some such must so suffer, why should it be you and I? Why not the — No, Jim, I have made up my mind. I will not let you lie under this suspicion a day longer. In fact, I tell you frankly and honestly, that I cannot understand your being so weak about the whole affair."

For a moment Beautiful Jim did not say one word. The little clock on the chimney shelf beside them ticked loudly and cheerily on, and Nancy was resting, tapping her foot upon the fender. Jim felt that he must speak, at least that he must convey to her the necessity for not speaking to her father further than he had already done, yet he hardly knew how to begin.

"Why don't you say something?" she asked at last, puzzled by the expression of his face, and guessing that there was yet something else for her to hear.

"I don't know how to say it," he said, unwillingly.

"But there is something to tell me," she cried. "Oh! Jim, don't spin it out—tell me quickly. Don't stop to pick and choose your words. Do tell me."

"Nancy," he said, thus urged, "you know you are making it horribly hard for me. Oh! my dear, my dear, why can't you, or won't you understand that it is impossible for me to say a word about my power to clear myself to your father, and imperative that you should not do so, either?"

She had not fully grasped his meaning, and yet she realised that there was truth in his words. Her face grew pale, and her lips stiff and strained, as she stood looking straight into his honest eyes, so full of love and sadness.

"What is it?" she whispered.

Jim put his arm around her and held her closely to him.

"Must I speak more plainly?" he asked. "Yes! Oh! my darling, I am so sorry, so grieved to say it—but he is the one person in the world to whom I could not tell it, except in the face of the most dire danger."

"It—was—not—our—boy?" she whispered, painfully; and for answer Beautiful Jim did not speak, made no gesture, no sign—only he looked at her with an infinite and tender pity shining through the love which filled his eyes.

CHAPTER XXIII.

FOR THE OLD MAN'S SAKE.

Undoubtedly it was the most bitter moment which had ever come into Nancy Earle's life, when she stood tightly clasped in the arms of the man who loved her, the man she loved, and learned the true story of the terrible murder which had taken place in Walmsbury barracks; when she learned with shame and anguish that it was no other than the last of her proud race who had done this damnable and cowardly deed.

She was so ashamed! That was the key note of her thoughts—shame, only shame. Although she had not known it, she had been proud of her faith and trust in the man she loved—she had unconsciously been thrilled with a delightful sense of pleasure in her own brave faithfulness, which could stand up, though all the world should be against him and all the evidence of circumstances might conspire to do him to death, and yet say: "I love this man—I believe in him—he is incapable of this vile thing that is laid to his charge."

Yes, there had been something grand and noble in her love, and she had felt that, come what might in the after years, he could and would always feel that the woman he loved had never wavered in her trust of him! And then, after all, to find out that he had kept silence for her sake and for that of the old father who had borne his good name as a bright jewel to be guarded and treasured, that he had kept silence in the face of a charge which could, and most probably would, cling to him all the rest of his life. Oh! it was a bitter, bitter blow to the girl who had been reared in pride, and whose training had been one of honor.

THE DOMINION'S FINANCES.

Increase in Revenue and Decrease in Expenditure—Notes From The Gazette.

OTTAWA, April 12.—The monthly financial statement will appear in The Canada Gazette to-morrow. The revenue in March was:

Customs	$ 2,276,432
Excise	694,150
Postoffice	210,373
Public Works, including railways	172,159
Miscellaneous	31,000
Total	$3,383,249
Expenditure	$1,735,063
Revenue over expenditure	$1,367,336

Compared with March, 1888, the revenue shows an increase of $600,000, principally in customs and excise receipts, and the expenditure shows a decrease of $407,000.

For the completed nine months of the present fiscal year the revenue has been $27,940,616 and the expenditure $23,729,291, leaving considerably over $4,000,000 surplus for the nine months. A comparison with the same period of the previous year shows an increase of nearly $2,230,000 in revenue.

Besides the above statement on consolidated fund account there has been expended on capital account in March $282,388 and in the nine months $3,897,093, made up thus: Public Works, railways and canals, $2,983,322; Dominion lands, $74,762; railway subsidies, $799,290; rebellion account, $16,409.

The total gross debt of the Dominion on March 31 was $287,886,980. Deducting from this the investments in sinking funds and otherwise, the provincial, miscellaneous and banking accounts—a total of $53,016,343 of assets—the net debt remains at $234,872,636, a decrease of $1,221,477 in the month. Of the gross debt, liabilities to the amount of $186,713,935 are payable in England.

To settle a difference of opinion as to the duty payable under the customs tariff an order-in-council has been issued declaring the duty upon sapolio and silver soap to be 3 cents a pound.

Hugh Forbes Keefer, contractor of Vancouver, B.C., gives notice of application for divorce from his wife, Rebecca Ann Keefer, nee Tisdale, on the ground of adultery.

Supplementary letters patent have been granted whereby the capital stock of the Cochrane Ranch Company is increased from $250,000 to $400,000.

F. B. McCormick of Pelee Township, Ont., has been appointed a sub-collector of customs.

ABANDONED AT SEA.

QUEENSTOWN, April 12.—The Inman Line steamer City of Chester, from New York, arrived to-day. She reports that on April 8, in latitude 46 N., longitude 37 W., she passed the Danish steamer Denmark, from Christiania and Copenhagen for New York. The Denmark had been abandoned by her crew, her stern was level with the sea and her bow stood high out of the water. She was apparently sinking. The Denmark was a vessel of 2200 tons and belonged to the Thingvalla line. She was commanded by Capt. Knudsen. The Denmark was formerly the Belgian steamer Jan Breydel. She was a bark rigged vessel, and was 340 feet long, 40 feet in breadth and 26 feet deep. She was built at Newcastle, England, in 1880.

No News of Her 700 Passengers.

NEW YORK, April 12.—The steamer Denmark was abandoned about 600 miles off the Irish coast. The crew and passengers numbered 750 persons. There is great excitement here over the abandonment of the vessel. The Thingvalla line is probably the largest carrying immigrant line that plies between this port and Europe. The Denmark had on board when she left Christiania 650 passengers, presumably all immigrants. The crew numbered 40 men. The office of the agents of the steamer has been thronged with people all day, anxiously inquiring for later news of the vessel. The agents, as yet, have no news to give them.

A Bark Rescued.

LONDON, April 12.—The German bark Emilie, Captain Ohling, which left Pensacola March 2 for Brake, was abandoned April 7 in latitude 48 north, longitude 18 west. Three of the crew were drowned. The others arrived here to-day.

Fears are entertained regarding the safety of the British bark Shalimar, Captain Linklater, which left Newcastle, N. S. W., Dec. 22 for Portland, Ore.

The Carmen's Strikes.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 12.—The Street Car Company made its first formal attempt to raise the strike shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon. The move was made at the Fourth-avenue car barns. Policemen were on hand, as were President Lowry and Manager Goodrich. The car had not gone 20 feet before it was stopped by the men, the horses unhitched and the car shoved back to the barn. They carried Sergeant Hein and several policemen, but they made no attempt to arrest any one. President Lowry refuses to submit the troubles to arbitration.

ROCHESTER, April 12.—The local car company attempted for the first time since the drivers struck to run cars after dark to-night. This action precipitated small-sized riots in different parts of the city.

Spreckles Not in the Sugar Trust.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—Claus Spreckles when asked to-day if he had joined the sugar trust said: "I am not in the trust and never will be at any price."

A Kansas Tragedy.

KANSAS CITY, April 12.—Yesterday at Bramin Hill were found the bodies of Wilhelmina Seiderick, a widow, owning a farm, and Jacob Schaler, the hired man. Both had evidently been dead several days. The woman had been shot in the mouth, abdomen and breast, while the man had a fatal wound back of the year. Schaler had been working for the woman for years, and the neighbors say the couple frequently quarrelled. It is supposed to be a case of murder and suicide. Mrs. Seiderick's first husband hung himself and her second husband died under mysterious circumstances.

Baltimore's Population.

BALTIMORE, April 12.—The census returns just made by the police show a population of 893,669.

It is Stated.

PERHAM, Minn., April 12.—It is stated that Mrs. Andrew Benbera, a lady living near New York Mills, gave birth a short time since to six children, three of whom are alive.

A Sacrifice to the Devil.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 12.—Prince Law, a negro living on the Springfield plantation, killed his 4-year-old child yesterday as a sacrifice to the devil, who, he said, was about to destroy the world.

Another Prairie Fire Victim.

HIGHMORE, Dak., April 12.—Mr. Beddinger, another prairie fire victim, died last night. This makes the sixth death in Hyde County of prairie fire victims.

THAT AWFUL HURRICANE.

THE APPALLING DISASTER IN APIA HARBOR.

A Storm Never Before Equalled in Pacific Waters—Nearly 150 Lives and $3,000,000 of Property Lost.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—A letter from Apia, Samoa, dated March 30, says: The Samoan Islands have been visited by a disaster more appalling than all the wars ever waged here. In attempting to effect a solution of the Samoan difficulty and to protect their respective interests in the islands the United States and Germany have lost nearly 150 lives and $3,000,000 worth of property. The most violent and destructive hurricane ever known in the South Pacific Ocean passed over these islands on March 16 and 17, and as a result six warships and ten other vessels were ground to atoms on the coral reefs in the harbor or thrown on the beach in front of the little city of Apia, and 142 officers and men of the American and German navies sleep forever under the reefs or lie buried in unmarked graves, thousands of miles from their native lands.

The United States frigate Trenton, flagship of the Pacific squadron, which arrived here from Panama March 11, lies within a stone's throw of the American consulate—a total wreck. The great hull of the magnificent vessel rests on the bottom, fast going to pieces. The United States steamer Vandalia, which arrived from San Francisco in February, is buried out of sight between the Trenton and the shore. Her shattered foremast and smoke stack rise from the water to mark the spot where the gallant vessel struck and lay for over 12 hours before the awful torrent of water which swept four officers and 39 men from her decks and rigging. Her commander, Captain C. M. Schoonmaker, was among the first who perished in the waves. The other officers who met their deaths were Paymaster Frank H. Arms, Lieut. Frank Sutton of the marine corps and Pay Clerk John Roach. The United States steamship Nipsic lay for several days alongside the Vandalia with her bow high on the beach and within five feet of the water's edge. The vessel, though badly damaged, was hauled off a few days after the storm, and is the only warship afloat in the harbor. Several of the officers and crew are living aboard. All the Nipsic's officers are safe, but she lost five men by the swamping of a boat and two others who jumped overboard were also drowned. The three American men-of-war were swept ashore almost at the same time.

It was on the late German gunboat Eber that the greatest loss of life occurred. The Eber had a complement of six officers and 76 men. Five men were ashore during the storm. When the vessel struck the reef she sank completely out of sight and a minute later there was not a vestige of her to be seen, and all on board were lost except one officer, Lieut. Galdake, and four sailors. The other five officers and 66 men were either killed when the vessel crashed to pieces or were drowned in the roaring torrent of water that broke upon the reef. A small part of the Eber's prow was afterwards washed ashore near an American vessel. This and a few pieces of broken wreckage near the point where she struck are the only portions of her that have ever been seen since the moment she went down.

Just on the edge of the reef about 500 yards west of the Trenton is all that remains of the Adler, the flagship of the German squadron in Samoan waters. The Eber was washed on top of the reef and turned completely over on her side. She has remained in that position since and is almost entirely out of water. Nearly every man aboard was thrown into the water when the Adler struck but only 20 sailors were drowned and all her officers were saved.

The German corvette Olga is fast upon a wind flat about a quarter of a mile east of the American vessels. While the storm was raging and the vessels fighting for their lives the Olga came into collision with nearly every other man-of-war in the harbor and was badly damaged. It is thought she can be towed off. No lives were lost on the Olga.

The only other man-of-war in the harbor was the British corvette Calliope, which arrived here in February and relieved the Royalist. Her machinery was very powerful and she was capable of steaming at the rate of 16 knots an hour. She narrowly escaped going ashore at the same place with the Adler, but just as she was about to strike the reef she let go her anchors and in the face of the terrible wind left the harbor and put to sea.

Merchant vessels which were wrecked were principally small craft. Nearly all of them were thrown on the reef near the wreck of the Adler, but one or two escaped with slight damage. One of these was a schooner belonging to the German Trading Company and she was made ready at once to send to Tutuila to meet the Mariposa from San Francisco, so that news of the disaster could be forwarded to Auckland and from there cabled to Europe and America.

The beach is strewn with wreckage from one end of the town to the other. Over 500 American and German sailors are quartered in Apia and for a few days after the storm subsided the greatest confusion existed everywhere. A large number of the men on the Vandalia and several on other vessels were badly injured by falling from the rigging and being thrown about decks by the terrible seas, and it was necessary to provide a temporary hospital for their accommodation. A great many men from the wrecked vessels became intoxicated as soon as they reached the shore.

The force of the storm was never equalled in this part of the world before. The barometer had been falling steadily for several days previous to the storm and the wind commenced to blow Friday afternoon, March 15, and continued until Sunday morning. The rain fell in torrents during the whole time and great clouds of sand swept over the town. Hundreds of people stood on the beach and watched the awful spectacle in the harbor. The vessels all had full head of steam on and three or four anchors out. Their yards and topmasts were down and every precaution was taken to insure the safety of the ships, but the wind constantly shifted from northeast to northwest. The force was so great that the vessels dragged their anchors all over from one side of the bay to the other and came into collision a dozen times. Tremendous seas broke over the decks and torrents of water rushed down the hatchways and put out the fires. There was great confusion among the men on several of the vessels early Saturday morning but the officers did noble work and the men became orderly and attended to their duties bravely in the face of danger.

Persons on shore were powerless to render any assistance to the ships. Hundreds ran to the water's edge and stood in the blinding storm watching the great vessels pitch about on the waves or drift on to destruction against the reefs. The sea broke upon the reef with a roaring sound and washed far up on the beach, carrying with it great quantities of wreckage. Watchers on shore were submerged time after time and many were injured by the floating wreckage. Great clouds of sand filled the air and cut face and body like a knife. Every one was drenched with the rain but stood shivering in the storm prepared to render whatever assistance might be possible.

The natives waded far out into the surf where a white man could not live and many a life was saved through their efforts. Americans and Germans were treated alike, no thought was given to the state of war existing between the Germans and themselves and the men who fought the Germans at Vailele a few months before now battled with the waves and risked their own lives to save their enemies from a watery grave.

The storm raged furiously for nearly two days and when the wind finally abated the scene of destruction was awful. On the shore houses were unroofed and blown down and trees and fences were blown across the streets so that passage was almost blocked. Out of seventeen vessels moored in the harbor only two small schooners remained afloat and these were badly damaged.

The survivors of the latter seemed dazed. They had seen friends and comrades swept away from their grasp and go down to death and had expected to follow them as every wave broke over the ill-fated vessels. Long exposure had rendered them weak and exhausted. Very few had tasted food for 36 hours, many had clung to the rigging without a particle of clothing and all bore marks of terrible suffering.

The houses of Apia were thrown open and both native and foreign residents did all in their power to accommodate the shipwrecked sailors.

Apia harbor is a little semi-circular bay on the northern side of the Island of Upalu. The distance across the entrance is about three miles. A coral reef extends in front of the harbor but is broken for three quarters of a mile. This break forms a gateway for ships. The space within this reef where ships can lie at anchor is very small, as there is a shoal of large dimensions in the eastern part, and the western portion is obstructed by another coral reef located 200 to 400 yards off shore. It was on this inner reef that most of the vessels were wrecked, as the wind blew into the harbor from the open sea and forced them back against it.

There is no holding ground at the bottom of the bay and vessels have dragged anchor during a stiff breeze. Rapid currents shoot about in several directions, the velocity of which is greatly increased by immense volumes of water emptying from several rivers. The principal current rushed along shore, past the point where the American vessels struck. One hundred yards further west it was met by the roaring torrent of the Vaisigano River. Thus a whirlpool was formed, and a dozen men tossed overboard from the Vandalia were swept to this point, whirled round for a moment and then forced into the bay.

The men-of-war in the harbor were necessarily close together. The vessels nearest the shore were the Eber and Nipsic. The Eber was in front of the American Consulate, a quarter of a mile from shore, and the Nipsic about 200 yards east of her. The Adler was just ahead of the Nipsic and the Olga and Calliope were ahead of the Eber. The Vandalia was beyond the Calliope, a mile off shore. The Trenton, being much larger than any other man-of-war, there was no room for her near shore, so she was obliged to anchor beyond the Vandalia just within the outer reef.

The sailing craft were in shallow water west of the men-of-war. The Trenton and Vandalia had the most dangerous berths, while the Nipsic was considered safest.

For a few days preceding the hurricane the weather was cloudy and the barometer steadily fell, but no one anticipated the storm which commenced in the afternoon of March 15. By 11 o'clock at night the wind had increased to a gale, and nearly all the warships had their engines working to relieve the strain upon their anchors. The crews on most of the sailing craft put out extra anchors and then went ashore. The rain commenced at midnight and the wind increased in fury. Great waves rolled in from the ocean and the pitching of the vessels was fearful. Every man was at work.

The Eber commenced to drag anchor at midnight and an hour later the Vandalia was dragging. By using full steam power they kept off the reef and away from the other vessels. The wind blew stronger and stronger and the rain fell in torrents. By 3 o'clock the situation was alarming. Nearly every vessel was dragging anchors and there was imminent danger of collision. A panic began to break out among the men on several vessels and they were kept at their posts with the greatest difficulty.

On shore the howling of the wind among the trees and houses and the crash of falling roofs aroused many persons from their beds, and figures were soon groping about the streets looking for shelter from the tempest. The tide came in rapidly and waves washed all over the street 100 feet above the usual high water mark. The spray was thrown high in the air and beat into the windows of houses nearest shore. Rain fell like sleet, and men and women wandering in the storm shielded their faces with pieces of board or any other article that could be used as a protection against wind and sand. The natives seemed to realize more than any one else that the storm would result in awful destruction.

People gathered in little groups and peered into the darkness across the foaming waters. Through the blackness of the night could be seen the lights of the men-of-war, and above the roaring of wind and waves the shouting of officers and men came faintly across the water. It could be seen the vessels were dragging, as the lights were moving slowly in different directions and apparently crossing and recrossing each other. Every moment it seemed as though two or more great ships were about to collide and the watchers on the beach waited in breathless anxiety to hear the crash and to see the vessels go down.

A little after 5 o'clock dawn revealed the situation. The wind from the northeast had swept the vessels from their former moorings and they were all bearing toward the reef. Black smoke was pouring from their funnels, showing desperate efforts were being made to keep up against the wind. The decks were swarming with men clinging to masts and other objects. The hulls of the warships were tossing like corks. One moment the vessels seemed to stand almost upon their beam ends and the next instant their sterns would rise out of the water and expose to view the rudders and revolving propeller. Then the prows would be lifted high in the air only to plunge into the next wave and deluge the ships with water. Several small sailing vessels have already gone ashore.

The Trenton and Vandalia being farther from the shore than the rest were obscured by the mist. The vessels most plainly visible were the Eber, the Adler and the Nipsic. They were very close together and only a few yards from the reef.

The Eber was making a desperate struggle but every moment she was being drawn nearer the reef. Suddenly she shot forward as if making a last effort to escape destruction. The current however bore her to the right and her prow struck the port quarter of the Nipsic. The shock carried away several feet of the Nipsic's rail and one boat. The Eber then fell back and fouled with the Olga but neither sustained much damage. The collisions checked the Eber's progress and she seemed unable to make further effort. She swung around broadside to the wind and drifted slowly towards the reef. Awful seas broke over her. In a moment a great wave rolled in towards shore, the Eber was lifted high on its crest and carried broadside on the reef. She came down with awful force and in an instant there was not a vestige to be seen. She struck fairly upon her bottom, rolled over towards the open sea and disappeared.

About 10 o'clock the excitement on shore, which quieted a little, commenced to grow more intense as the Vandalia and Calliope were seen in a most dangerous position, and a collision between the two vessels seemed inevitable. They were both bearing back against the reef near a point where the wreck of the Adler lay. The Calliope was nearer the shore and her bow was close to the stern of the Vandalia. Great waves were tossing the two vessels about and they were coming closer together every minute. The space between the men-of-war was next seen to close altogether, when suddenly the great iron prow of the Englishman arose high in the air on the crest of an enormous wave and came down with full force upon the port quarter of the Vandalia. The crash was awful. The jibboom of the Calliope was carried away and heavy timbers of the Vandalia was shivered. Every man who stood upon the poop deck of the Vandalia was thrown from his feet by the shock. A hole had been torn below the rail and the water rushed into the cabin. It was impossible to ascertain the extent of the damage in a moment, but at the time it seemed that the Vandalia had received her death blow. The men rushed up the hatches in belief the steamer was sinking, and it was only after great effort that the officers persuaded them to return to their posts.

Just after this collision Capt. Kane of the Calliope determined to make an effort to steam out of the harbor, as he saw that to remain in his present position would lead to another collision with the Vandalia and throw his vessel on the reef. He accordingly gave order to let go all anchors. The Calliope's head was swung around to wind and her powerful engines were worked to their utmost capacity. It was an anxious moment on board the corvette, as with her anchors gone she had nothing but her engines to depend upon to keep her off the reef. The steamer seemed to stand still for a moment and then the rapidly revolving propeller had its effect, for the vessel moved up slowly against the great waves which broke over her bows and flooded her decks from stem to stern. Clouds of black smoke poured from her funnels and fresh coal was thrown into her furnaces. Every tension was strained in the desperate struggle against the storm. She seemed to make her headway at first inch by inch, but her speed gradually increased until it became evident she could clear the harbor. As she passed abreast of the Trenton a great shout went up from over 400 men aboard the flagship and three hearty cheers were given for the Calliope. Three cheers for the Trenton and the American flag was the answer that came back across the angry waters. The Calliope passed safely out of the harbor and steamed far out to sea, returning after the storm abated. She sustained little injury outside the loss of all her boats.

Order was generally restored in Apia in a few days. A large force of Samoans succeeded in hauling the Nipsic off. The Trenton's sailors are temporarily quartered in tents in the middle of the town. The Vandalia's men are quartered near the American consulate. The survivors of the German vessels are quartered in the German Trading Company's warehouse. If the Nipsic can be made seaworthy she will be sent to Auckland or San Francisco for repairs. The Trenton is believed to be beyond repair. The Olga is afloat in the harbor, having been hauled off. She was hauled off by Mataafa's men with whom the Germans are at war. Most of the merchant vessels in the harbor at the time of the storm belonged to the German Trading Company.

MORRISON'S TERMS.

The Outlaw Interviews Judge Dugas and Makes Impossible Conditions.

SHERBROOKE, April 14.—At the earnest solicitation of friends Donald Morrison had a long interview with Judge Dugas last week between Gould and Winslow. Donald's terms of surrender were as follows: The reward of $3000 to be given to Donald himself and he would surrender, he not to be incarcerated in jail before or during the trial, or he will take the $600 which he claims is owed him by McAulay and five days' clear start and leave the country, or that he be guaranteed an acquittal. Of course Judge Dugas refused these terms and the interview ended.

Arrests in connection with Morrison's affair are recommenced and there is woe in the homes of the people. William Morrison, a young blacksmith of Stornoway, and Murdoch McAulay, a section man on the C.P.R., together with four others, were arrested Friday and conveyed to Sherbrooke jail. The temper of the people is being aroused to the highest pitch and the general opinion is that forty-five warrants will never be executed without bloodshed. Five of the friends of Morrison arrested Friday by High Constable Moe arrived here by Saturday morning's train and were committed by Judge Rioux for eight days or until such time as Judge Dugas can attend to their examination.

DOWN BY THE SEA.

M. P. A.'s Increase their Sessional Allowance—Arrival of the Crofters.

HALIFAX, April 14.—The House of Assembly voted last night to increase the members' sessional pay from $400 to $500.

The steamer Scandinavian, which arrived from Glasgow to-day, brought 250 crofters, comprising families who were selected to proceed to the Canadian Northwest under the State-aided scheme of the Imperial Government. They hold tickets through to Wolseley, N.W.T., on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

A Town Captured by Outlaws.

LAMAR, Col., April 13.—Boston, a town 25 miles south of here and the same distance from any railroad, is in possession of a gang of outlaws headed by Bill Thomson, an old pal of "Billy the Kid." They have taken possession of stores, saloons and the postoffice, have damaged the contents and threaten the lives of citizens if they attempt to interfere. The town has been fired in several places and the people have fled to surrounding towns for safety. It is feared the town will be burned any night. Couriers have been sent to Trinidad and Las Animas for aid.

Seven Years for Keatman.

BROCKVILLE, April 13.—Alex. J. Keatman, music teacher, who on Wednesday pleaded guilty to forgery, was to-day sentenced by Judge Falconbridge to seven years in the penitentiary.

THE MALADY OF HER RACE

EMPRESS AUGUSTA OF AUSTRIA AFFLICTED WITH INSANITY.

Kaiser William Exasperated by the Failure of Press Prosecutions and Determined on a Rigorous Gag Law.

BERLIN, April 13.—The Court of Appeal's revocation of the police decree against The Volks Zeitung and the failure of the prosecution of The Freisinnige Zeitung exasperate the Emperor and confirm his determination to insist upon a bill to accentuate the rigors of the ordinary press law. An intimation has been made to the leaders of the National party through Count Herbert Bismarck that a press law compromise must be abandoned, the Government finding it necessary to press upon the Reichstag a measure to control criticism. This decision promises an upheaval of parties during the remainder of the session. The persecution of the press excites every populous centre in Germany, is strengthening the Progressists and Socialists and is making a bad impression on the country that the Emperor's future will justify the worst fears of his despotic tendencies.

Advices from Vienna state that the Empress of Austria has been attacked by the family malady—insanity. She suffers from long spells of melancholia and entertains delusions, accusing herself of the death of Crown Prince Rudolph. She is possessed with ideas of suicide, thinking to leave the Emperor free to re-marry. Sometimes she dandles a cushion or a pillow, thinking it a new-born heir to the throne. The Emperor is greatly affected. He suffers from insomnia and has no zest for work, taking only a languid interest in State affairs. It is reported that he has consulted with Count Kalnoky and Count von Taafe upon the advisability of abdicating in favor of his nephew Franz. It is also said he wrote to the Pope declaring that he longed for rest and wished to retire, and that the Pope's response urging upon him the necessity of submitting to the decrees of God, combined with the protests of the Ministers, induced him in the meantime to remain upon the throne.

The liabilities of Emil Treitel, the grain dealer who failed recently, are 3,300,000 marks, assets 1,100,000 marks. The failure of Zalter & Co., grain dealers, has affected the Boerse owing to the firm's stock speculations. The firm's debts amount to 1,800,000 marks. The assets are meagre. The two failures involve several smaller firms.

Sydney O. Danes, the alleged spy, has been sentenced to 4½ years' imprisonment and his accomplice Hartung has been acquitted. The trial was secret.

The hereditary Duke and Duchess of Oldenburg and Count and Countess Hohenhau had a narrow escape from death recently while journeying from Bombay to Calcutta by steamer. They and many others were taken ill with symptoms of poisoning. Seven passengers died, while the four mentioned and the others recovered. It was found the meals had been cooked in uncleaned copper vessels.

The Evictors Scalded.

DUBLIN, April 13.—During the evictions on the Olphert estate yesterday the agent and a number of emergency men were scalded and otherwise seriously wounded.

They Should Pay Up.

DUBLIN, April 13.—Forty tenants on the Marquis of Lansdowne's estate have received notices of eviction.

HOW THEY WOULD WORK IT.

THROUGHOUT the Province the Liberal party is actively preparing for a general election by having the names of all young men who are believed to be favorable to that party placed on the assessor's roll, so they will appear on the list of voters. Of course, so long as their methods of doing this are proper no objection can be taken to their action. It is a right thing to do. But the Conservatives should take warning from their activity and take care to see that the names of Conservatives are placed on the roll, so that when Mr. Mowat again springs an election upon the Province he will have no undue advantage that can be prevented.

Secret circulars have been sent out to Liberal party workers, and a copy has fallen into the hands of The Empire. One section of the circular is given as follows:—

"It would seem to be advisable that where an assessor is opposed to us in politics, our friends should quietly obtain all the affidavits they can and present them to him shortly before he returns his roll. Where he is friendly to us, he should be advised not to enter the names of our supporters furnished to him till he is just closing his roll. In either case our opponents would have little chance of knowing what we were doing till too late to be of much or any service to them."

So the Ontario Government is not satisfied with having the aid of its own officials, and the advantages it has secured by gerrymandering the constituencies and other questionable acts, but also wishes to press the municipal assessors into the ranks of the party workers. It may succeed in doing so in some places, and that is all the more reason why Conservatives should be watchful of the voters' list and should make efforts to have the name of every Conservative legally qualified to vote placed upon the roll. It is not every Liberal assessor who would fall in with the suggestion of his party friends to use his position as an officer of the municipality to forward the schemes of the party; but, nevertheless, the opponents of the Mowat Government should not trust to any chances. All through the Province the rolls and lists should be looked after, and as names can be placed on the assessor's roll with less trouble than they can be added to the voters' list by an appeal the work should be done at once and thoroughly.

NOT A PARADISE.

BEFORE the Canadian Pacific railway was constructed and the Canadian Northwest opened up numbers of Canadians who wished to go to a new country found their way into the Western States. Even yet influenced by the rose-colored advertisements of the United States territories, and by the jeremaids of discontented Canadian politicians, Canadians cross the lines in the hope of bettering their condition. That they are frequently deluded is often shown and another evidence of that is furnished in the following paragraph from The Toronto Globe:—

"Not all of those Canadians who endeavor to find home and fortune in the United States remain on the wrong side of the border. Mr. James Taylor, of Belleville, a painter and grainer by trade, went to Los Angeles, Cal., a year ago and came back yesterday convinced that he can do as well in Canada as in California, not to say better. He says there are five or six thousand mechanics in that city out of work, a fair share of them Canadians, but the majority American born. There are many Canadians there, he says, who would willing come back to their country if they could find the means to do so. The Los Angeles boom, he says, has utterly died out, land values are falling and the place generally is the reverse of prosperous. As Mr. Taylor very aptly suggests, a mention of his experience may save from disappointment others who have this imaginary El Dorado in mind."

California is not the only part of the United States to which this would apply. We know of Canadians who some years ago went to Dakota to build up homes and are now leaving that state, and some have crossed the lines into Canada.

MR. ERASTUS WIMAN has not given up the commercial union propoganda, and Canadian politicians who profess to be free traders will go on urging Canadians to make the tariff twice as high as it now is.

A HEART-TOUCHING SCENE.

Lines suggested while attending the funeral of a neighbor's wife, the mother of fourteen surviving children, and the sad heart-rending sight—as they manifested their grief in one mournful circle around the coffin containing all that remained of a once fond and loving mother:—

In my short life I joys have seen, sorrows at death likewise,
I oft have stood by weeping friends and listened to their sighs;
Yes, I have cooled the feverish brow and held the death bound hand,
And watched the last look of a friend bound to the better land.
As a spectator I have watched the conflict, life and death,
When death's dread sword has pierced the heart, the conquered gasped for breath,
Unseen the soul unwounded lives, and strives to pass away,
Rushing through every avenue of its dying house of clay.
In coffin I have gazed upon the pale face of the dead,
And watched the undertakers hand as he screwed down the lid,
All I have seen, all I have felt, like shadows pass away,
Compared with that heartrending scene that I behold to-day.
A lifeless wife and mother lay, one always kind and good;
Gazing upon her dead pale face a sorrowing husband stood,
While fourteen children, large and small, her coffin clustered round
To view the scene, to drop no tear one heart could scarce be found,
Their sobs, their tears had no effect, nor calls for mother dear,
Her ear-valves closed by death, she could no weeping children hear;
No mother's words to sooth their grief, though weeping they appealed,
No kind response, their Mother's tongue death had for ever sealed,
As one by one they pressed her lips, that oft had kissed their cheeks,
Their icy touch peirced their young hearts and brought forth frantic shrieks,
Their cries and tears o'erflowed the bounds, when love and grief embrace,
And ceased not when the coffin lid concealed that mother's face.
Parson and people pitying stood, the heart-rending scene to view,
And strong men strove to hide the flow of sympathic dew,
Grey headed men their face's covered, ashamed at being so weak,
Strove to conceal the pitying tear fast trickling down their cheeks.
Unfeeling, cruel, remorseless death no sympathy to show,
No mercy in thy fatal stroke, no pity in thy blow,
No husband's love, no mother's need, could thy dread blow avert,
Motherless children's screams and tears could not repell thy dart.
While gazing on that mourning group, remembering God is love,
Wondering at His mysterious plan that mother to remove,
Leaving those helpless children to a father or sister's care
Without a mother's kindly hand or loving mother's prayer—
We have no right God's wondrous ways to know or penetrate,
'Tis ours to cheer the sorrowing hearts, their grief to mitigate,
And help those little tender youths to bear bereavement's load
And point them to a friend above, not mother, but their God.
*Young weeping children, stop your grief, re*strain your bitter tears,
God called you ma. He knows your case, your cries hath reached His ears;
Your loving mother's arms no more your forms shall here embrace,
Do give your hearts to Jesus and His arms will take her place.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowls, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

The Military Camp.

The Kingston News of Saturday says:—"Col. Van Straubenzie was spoken to this morning regarding the military camp for this year, and he stated that no doubt Kingston would receive it, if it did what Gananoque did last year. It furnished a site, water supply, the latrines and horse pickets. When asked if he had his eye on a site, he said that he thought that T. C. Wilson's farm (the race course) would do. It is near the water tank, and is high and dry. He intended measuring it to see if it would answer the purpose."

A Runaway Accident.

A little before six o'clock on Saturday evening there was a most fortunate escape from a serious accident on George-st. A Mr. Hamilton, of Otonabee, and his sister were on their way home seated in a democrat waggon which was drawn by a spirited team of brown horses. Just before they reached the C.P.R. crossing on George st. the horses took fright at a piece of paper that was blowing along the road and turned suddenly into the ditch. In their fright the animals turned completely around and in pulling the waggon after them it was overturned and its two occupants thrown into the air and the miscellaneous cargo of boxes, parcels and bags which filled the back of the waggon were scattered on the road. Fortunately Mr. and Miss Hamilton were not seriously injured, although the latter was badly shaken up. The horses were caught before they could get away, and what might have been a serious accident resulted in nothing more than a few bruises to the persons interested and a broken tongue to the democrat.

THE HEAD OF THE KNIGHTS.

When the 11.40 train on the C. P. R. pulled into the station last night there was a good crowd of the local labor men on the platform to pay a passing tribute to the man who has so successfully, and with such remarkable executive ability, stood at the head of the Knights of Labor as General Master Workman and guided the affairs of that organization in such a manner as to have won for himself a world-wide reputation and endeared himself to the workingmen throughout the entire continent. This man was Mr. T. V. Powderly, of Cleveland, Ohio.

THE PRESENTATION.

As the train came to a stand still Mr. Powderly stepped from the carriage, accompanied by Mr. Wright, a member of the Toronto Executive Board, and warmly shook by the hand the Knights who stood in the front of the crowd which pressed around. Then the Master Workman of the local assembly, Mr. R. Calvert, escorted the General Master Workman into the waiting room of the station and Mr. John O'Brien, Secretary of the local Assembly, presented the following address:—

To T. V. Powderly, General Master Workman of the Knights of Labor of America:

Dear Sir and Brother,—We, the Knights of Labor of the town of Peterborough, of the Province of Ontario, hearing of your advent to our Province, and being unable to participate at your meetings in Toronto and Ottawa, seize the only opportunity afforded of expressing our profound admiration for your excellent executive qualities as displayed with so much effect and benefit to the workingmen of America since you were so worthily placed at their head.

We feel that we cannot express with sufficient warmth our deep gratitude and appreciation of your noble and successful efforts in elevating to a higher place the sons of toil on this continent. Every department of labor on land has been been benefitted by your noble and self-sacrificing exertions, and we hail now with a salvo of cheers your last grand effort for an amelioration of the condition of the tyrannized sailor, and in this you will be successful as you have right and might on your side.

We renew again our delight at meeting you and trust your health and strength will be maintained by a beneficent Providence to guide unerringly and successfully as you have in the past the emancipated sons of toil on this broad continent.

From Sanctuary 6,932, attached to District Assembly 236.

John O'Brien, Secretary. Richard Calvert, Master Workman.

MR. POWDERLY'S REPLY.

When Secretary O'Brien had reached about the middle of the address, Mr. Powderly interrupted him and, taking the copy of the address, he said:

"Excuse me, but just stop there, I thank you very kindly for your excellent address. I will take it with me and read it afterwards, for I see in the hurry and excitement of the short stop of the train you will hardly be able to read it. I will take this with me as a memento of your esteem and regard. I am very sorry that I cannot be here with you to deliver an address, but my duties are from one point and I should never leave there. This visit of mine is one of an old promise. I will ask you to do one thing, and that is to get up a meeting for next Thursday night, when Mr. Wright, a member of the Executive Board of Toronto, will be coming through on his return and will address you. I cannot enter into any extended remarks, but will thank you for your address to me and say I am well pleased and delighted with my reception and if you will permit me I would like to shake hands with each of the brethren."

Then after each of the Knights had grasped the hand of their General Master Workman and giving it a hearty shake, Mr. Powderly was escorted back to his car and the train moved off followed by their cheers.

Mr. Powderly delivers an address in Ottawa to-night.

An Old Soldier on the Spree.

An old soldier and pensioner by the name of Connors was run in on Saturday for being drunk and remained in the cells until last night, when he was allowed out to appear at the Police Court this morning. He came up to the court, but was intoxicated again. The Magistrate gave him a lecture and told him to go straight home, for if he was locked up for being drunk he would be severely dealt with.

"Sleepy Dan" Sold.

On Saturday Mr. Harry Winch sold his trotting horse "Sleepy Dan" to Mr. Veal, a Montreal horseman. "Sleepy Dan" is a comparatively young horse, being about seven years old, and has a record of .26 or 28. Mr. Winch has been desirous of parting with his flyer, but he asked a pretty high figure. However, on Saturday, the Montreal man was sufficiently impressed with Dan's prospects on the turf and it is understood that a good figure was received for the horse. Mr. Veal has his eye on some of the other local flyers and may make a deal when he pays Peterborough another visit.

Saving Livery Hire.

About eight o'clock on Saturday night some man went to the sheds of Wilson's hotel on Hunter-st., and took a horse and buggy that was standing there and drove away with it. The horse and rig belonged to Mr. Fitzgerald, of Otonabee, and when they were missed the matter was reported to the police. Enquiries were made and it was found that the party who had stolen the rig had driven over to Ashburnham, but no further trace of him was found. However about twelve o'clock the yard man at the Croft House found the horse with the buggy standing in the yard of that hotel. It is supposed that some borrowed the horse and the buggy for a few hours when the owner was not looking, and probably took his best girl for a drive.

The Fisheries.

In the annual report of the Department of Fisheries the following appears in reference to the Peterborough county division:—"Overseers Geo. Cochrane, of Lakefield, and J. Dauncey, of Minden, have charge of all the lakes and streams in Peterborough County. They report a good catch of maskinonge and bass. All the fish caught in this division, valued at $16,060, is disposed of on local markets." The following from the report will also be of interest:—"Overseer Chas. Gilchrist has charge of that portion of Lake Ontario coast fronting on the County of Northumberland, together with Rice Lake. He reports a catch of 7,000 pounds of whitefish, while there was none in 1887. Maskinonge were plentiful, 228,000 pounds being returned, half of which were caught by Indians. There were 308 angling permits issued in Rice Lake, 109 of which were to Indians and 22 to foreigners. The total value of the fisheries in this district is put down at $23,725, being an increase of $7,180 over last year."

Brevities

—The cells were empty last night.

—The Hunter-st. bridge is being repaired.

—In compliance with the request of General Master Workman Powderly a labor mass meeting will be held on Thursday night next.

—Rev. D. O. Crossley, a brother of Rev. H. T. Crossley, and his co-laborer met with success in Kincardine, nearly two hundred persons having been converted. They are now at Uxbridge.

—Complaints are made that boys are in the habit of playing ball on Sunday on the street near the South Ward School. This is a violation of the Sabbath that should not be permitted, especially as it annoys those residing in the vicinity of the chosen play ground.

THE CHURCHES YESTERDAY.

Palm Sunday at St. Peter's—Special Services this Week—Results of the Evangelistic Work.

Yesterday being Palm Sunday, the day, as customary, was observed with special ceremonies at St. Peter's Cathedral. At high mass at 10.30 in the morning, the ceremony of the blessing of the palms was observed in commemoration of the triumphant entry of our blessed Saviour into Jerusalem. Rev. Father Dube officiated. In the evening at vespers, Rev. Father McEvay delivered an appropriate sermon, in which he dwelt on the events in the Saviour's life during Passion week.

During this week special devotional services will be held every morning and evening the last four days of this week, commencing at 8 a. m. and ending at 7.30 p.m.

Next Sunday will be Easter Sunday and special services will be held at St. Peter's. Three masses will be celebrated, one at 6 30 a.m., another at 8 a.m. and the third at 10.30, when His Lordship Bishop Dowling will pontificate.

It is probable that there will be a large gathering of clergy here on May 1st, when the consecration of Bishop-elect O'Connor will take place. A special train will leave Toronto for the convenience of the clergy of Western Ontario on that occasion, and another special will be run from Barrie here.

THE RECEPTION SERVICES.

The result of the recent evangelistic services were made manifest at the reception services which were held in the Methodist churches yesterday. At George-st. church after the sermon in the morning and evening, an invitation was extended to all those who wished to associate themselves with the church to hand in their names. In the morning about sixty persons were received with the right hand of fellowship into membership and in the evening about one hundred more came forward, making in all a total of about one hundred and sixty persons. Another reception service will be held next Sunday. At the Charlotte-st. church a reception service was held in the morning only, when about ninety handed in their names, and in the afternoon at Sunday school about fifty more names were given in. Another reception service will be held in this church in two weeks, when it is expected a number of others will join the church.

SERVICES THIS WEEK.

Services will be held every night this week in the George-st. and Mark-st. churches, and Rev. Mr. Shorey will hold special meetings to-night, to-morrow night and Wednesday night. In St. Paul's church the services are on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings. In the Baptist Church a sermon will be held this evening, and to-morrow night a reception meeting will be held for those who may contemplate uniting with the church. On Wednesday and Thursday evenings meetings will also be held.

A telephone message was received from Rev. G. W. Dewey, stating that owing to the severe illness of his child, he would be unable to be at the George-st. Church to-night.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Services are being held every evening at 7.30, except Wednesday, when at 8 o'clock. All members of the congregation who can supply flowers, whether cut or in pots, for the Easter decorations, are requested to leave word at Mr. H. Long's store, so that the decorators may know beforehand what material they can depend on.

The Pearl's First Trip—Improvements at Jubilee Point.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Owing to the extreme kindness of Mr. Calcutt, we were permitted to enjoy a very pleasant sail to Jubilee Point and back, on the above named steam yacht. The weather was all we could wish for—the day perfect. We left Ashburnham wharf at half past eight a.m., locked through the locks and after a run of one hour and fifty minutes we arrived at Campbelltown, a distance of seventeen miles from town. Here we took on some wood and other necessaries, then left for the point, which we reached in due time. We spent the time in looking over the spacious grounds, which have been enlarged very much and improved in every way possible since last year and are now ready for the numerous pic-nics and excursions which no doubt will go there through the summer. The hotel also has been improved and is very well managed by the obliging and genial Wm. Greer, who knows how to get up a meal that anyone would enjoy, for example, at half past one we were called to dinner—a most welcome call to one and all—and with appetites like ours you may bet we did ample justice to the good things put before us. Talk about appetites! If you had only seen us eat! The last man to finish eating—I will not give him away—cooly remarked as he got up and left the table—about all he did leave—that he felt very much better but wished there was more apple pie.

We left the point at two o'clock and as the Commodore wished to visit some of his numerous wood piles—wish I had a few of them in our back yard—we stopped at Kent's creek, where, to his dismay, he found that someone had kindly helped themselves to some of the wood. We made another start and just as we came round the "only" bend in the river a large flock of wild ducks flew past. There must have been about seven hundred and fifteen or sixteen, more or less, in the flock. The Captain, who knows all about ducks, said they were green backs. He must have meant "canvas backs," but the commodore said no, they were saw-bills, and I suppose he was right. About five o'clock we tied up at Dwyer's landing for supper, which we enjoyed very much, especially one of the party who, thinking it was easter, ate nine hard boiled eggs. He may be sick?

We arrived home about seven o'clock without any accident whatever, every man more than pleased with his day's outing. Our thanks are due to the Commodore, who so kindly placed his yacht at our disposal.

The Pearl has been thoroughly overhauled and nicely fitted up by the famous boat builder, Mr. Stoneburg, of Belleville, who understands his business in that line, and now she is to be used expressly for pleasure parties, pic-nic, &c. She runs along very fast and smoothly, well handled by her obliging crew, Mr. Chas. Calcutt, captain, and Mr. J. Young, engineer. Any-one getting up a small party of twelve or fourteen people cannot do better than to charter the Pearl for the day, and they will enjoy themselves I am sure. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for this space in your valuable paper, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
A Passenger.

Debt and Taxation.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Some people think it is a mighty fine thing to be in debt. Some say the more a municipality or country is in debt the richer it becomes. Some even assert that the immense debt of England is her strength and her salvation. Now, I always supposed that the more money and property an individual had and the less he owed others, the richer he was and the more entitled to credit. But this safe rule seems to be exploded, not only with public bodies, but with people as well. It is said that spending money in a municipality puts it in circulation and people get the benefit of it. That is one side of the story, but there is another side to it. After the money is spent, and perhaps uselessly spent, or perhaps wasted, what then? That money has to be repaid with interest. And who repays it? That is the question. Many a man borrows money not giving much thought how it is to be repaid. He imagined that he knew his own business best, and so he borrowed and ultimately found he could not repay it. And then, when to late, admitted he was wrong. A town may borrow money and use it in improvements, improvements, it may be, which could have been done without. But that money has to be repaid. When the collector goes round demanding increased taxes people will then begin to inquire whether they acted wisely or not in incurring debts for something which was not absolutely necessary and which might have been done without. The sight of fine buildings, unnecessary improvements, bring in no money and do not repay the debts incurred. The question then is, is it a wise thing to borrow money for mere display? Or would it not be safer to forego the display and keep the money for other and better uses and for another day? The taxpayers are the proper persons to answer these questions, and it is for them to say whether the more they burden the town with debt the richer they become. Time will tell. P.

LIONEL YORKE DEAD.

A Former Resident of Peterborough Dies Suddenly at Toronto.

The Toronto papers record the death of Mr. Lionel Yorke, which occurred at that city on Saturday night. Mr. Yorke was formerly a resident of this town—or rather of Ashburnham—and was well known here. He came to Peterborough about the year 1856 and remained about twelve years. He built the gaol building and had many other contracts here. His first wife was a daughter of Mr. Charles Thompson, of Otonabee. The Empire gives the following account of his death:—

"Mr. Lionel Yorke, the well-known city contractor, died suddenly on Saturday night. As a citizen he was respected and admired; in business his life was a long record of honorable success. The news of his death will be received in Ontario—in fact, throughout the Dominion—with genuine regret; few men had made as many friends. Mr. Yorke had always been a hard-working man, his contracts demanding constant care and supervision. Although remarkable robust and healthy looking he had long been suffering from fatigue, but he never called in medical aid. Even his family had no idea that his constitution had been run down. On Saturday he went as usual to his quarries in the valley of the Credit. After attending to a day of arduous work he returned to the city. In the train he felt faint, but he paid little attention to these symptoms. He went to a barber's and got shaved, reaching home between 10.30 and 11. His weakness had increased, and he called for assistance from some members of the family, who had retired. They did everything to relieve him, and after assisting him to bed the family physician, Dr. James H. Burns, was sent for, Mr. Yorke's breathing being then attended with great difficulty and distress. Dr. Burns hastened to the house, but Mr. Yorke was dead before he arrived. A post-mortem examination made by Dr. Burns and Dr. John Caven revealed fatty degeneration of the heart, which was no doubt the cause of death. The deceased leaves a wife, three sons and an infant daughter.

"A brief sketch of the life of Mr. Lionel Yorke will be interesting to the public by whom he was so well known. He was born at Wesbach, Cambridge, England, and was brought up a practical bricklayer. He came to Canada some thirty-five years ago and rapidly rose into prominence as a builder and contractor. Many buildings in Toronto were erected by him, among others the Bank of Montreal building at the corner of Front and Yonge-sts. He was contractor for the new Parliament buildings in the Queen's Park. He was a member of the Bond-st. Congregational church, where yesterday morning the pastor, Rev. Dr. Wild, made feeling reference to the sad event which has cast a gloom over the entire congregation. Mr. Yorke was 55 years of age."

Correspondence of the Review.

Village Council.—The regular monthly meeting of the Village Council was held in the Council Chamber on Monday evening. Present, Reeve Casement, Councillors Hull, Moore, Henderson and Nelson. The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and confirmed. A communication from Messrs. Dumble & Leonard, and Messrs. Smith & Co., Montreal, concerning the new town debentures, was received. The General Committee reported on the Livery License matter, and recommended the following scale:—

1st horse	$3 00
2nd horse	3 00
3rd horse	2 00
Each additional horse	1 00

On motion of Councillor Moore, seconded by Councillor Henderson, the report was received and laid over for nine months. Councillor Hull read the report of the Finance Committee, which recommended the payment of the following bills, and that the Reeve's order be issued for the same:—

Isaac Watson, wages	$ 8 44
J. H. McWilliams, repairing snow plough	2 00
S. Sherin, paper	1 22
A. Bell, telegraphing, postage, &c.	5 20
T. J. Bird, supplies for Clerk	2 55
Hugh Fitzgerald	13 50
T. J. Bird, coal oil	21 07
Total	[illegible]

The report was on motion adopted. Moved by Councillor Henderson, seconded by Councillor Moore,—That the Road and Sidewalk Committee be instructed to have Water-st., between the dam and upper end of the Government Wharf, thoroughly cleaned and kept so.—Carried. Councillor Henderson read the report of the above committee, which recommended the acceptance of Mr. C. Hale's tender for pine plank and stringers, his tender being as low as any, and the only tender for pine plank received. The report was on motion received and adopted. A by-law to appoint a village constable received its first and second readings, and was deferred for further consideration. On motion of Councillor Nelson, seconded by Councillor Moore,—Mr. Peter Baptie was appointed Chief Engineer of the Lakefield Fire Company. On motion of Councillor Henderson, the Council went into Committee of the Whole to consider correspondence regarding steam fire engines, and plans for new town hall, Councillor Hull in the chair. Councillor Hull, as chairman of the Fire Committee, stated that the Reeve had noticed in the Globe of Saturday, 30th March, a report of a test made at Montreal by a Mr. Pell, Inspector for the Canadian Association of Underwriters, of a steam fire engine, manufactured by the Waterous Engine Works, Brantford. The report stated that the engine threw water 160 feet horizontally and about 135 vertically. The Reeve put himself in correspondence with the Waterous Company, also Mr. Pell and the Secretary of the Underwriters' Association, Toronto. Mr. Hull said that all this correspondence had been handed to him by the Reeve with the request that it be considered by the Fire Committee. He thought that the No. 1 Waterous engine, since it was acknowledged by the underwriters as a standard engine for villages of 2,500 inhabitants, was what the village required. He, however, had offers of two Ronald second-hand engines, and until he had further particulars regarding the second-hand engines, he would not be ready to report. The second-hand engines were cheaper than those offered by any of the companies, and if a competent engineer reported to him that either or both the second-hand engines were in good repair and good for ten or fifteen years, he thought they should consider the proposals, as they were sent to the Council Board to do the very best they could, to buy the best and cheapest engine, having regard to its efficiency. Mr. Birrell, agent of the Waterous Co., was in the village last Thursday, and on behalf of his company stated that he would place his No. 1 engine on the bridge, and do good effective fire service at the Presbyterian Church. He said their engine would take burning shingles off the church at that distance, which would be through a little over 900 feet of hose. He also said he would put his engine on the bank of the river at the foot of Maria-st. running east from the church and put the water up to the ball on the Presbyterian Church spire, with a ¾ inch nozzle, and perhaps an inch nozzle. This would require 600 feet of hose, and the lift from the bank of the river he thought was about 15 or 18 feet. If any one of the three engines were purchased, a saving of about $1,000 or $1,500 would be made to the village. He could not say that the Waterous Company had one ready, but they had one in Montreal, in any case he was going to look into the second-hand engines, and thought he would be ready to report as soon as the Reeve would be able to advise that he had the funds, which the Reeve informed him he expected by the end of the week.

A general discussion then followed from which it appeared that the Council considered the matter safe in the hands of the committee. Councillor Henderson, as chairman of the Building Committee, put in plans for the new Town Hall, together with correspondence, &c. He explained the alterations made in the plans, and got instructions to proceed. The Committee rose and the Council then adjourned.

Persons wishing to improve their memories or strengthen their power of attention should send to Prof. Loisette, 237 Fifth Ave., N. Y. for his prospectus post free, as advertised in another column.

A TERRIBLE DEATH.

The Lifeless Body of a Man Found Alongside the Track of the C.P.R.

Some little excitement was caused at Havelock village on Saturday when No. 6 express from the east arrived at that station with the body of a man which had been picked up about three miles and a half west of the Central Ontario Junction. The engineer on the express noticed a man lying at the side of the track and the train was stopped and the body picked up. It was cold when found and it is not known whether the unfortunate man had been sent into eternity by a freight train or by the train going east. The only wound found on the body was a cut across the forehead, and it is probable that the unfortunate man had either been lying or sitting on the track when the train struck him.

At Havelock the remains were identified as those of a farmer named Thomas Owens, who lives about three miles from the Central Ontario Junction, and his son was carried the tidings of his father's terrible death and claimed the body. The coroner was notified but no inquest was considered necessary. It is said that the deceased was in the habit of indulging in liquor and this probably explains how he came to be lying on the track.

CHINA HALL

CHINA GLASS AND QUEENS WA

Immense sums have been paid for rare specimens of antique China. Think of $5,100 being given for a china plate cracked at that. Consider $64,000 as the market value of a set of 120 pieces of sèvres china. Hold in one hand a cup and saucer and in the other hand the $2,400 that the cup and saucer brought at a Parisian auction. Truly, the craze of collectors for rare specimens of Palissy ware, has given fictitious values to many an unpretentious plate and cup. When money is tight it is a comfort to think of $2,800 being paid for a hawthorn jug that would barely hold a quart of milk. These are prices that astonish, but the serious side of the question is that at China Hall you can secure full sets of China that will grace any tea table for so little money that anyone can afford the outlay. Not only China, but good substantial dinner sets fit to set out the table of an M. P. or Mayor. Come to CHINA HALL and see what money will do. You'll not have to spend the value of six first-class farms for a China Tea Set.

BEAUTIFUL JIM.

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER

In those few minutes of reflection she went back over the years of the past, the years during which she had willingly stood on one side for her younger brother, because he was the last of the Earles, because he was a boy and she was only a girl—a girl—a thing of no particular importance, and though she was an Earle like him, yet she was an Earle who did not count. There was no thought, or room for such in her mind, of pity for any temptation which might have led him to do this horrible thing—she had no feeling of mercy toward him. Oh! no, only a wild, indignant sort of rage possessed her that he should have stained and sullied the fair name he bore, and have put upon his living relatives a shame which they must carry with them to the grave.

She broke from the clasp of Jim's arms and turned to the window, where she stood looking out upon the square, speechless from anger, and a whirl of hot indignant thoughts chasing one another through her mind; and at last she turned back to where he was still standing.

"You must tell my father," she said, decidedly. "Yes—yes—I know all that you would say. But I am doing what I know he would like best if he knew. It will be an awful blow to him, but he would never forgive me if he found out that I had kept such a thing from him."

Beautiful Jim shook his head.

"I will not tell him," he said, firmly. "In the face of suspicion he has trusted me, and I will not reward him in that way. I could not, my darling, even for you."

"But if he were to find out," she began.

"Then he never must find it out," rejoined Jim, firmly. "Who is to tell him?"

"I will," said Nancy.

"It will be his death blow—it will kill him! He has always been the best of fathers to you, and for the sake of that young"—he broke an ugly word off here and substituted a milder one for it—"that young idiot, would you reward him thus? No, my child, I am sure you will see that it cannot be! Besides, he is so old and we are young. We can wait a little for each other."

"And he is to go on in his wickedness unpunished, holding his head as high as he will?" she exclaimed.

Jim could not help smiling as he remembered Tommy's piteously abject air on the evening before poor dear old Owen's funeral at Walmsbury.

"The poor young beggar is not holding his head very high, my dearest," he said, gently. "Besides, for the sake of your father, we can leave his punishment to a higher Will than ours."

"Is it possible that you have any pity for him?" she cried, incredulously.

"Yes, that I have," Jim answered. "It is no light matter to have murder on your mind, and he doesn't look as if he found it so."

"Ah! you don't know him," Nancy cried. "I do. He is like an india rubber ball—while you hold him tight he is crushed and quiet, but once release your grip of him and he is as full of bounce as ever. If he knows that you know, I can well believe that he is humble and abject to you. That has been his way out of difficulty and danger ever since he was a boy—a baby; but now that he is out of your sight, I would not mind staking my very life that he is flirting with one of the Leslie girls at this moment."

"Not at this moment," said Jim, smiling sadly, "if you would be very accurate, that is—but likely enough he is thinking about it."

She flushed up angrily all over her fair face.

"I can not understand you," she cried. "He was your friend, your best friend—and yet you willingly let his assassin go free—you"——

"Don't you understand that your brother is sacred to me?" Jim asked, gravely. "For himself, for his sake, I would not have held my hand one moment, and he knows it. Right willingly and cheerfully would I see him hanged to-morrow—nay, this very day."

Nancy shuddered at the dreadful word, but she did not attempt to speak, and Jim went on.

"But he is your brother—that made him safe from me in the first instance; now, since your father has shown me such trust and generosity, I could not betray him except to save my own life; even then it would be a hard task for me to be compelled to speak."

And then poor Nancy broke down altogether, and began to weep bitterly and passionately, and somehow Jim got his arms round her again and drew her head down upon his breast, soothing her as if she were a weary child in distress.

"There, there, my darling, don't cry so," he murmured. "At least let us wait a little while and see what happens. We are young, and it may only be a little time to wait, and if we love one another always, it will soon go past; and it is not as if we were to be kept apart altogether."

"It's so hard," she sobbed; "and are you to be under this hideous suspicion while he flaunts about as 'the last of the Earles?' And is my father to put all his trust and faith in him blindly and believe in him still? Oh! I know how good, how unselfish you are, Jim, to do this; but it is a cruel deception on an old man—it is, indeed. I am sure no good will ever come of it. And what am I to say if—if—oh! I mean when they say that you did it? And people will say it, Jim; I know it."

"But their saying it won't make it true," he said, quietly. "And, after all, you can always say that you believe in me, you know. And, Nancy, my dear love, do you think that I shall ever forget that when all the world might have been justified in being against me you were my own brave, loyal hearted darling, who believed in me apart from all the evidence that seemed to be against me—do you think that I shall ever forget that? Oh! my love, my own darling, how little you realize what my love for you is if you can think so for one moment."

That Seized Railway Released—Interesting Insurance Statistics.

OTTAWA, April 14.—Judge Downes of Calais, Me., and Mr. John D. Chipman of St. Stephen, N. B., waited on the Minister of Customs on Saturday in relation to the seizure by Customs officers a few months ago of 4½ miles of the Calais and Penobscot Railway, a road running along the international boundary. The seizure was made on the ground that material used in the refitting of the road had been unlawfully imported without entry at the Customs. It was shown to the satisfaction of the minister that the duty on all the material so imported for the past ten years would not exceed $30, and that with respect to this the strict letter of the law had unwittingly been departed from owing to the peculiar situation of the road. The minister coming to the conclusion that in a case of this sort a departure from the strict letter of the law was not inexcusable, decided to have the seized strip of road released and the delegation left well satisfied with the result of their interview.

An abstract of statements of insurance companies doing business in Canada just issued gives many interesting particulars respecting the people's precautionary investments. The amount of fire insurance in 1888 was:

In Canadian companies	$128,136,692
In British companies	370,468,363
In American companies	44,391,363

The premiums charged upon this $541,000,000 of insurance amounted to $6,402,669. Of this the companies received net $5,440,009 and the net cash paid for losses was $3,076,282. The proportion of losses to premiums was considerably less than in 1887.

In life insurance 11 Canadian, 16 British and 13 American companies operated in Canada in 1888. The policies in force and the amounts were:

Companies.	Policies.	Amount.
Canadian	72,399	$114,684,276
British	14,734	9,685,460
American	46,731	87,724,604
Totals for 1888	133,668	$212,422,808
Totals for 1887	119,112	191,694,776
Increase	14,556	$20,728,032

The total premiums paid during the year amounted to $6,560,212, being an increase of $556,212 on the premiums paid the previous year.

A HUNDRED HOMES BURNT

TERRIBLE FOREST FIRE IN THE "OLD DOMINION."

The Flames Sweep Through a Virginia County Like a Tornado—One Life Known to be Lost—Four Men Missing.

DANVILLE, Va., April 15.—Information has been received of a terrible forest fire in Patrick County, which swept everything before it. One man, six horses, a large number of hogs and cattle and numerous dwellings and tobacco barns were consumed. Many poor people are left destitute. Such a fire was never before known in that section.

The fire extended from Patrick Springs to Critz Depot, covering an area 10 miles long and three to six wide. The fire commenced Friday and burned until a heavy rain aided the men Sunday night in stopping it.

The flames impelled by a gale swept through the fertile valley called Wildcat Hollow like a tornado, preceded by sounds like rolling thunder, and dashed up the mountain side casting a lurid glare over the country for miles around and terrifying the mountaineers.

Over a hundred families were left homeless, escaping with only the clothes they wore. Every vestige of fencing in the track of the fire is gone.

One man is known to have been burned to death and four others are reported missing.

The damage will amount to many thousands of dollars.

FIREBUGS IN DURHAM.

Extensive Incendiary Fire—A Farmer Loses Heavily.

PORT HOPE, April 15.—An extensive incendiary fire occurred on the premises of Mr. Thos. Cole, lot 25, 7th con. of Hamilton. The fire was first discovered about 2 o'clock this morning. Two barns, two stables and a lot of farming implements, cutter, robes, two or three sets of harness and all the grain and feed on the farm, with all the seed grain, were destroyed. The loss is estimated at between $3000 and $4000, insured for about $1400.

A Blaze at Welland.

WELLAND, April 15.—About 2 o'clock yesterday morning the store and residence of Frank Macoomb were discovered to be on fire. The stock and store were completely demolished, the residence being badly wrecked. Part of the furniture was saved, but damaged greatly by water and fire. Loss, $3000; insurance, $1200 on contents in Mercantile, $1000 on stock in Mercantile, $500 on stock in Commercial Union, $300 on building in Queen's. Mr. Duncan's residence was slightly damaged; covered by insurance in Royal. The cause of the fire is unknown.

A Kingston Dwelling Burnt.

KINGSTON, April 15.—A brick dwelling occupied by Mrs. McCaul was burnt Sunday evening. Mrs. McCaul lost all her furniture. The adjoining dwelling occupied by J. Brokenshire was considerably damaged. Buildings and furniture insured in the London and Lancashire and Royal Canadian.

Perished in the Flames.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 15.—A stable, owned by James Miller, a colored man, was burned at 2 o'clock this morning. Miller and his colored driver, Felix Williams, perished in the flames.

Tortured by Thieves.

MEYERSDALE, Pa., April 15.—Masked men Saturday night invaded the house of Christian Yoder near here and spent several hours torturing the old man, who was infirm and ill, in order to make him disclose the whereabouts of his money. They hanged him to a hook, took him down and hanged him up again, as though he were an old coat, and then secured $186 and left, taking two of his best horses. The horses, however, have since been recovered at Pinkerton Tunnel. At the time there were in the house a hired man, two servant girls and Mr. and Mrs. Yoder. Yesterday the hired man's wife, wondering at his continued absence, went to Yoder's house and found the doors locked. She finally gained an entrance and there on the floor was the old man, his wife, the two girls and her husband, all bound and gagged.

Trubble in de Church.

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 15.—Saturday night during a festival in the A.M.E. church in Mount Pleasant a dispute arose about some change and a riot ensued, in which knives, clubs, etc., formed the prominent weapons. Chief of Police Wolfendale had an ear almost bitten off, besides sustaining other injuries, and George Twining, another policeman, was stabbed twice in the back by George Lightfoot, the leader of the gang. With difficulty the disturbance was quelled and George Lightfoot, John Grant and Lemuel Strander were jailed.

An Engineer Killed by This Collision.

TROY, N.Y., April 15.—A mixed train collided with a wildcat freight at Putnam, Lake Champlain, on the Delaware and Hudson Railroad this afternoon. The two engines were wrecked and one car was thrown into the lake. Sydney Sherman, an engineer, was killed. No passengers were injured.

A Rock Salt Vein in Kansas.

KINGMAN, Kans., April 15.—The workmen to-day at the Salt Shaft struck rock salt at a depth of 875 feet. The salt seems to be absolutely pure.

Sunday Baseball Illegal in Missouri.

KANSAS CITY, April 15.—Judge [illegible] rendered a decision in the Court of Appeals to-day that under the laws of Missouri baseball playing on Sunday is illegal.

BIRMINGHAM FOR BRIGHT

HE IS ELECTED BY AN OVERWHELMING MAJORITY.

The Liberal-Unionists Poll More Than Double the Gladstonian Vote—The Imperial Finances—Mr. Goschen's Budget.

LONDON, April 15.—John Albert Bright, the candidate of the Liberal-Unionists, was to-day elected to succeed his father, the late John Bright, as representative of the Central Division of Birmingham in Parliament. Mr. Bright received 5610 votes against 2560 for William C. Beale, the Gladstonian.

At the last election in the Central Division of Birmingham the late John Bright was returned without opposition.

Mr. Goschen's Budget.

LONDON, April 15.—In the House of Commons to-day Mr. Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer, introduced the Budget. The revenue for the year exceeded the estimate of the last Budget by £1,645,000. The expenditures were £941,000 under the estimate, leaving a surplus of £2,586,000, the largest amount since 1873. The revenue from spirits and tobacco decreased, while that from tea shows a small increase.

The income tax realized £1,201,000 over the estimate, the postal service £300,000 and the stamp tax £490,000. Other increases were in the Custom House duty and the revenue from the telegraph service.

It is calculated that the revenue for the current year will be £85,050,000 and the expenditures £86,967,000, making a deficit of £1,917,000 caused by increased army and navy expenses. This deficit will be met by taking £1,000,000 saved last year and putting an additional tax of 1 per cent. upon the death duties on estates of the value of £10,000 and upwards and adding a duty of 1-14 of a penny upon every gallon of beer.

Mr. Goschen promised that the Government would deal apart from the Budget with the question of light gold currency due to wear, and would take care that the proposals would not tend to decrease the gold reserves.

Hugh C. Childers congratulated Mr. Goschen upon meeting the increased expenditures without placing a burden upon the general taxpayers. He said he approved of the new death duty on estates.

Perjurer Molloy Convicted.

LONDON, April 15.—Patrick Molly, summoned as a witness for The Times before the Parnell Commission but who gave evidence at variance with the statements he had made to The Times' counsel before he was placed on the witness stand and who was tried on a charge that he perjured himself during his examination, was convicted to-day. He was sentenced to six months' imprisonment at hard labor.

That Persian Cession Denied.

LONDON, April 15.—Sir James Fergusson, Under Secretary for the Foreign Office, denied in the House of Commons to-day that Persia had ceded to Russia the frontiers at Kalatuadir.

The Pope Indisposed.

ROME, April 15.—The Pope blessed psalms in the chapel of the Vatican yesterday. To-day he was slightly indisposed and was unable to give the household Easter communion. It is expected he will officiate at the service in the Pauline Chapel Thursday.

The Samoan Conference.

BERLIN, April 15.—The Post says that the Samoan Conference will open May 1. The German delegates are Count Herbert Bismarck and Dr. Krauel of the Foreign Office. Count Herbert will preside.

England's Representative.

LONDON, April 15.—Sir Edward B. Malet, the British Ambassador at Berlin, will represent England at the Samoan conference. He will be assisted by two officials from the Foreign Office.

How's This, Mr. Blaine?

COLOGNE, April 15.—The Gazette says: "The nomination of Mr. Sewall as disbursing officer of the American commissioners to the Samoan conference, together with the appointment of Mr. Bates as a member of the commission, warrants the supposition that the Washington Government does not seriously desire a friendly settlement of the questions concerning Samoa."

The Societe des Metaux in Liquidation.

PARIS, April 15.—The Tribunal of Commerce has entered a decree for the judicial liquidation of the Societe des Metaux.

Closer Amity Desired.

MADRID, April 15.—The Marquis de Armijo, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has prepared a reply to a communication recently addressed to the Spanish Government by Secretary Blaine. In it the Spanish Minister expresses a desire to draw closer the bonds of friendship uniting Spain and the United States.

European Personals.

LONDON, April 15.—It is stated that Lord Salisbury will visit Prince Bismarck about Easter.

Mr. Parnell's action in the Irish Courts against The Times will be cancelled.

Louis Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot, now at Turin, has suffered another relapse, and his life is despaired of.

ON THE WARPATH.

Turbulent Coal Handlers at Cleveland—Willing to Take the Old Rate.

CLEVELAND, April 15.—The coal handlers on the docks fronting the river are on the warpath. Last season they were paid 14 cents for loading coal into vessels. Early this season they concluded they should have 16 cents, but their employers decided to reduce the price to 12 cents. The old men laid down their shovels and new men were employed. This morning about 100 strikers, carrying sticks which they used for canes, marched from dock to dock. They ordered everybody to quit work and their command was respected. At the Pennsylvania Railroad docks the workmen resumed work shortly after the strikers had disappeared, as policemen arrived to protect them. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon all the docks except those belonging to the Pennsylvania Company were deserted. The strikers are now willing to accept 14 cents.

Pennsylvania Labor Notes.

PITTSBURG, April 15.—The Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers will demand that all the iron mills be closed for two months during the summer. This move meets with general favor among the iron workers. The two months would give the iron workers a chance to rest and the employers to make repairs. The suspension would throw 25,000 men in this district out of employment.

The railroad coal miners belonging to the Progressive Union have accepted the operators' scale proposing a reduction of 2½ cents per ton in wages for the ensuing year. The K. of L. miners withdrew from the meeting because the Progressive officials controlled. The Knights then met and denounced the action of the Progressive officials. It is thought the Knights will also accept the scale.

Contributions Will Still be Received.

NEW YORK, April 15.—The Irish Parliamentary Fund Committee, which has contributed largely to the support of Parnell in his fight against The London Times, adjourned sine die to-night. Eugene Kelly, the banker, will receive further contributions.

GABRIEL'S GUFF.

Dumont Stirring Up Discontent Among the Halfbreeds.

WINNIPEG, April 15.—Gabriel Dumont has been indulging in a lot of guff at his old home. He told the French halfbreeds that a given number of them well armed could lick a similar number of any other nation. He said amnesty had been granted and all the rebels should get back their cattle and other goods confiscated. A petition was being prepared and would be sent to Governor Royal for signature, and if he refused he (Dumont) would go to Ottawa himself with it.

Nearly all the wheat in the west has been delivered. There is about 1,000,000 bushels in inland elevators and as much more at Fort William.

Manager Miller of the Merchants' Bank has been promoted to the management of the Toronto branch.

THE OUTLAW'S ABETTORS.

Judge Dugas to Go to Sherbrooke on Thursday to Try the Prisoners.

MONTREAL, April 15.—Judge Dugas states that he will go back to Sherbrooke on Thursday next to continue the preliminary investigation in the three first arrests.

"Why did you not admit those men to bail?" he was asked to-day.

"It is a felony," replied the judge. "There is evidence that two of the men had threatened to shoot the would-be captors of Morrison. I see I am blamed for having met Morrison. I have already stated that I hesitated, but the mayors of Stornoway and Gould and a number of Justices of the Peace insisted that I should go and assured me that Morrison would surrender to me. Had I not gone I would have been blamed. Some one said I had two revolvers with me at my so-called interview with the outlaw. That is not true; I was unarmed."

OVER THE MOUNTAIN.

A Cock-Fight Between Toronto and Hamilton Roosters—Anti-Prohibition Burglars.

HAMILTON, April 15.—On Saturday night there was a big cock-fight over the mountain between representative Toronto and Hamilton roosters. Eleven carriage loads of sports went out from the city to attend the festivities. Hamilton birds won five battles out of six.

Last night Daniel Sullivan's grocery at the corner of Walnut and O'Reilly-streets was entered by some anti-prohibition thieves, who got away with nine bottles of brandy, four or five bottles of port wine and six flasks of whisky.

There were thirteen applications for the vacancy on the police force caused by Constable Strongman's death. John S. Crean, 5 ft. 11 in., 196 lbs., 26 years old, a native of Waterdown, secured the appointment.

Wm. Harper, one of the oldest and most generally respected of the Grand Trunk Railway employes in Hamilton, died on Saturday night after a short illness.

At the Police Court this morning on the charge of assaulting an officer Henry Hanley was fined $10, and on charges of interfering with the police George Johnson was fined $4 and Frank Doolan and John Kelly $3 each.

THE END OF A DEBAUCH.

A Drunken Woman Accidentally Suffocated at Kincardine.

KINCARDINE, April 15.—Yesterday morning Margaret McLeod, a middle-aged woman living with her son, was found lying on the floor dead. Her son was asleep in another room and was awakened by Edwin Batman and Kenneth Matheson, who discovered the body. An inquest was held today. Although foul play was at first suspected, it would seem that Margaret, her son and a young man had been drinking on Saturday night, that they all became drunk, the men fell asleep and the woman, in falling off her chair, was suffocated.

HARRY PHILLIP'S TOO.

The Noted Sport Arrested for Complicity in the Alleged Jewelry Steal.

MONTREAL, April 15.—Harry Phillips, late manager for John L. Sullivan, was arrested this afternoon on a charge of helping Andy Maloney to steal $14,000 worth of jewelry from Von Reinholtz, agent of P. W. Ellis & Co. of Toronto. The case will come before the court to-morrow.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

A NUMBER OF BILLS PASSED THROUGH THE HOUSE.

The Minister of Finance Gives Notice of a Resolution Authorizing Several Steamship Subsidies.

OTTAWA, April 15.—Hon. John Macdonald's bill respecting the new Toronto Board of Trade building was sent over from the Senate this afternoon and rushed through its three stages in the House. Mr. Small moved urgency and the rules of the House were suspended to press the bill through all its stages. By the old charter of the Toronto Board of Trade, that organization was limited to holding but $250,000 worth of real estate. The new fire-proof building which will be erected will cost over $330,000, and without this amended legislation the board could not own such a structure. Had the bill gone over till the next session the board would lose $10,000 in interest on the subscriptions to erect the new building on account of its being unavailable for a year. This is now relieved and the board can go straight ahead with their proposed stupendous pile.

Hon. Edgar Dewdney introduced a bill to consolidate and amend the Northwest Territories Act. In view of certain minor amendments desired it was proposed, he said, to consolidate the three acts now existing relating to the Northwest Territories. Hon. Mr. Laurier objected to a consolidation bill being introduced at this late stage of the session, and Hon. David Mills also objected, declaring it to be a most monstrous proceeding. Sir John Thompson said he saw no cause for alarm, as the amendments were very few and simple, and there being not the slightest expectation of Parliament closing before the end of next week, there would be plenty of time for consideration.

Hon. John Costigan introduced a bill to amend the General Inspection Act. The amendments include provision for the determination of the wheat standards west of Port Arthur, to be fixed by a board chosen from that locality. Authority is given to inspectors and deputies for the Northwest and Manitoba.

The Bagwell, Wand and Middleton divorce bills were read a third time and passed.

On motion that the House go into committee on the bill for the relief of William Gordon Lowry, Sir John Thompson moved the six months' hoist. Though the evidence showed that the petitioner was not guilty of collusion the case rested only on the admission of the wife, an admission made under circumstances which rendered it of very little value.

The House having divided, Sir John Thompson's motion was lost, 55 to 69, and the bill was read a third time and passed.

The Senate amendments to the bill to amend the statute respecting the safety of ships were concurred in. So also were the Senate amendments to the bill respecting the Harbor of Belleville.

The bills from the Senate to amend the Summary Trials Act and to amend the Summary Convictions Act were passed.

The House then went into committee on the bill respecting the expropriation of lands, which was adopted with amendments.

After recess Hon. John Carling introduced the resolution, of which the details were given some days ago, reducing the amount of interest payable by the Mennonite body upon the loan made to them in 1876 to aid needy immigrants. In place of 6 per cent. compound interest the rate is made 4 per cent. simple interest. Computed at this rate the loan, principal and interest, has been repaid.

The resolution was adopted.

Hon. John Costigan introduced his proposed resolution amending the Inland Revenue Act so as to make it more conveniently operative. With respect to the duty on cigarets, which it had been proposed to raise to $1.95 per thousand, he now placed it at an equivalent to the duty now collected, or $1.50 per thousand.

A lengthy discussion took place on the motion by Sir John Macdonald for the second reading of the bill authorizing the granting of pensions to members of the Northwest Mounted Police. The Liberals opposed the extension of the pension system and Hon. A. G. Jones offered an amendment to the effect that a sum should be deducted from the daily pay of the force to be paid to members upon their retirement, or to their heirs if they died in the service.

The House divided on this amendment, which was lost by 66 to 106, and the Pension Bill was read a second and third time and passed.

Sir John Thompson moved the third reading of the bill amending the Franchise Act.

Mr. Charlton moved an amendment declaring that in any province where manhood suffrage may be adopted the qualification under the act shall be the same as under the provincial franchise, and that the provincial lists shall be used. This was voted upon and lost, as were also two other amendments proposed by Messrs. Davies and Watson, and the bill was read a third time and passed.

Hon. John Haggart moved the reading of the postal bill. An amendment by Mr. Peter White of Renfrew against the proposition to increase the registration fee was lost on a division of 55 to 85. An amendment by Hon. A. G. Jones against the increased rate on drop letters was lost on a division.

The bill was read a third time and passed, and at 12.45 the House adjourned.

STEAMSHIP SUBSIDIES.

The Fast Atlantic Service to Get Not Exceeding $500,000 a Year.

OTTAWA, April 15.—Mr. Foster gives notice of a resolution authorizing a subsidy of £15,000 per annum for a monthly steamship service or £25,000 for a fortnightly service between British Columbia and China and Japan, provided the Imperial Government gives a subsidy of not less than £45,000 for monthly, or £75,000 for fortnightly service.

Also a resolution authorizing a subsidy of £25,000 for a fortnightly steamship service between British Columbia and the Australian colonies and New Zealand.

Also a resolution authorizing a contract for a term not exceeding ten years for a fast weekly steamship service between Canada and the United Kingdom, making connection with a French port, for a subsidy not exceeding $500,000 a year.

Burglary at Kincardine.

KINCARDINE, April 16.—On Saturday night the residence and grocery of Mr. Peter McGaw was entered by burglars. They found their way to the room in which Mr. McGaw was sleeping and abstracted a pocket book from his pocket containing $110.

A Quiet New Jersey Sunday.

GLOUCESTER, N.J., April 15.—Over [illegible] Philadelphians came here yesterday. The saloons did a rushing business, and before nightfall hundreds of drunken men and women were staggering along the streets. Fights were numerous and [illegible]. At one of the [illegible] 40 barrels of beer were [illegible], and this is a fair criterion of business for all the places.

DULUTH, April 15.—Friday the Legislature passed a meat inspection bill, which practically prohibited Chicago and Kansas City dressed beef from being sold in this state. To-day Armour and Swift withdrew their beef business from Duluth and prices advanced 25 per cent. Similar reports have been [illegible] from other places.

COURT OF ASSIZES.

Four Forgery Cases—An Interesting Breach of Promise Suit.

The Court of Assizes which opens here on Monday next will furnish a calender of more than ordinary interest. The criminal docket is heavier than usual, there being six cases already on, and, strange to say, four out of the six are forgery cases. The list is as follows:—

Queen vs. Samson, larceny.
Queen vs. Koraback, forgery.
Queen vs. Ross, forgery.
Queen vs. Milburn, forgery.
Queen vs. Foster, forgery.
Queen vs. LeGros, assault.

FOUR ALLEGED FORGERS.

The first case of Samson who is committed for trial is a county case, while the four forgery cases are all fresh in the minds of readers of the papers. Irvine Koraback is the old man from Norwood, who is charged with having forged the name of Thomas Gardner to a mortgage on property in the township of Dummer for the sum of $2000. The man Ross, alias Ferguson, who is the second alleged forger, is a Port Hope man who is charged with having forged Mayor Stevenson's name to a cheque for $16 and passing the same off on Messrs. Foote & McWhinnie. The alleged forgery was committed over a year ago, but the man was not captured until October last. The case of Victor Milburn is only a few weeks old and the particulars will be remembered. He made a most foolish and clumsy attempt to pass a cheque purported to be signed by Mr. T. Cavanagh, but was arrested and sent up for trial. The fourth man who is lying in the gaol awaiting his trial for an alleged forgery, is the ex-Salvation Army captain and sewing machine agent, who, only last week, was given his preliminary trial. It will be remembered that he was as far as St. Thomas on his way to the States, when he was brought back and charged with forging the name of Mrs. Armstrong, of Millbrook, to a receipt for a sewing machine.

INTERESTING CIVIL CASES.

The civil docket, of course, may not be complete at present as cases may be entered up to the end of this week, but the list of cases down for trial now only comprises five, as follows:—

Smith vs. Young; Sawyer & Stone for plaintiff, John Burnham for defendant.

Kelly vs. O'Sullivan (non-jury), O'Meara & Burnham for plaintiff, Coville for defendant.

Two of these cases will be of more than ordinary interest. That of Reynolds vs. Jamieson is an action for breach of promise, the particulars of which were published some time ago. Both the interested parties live at Millbrook, and it is expected that some very interesting evidence may come out, as Mrs. Reynolds, the plaintiff, is a lady well up in years, probably between fifty and sixty years old, while Mr. Jamieson, he whom it is alleged has broken his vows, is a man in the vicinity of seventy-five. It is seldom that such elderly people figure in a case of this kind or that a lady of such age seeks to heal her injured affection by seeking the balm of lucre. The other case which may be of some interest is that of Clancy vs. Curran, an action for slander. Mr. Curran is publisher of the Orillia News-Letter, and inserted a paragraph in his columns which reflected upon Mr. Wm. Clancy, of town, and hence the action.

Committee of the Whole.

A committee meeting of the whole Council will be called for Thursday evening next, when several important matters will come before the meeting.

The Evangelists in Woodstock.

A despatch to the Globe from Woodstock, dated Monday, says:—Messrs. Crossley and Hunter, the wellknown evangelists, have begun an extended revival mission in Woodstock. They will make the Central Methodist Church their headquarters, but will also work in a number of other churches.

Tenders for St. Joseph's Awarded.

The tenders for the building of St. Joseph's hospital in Ashburnham were opened and awarded yesterday. The contract for the carpenter work was given to Mr. Arthur Rutherford, and the brick work will be done by Messrs. Sheehy and Macdonald. These two were the lowest tenders, although the figures are not to be given out.

Presbytery Meeting.

The Peterborough Presbytery met in St. Paul's church this morning, when Dr. Jamieson, of Perrytown, Moderator, presided. Those present were Rev. Messrs. J. Cleland, Port Hope; John Ewing, Mount Pleasant; Wm. Bennet, Clerk, Springville; Alex. Bell, St. Andrew's Church, town; E. F. Torrance, St. Paul's Church, town; Jas. Carmichael, Norwood; D. A. Thompson, Hastings; J. W. Mitchell, Port Hope; John Hay, Campbellford; Richard Hyde, Warsaw; Wm. McWilliams, Port Hope, and Messrs. Robt. Tully, St. Andrew's Church; G. M. Roger, St. Paul's Church, and James Clarke, of Ballyduff. There was little business of public interest discussed this morning, the entire session being taken up with the consideration of the resignation of Rev. Mr. Mackay, of Cartwright. The Presbytery adjourned shortly before one o'clock for dinner and re-assembled again at two, when general business was taken up.

TIMBER GOING EAST.

A Million Feet to be Rafted at Belleville—Mr. Buck's Heavy Contract.

Timber from the Georgian Bay is passing through Peterborough at the rate of four train loads a day, going over the Midland railway to Belleville, where it is rafted and taken to Quebec. From Quebec it is shipped to Liverpool. The Collin's Bay Rafting Company will have a gang of men employed at Belleville for four months, the Ontario says. Thirty hands will be employed and 1,000,000 feet of timber is to be rafted during the coming summer. The first consignment went down on Saturday and by the first of May four drams are expected to be ready for Quebec.

Mr. H. G. Buck, of Norwood, has a heavy timber contract, says the Ontario, which he is looking after with neatness and despatch. He is an old veteran in the timber business and has made considerable money by recent contracts. He will raft here this season 140,000 cubic feet, employing forty men. Three-fourths of the timber will be taken to Quebec; the balance goes to Calvin & Co., Kingston. Mr. Buck bought his timber at Milton, thirty miles from Toronto, at Bradford, also near Toronto, at Keene, Peterborough, and some in West Huntington. He got 40,000 feet at Coehill and Marmora which will be brought to Trenton on the Central Ontario railway and towed down here, when it will be rafted. Mr. Buck buys his timber in various ways. Occasionally he makes a bargain by the foot, then again he takes a cluster of trees—like getting a wife—for better or for worse. His timber is of the very finest quality, and as train after train load passes along Pinnacle-st., people often wonder that such samples can be had still in our forests.

Literary Notes.

The National Publishing company, of Toronto, continue to issue the newest fiction in the "Red Letter Series." Among the latest copyright works issued in this series are "The Manhunter," a detective story, by Dick Donavan; "St. Cuthbert's Tower," by Florence Warden, a popular writer; and "In Exchange for a Soul," by Mary Linskill, author of "Between the Heather and the Northern Sea," and other popular works. The Red Letter Series is one of the most popular series of fiction and is growing in public favor.

Miss Amelie Rives is one of those authors who suddenly become known to the whole reading public. She has been talked about of late more than any writer of fiction, except a very few. Her latest novel, "Virginia of Virginia," has been published in popular form by Mr. J. Theo. Robinson, of Montreal.

Our Hats are Inimitable

Every day now adds its emphasis to the judgment of gentlemen as to the beauty and excellence of our spring Hats. They're buying them. They're not doing it without having first compared and decided that ours bear away the prize for shapeliness and quality as well as for faultless making and moderate prices. Gentlemen are critical when it comes to getting a light weight Hat. They are a necessity in these spring days—a necessity in which they esteem style as essential. Witness the demand for our Genuine Cooksy, Woodrow and Elwood Celebrated Zephr weight Hats made especially for us. There is something peculiar and inimitable about the gracefulness of our Hats.

A Hunter-st. Row.

A row occurred last night about the hour of midnight on Hunter-st. and Constable Stewart arrested Michael Loraine, one of the men who he found on the scene of the disturbance. At the Police Court this morning Loraine said he was attempting to separate the two men who were quarrelling and one of the contestants turned on him. Constable Stewart thought this was correct so the prisoner was allowed to go with a caution that he should be home at such an hour.

Local Legal.

The following case, which comes up here at the coming assizes, was up at Osgoode Hall yesterday before Boyd, Judge, and the Mail reports it as follows:—"Coons vs. Scollard.—Middleton, for defendants, appealed from an order of the local Judge at Barrie, directing the defendants to attend for examination and pay costs of the application, he having failed to attend pursuant to an order of the Master in Chambers, by which service of the appointment on the solicitor was allowed. The defendant refused to attend without being paid conduct money. Gunn (Orillia), for the plaintiff, contra. Appeal allowed without costs.

Boys and Liquor Cause an Arrest.

Wm. Edgar, an Orillia man, came up at the Police Court this morning and was charged with having been drunk and disorderly on the street yesterday afternoon. Edgar says, and his general appearance would lead a person to believe his statement, that he is not in the habit of drinking to excess, but that yesterday he drank a little and it went to his head. A couple of street urchins noticed his condition and thought they would have some sport with him, and began teasing and pulling him around. Edgar became exasperated and grabbed one little fellow and threw him around a little, and then gave chase to the other boys. The police then got him into their clutches and it cost him two dollars this morning to save himself from boarding at the castle on the hill for ten days. As Edgar was leaving the court room he turned to the Magistrate and waving his hand said "Good-bye, Your Worship, when we meet again I hope it will be under more 'aw-spicious' circumstances."

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

A DISCUSSION IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS REGARDING IT.

Mr. Barron Complains that the Government is Trifling—Mr. Stevenson's Remarks—The Premier and Others Speak.

When the House of Commons was in Committee on the estimates on April 11th, the item $80,000 for Trent river navigation was taken up. The discussion on the item is thus recorded in Hansard :—

Mr. BARRON. I would like to draw the attention of the First Minister to the report of Mr. Rogers, the chief engineer of the Trent River Navigation works, who says :—

"Navigation commenced on the completion of swing bridges. During the past three years new steamboats have been placed in the waters from Lakefield to Balsam Lake. There are now 13 steamboats on this stretch."

I do not suppose that he intended that report to be misleading, but it is quite misleading, because the fact is that although we spent an enormous sum of money in building a lock at Fenelon Falls, the navigation above the falls is completely stopped by the obstruction of the railway bridge, and on account of the ridge at Cameron Lake which has never been removed. The first session I had the honor of a seat in the House I drew the attention of the First Minister to these circumstances, showing that this money was completely thrown away unless these obstructions I speak of were removed, so as to allow navigation to pass. From that time up to the present (two seasons of navigation) not one single thing has been done in the matter. I confess that when I drew the attention of the Government by telegram last summer, to the fact that the swing bridge at Fenelon Falls was being delayed in its construction, that they showed a reasonable promptitude to have it completed as fast as possible so as to allow of navigation over the the lock itself. But I wish to draw the attention of the Minister of Finance to the fact that the railway bridge is there without any swing in it at all, and it is utterly impossible for any craft of any dimensions such as it is proposed shall navigate these waters to get through into the lake further than about 100 yards north of the lake itself. Even if that bridge is made so that a craft can pass backwards and forwards there is a ridge at Cameron Lake which prevents navigation, especially when the water is at all shallow. It seems to me that the Government put the cart before the horse in this matter. They went to work and spent this enormous sum of money on this lock, of which I do not complain, but it is entirely useless without the clearing away of these obstacles. The matter is of considerable importance to the people of that district.

Mr. SHANLY. May I ask what railway is there?

Mr. BARRON. It is the Victoria Branch of the Grand Trunk Railway. The enormous output of forest produce in that part of the country is really astonishing. The waters all lead to Fenelon Falls and I certainly can applaud the expenditure of money as far as this lake is concerned if for no other purpose than to enable the forest produce to get to some railway station, but, as I have said, the whole expenditure becomes absolutely wasted, and it has been wasted, and we have lost the interest on that expenditure for two years for the simple reason that the Government will do nothing in the way of removing these obstructions. I know that great complaint was made last year that the Government did nothing; a great many people wanted to make use of the upper waters in connection with the lower waters but they were prevented from doing so. Large contracts were entered into in anticipation that these obstructions would be removed, but the contracts had to be cancelled. People entered on the construction of steamboats, and I see that the engineer, Mr. Rogers, states the fact that steamboats were built on the upper waters, but these steamboats have been rendered useless by obstructions to the navigation of these waters. I would like to draw the attention of the First Minister also to the fact that there is a great deal of dissatisfaction with this work so far as the Commission is concerned. The Government for years and years have professed to be in the possession of knowledge sufficient to enable them to ask large appropriations for the purpose of building the Trent Valley Canal. I can refer to the letter of the chief engineer of the 21st May, 1881, directed to Mr. Page, and which is as follows.—

"Sir,—By direction of the Minister I have to request that you will be pleased to take the necessary steps to obtain during the ensuing summer surveys for a system of canals, &c., whereby communication may be made between the Bay of Quinte and Georgian Bay, already in part effected through the Trent River Works, for which survey the sum of $6,000 was voted by Parliament at its last Session."

Sir Charles Tupper reported to Council as follows on 8th April, 1882 :—

"The undersigned has the honor to represent that from time to time during many years past, as shown in many successive annual and other reports, the establishment of a line of water communication between Lake Ontario and the mouth of the River Trent, and Lake Huron, through the utilizing of existing river and lake waters, has been under consideration."

It will be seen from these two documents that the idea was to construct the Trent Valley Canal, not simply to open communication between these waters. Then, we have the statement of the First Minister in a speech which he made in Peterborough in the month of June, just before the election; and of course he was desirous of creating the impression that it was the intention of the Government to go on and build the canal. He said :

"Every town of a sufficient size wanted a post office and a custom house, and every part of the country wanted some improvement in order to develop its resources, just as those he was addressing demanded the carrying out of the Trent navigation system, and they were going to get it. It was by a mere chance the Government had the opportunity of carrying out that great project of inland navigation."

Speaking of the Trent waters, the First Minister said :

"The Government kept them till the revenue had expanded sufficiently to justify them in going to Parliament as they did last session, and getting a substantial vote which would be sufficient to add 150 miles of internal communication to their part of the country. The vote taken last session would, however, amply guarantee that the whole work would be carried out as fast as the revenue would allow, so it could be constructed."

The impression created up to that time was that the canal, from Lake Ontario to the Georgian Bay, should be constructed, not simply that these waters should be connected by means of these lakes. Mind you, I do not condemn the Government for spending this large sum of money to connect these inland waters, because I believe it is a good expenditure; but what I do complain of is that the Government should create the impression time and again that they were going on with the construction of the Trent Valley Canal, while they are not doing so. Mr. Stevenson, speaking on the night of the last election, by the authority of the Minister of Public Works, said :

"The Minister of Public Works had given him every assurance that the Trent Valley Canal contract between Peterborough and Lakefield would be let during the coming summer. This was no electioneering dodge because the elections were now all over."

Mr. Stevenson made that statement on the evening on which he was elected. Therefore the Minister of Public Works must have stated that to him before the election was held, so that when Mr. Stevenson said that it was not an election dodge, I take issue with him, because the statement was made to him before the election was held. Now, I would like the Minister of Public Works to say whether he intends to ask the Government to carry out that pledge to build the works from Peterborough to Lakefield. It appears that the Government have taken refuge in the appointment of a Commission—to ascertain what? To ascertain that which the Government have professed to know for many years past, when they assured the public from time to time that they were going on with the work. The First Minister has stated that the Commission has not reported, and very likely will not report this session. In fact, one of the commissioners has left the country on a holiday, with the knowledge and consent of the Government, so that we cannot expect them to report for some time yet. They have ceased taking the evidence, which is necessary to enable them to report. I want to know why they do not report? The Government may think that this is a light and unimportant matter, but I can assure them that the people do not think so at all. They think that the Government are simply playing with this matter, and that they have appointed this Commission to give them an opportunity to get out of the work, because I can inform them that the Commission intend to report against going on with this canal. Whom did they appoint on the Commission? A gentleman from Toronto, who, if in favor of canal at all, is in favor of the Huron and Ontario Ship Canal; then they appointed a gentleman from Montreal, who, I believe, is antagonistic to the canal as the people of Montreal are; and the chairman is a Peterborough gentleman, who, I believe, will be largely guided by the other commissioners. When the Commission report against the canal I suppose the Government will not go on with it, and if they do not they will be flying in the face of what they again and again promised to the people. I want to read what the Peterborough REVIEW, which is a Conservative organ, thinks of this Commission. It says :

"The statement made by the Minister of Railways and Canals that a Commission would be appointed to examine during the recess into the nature and cost of further works to open the Trent Valley navigation will not be favorably regarded in this district. The nature and cost of these works have already been fully investigated and if the Ministers insist upon their officials producing them they will find ample materials on which to form a judgment. Indeed on the information before them they some time ago found a judgment, recognized the value and feasibility of this great improvement and promised to carry it out as promptly as the finances permitted. So far they have continuously prosecuted the works, but the section now in hand is now near its completion, and for the first time since it was re-commenced there will be a cessation of the work. There is no disposition to dread an investigation on account of want of confidence in the merits of this improvement. The more it is investigated the more clearly it will appear that for a comparatively small outlay a route can be opened that will be of great value to the country at large. Its benefits have been plainly demonstrated and have been officially admitted. Mr. Stark's careful estimates showed that it would be far from costly for a route of such great importance, and nothing has since arisen to modify this view. If a Commission is to be appointed, we hope it will consist of men of sound judgment, and then there can be no fear of their reporting adversely to this necessary work. But, as we have before remarked, we see no need of a Commission. The stage of investigation is passed. Another section, say from here to Lakefield, might well be placed under contract, for the plans and estimates are ready. Many railways that have been subsidized in other parts of the Dominion are of far less public importance than this navigable route."

That is the opinion of the Conservative organ in the town of Peterborough, and I tell the Government that the people have very little confidence in this Commission; they believe it is nothing more or less than a subterfuge to enable the Government to get out of the pledges on which they carried riding after riding in the different elections. One objection made to the construction of this canal is that it will take a great deal of water. The reservoir for this canal is supposed to be Balsam Lake. There need be no apprehension with regard to the supply of water, because a considerable distance north of Balsam Lake is Hallow Lake, the waters of which are almost immediately connected with the waters of Balsam Lake; and not more than half a mile will need to be canalled or trenched in order to bring a plentiful supply of water down from the far north. The only argument I have heard against the construction of this canal is the possibility of there not being sufficient water. That difficulty can be easily removed, not only with benefit to the construction of the canal, but with a large advantage to the lumbermen and mill owners all along the Trent valley waters, because by this means they will be enabled to bring down logs and other forest produce from the far north, and also with the result of retaining along the Trent waters the different centres of business which are now there. I do not approach this subject in any party spirit at all. I recognize that the First Minister secured votes from both parties, as he knows very well, in the different elections, on the strength of his promise that this work was going on. Sir Charles Tupper at great expense to the country paid a visit to the different waters up there and I have no doubt created by his presence the impression on the minds of the people that this work was one of such magnitude that it was intended to carry it through. A great many people on both sides of politics buried the political hatchet for the purpose of supporting the Government in the belief that they were going on with this work, and I warn them that they are in danger of losing the confidence of the people, who may transfer that confidence to some other gentleman who may be more likely to carry out their pledges.

Mr. STEVENSON. As the hon. gentleman has taken upon himself to bring my name into this matter, I want to say a word or two. The hon. gentleman, who is a well known unbeliever in this scheme, who ridicules it, who has stood up over and over again in public and said that it is clap-trap, and that the Government never intended to do anything of the kind, comes now before this Committee and mixes up things in this bang yarn style. As far as I am concerned, this thing never entered into the elections hardly at all, either the last or any other election, in fact it was the hon. gentleman from the other side who made most of this question by saying it was all clap trap, that the Government would never build it, and would never commence to build it.

Mr. BARRON. I say that now.

Mr. STEVENSON. When they came to our part of the country to electioneer against me. Then this Commission the hon. gentleman never attended.

Mr. BARRON. Yes.

Mr. STEVENSON. Did he come near them when they were at Lindsay? Did he give any affidavit at all? No; but he comes to this House with this story now. During the election he referred to, I never mentioned public works at all in connection with this matter. Now, bring your paper if you like. If I mentioned a Minister at all, I mentioned one for whom I had a high respect and who is now no more. I say that the Government took the proper course in this matter of appointing a Commission—I suppose an independent commission. They appointed as chairman a gentleman from Peterborough, who himself was an advocate of the scheme all his lifetime. There may be gentlemen opposed to it on the Commission, for all I know, but I have to learn that yet. I believe the Commission is a fair one which will report what it finds to be correct. The hon. gentleman knows well that during the long debate on this subject, there were two or three engineers who differed very widely on the cost of the canal, more especially from Peterborough to Lakefield. One made an estimate of $1,009,500. It was a wise move for the Government to appoint a Commission to take evidence and ascertain the probable cost of that section of the canal. There are many difficulties of course in the way, and I can understand these difficulties. I do not propose to put the Government in any position other than what is honest and square, and I am quite satisfied the people of the County of Peterborough do not want anything but what is right. There are difficulties in the way. I have given evidence to show that the depth of that canal, if built now, would not be what it was a few years ago, as much larger vessels are used now than formerly. On local grounds the canal ought to be built. That country is full of iron which will some day find a market; I hope not across the line, but on our own side. I hope we will be in a position to manufacture our ore in Canada without going across the line. What I am saying is correct, and I am quite satisfied that the hon. gentleman spoke from a buncombe point of view. He said he knew it was all trash, that the Government never intended to build the canal; but he never attended a public meeting in my county that I am aware of. But privately he always said that the thing would never be built, and that surely I was not a believer in it. I am a believer in it, I have the firm belief that the canal will be built, because the demands of the country require it. People in the section from Peterborough to Lakefield will certainly benefit by it, and it will open up a very large additional area. The whole area from Hastings to Cameron Lake will be opened, and the canal will give immense water power to run any quantity of mills along its line. I did not intend saying anything to-night. But, as I am here, I may say that, as far as I know, the intention of the Government is to assist in the building of the canal. The chief engineer, I am quite satisfied, has been, by many, misconstrued in saying he was opposed to it, but rather the reverse. The hon. gentleman now wants to ascertain the actual state of matters. The engineers agree to put the case of the Intercolonial Railway to the courts, and the Government are anxious to lay before the country, before they undertake a work which will inevitably involve a great amount of money, its true position, and I cannot say anything against any Government doing that. And I feel confident, from what I know of the Commission, they will report favorably to the canal. I have been at several meetings of the Commission and have heard evidence given before them, and, from what I know of that Commission, I believe the hon. gentleman will be satisfied that there is no clap-trap about it, but that it is intended to be a verity and a certainty, and that we will have that canal. When he brings his papers forward, he will find that I did not accuse the Minister of Public Works of saying anything of the kind which he has asserted.

Mr. BARRON. I do not think the hon. gentleman who has just sat down (Mr. Stevenson) and I are so far apart after all. I do not know that it is proper to retail private conversations on the floor of the House, but I would be quite willing to have all my private conversation on the subject of the Trent Valley Canal retailed here. I have said, and I say again that the Government look upon this canal as so much trash, and that they do not intend to build it and no doubt I told my hon. friend from West Peterborough (Mr. Stevenson) of that fact, and no doubt I said, and I say again, that the Government have taken advantage of this commission by way of a subterfuge to get out of building this canal. If my information is correct, the Commission will not advise the building of that canal. If the Government were sincere and honest and earnest in this matter, they would not have allowed one of the commissioners to go to the old country, especially in view of the fact that the commissioners ceased their labors many weeks since. If the hon. member for Peterborough (Mr. Stevenson) was as anxious as he professes to be in this matter, he would have told the Government that one of the commissioners was going to England, and he would have used all his influence on the Government in order to get them to insist upon the commissioners reporting one way or the other before they went away. But one of them had gone with the knowledge of the Government, and they have not reported, and it will be some time before they can report. The hon. member for Peterborough says he did not say what I charged him with saying in reference to the Minister of Public Works. I must of course, accept his statement. No doubt he does not remember making that statement, but I know that he has an enormous faith in the Peterborough REVIEW. He sticks by that paper and that paper sticks by him, and that paper does put these words into the mouth of the hon. member for West Peterborough, as being used on the night of the election :

"The Minister of Public Works had given him every assurance that the Trent Valley contract between Peterborough and Lakefield would be let during the coming summer. This was no electioneering dodge, because the election was all over."

Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD. The hon. gentleman knows that that must be a mistake on the part of the REVIEW, in referring to the Minister of Public Works instead of the Minister of Railways and Canals. The Minister of Public Works had no more to do with it than I had.

Mr. BARRON. I am not particular which member of the Government it was who made that promise, but it was stated that the promise was made. Then the hon. gentleman said I have always laughed at this canal. That is not so. The hon. gentleman cannot mention any public occasion on which I have not spoken in favor of it. In our part of the country we are all deeply interested in it. If the hon. member for South Victoria (Mr. Hudspeth) were present he could speak of a meeting which was held in the town of Lindsay, where resolutions were unanimously passed in favor of the construction of this Canal. The county council of Victoria, the county council of Peterborough, and all the different councils of the counties through which the canal will run have petitioned for this canal. Now, the hon. gentleman says I did not attend a meeting of the commissioners in Lindsay. I do not remember the commissioners ever going to Lindsay. So little interest did they show in the matter that I do not think they ever went to Lindsay. I did attend a meeting in Lindsay where Mr. John Carnegie, a strong supporter of hon. gentlemen opposite, was present, and gave most valuable information on the subject. When the hon. member states that I spoke against this canal, he must accept my statement to the contrary, for it is not so. If I were in the position of the hon. member for Peterborough, I think I would bring my influence to bear a little more strongly on the Government in order to make them carry out their pledges. I am not now discussing whether this is a proper work or not, but the Government have time after time, as it suited their purposes, assured the public that they were going on with this work from Lake Ontario to the Georgian Bay, but now they are backing out of it and are taking advantage of the Commission to let themselves down easily. The result, I believe, will prove the correctness of my statement that the Commission will report against the work, and that the Government will back out of their pledge.

Some hon. Members. Carried.

Mrs. A. H. Brault, the wife of the man Brault alias Freeman who was taken to Orillia last week to stand his trial for selling liquor at that place under the Crooks Act without a license, was charged at the Police Court this morning with a breach of the Canada Temperance Act. The information was laid by private individuals, but the evidence was not sufficient for a conviction and the case was dismissed. Mr. E. B. Edwards appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. John O'Meara for the defendant. Another charge was to have been investigated against John Henry, who keeps the "stone-front" on George-st. just below Charlotte, but Henry failed to respond to his name, and so the case was enlarged.

CHINA HALL

CHINA
QUEENSWARE

Immense sums have been paid for rare specimens of antique China. Think of $4,000 being given for a china plate—cracked at that. Consider $24,000 as the market value of a set of 120 pieces of old sevres china. Hold in one hand a cup and saucer and in the other hand the $6,000 that the cup and saucer brought at a Parisian auction. Truly, the craze of collectors for rare specimens of Palissy ware, has given fictitious values to many an unpretentious plate and cup. When money is tight it is a comfort to think of $3,000 being paid for a hawthorn jug that would barely hold a quart of milk. These are prices that astonish, but the serious side of the question is that at China Hall you can secure full sets of China that will grace any tea table for so little money that anyone can afford the outlay. Not only China, but good substantial dinner sets fit to set out the table of an M. P. or Mayor. Come to CHINA HALL and see what money will do. You'll not have to spend the value of six first-class farms for a China Tea Set.

BEAUTIFUL JIM.

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER

And thus Beautiful Jim won the day, conquered in the battle, against his own interests, against all that would have made him the happiest man upon God's green earth that day, and after a little while Nancy got over her first burst of indignation against young Tommy, and became more calm and collected. And then she was in a measure able to realize Beautiful Jim's real worth, to have some idea what a brave, true hearted, honest gentleman she had won for her own.

"But," she said suddenly, and in a stern, determined voice, "there is one thing, Jim, that you need never ask me to do, for I never will. That is, as long as I live, to acknowledge Stuart as my brother. When you go back to Blankhampton you must tell him that I know the truth, and that so far as is necessary to blind my father I will behave to him as I have always done; but out of my father's presence he must distinctly understand that he is, for the future, dead to me. I have consented — unwillingly, as you know—to help to hide his crime for my old father's sake, and for that alone; but I have not yet sunk so low as to have any dealings with a criminal. So make that absolutely clear to him, and tell him, too, that I am bound by no promise of secrecy—and if he in the smallest way presumes upon the knowledge that we wish to keep it from my father, I shall have neither hesitation nor compunction in speaking out at once."

"Very well, I'll make it clear to him," said Jim, quietly.

And presently she asked him to tell her the precise details of the terrible event, and, after a good deal of persuasion, Jim complied and did so. Then, for the first time, she learned all there was to know about Rose Meeking, the bar maid at the Duck's Tail, and the part which she had taken in the tragedy.

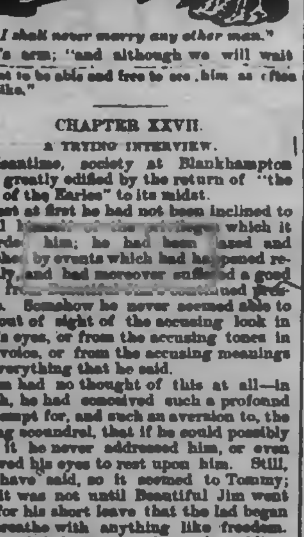
"I must see her," she said. "I must do something for her; I wonder what it is possible I can do? She must be a good woman, a very good woman, or she would have used her knowledge to marry him before this. Anyway, I must see her. It will not be easy unless she comes to town, but it must be managed somehow."

It was not very long after this that Mr. Earle returned from his club, if the truth be told, in a very uneasy frame of mind as to the manner in which Nancy might have taken his decision. He went into the room where they still were together, and Jim got up with a sort of apology for his presence.

"I am here still, sir," he said, by way of excuse. "You see we had a good deal to talk over, and"——

"As long as you like, as long as you like, my dear fellow," the old man cried. "I am only very sorry that"——

"Father," broke in Nancy, "I want to say something. I have never disobeyed you in my life, but I want you to give me my way now. I shall never marry any other man but this," laying her hand on Jim's arm; "and although we will wait I want to be able and free to see him as often as I like."



"I shall never marry any other man."

CHAPTER XXVII.

A TRYING INTERVIEW.

Meantime, society at Blankhampton was greatly edified by the return of "the last of the Earles" to its midst.

Just at first he had not been inclined to avail himself of the privileges which it afforded him; he had been [illegible] and crushed by events which had happened recently, and had moreover suffered a good deal from Beautiful Jim's continued presence. Somehow he never seemed able to get out of sight of the accusing look in Jim's eyes, or from the accusing tones in his voice, or from the accusing meanings in everything that he said.

Jim had no thought of this at all—in truth, he had conceived such a profound contempt for, and such an aversion to, the young scoundrel, that if he could possibly help it he never addressed him, or even allowed his eyes to rest upon him. Still, as I have said, so it seemed to Tommy; and it was not until Beautiful Jim went off for his short leave that the lad began to breathe with anything like freedom. But as it is but a step from the sublime to the ridiculous, so it was but a step for Tommy's light and buoyant nature to slip from the depression which was the result of Jim's presence to the gay and airy lightness of his usual demeanor; and then it was that Blankhampton society was able to welcome him to itself again.

TORONTO TOPICS.

A Disgusted Alderman—The New Civic Loan—Andy Maloney's Peril.

TORONTO, April 16.—At the meeting of the City Council last night Ald. E. A. Macdonald tendered his resignation saying that he thought his usefulness was at an end as he seemed to have no influence in that body. The council declined to accept the resignation, although it was again tendered in an amended form.

The case of fraud against Andy Maloney the Montreal gambler, is assuming a serious phase for that gentleman. Ever since George Van Reinoltz fled from Montreal after being victimized he has been in constant communication with P. W. Ellis & Co., whose property he allowed to slip through his fingers. Mr. P. W. Ellis has made several trips to the States to interview him. The result was that Reinoltz consented to come back to Montreal and testify against Maloney if guaranteed government protection. This was secured and on Sunday night he arrived in Toronto, leaving yesterday morning with Mr. M. C. Ellis for Montreal on time to be on hand when the case is called this morning. He is bitterly hostile to the Montreal crowd and said while stepping on board the train that he would make it hot running for the men who had ruined him.

The new Toronto debentures have been well taken up in London. The total applications amounted to £205,400 sterling, at prices ranging from the minimum to 104½ per cent. The average price obtained for the ten-year bonds is £102 2s. 6d., and for the twenty-year bonds £102 16s. 11d.

The Spring Criminal Assizes opened yesterday before Mr. Justice Rose. Two young Central Prison convicts, Frank Smith and T. W. Henderson, were found guilty of attempted prison breaking. There is a heavy docket for trial, including a batch of bucket shop cases.

Ex-Policeman William Thompson, who resigned a year ago from No. 5 Division and who then opened a butcher's shop on Queen-street west, has disappeared. His family are extremely anxious about his whereabouts.

Shortly after midnight a private of "C" Company named Jacob Wright was walking down University-street near Queen-street when he was brutally attacked by three men. He was knocked down and got a severe beating. He received serious injuries to the head from blows with a stick. The ruffians stole his cap and stick and made off. He was found by a policeman, who took him to the nearest drug store, where his wounds were dressed.

CAPITAL GOSSIP.

The Recent Loan and the Jesuit Question to Come Up Again in a New Guise.

OTTAWA, April 15.—Sir Richard Cartwright is again to bring up the subject of the recent loan by an inquiry as to whether the Government have demanded from the High Commissioner and the financial agents explanations of the insertion in the prospectus of the unusual clause over which all the talk has taken place, also whether the Government have demanded a list of applicants for the loan and the parties to whom it was allotted.

Mr. Watson has a rod in pickle for Warden S. L. Bedson of the Stoney Mountain Penitentiary, lately appointed Lieutenant-Colonel commanding the 91st Battalion and also an extra A.D.C. to the Governor-General. He wants to know whether these appointments were with the knowledge and consent of the Minister of Justice.

Mr. Barron will inquire if it is the intention of the Government to cause legal proceedings to be instituted in order to test the legality of the Jesuits Estates Act; if not, does the Government propose to bear any proportion of the costs which may be incurred in testing the constitutionality of the act.

Mr. Scarth, M. P., left for Winnipeg last evening and will not return.

Mr. Justice Strong, acting as Deputy Governor, will attend in the Senate tomorrow to give the Royal assent to bills so far passed. This will be the second batch of bills put into effect this session.

A Decisive Victory for Legitime—Heavy Loss of the Rebels.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Copies of Le Moniteur, the official organ of the Haytian Government, of the date of April 4, were received here to-day. The paper says that Gen. St. Fleur Paul of Legitime's army has captured L'Artibonite and is threatening Gonaives and St. Marc. Seven hundred refugees have come to his army. At 6 o'clock in the morning of March 30, Gen. Dardignac attacked Hippolyte's formidable ramparts near Passe-a-Roche, two miles from Dessalines, and after a terrible fight of four hours dislodged the enemy from their position, before which Legitime's forces left 20 wounded and 5 dead. Among the last was Gen. Bayard, the veteran commander of Grand Salines. At 12 o'clock the division of Gen. Dardignac was at the doors of Dessalines awaiting the division of Gen. Nirret. That division, after a terrible conflict, arrived at 1 o'clock, and at 4 o'clock the enemy had left their stronghold, and the two divisions entered the impregnable fortress. The rebels lost 44 dead, 132 wounded and 103 prisoners. This battle is regarded as a decisive one in favor of Legitime. It is believed here that both Gonaives and St. Marc have fallen into Legitime's hands by this time, as the possession of Dessalines gives Legitime the key by land to both these ports.

THE LABOR COMMISSION.

A VOLUMINOUS REPORT PRESENTED TO PARLIAMENT.

Wages in Canada Higher at Present Than Ever Before, Hours of Labor Reduced and Necessaries of Life Lower in Price.

OTTAWA, April 15.—The report of the Labor Commission was presented to Parliament to-day. With the evidence it makes over 4000 printed pages, bound in several volumes. Without explanation as to how this course came to be adopted the commissioners make two reports or sets of deductions from the evidence and two sets of essays upon each of the general subjects of inquiry. The two reports are designated "First" and "Second" respectively. Those signing the first are A. T. Freed, Jules Helbronner, J. Alfred Clark, Michael Walsh, G. Boivin, five in all. The second report is signed by eight members: John Kelly, S. R. Heakes, H. A. McLean, N. Carson, John Armstrong, Wm. Haggerty, Wm. A. Gibson and Patrick Kerwin.

The two reports agree in the statement that the testimony sustains a belief that wages in Canada are generally higher than at any previous time, while hours of labor have been reduced and necessaries of life are lower in price. The advance in house rents is noted as a marked exception to the rule of lower prices for necessaries, and the belief is expressed that the principle of co-operative building associations might be extended in such manner that moderate weekly or monthly payments would in a few years purchase homes.

The first report notes as an injustice that in some cities, if not in all, the houses of the comparatively poor are, in proportion to their value, more highly taxed for municipal purposes than those of wealthy people. Both reports say:

> It is believed that in collection of rents landlords should have no preference over other creditors and that as many articles of household use as are necessary to comfort should be exempt from seizure to satisfy any debt.

The second report adds this:

> Tenants should be protected against the growing practice of increasing rents from year to year at the will of the owners of houses or leasehold land. A simple remedy should be provided for arriving at the value of leasehold land where a renewal of lease is required to protect the lessees from excessive costs.

Attention is called to the defective sanitary condition of many working men's dwellings and the first report recommends that the letting as a dwelling of a house in a bad sanitary condition should be forbidden by law, that frequent inspection should be made and alterations or repairs necessary to health ordered.

Concerning hours of labor the commissioners believe that the ordinary working day may be still further reduced with advantage to workmen and without injury or injustice to employers. They recommend a limitation to 10 hours a day or 54 hours a week for female or child labor, and that all Government contracts stipulate that the daily hours of labor under them shall not exceed nine.

Of labor contracts it is laid down that each party to a contract should be on an equality with the other.

In the first report the belief is expressed that some provisions of the Master and Servants Act are not in accord with the liberal spirit of the present age and that only civil remedies should be sought for breach of civil contracts. The second report says:

> Trade unions are legalized by the laws of this Dominion and any contract which binds the workman to abstain from attaching himself to one of these organizations ought to be declared null and void.

The first report speaks in appreciation of labor organizations. The second report declares that it would be productive of much good if the principle of co-operation in business were carried out in the Dominion. The first notes that satisfactory results have been obtained elsewhere and recommends that the labor bureau, if established, shall publish from time to time all obtainable information on the subject.

Recommendations are made looking to the greater safety of vessels navigating on inland waters. The first report recommends the attention of the legislatures to the matter of securing the greater safety of railway employes. The second specifically recommends the placing of a guard rail on the outer edge of roofs of freight cars, making it a penal offence to leave frogs unprotected, prohibiting the dangerous style of deadwoods attached to some freight cars, the adoption of automatic air brakes for all cars and the introduction of couplers that will remove the necessity for brakemen going between cars, and to prohibit unnecessary Sunday labor and if possible entirely prohibiting the moving of freight on that day.

It is recommended that strict examination be made of persons controlling large steam engines and boilers and that none who do not hold certificates shall be permitted to remain in charge of engines exceeding a certain power, or of boilers used for heating factories or other large buildings.

Factory or similar employment of children under 14, it is recommended, should be prohibited. The fining of employes by foremen or employers is condemned. Frequent and thorough inspection of factories is recommended, also stringent laws to ensure safety and proper sanitary conditions in the buildings.

On the subject of recovery of wages the first report says:

> Artisans, laborers, domestic servants and others should have powers to obtain from magistrates or county courts summary judgment for wages due. In cases of bankruptcy wages should have preference and should constitute a lien on such products of their labor as public works, buildings and even sawlogs and timber.

The second report also recommends that the three months' wages of operatives rank as a preferential claim upon all insolvent estates.

It is recommended that courts of arbitration should be established, that Labor Day holiday should be proclaimed each year, and that technical instruction in the public schools, in special schools or classes or in colleges of technology should be given.

The commissioners joining in the first report believe the patent laws susceptible of material improvement, assisted immigration is condemned and the second report asks also that a penalty be imposed upon the resident contracting party and those who undertake the transportation of the alien contract laborer or mechanic into the Dominion.

The creation of an annuity system is also advocated under which provision might be made for old age by periodical or occasional payments of small sums.

Attention is directed to the heavy charges for collecting small debts. It is recommended that the law costs for such collection be reduced to the lowest possible sum. The second report says that the garnishing of wages should be forbidden. The system of letting prison labor by contract is condemned.

The establishment of a labor bureau is recommended.

The second report declares the importation of stereotype plates and celluloid matter to be used in the printing offices of Canada operates unjustly to the Canadian mechanic. If on account of its cheapness publishers find it necessary to use such matter it should be obtained from Canadian makers. A sufficient specific duty should be levied upon this matter to prevent its importation.

A BRAVE BANKER.

Failure of a Desperate Attempt to Rob a London Bank in Broad Daylight.

LONDON, Ont., April 16.—A bold and desperate attempt at bank robbery occurred here in broad daylight to-day. About 2:30 this afternoon two strange men entered the banking office of Mr. F. S. Clarke, where Mr. Frank Clarke was alone behind the counter. One of them presented a pistol at his head and called upon him to deliver his money. Mr. Clarke stood for a moment in astonishment, and the order was repeated rather imperatively:

"Hand out your money!"

The young man at once answered: "No, I won't!" and reaching quickly over the railing grasped the barrel of the pistol and turned it aside.

The other stranger was standing at the door of the counter as if ready to pounce in and secure the cash on a favorable opportunity, but on seeing the bold stand taken by Mr. Clarke, and his evident determination to fight, both men turned and ran out of the door and down Richmond-street as fast as their legs could carry them.

These Robbers Were Arrested.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 16.—At noon to-day two men went into the State Bank when only two employes were present. One covered the employes with a revolver while the other vaulted over the railing and thrust $8000 over the railing into a valise. Just then a depositor entered and this forced the uncovering of the assistant cashier, who rushed to the safe to get his revolver. The robber threw the valise to his accomplice, who dashed into the president's room by mistake. He then jumped through a window and fled. The other man also escaped. There was a wild rush to the street, in which three or four policemen joined and finally the robbers were arrested. Their names are given as James Henry and Fred. Douglass.

NEARLY WIPED OUT.

A Michigan Town Devastated by Fire—Thirty Buildings Destroyed.

MUIR, Mich., April 16.—Fire which originated in Daken's Hotel this morning came pretty near wiping out this town. As it was some 30 odd residences and business places were destroyed, and as a town of 1000 inhabitants cannot afford a fire department very little could be done to control the flames. A good many of the contents of the buildings burnt were saved, however, and the streets for blocks in every direction are lined with household goods, store stocks and other articles of value. Ionia was wired for help, but it did not arrive until too late. The total loss will fall little short of $34,000, with but $10,600 insurance.

Incendiaries at Listowel.

LISTOWEL, April 16.—Last night the residence of J. E. Terhune was burnt to the ground with the contents, the family barely escaping. They had to borrow clothes to cover themselves with. Insured in the British America $700 on building, $300 on contents. Loss above insurance about $1000.

About two hours later the stable owned by the trustees of the Baptist Church and occupied by Rev. Mr. Dack was burnt to the ground together with a horse, cutter, harness and a quantity of hay and feed. Insured in the Imperial for $100 on building and $225 on contents.

Three parties are now in the lockup supposed to be the ones who have been setting the fires. Five buildings were fired last night.

LOST AT FREEZE OUT.

Von Reinolts Tells His Story in Court—Bail Refused for Phillips.

MONTREAL, April 15.—The case of Harry Phillips, arrested in connection with the loss of $14,000 worth of jewelry by Von Reinolts, salesman for P. W. Ellis & Co., came up in court to-day. Von Reinolts told his story, which was in substance that he on behalf of his employers negotiated with Maloney to exchange the jewelry for some real estate in Montreal, but that Maloney finally refused to trade. Phillips, however, produced about 700 carats of diamonds, worth $20 to $30 per carat, at Maloney's house in Craig-street, and proposed to play them against the jewelry, the player who first won fourteen games of "freeze out" to take the entire stake.

They played until morning when Phillips won the fourteenth game. Von Reinolts then told Phillips the jewelry belonged to P. W. Ellis & Co. Phillips told Reinolts he would have to leave the country and proposed to assist in concocting a story of mysterious disappearance, in which plan Maloney also joined, saying he would place some of Von Reinolts' effects on the canal bank to make it appear that he had been drowned.

When he arrived in New York Von Reinolts telegraphed that the jewelry must be delivered up and that the mysterious disappearance story wouldn't work, as he had already informed his employers of the loss.

Phillips' application for bail was refused and the examination continued until to-morrow, when Von Reinolts will conclude his story.

THE DUNNVILLE TRAGEDY.

Clemo and Smith Committed for Trial on the Charge of Murder.

CAYUGA, April 16.—The hearing of the Dunnville murder case was concluded today. Joseph Clemo and Samuel Smith, the prisoners, were committed for trial for the murder of an unknown man found in the canal at Dunnville on Nov. 1 last. There were many witnesses examined and much excitement prevailed. Detective Murray has made out a strong chain of circumstantial evidence against the accused. They will not have their trial until the fall assizes.

In Doubt About the Bird Bill.

HAMILTON, April 16.—At the second annual meeting of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals yesterday a clause in the annual report regretting the defeat of Mr. Adam Brown's bird bill and expressing a hope of its ultimate passage elicited a brisk discussion and was finally left over for further consideration.

Down Come the Poles.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The work of demolishing the telegraph poles and wires, which commenced this morning, continued throughout the day. The Brush Electric Light Company will probably be the heaviest sufferer. It is said the Western Union Company has all the wires it needs on the elevated railroads and that it will thank the Mayor for taking down the old lines when the work is completed.

Charged With Bribery.

CHICAGO, April 16.—Edward Tilden, president of the Drovers' National Bank at the Union Stock Yards, has been arrested at the instance of George Fleming, a former school trustee, who charges that in 1886 Tilden offered Fleming $5000 for his vote and influence in the school treasurership. Mr. Tilden gave bail. He denies the charge and intimates that Fleming's action is for revenge, Tilden having exerted himself at the recent election to defeat a brother of Fleming.

WHAT THE DOMINION LAWMAKERS DID YESTERDAY.

Measures Which Received the Royal Assent Yesterday—A Lively Discussion Over the Customs Law.

OTTAWA, April 16.—The House to-day was busy mainly with matters of routine, the proceedings, however, being enlivened by a brisk discussion touching the administration of the customs law.

Hon. G. E. Foster moved the second reading of the bill from the Senate to amend the Railway Act. This deals with the construction of drains which have to cross any line of railway. It was read a second time and referred to the Railway Committee, an objection by Hon. David Mills as to the constitutionality of the bill being held over until a later stage.

With reference to the Easter adjournment Sir John Macdonald said in consequence of representations made by members the Government were considering the advisability of adjourning from Thursday to Monday in place of sitting on Saturday as had been suggested. The Maritime Province members contending for a Saturday sitting because they would not be able to go home and the extra holiday would therefore be of no use to them, Sir John Macdonald said he would reserve definite announcement until Thursday.

On receipt of a message from the Senate the Commons proceeded to the chamber of that body, where Mr. Justice Strong as Deputy-Governor signified the Royal assent to these bills passed this session:

Respecting the Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

To make further provisions respecting the speedy trial of certain indictable offences.

On motion that the House go into Committee of Supply Mr. Holton offered an amendment dealing with the administration of the customs law. He advocated several changes. Where there is no dishonest intent shown he contended that there should be no penalty imposed for violation of the law. He asked the total abolition of the spoils system and a reference to the courts of all cases of seizure, deprecated the habit of allowing customs officials to receive remuneration from importers for services rendered in their capacity as customs officers, and held that this practice carried on with the sanction of the Minister, had degenerated into a system of blackmail. He moved a resolution declaring the expediency of amending the Customs Act so as to relieve the honest importer from danger of oppression, and providing in case of persons charged with violation of the law that no one shall be subject to fine or forfeiture except after a fair and public trial, and that no officers making seizures shall participate in fines imposed for offences for which such seizures are made.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell admitted that there was room for much diversity of opinion as to how the Customs law should be carried out, but he objected to the nature of the specific criticisms just made. He denied that he had sanctioned the receipt by customs officials of remuneration from importers except pay for work performed by the importer's request outside the usual office hours. He showed that every person who considered that his goods had been unjustly seized now got an opportunity of taking his case into court if he asked for it, but that it would be inexpedient for the Government to take every case into court, as there were about 1100 seizures in a year and many of these of a very trivial character.

After recess, Hon. Mackenzie Bowell continued his reply, contending that the enforcement of the law is in favor of the honest trader.

After addresses by Messrs. Paterson of Brant and Lister, the House divided on the amendment, which was lost by 71 to 1[illegible].

The House then went into Committee of Supply, taking up the votes for penitentiaries, and next for agriculture and immigration.

THE DEPARTED ORGANIST'S PIANO.

A little difficulty has arisen over the piano of the departed organist, A. E. Carter, which resulted in the arrest by Constable McGinty yesterday afternoon of Mr. Charles Chaplain, an agent of the Heintzman piano company, of Toronto. It appears that Carter got the piano from the company, but did not pay for it, and when the piano men learned of the organist's flight they, of course, immediately took steps to secure the instrument. With that object in view Mr. Chaplain came to town but found all the goods and chattels in Mr. Carter's residence at 226 George-st. under seizure for rent. He went to the bailiff who had made the seizure and offered him the amount of the rent if that official would give him the keys of the house and allow him to get the piano. This the bailiff refused to do, and yesterday afternoon it is alleged that Mr. Chaplain with a couple of men went to the Carter residence and broke open the door and took the piano out and carted it away.

AT THE POLICE COURT.

Mr. Richard Hall, who owns the terrace of which Carter's house forms a part, and who had the household effects seized for rent, had a warrant sworn out and the piano agent arrested on a charge of breaking into the house and taking therefrom a piano which was under seizure. At the Police Court this morning Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q.C., appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. E. B. Edwards for the prisoner. Police Magistrate Dumble having had some professional connections with the piano man, did not sit on the case, but Mr. Geo. Edmison was on the bench in his stead.

OFFERED TO PAY THE RENT.

J. Potvin, who keeps the grocery at the corner of Dublin and George-sts., and who acted as bailiff for Mr. Hall, was the first witness called. He swore to having made the seizure under a distress warrant and produced an inventory of the goods seized, which included the piano. He stated that Mr. Chaplain had offered him the amount of the rent, $62, if he would give up the keys and allow him to get the piano. He (Potvin) had told Chaplain that if he gave the money to Mrs. Carter and allowed her to pay the rent, he would give her the keys and she would allow him (Chaplain) to have the piano. Chaplain would not do this, however, and the next thing he saw was the men carrying the piano out of the back door of Carter's house yesterday afternoon.

John Moriarty, an engineer at Baptie's planing mill, had seen Chaplain and a couple of other men carrying a piano out of the back shed of Carter's house to a cart.

REFUSES TO ANSWER.

Then Wm. Buller, a carter, was next called. He had been employed, he said, by Mr. Chaplain to move and pack a piano yesterday.

Then Mr. Poussette asked him if he had been with Chaplain when the piano was removed, but the witness refused to answer the question.

Mr. Poussette—Did you see Chaplain enter Carter's house yesterday.

Buller—I refuse to answer as I may incriminate myself.

Mr. Edwards thought that the witness was justified in not answering the question on the ground that it might incriminate him.

Mr. Poussette held that the question was a fair one and said if it was not answered he would ask the Magistrate for the committal of the witness.

Police Magistrate Edmison thought the question should be answered and said if it was not he would committ the witness.

Mr. Edwards argued that the witness was justified in not answering, and said it was an extraordinary course on the part of the court.

The Magistrate said it was Mr. Edwards who was taking the extraordinary course.

Mr. Edwards—Commit him, but I will hold the Magistrate responsible.

Mr. Poussette proposed that the case be enlarged until to-morrow morning, and then call for the evidence.

After some further discussion the Magistrate enlarged the case until to-morrow morning, and the meantime Buller can consider whether he will give his evidence or not.

Chaplain was admitted to bail on his own surety for $200 and Mr. T. Cavanagh's for another $200.

HASTINGS HAPPENINGS.

Building Operations and Improvements in the Village.

For some time past there has been steady and substantial improvements going on in all parts of the village, says the Star. On the south side may be noted the completion of Mr. Wm. Hill's brick residence. Mr. B. Lynch's very neat brick dwelling is also completed. Mr. R. Hughes has effected some extensive alterations and repairs on his premises, which together with a thorough external and internal painting has made a most decided improvement in that part of the village. Mr. Chambers, too, has added to the general effect by veneering on his house. Mr. Wm. McQuade is also erecting a frame dwelling on the south limits of the village. On the north side Messrs. Welsh and Quigley has added about one-third to the capacity of the tannery, which will very materially increase their already large output. Mr. Z. Hill has a gang of men at work on his dwelling, and on the corner of Victoria and Albert-st. Mr. I. Thompson's brick house is in course of erection, and last but not least Mr. Peters' handsome brick residence on the corner of Hope and Front-sts., is receiving the finishing touches, at the hands of Mr. Kerr, painter.

Utilizing the Remaining Days of the Scott Act—Other Notes.

Correspondence of the Review.

ACCIDENT.—As the Rev. Messrs. Wilson and Craigie were returning from the cemetery, after attending the funeral of the late Mrs. John Moore on Monday, the 8th inst., a part of the breeching broke and allowed the buggy to run on the horse, which, being of a fractious disposition, soon became unmanagable. Just as they came to the turn from the cemetery the buggy took the ditch and was capsized, and the occupants were thrown out and Mr. Wilson received an ugly cut on the forehead, while Mr. Craigie came off all right, with the exception of being a little shaken up. We are glad to learn that Mr. Wilson is able to move around again.

Our Hats are Inimitable

Every day now adds its emphasis to the judgment of gentlemen as to the beauty and excellence of our spring Hats. They're buying them. They're not doing it without having first compared and decided that ours bear away the prize for shapeliness and quality as well as for faultless making and moderate prices. Gentlemen are critical when it comes to getting a light weight Hat. They are a necessity in these spring days—a necessity in which they esteem style as essential. Witness the demand for our Genuine Cooksy, Woodrow and Elwood Celebrated Zephr weight Hats made especially for us. There is something peculiar and inimitable about the gracefulness of our Hats.

Worth Reading.

No young man or woman should attempt to make business his or her life calling without first having some previous training. At no institution can this be better given than at the Peterborough Business College. The enterprising proprietors are having the roller rink fitted up in the most modern style and are adding to their staff a penman who cannot be excelled in this important art. No other college offers such advantages as the Peterborough Business College. The attendance, instead of decreasing at this season, is gradually increasing, which is a sure proof of success. d85tf

Wedding Bells.

Yesterday afternoon at St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, a wedding was solemnized, both the contracting parties in which are well known among a large circle of friends in town, although each has been absent from Peterborough for several years. Mr. J. F. Junkin, of Montreal, was united in marriage to Miss Susie A. Morgan. The bride is a young lady who was some seven years ago in the millinery parlor of Miss Delaney and she has many friends here who will wish her all happiness and prosperity. Mr. Geo. Junkin, a brother of the groom, was best man, and Miss Lottie Green assisted the bride as bridesmaid. Rev. Mr. Warren, of St. Luke's, performed the ceremony. The happy couple left on the C.P.R. train and will go to South America, where Mr. Junkin will reside. They will be followed by the best wishes of all their friends.

A Delightful Entertainment.

The P. A. A. A. have arranged for appearance here on the evening of May 7th of the original Spanish Students Quintette, under the directorship of Senor Melquiades Hernandez. The members of the quintette are all excellent soloists. They will appear in their native costume, and with their romantic instruments and sweet and wierd music give a picturesque effect, and never fail to please. They will be accompanied by Prof. L. L. Ryerson, the celebrated refined humorist, harmonic soloist and character artist, who has no equal in this line on the platform. The Association has placed the tickets at popular prices—25 and 35 cents—and with the treat that is in store for those who attend the Opera House should be filled to the doors. Make a note of the date, and secure your tickets or your seats.

Persons wishing to improve their memories or strengthen their power of attention should send to Prof. Loisette, 237 Fifth Ave., N. Y. for his prospectus post free, as advertised in another column.

CANADA'S NEW PARTY.

A Meeting Held to Discuss its Platform—Rev. Mr. Huff Gives a Long Address.

Councillor Hartley presided at the meeting held in the Y.M.C.A. rooms last evening in the interest of "Canada's New Party." The audience that assembled was not great in magnitude, but nevertheless, from present prospects, it is safe to say that Peterborough will have a flourishing branch of Canada's New Party in her midst.

The chairman opened the meeting with a few remarks in reference to the formation of the new party and called upon Rev. Mr. Huff, of Smith, to address the meeting.

THE CAUSE OF THE NEW PARTY.

Rev. Mr. HUFF'S address was one of about three-quarters of an hour in length, and dealt with the causes which had led to the formation of the new party and that party's platform. In opening he said it was not correct to call this the third party. It was not the third party but was a "new" party. There was already a third party—the Catholic people of this Dominion, who held the balance of power and had such an influence that they could demand almost anything and get it in either of the Houses. He thought if they understood the extent of our country and its prospects for a great future it would make them have a more patriotic feeling than they now had. He then dwelt on Canada's greatness, territorially, educationally and morally, and spoke of the great position which he believed she was destined to occupy among the nations of the earth. Then he went on to point out how, at the present time, the great first causes which led to the formation of the two parties, Conservative and Reform, had become obsolete, and he said that instead of allowing the Catholics and liquor party to govern the country they should take for their motto "For God, home and country," and not support men who were willing to sacrifice country for party and pocket. The great question now was, which party would gain power, and which party would succeed in gaining the votes of the Province of Quebec? At present the Catholics supported the Conservatives in the Dominion House and Reformers in the Provincial, so that they could see that it was not a matter of but merely church interests. Then he referred to the large debt of Canada, pointing out the immense sums that had been granted to the Canadian Pacific railway. He thought it would have been better for the Government to have taken stock in the road and shared in the profits than to give these large sums and receive no returns. Then he spoke of the legislation that had been given to the temperance people, and said the Governments had been playing fast and slow with them all along. He referred to the non-enforcement of the Scott Act as a farce and insult to the temperance people, for although it was put on the statute books no provision was make for its enforcement. If they wanted any improvement in these things then the temperance and Protestant people should unite and not be divided between the two parties. After speaking of the tactics of politicians in both Houses he went on to explain the platform of the new party, taking it up plank by plank. There were the first three of which were not planks so much as moral principles intended to permeate and guide the workings of the party. The platform is as follows:—

1. Righteousness and truth in public affairs as well as in private business, and no compromise with wrong.
2. Equal rights for all creeds, classes and nationalities, but exclusive privileges for none.
3. A national sentiment, a national literature and in all matters of public policy—our country first.
4. The prompt and absolute prohibition of the liquor traffic, and the honest and vigorous enforcement of all other laws for the repression of vice and intemperance.
5. Retrenchment and economy in public expenditure, with the view of reducing our enormous national debt.
6. Manhood suffrage, with an educational qualification; that is, a vote to every freeman of legal age who can read and write.
7. The extension of the franchise to women.
8. An elective senate.
9. Civil service reform.

THE ORGANIZATION OF THE PARTY.

The rev. gentleman said some objected to the platform because it did not cover sufficient ground, but he said these were the leading principles of the party but as it was found necessary the platform could be added to. In reference to organization he said it was as yet in a process of development, but they had a central council of one hundred in connection with the executive and it was intend to organize a club in all districts where ten persons could be found to endorse the platform. The matter of publishing a party paper was under consideration, and some stock had been subscribed, and as soon as sufficient was raised a weekly and perhaps a daily paper would be published to support the principles of the party. In closing he pointed out that they had two great enemies to meet—the Jesuitical influence of Rome and the strongly entrenched liquor party, and he urged upon all those who loved God and their country to come out from the old party and join this, the new party.

The chairman then made a short address advocating the new party, and Rev. Mr. Huff read the plan of organization of the party.

After a vote of thanks had been tendered Rev. Mr. Huff and Mr. W. J. Mason had made a few remarks pointing out the great necessity of the new party, as the present two had served their times, blanks were passed around for those who wished to sign, signifying their accord with the principles of the new party.

The meeting then adjourned.

Dr. Sutherland, of Toronto, will lecture here on the 22nd or 29th of this month in the intrests of the new party.

A Social Evening.

The reception meeting held in the Baptist church last evening, was purely of a social character, held with the object of allowing members and intending members of the church to become better acquainted. Refreshments were served but no programme was rendered. Next Friday night the names of those who are anxious to unite with the church will be given in.

A Trio in Hard Luck.

Three rather hard looking citizens came out of No. 2 cell and wearily climbed the narrow stairs to the Police Court room and took their seats on the prisoner's bench. Their names were John Wilson, John Gosling and Fred Adams. The first two gentlemen have been sleeping in the cells for over a week past and so a charge of vagrancy was laid against them. The third was a young fellow, probably not yet twenty years old, but who nevertheless appeared right at home in his company and surroundings. The trio said they had been working a little and intended to go out of town, and the Magistrate took them at their word and allowed them to go, on condition that they would leave town.

Improving Their Premises.

Work has been commenced on improvements to two of the corner buildings at George and Brock-sts. On the north-west corner the furniture establishment of Messrs. Craig & Mooney is being improved in such a manner that when the work is completed the firm will have one of the finest stores in town. The corner of the building is to be rounded and the door, which now opens onto George-st., will be placed on the corner. The entire front of the store on George-st. will be plate glass, while a new plate glass window will be put in on Brock-st. The inside floor will be lowered even with the sidewalk and with the increased light, the showroom downstairs will be vastly improved. An addition will be built in the rear of the present building, and the workshops which are now over the front shop will be removed to the addition, and the rooms which they now utilize will be turned into a large and well-lighted ware room. These changes will give the firm increased facilities for showing and exhibiting the stock to a far better advantage than heretofore. Then on the opposite corner, Mr. Ed. Brown is having great improvements made in his hotel premises. Inside of the building, new floors will be laid, and the entire building throughout renovated and repainted, while the outside will be brightened up with a new coat of paint. Mr. Brown intends to make his house first-class, and the improvements will undoubtedly add greatly to the appearance of the hotel. Mr. Wm. Langford has charge of both of these jobs.

PETERBORO' PRESBYTERY

CONSIDERABLE CHURCH BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

Re-constructing the Field—Mr. Orr Bennet to be Ordained in St. Paul's—Reports of Committees—The Next Meeting—A new Programme—The Jesuit Bill—Politicians Referred To.

The Presbytery resumed yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, in St. Paul's Church, Moderator Dr. Jameson, presiding.

RE-CONSTRUCTION.

After some further consideration of the Mackay resignation, a committee, consisting of Rev. Messrs. Carmichael, McKennon and Roxburgh, was appointed with a view of re-construction of part of the field so as to economize labor and money.

ORDINATION SERVICES.

Arrangements were made for licensing and ordination of Mr. Orr Bennet. The ceremony will take place in St. Paul's Church on the 22nd of May. The Presbytery will meeth on that day at three o'clock to hear Mr. Bennet's trials. Rev. Alex. Bell was appointed to preach and preside and Rev. E. F. Torrance will address the newly ordained minister.

It was decided to ask the permission of the Synod to transfer the station of Kinmount from this Presbytery to the Lindsay Presbytery.

A JOINT MEETING.

The Clerk was authorized to arrange for a joint meeting of the Presbyteries of Peterborough and Whitby in connection with the proposed union of the two Cartrights.

NEW MINISTERS.

A number of names of gentlemen who are about to be received as ministers of the church were received from other Presbyteries. These gentlemen were:—R. N. Craig, Jas. H. Best, Wm. Cruikshanks, W. Knowles and Jas. Murray.

COMMITTEE'S REPORTS.

Rev. Mr. Mr. Mitchell, Convener of the Committee on the supply of vacancies, presented the report of his committee, which approved of the remit on the supply of vacancies. This remit consisted of eight recommendation providing for the supply of vacancies and funds for probationers, which if successfully carried out would result in a vast improvement.

Rev. ALEX. BELL, as Covener of the Committee on the remit for expenses of delegates to the Assembly, reported, approving of the said remit.

THE NEXT MEETING.

The date of the next meeting of the Presbytery was fixed for Tuesday, July 2nd, in St. Paul's Church at 9 o'clock a. m.

Rev. Mr. CARMICHAEL, speaking of the Presbytery meetings, said he believed they would be greatly benefitted if some little time at each meeting was given to the discussion of some religious or practical subject which would aid in their spiritual growth and enable the delegates to go home refreshed and strengthened for their work. Many were anxious to get home as soon as possible and the work was rushed through, but if they would have some conversation or conference on some matter they would be benefitted spiritually.

Rev. Mr. McWILLIAMS thought the move was a good one, but he thought it would be better to wait until some other meeting to initiate it.

Mr. G. M. ROGER also thought the suggestion a good one, and he proposed that at the next meeting the report on "The state of Religion" be taken up and discussed, clause by clause. This was a subject of great interest and he thought an entire evening should be given to the discussion of this or some other subject.

Rev. ALEX. BELL thought "The State of Religion" might be a little too wide a subject and he suggested "Sabbath Observance."

Mr. G. M. ROGER moved that at the next Presbytery meeting an entire evening be given to the discussion of some practical subject, and that Messrs. Carmichael, Bell and Roger be a committee to deal with the subject.

The motion was carried.

THE JESUIT BILL.

Rev. ALEX. BELL, as covener of the committee appointed to consider the recent Jesuit legislation, presented the report of the Committee in the form of a resolution. The resolution was as follows:—

"That this Presbytery solemnly and emphatically protest against the allowance of the Jesuits Estate Bill inasmuch as it diverts a large amount of funds from their original purpose and gives it to a sect notorious for teaching subversive of both civil and religious liberty, and sanctions the interference of a foreign potentate in the legislation, giving him a right to veto or approve of the enactments of our Parliament before they can become law—a perogative which alone belongs to our gracious sovereign the Queen. The Presbytery further deplore the subservient attitude of politicians towards the papacy in sacrificing principle to policy, while it desires to put on record its admiration of the few brave ones who in the face of strongly opposing influence stood to their principles and voted against the act."

Rev. Alex. Bell moved the adoption of the resolution.

Rev. Mr. CARMICHAEL, in seconding the resolution's adoption, said he believed it expressed not only the opinion of that court but of every member of their congregations.

The resolution was adopted.

The Examination Committee reported that the examination of Mr. Roswold, of Harvey, had been exceedingly satisfactory and it was agreed to forward his name to the Assembly at its next session.

The Presbytery then adjourned.

The remainder of the Hansard report of the discussion in the House is held over until to-morrow.

On Thursday evening the pastor will conduct the meeting, and subject of address will be "The events of the night before the Crucifixion." On good Friday services will be held as follows:—Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Sermon by the pastor, subject "The Lord's Trial and Condemnation." Service in the evening at 7.45, subject for prayer and praise "Christ in the Tomb."

A Male and Female Inebriate.

Robert Lee, an old soldier, was arrested last night in a high state of hilarity and at the Police Court this morning was allowed to go in peace. Mary Chadwick was arrested last night on Aylmer-st. by Constable Stewart in a gleeful state of intoxication. After she was locked up she did not seem to lose any of the exuberance of spirits which had caused her to be taken under the tender attentions of the police, but made the cells ring with her original songs and ditties, and the police say the elements of harmony are not in her voice. Mary appeared before the Magistrate this morning, and said she had only taken a couple of glasses of beer when the police caught her. She lived over in Ashburnham and the Magistrate told her she could go but not to be caught over here again. "No, you bet I won't" said Mary as she passed out of the side door entrance to the hall of judgment.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

A Corporation Runaway.

A horse owned by Wm. Breckenridge attached to a waggon and which has been employed on corporation work, took fright near the corner of Aylmer and Hunter-sts. yesterday afternoon and ran away. The animal ran up Aylmer-st. as far as Metherall's shop, where the waggon collided the sidewalk and one of the wheels was wrenched off. This caused the horse to slacken his speed somewhat and he was captured without further damage being done.

CHINA HALL

CHINA
AND
QUEENS WA

Immense sums have been paid for rare specimens of antique China. Think of $5,000 being given for a china plate—cracked at that. Consider $24,000 as the market value of a set of 120 pieces of seivres china. Hold in one hand a cup and saucer and in the other hand the $2,400 that the cup and saucer brought at a Parisian auction. Truly, the craze of collectors for rare specimens of Palissy ware, has given fictitious values to many an unpretentious plate and cup. When money is tight it is a comfort to think of $2,000 being paid for a hawthorn jug that would barely hold a quart of milk. These are prices that astonish, but the serious side of the question is that at China Hall you can secure full sets of China that will grace any tea table for so little money that anyone can afford the outlay. Not only China, but good substantial dinner sets fit to set out the table of an M. P. or Mayor. Come to CHINA HALL and see what money will do. You'll not have to spend the value of six first-class farms for a China Tea Set.

BEAUTIFUL JIM.

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER

Now mind, it was not that Tommy had in any way got over the horror and distress which the Walmsbury tragedy had caused him—not at all; it was only that he had a very singular and adaptable disposition; and after the first great dread of discovery was over and he realized that, for his people's sake, he was safe from Beautiful Jim's wrath, he began to smooth the irrevocable past over, to whittle away a motive here and to heighten an aggravation there, until he at last began to feel that, so far from his having committed a crime in being the actual cause of Owen's death, Owen had behaved with really vindictive and remarkable shabbiness to him in being knocked over by the dumb bell.

Of course he was awfully sorry that poor old Owen had come to harm, but undoubtedly Owen had always had a particularly disagreeable way of interfering in matters which did not in the smallest degree concern him, and, of course, as all the world knows, when fellows will do that sort of thing, they often come in for more than the bargain for. All the same, he was sorry enough about poor old Owen, whom he had liked very well on the whole, and he would have given worlds to have undone or averted such a deplorable accident—yes, Tommy always now thought of Owen's death as a pure accident; it was such a much more palatable word than murder, which had something coarse and revolting about the very sound and look of it—but since that could not be, he had come to the conclusion that it would be simply useless to worry himself into a lunatic asylum, or even into his grave, by fretting about it.

So you may believe, after Tommy had arrived at this decision, that it was not very long before he took to the old ways, and the pretty drawing rooms of the pretty women in Blankhampton knew him as of yore.

With regard to the young lady at the Duck's Tail at Walmsbury, it can only be said that Tommy had already come to look upon the recent events of the past as a distinct intervention of Providence to save him from the consequences of the dull and dreary life into which he had been mercilessly thrust. And the odd part of it all was that he had meant seriously enough to marry her, to make her the mistress of Earles Hope, and the possible mother of the Earles to come.

Well, that had been an escape for which he could never been sufficiently grateful—never; and, although he had no doubt that she could, if she chose, make herself uncommonly disagreeable, that sort of person is always open to being "squared," and happily he would always have the power to settle matters with her in that way.

So when Beautiful Jim, in great disappointment and yet not wholly sad, went back to Blankhampton, he found young Tommy once more in the full swing of social popularity, just the spoiled pet he had been aforetime; and after the first gasp of disgusted surprise, Jim promptly went for him.

"By the bye, Earle, I want to speak to you," he said to him the day after his return from town.

"All right," returned Tommy, "will you come to my room or shall I come to yours?"

"You can come to mine," said Jim, shortly.

So to Jim's room they went, and its owner turned the key in the lock so as to secure them from interruption.

Just at first Tommy tried on the old air of jaunty equality. "Well," he said, settling himself in the most comfortable chair that the room contained, "I suppose you've nothing especially pleasant to say to me, eh? I don't expect it in the least, so I'm prepared."

"That's as well," said Jim, shortly, not looking at Tommy at all, but at the pipe he was filling, "for what I've got to say you'll find devilish unpleasant—I should, at least. You probably don't know why I went up to town."

"Not in the least, except for the usual thing," returned Tommy, trying hard to keep cool and unconcerned, and only succeeding in looking thoroughly ill at ease.

"Ah! I thought so," said Jim, drawing hard at his pipe. "Well, I didn't happen to go for the usual thing at all. I went to ask your sister to marry me."

For a moment young Tommy simply gasped; all the "last of the Earles" pride seemed to stiffen him, and mingled with it was a curious contempt that any fellow should be thinking seriously of marrying his sister. Then the advantages of the connection flooded in upon him, and he made haste to reply:

"H'm—well. I can't understand any fellow wanting to marry Nancy, though she's pretty and good, and all that. However, I'm sure I hope she accepted you."

"I quite admit your sister's inferiority to the young lady at the Duck's Tail," said Jim, brusquely; "but you see you were beforehand with me there. However, your sister did accept me."

"I'm awfully glad—let me congratulate you, old chap," cried Tommy, effusively, holding out his hand. "And when is it to be?"

"When I am free from any fear of being charged with Owen's murder," replied Jim, coldly, and taking no notice of the outstretched hand.

Tommy sunk back into the big armchair again.

"What do you want me to do?" he asked, growing white with fear.

"Nothing," Jim returned. "For myself, I don't know that I should have told you about it at present, only your sister charged me with a message for you."

"Yes," said Tommy, breathing more freely. "And it was"——

"About this business. I had to tell her, you know," said Jim, looking straight at him.

All the fear came back into the lad's eyes again. "You told her—Nancy!" he gasped. Good God! You must have been mad!"

To be Continued.

CLARKE WALLACE'S TRIUMPH.

The Combines Bill Reported by the Committee with Two Slight Amendments.

OTTAWA, April 16.—There was a crowded attendance at the Banking and Commerce Committee this morning, when the Combines Bill was again discussed. At the last meeting of the committee it will be remembered that the preamble of the bill was adopted. When the committee met to-day it was moved that Mr. Osler, Q.C., be heard on behalf of the Toronto Board of Trade.

Mr. Cockburn insisted on Mr. Wallace withdrawing the clause in relation to insurance and he might see his way clear to support the measure.

Sir John Thompson was doubtful if this clause relating to insurance could be dealt with in a question of trade and commerce. If so, the Insurance Act would have to be amended to correspond with whatever legislation might be included in this act.

Mr. Osler then addressed the committee. He had several amendments which he intended to lay before the committee, as he said, to make the measure more workable and prevent it as far as possible from restricting trade. As those prosecuted for misdemeanors would have to be tried before consumers, and to a certain extent it would be one class against another, he suggested an amendment to the effect that a preliminary trial be granted the accused to see whether the act was an unlawful one or not, as the bill provided that the crime committed must be an unlawful one. He suggested another amendment, that a person shall be a witness in his own behalf, and also that the accused should have the option of being tried by a judge without the intervention of a jury, and that an appeal to the Supreme Courts should be allowed. Other amendments were that the party committing the misdemeanor alone should be tried, and that no case could be prosecuted without first obtaining the sanction of the Attorney-General of the province in which the offence was committed.

Mr. Wallace agreed to withdraw the clause affecting insurance companies, after what had been stated by the Minister of Justice.

Mr. Waldie objected to the withdrawal of the clause, pointing out that in 1885 and again in 1886 and in 1887 he insured some $20,000 worth of ships in Buffalo for 1 per cent., it being 1½ in Canada. Last year he was told that he would have to pay 1½ although American hulls were insured at 1 per cent.

Mr. Lister objected to Mr. Osler's amendments, and said that if they were accepted the prosecutor would find himself in the place of the prisoner. The amendments would defeat the objects of the bill.

Mr. Wallace said he would rather withdraw the bill than accept the amendments.

Mr. Moncrieff moved some of the amendments, which were defeated.

On motion of Mr. Davies the amendment to the effect that accused be allowed to give evidence in his own behalf was carried. The option of trial by judge was also granted. These were the only two amendments suggested by Mr. Osler that were carried. The bill was afterwards reported.

"MOVE ON" JARVIS.

The Ex-Policeman Found Guilty of Felonious Assault.

TORONTO, April 17.—At the Assizes yesterday the court room was crowded when the case against Richard, Daniel and Lewis Jarvis was reached. They were charged with having assaulted a cattle-drover named Robert Hersby at Weston on the night of March 14. The complainant was the first witness. His evidence went to show that on the night in question and at the place above named, the three defendants attacked him. He defended himself with a stick or cane, which subsequent evidence went to show was four feet long and three-quarters of an inch in diameter. He alleged that the defendants knocked him down, struck him and kicked him. In the affray his nose was broken.

Deputy Chief Stewart said that during the eight or nine years Jarvis had been on the force, with the exception of the last three or four months of his service, his character had been very good. Inspector William Ward of No. 2 Division, was also called. The defendant's character as a policeman, he said, had been fair. There had been reports against him in that capacity, but he did not think they would affect his character as a private citizen. He had been dismissed from the force for being under the influence of liquor, and, the Inspector added with great reluctance, for being found in a disreputable house. The jury was out about an hour, and then brought in a verdict of guilty, with a strong recommendation to mercy as to Daniel and Lewis Jarvis. With respect to the charge of larceny against the defendants Mr. Irving said the Crown would offer no evidence. Richard Jarvis, it will be remembered, is the man who when on the Toronto police force arrested Rev. W. F. Wilson in Queen-street out of which arose the famous "move-on" case.

Accidentally Drowned.

WINDSOR, April 17.—Charles Cave, late engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway, whose body was found recently in the canal at Sault Ste. Marie, having a gold watch, $293 and some papers in his pockets, was formerly a well-known resident of Windsor and Essex Centre, in which town he was a hotelkeeper. It is supposed his body was in the canal all winter, and the jury returned a verdict of accidentally drowned. Deceased left a widow and family in Windsor.

Belleville Notes.

BELLEVILLE, April 17.—A barn on Pinnacle-street owned by Mrs. Martin of New York was destroyed by fire yesterday morning. Loss $800.

The hull-less oats case, Wray v. Robertson, has been settled, the plaintiff having been given back the note. Hess and Emerick, the principals, have left town.

Winning Numbers at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, April 16.—These were the winning numbers to-day: $300,000, 32074. $100,000, 98880. $50,000, 9165. $25,000, 28052. $10,000, 1697, 89433. $5000, 3307, 5902, 29350, 36938, 52984.

A Mother's Dreadful Deed.

CHICAGO, April 16.—Mrs. Caroline Bruckner, who lived with her husband and daughter in this city, was found dead this morning in an unoccupied building in Harlem, 9 miles from the city. By her side upon the floor was her 11-year-old daughter Alma, who was suffering excruciating tortures. The child said that yesterday morning she and her mother rode in a street-car to the end of the track. Then they walked the rest of the way. At about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, at a little strip of wood, her mother took from her pocket a bottle of Rough-on-Rats, gave the child some and took some herself. Then they wandered about in great pain and finally went into the house and lay down. The mother died in great agony. A physician said the child could not recover. Charles Bruckner, the husband, says that he had a dispute with his wife. The child was very wild and he wanted to send her to a reformatory, to which the mother strenuously objected. He thinks this may have been the cause of the fatal deed.

THE ATTRACTION AT TURNBULL'S

Have you any notion how pretty the Dress Goods and Trimmings are this spring. A glance at our windows when the blinds are drawn will help you to guess.

A stuff that everybody wants all of a sudden is found to be scarce. Best variety now we have ever had. Those Ingram Cloths, we mentioned last week as slow in coming to hand, have arrived. How do they open out, you say? Just handsome, is not too much to say of them. Ingram Cloths will be much called for or we will be mistaken.

Miss Mercier, our dressmaker, executes all orders promptly. The Millinery season is right on us and we are prepared for it. We keep well posted in all the changes in styles and buy the newest. Object lessons are in order now; call in and inspect and get our low prices.

Children's Sailor Hats in quantities cheap.

The latest wrinkle in Ladies' Wraps are Jet Visettes. We have many other new and desirable things in Mantles and Dolmans to show you, since the opening. All Mantles and Dolmans cut by the new patterns.

The Custom Tailoring Department is brightened with a choice lot of Piece Goods, fine and fashionable.

Suits for boys and small boys. In the latter are some bargains that prudent mothers would be glad to see and buy.

Two qualities of Flannelettes in all colors out of the cases. We have quantity enough for a large city, but the prices, see them, 10 12½c. a yard.

Cottons, Cottonades, Shirtings, Linens, etc. have advanced suddenly and rapidly in the wholesale trade. We were fortunate in having a large stock bought before the advance. Note this fact.

BAMSLEY'S BABY'S DEATH

A MYSTERIOUS OCCURRENCE IN TODMORDEN.

An Absconding Toronto Jeweler Captured in Windsor—How Henry Alyser Raised a $100 Loan.

TORONTO, April 18.—It will be recollected that early in January last John Clarke, a jeweler doing business on the corner of Esther and Queen-streets, suddenly disappeared, leaving the city wholesale jewelers to mourn the loss of some $5000 worth of goods with which they had been foolish enough to trust him. Clarke had made a clean sweep of everything of any value, and when the creditors took possession they found a comparatively empty store. Among the number of those firms let in by the absconder are J. F. Austin & Co., wholesale jewelers, 75 Yonge-street. They are sufferers to the extent of some $800, and until Tuesday night last saw no visible prospect of realizing payment.

Last week the firm was notified that Clarke was located in Detroit, and was in the habit now and then of taking snap journeys across the Detroit River to Windsor. Mr. Austin set a watch on Clarke's movements, with the result that as the latter stepped off the ferry-boat at Windsor on Tuesday night, he was arrested on a capais issued by Mr. Austin, and conveyed to Sandwich jail, where he is likely to remain for some time. Just as soon as he satisfies for the $800, a score of other Toronto wholesalers are ready to pile on top of him, and hold him tight until he disgorges dollar for dollar. They are in great glee, as Clarke has a wealthy father in Georgetown, who they believe will foot the entire bill now that his hopeful son is behind the bars.

Henry Alyser, a New York Hebrew, but late of Toronto, was arrested in Hamilton last night on a dispatch from Toronto, charging him with forgery. On Monday last, it is charged that he went to the operator in the Rossin House and giving the name of C. W. Gauthier, a Windsor man, a then guest of the Walker House, requested him to telegraph to Mrs. Gauthier, Windsor, requesting her to forward forthwith $100 to her husband in care of the clerk in the Rossin House. The operator did so, and Alyser calling the day following found that the money had arrived. The clerk, however, refused to hand it over unless Alyser identified himself as Gauthier. He did so by calling the operator, who recognized him as the man who had sent away the message on the day previous. This identification proved a sufficient warrant for the money to pass into his possession. Meanwhile Mr. Gauthier had returned to Windsor, and as soon as he had learned of the transaction he at once telegraphed to Toronto to stop the payment of the $100. The dispatch coming too late, the matter was placed in the hands of the police. Detective McGrath was detailed to look up Alyser, and tracing him to Hamilton secured his arrest in that city, $63 being found on his person.

The residents of Tudmorden are greatly exercised over the peculiar circumstances surrounding the death and interment of the infant son of William Bamsley, pottery moulder, of that village. The child was born on March 18, Dr. Pickering being in attendance. He saw it several times up to March 29, when on all occasions it seemed healthy and thriving. Since that date is disappeared, and Bamsley being spoken to told inquirers that the child had died. Dr. Pickering thereupon instituted inquiries in order to find out where the body had been interred, or whether a duly authorized certificate of death had been secured. He was unsuccessful in both instances, and thereupon placed the case before Coroner Johnson, who yesterday instructed the county authorities to institute a search for the remains, at the same time issuing a warrant for an inquest to be held this afternoon at the Morgue in case the searching party would prove successful.

Rumor had placed the grave of the little one in a two-acre lot outside the village, and thither yesterday afternoon proceeded County Constable T. J. Brown, Undertaker McCabe and an assistant. After digging all over the lot the grave was located near a stump in the centre of the piece of land. When the coffin containing the body was brought to the surface the undertaker was astonished to find that it was one he had sold himself to a man named P. J. Burns on March 30. The body, coffin and all were taken to Undertaker McCabe's dead house, 305 Queen west, and will be removed to the Morgue to await the result of the inquest.

The Bamsleys claim that the child's death was perfectly natural and that the body was interred where it was found only temporarily to await its ultimate removal to Harriston, where the family have a burial lot. On the other hand neighbors say that Mrs. Bamsley, when asked about what had become of the body, replied, "It is dead, and I am glad the little yellow brat has gone." The whole matter will be carefully sifted this afternoon.

Pullman's Vestibule Patent Sustained.

CHICAGO, April 17.—Judge Gresham today in the United States Circuit Court delivered an opinion, Judge Blodgett concurring, in the case of the Pullman Palace Car Company v. the Wagner Palace Car Company, declaring the Pullman-Sessions patent for vestibuled cars valid and that the Wagner Company was infringing it. The Sessions patent covers that portion of each half of the vestibule consisting of iron face plates under spring pressure, completing the vestibule by a tight joint when the cars are coupled in train service.

A Barrie Painter's Fatal Fall.

BARRIE, April 18.—J. G. Symmes, a painter, fell from a building Tuesday evening, a distance of about 14 feet, head downward, and received injuries which resulted in his death yesterday afternoon. The deceased belonged to the town police, and was an officer in the 35th Battalion, serving with the York-Simcoe Battalion in the Northwest.

LORD HARTINGTON TALKS

HE CLAIMS THE GOVERNMENT IS NOT LOSING GROUND.

The Tories Puzzled by Lord Rosebery's Declaration at Norwich—The Men of the Trenton's Dauntless Cheer.

LONDON, April 17.—Lord Hartington, in a speech at Sunderland to-night, denied the truth of the assertion that the bye-elections showed a revulsion of popular feeling in favor of Mr. Gladstone. He claimed that the fact that the Liberal-Unionist poll had in every instance been increased, even when the Liberal-Unionist candidate had been defeated, showed that the country adhered to the decision given at the last general election. He said the principles of local government, as accepted by the peoples of England and Scotland, would be offered to Ireland as soon as the Irish were ready to recognize that there was no grievance in possessing an equality in political status with the English and the Scotch.

A Cheer Heard Round the World.

LONDON, April 17.—Nothing has been read here with more interest than the reports of the Samoan disaster. Captain Kane's handling of the Calliope is extolled by the English, even though Ireland claims him as Irish. The press does, as Admiral Sir Geoffrey Hornby did, justice to her American and German consorts. The cheer of the Trenton's crew to the Calliope has been heard in England. "Consider the scene," says The Telegraph, "and the matchless heroism and generosity of this Yankee crew. They could see the Queen's ship fighting the hurricane and appreciate the gallantry of the effort with the generous pleasure of true mariners. We do not know in all naval records any sound which makes a finer music upon the ear than the cheer of the Trenton's men. It was distressed manhood greeting triumphant manhood, "the doomed saluting the saved. It was pluckier and more human than any cry raised upon the deck of a victorious line of battle ship. It never can be forgotten, never must be forgotten by Englishmen speaking of Americans. That dauntless cheer to the Calliope was the expression of an immortal courage." These are extracts from a long editorial all in a similar tone.

Brutality of the Derry Police.

LONDONDERRY, April 17.—Prof. Harrison has been committed to jail for trial Tuesday next on the charge of assisting besieged tenants at Gweedore. While he was being conveyed to jail he was heartily cheered by the populace. The sergeant in charge of the policemen who arrested Harrison ordered his men, "Beat the devil out of them" and Father Gildea, Boyle, Conybeare, O'Brien and O'Shea and a reporter of The London Daily News were roughly handled. Women were trampled upon by the crowd and in some instances were clubbed by the police. The excitement was intense. The people were greatly enraged by the action of the police.

Lord Rosebery's Norwich Speech.

LONDON, April 17.—Lord Rosebery's speech at Norwich is to Tory minds a political acrostic. They do not pretend to have found a solution, but they dwell on two things as the most puzzling of all. He proposes a committee of eminent jurists and civil servants to get the next Home Rule bill into workable shape before it is presented to Parliament. Did he, ask our Tory friends, take Gladstone's opinion before putting forward that suggestion? There is no answer, but they insist that it is tantamount to an admission that the difficulties in framing a measure cannot be removed by ordinary means. More important still, perhaps, is this declaration: "Home Rule in our sense," said Rosebery, "is distinct from the national and historical argument. It is simply a question of devolution and decentralization." What does that mean, and, whatever it means, does it come direct from Gladstone? Lord Rosebery praises this Government for having gone far toward his "devolution" policy in England by their local government bill. They have gone not less far in Scotland, and they are known to be considering a similar measure for Ireland. Parnell has said that Home Rule is an open question. Rosebery says that the historical argument may be neglected. Is this another approach to a new departure? Is Home Rule to mean after all only one more large county council? Such are some, and only some, of the Tory questions to which an answer has yet to be given.

OXFORD TEACHERS IN COUNCIL.

Stallion Fair at Woodstock—Scott Act Trials—Indians on the Warpath.

WOODSTOCK, April 17.—The Oxford Teachers' Institute held the first session of their twenty-second convention in the Collegiate Institute here to-day. There is a full representation of the county. John Shaw, M.A., addressed the teachers on the subject of "Things We Need."

The annual stallion fair of the North Riding of Oxford Agricultural Society was held here this afternoon. This district has always been noted for its fine horses, but the exhibition this year eclipsed anything ever seen here before, the competition in the thorough bred class being especially keen. The contestants were Messrs. S. R. Fuller and W. H. Millman, both of whom own very valuable importations. Fuller was awarded first.

George Wilson of Thamesford was to-day charged with a second offence against the Scott Act. The case was dismissed. Wilson was, however, committed to jail for neglecting to pay his first fine. A case against James Patterson of the same place for a first offence was laid over for a week.

A number of Indians, loaded with shotguns and whisky, came to town yesterday. They visited one house in which were a number of small children and demanded something to eat, which was immediately supplied them but which they refused in a manner that sent terror into the hearts of the youngsters and one of them is ill yet in consequence.

A Life for a Blow.

BUTLER, Pa., April 17.—About four o'clock this morning James Fields was fatally shot by his wife. Mrs. Fields was reading a book and her husband ordered her to come to bed. She refused and Fields got up and struck her. She went to a bureau drawer and took out a revolver, telling him if he hit her again she would shoot him. He then struck her in the face when she fired the revolver, inflicting a fatal wound. Before dying Fields made a sworn statement that his wife had shot him in self-defense. When Mrs. Fields appeared at the coroner's inquest her face was smashed almost beyond recognition. She is still at liberty.

A Revolting Crime.

BUFFALO, April 18.—A Lockport correspondent says: A horrible case was discovered here yesterday morning when George Male was arrested on complaint of his daughter, Lizzie Male, aged 18 years, charging her father with incest. The particulars are revolting. A year ago last January a child was born, which the father killed. He has repeatedly abused his daughter shamefully. Male has two wives living, from neither of whom he has been divorced. He and the girl lived alone here. The girl made a confession to Chief of Police Molyneux which is corroborated by other testimony. Male waived examination in the Police Court and was held to await the action of the grand jury.

A Michigan Girl Who Yearns for Fame.

MARINE CITY, Mich., April 18.—Monday evening James Williams and his wife were taken suddenly ill with symptoms of poisoning. They are still in a serious condition and yesterday morning Matilda Williams, the 14-year-old daughter of Mrs. Williams by a former husband, admitted to the physician in charge that she had put a tablespoonful of Rough-on-Rats in the tea of each. The girl had cast in her fortunes with a cowboy combination and was brought home against her will. She saw no way to continue upon the high road to fame that she had selected other than by removing her parents and acted accordingly.

Oil Prices Hammered.

PITTSBURG, April 17.—There was great excitement at the Oil Exchange to-day, and prices dropped nearly 4 points. Pittsburg has been bearish for some time, and the story that the Standard has secured the control of the Lima field was seized upon as a pretext to hammer prices. The market was active and feverish all day and the fluctuations were rapid, but the session was devoid of panicky features. At the opening sales were made at 87½. The close was at 84 3-8 bid. The feeling was still weak and unsettled. The day's transactions were very heavy and aggregated millions of barrels.

LIMA, O., April 17.—The Standard Oil Company to-day closed the deal whereby they became the possessors of a majority of the stock of the Ohio Oil Company. This gives them control of the Lima field.

TOPICS FROM THE CAPITAL

A DISCUSSION OVER LIQUOR PERMITS IN THE NORTHWEST.

The Railway Grants—The Boodlers' Expulsion Bill to go on the Government Order Paper.

OTTAWA, April 17.—In the House this afternoon Mr. Barron having asked: Is it the intention of the Government to cause legal proceedings to be instituted to test the legality of the Jesuits Estate Act? Sir John Macdonald replied that the Government still being of the opinion first expressed as to the constitutionality of the act, it remained for those of a contrary opinion to test it.

The Easter adjournment was brought up by Sir John Macdonald, who said that as the members were anxious to know whether or not the House would sit on Saturday, he would put the question now to the House to decide, and he therefore moved that when the House adjourns on Thursday it stand adjourned until Saturday afternoon. The Speaker declared the motion carried.

On motion of Sir John Thompson the Anti-Combines Bill was transferred to Government orders.

Hon. G. E. Foster moved and it was resolved that the House go into committee tomorrow to consider the steamship subsidy resolutions.

On motion of Hon. Mackenzie Bowell the clause in the Customs Act Amendment Bill declaring that inland transportation charges shall be added to the value for duty of goods imported was struck out, and the bill as amended was read a third time and passed.

The bills amending the Summary Convictions Act, the act respecting interest—providing for 6 per cent. interest charge on judgment debts in the Northwest—and respecting appropriation of lands were read a third time and passed.

Mr. Fisher, on motion that the House go into Committee of Supply, offered an amendment condemning the issue of liquor permits by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Northwest and the grant of license to sell liquor in the Rocky Mountains Park by authority of the Lieutenant-Governor, in violation of the act, which he claimed put the traffic, so far as the park is concerned, under the direct control of the Governor-General-in-Council. He censured the Minister of the Interior for not dealing with the matter himself.

Sir John Thompson followed, stating that this contention by Mr. Fisher had no foundation in law, and that the Lieutenant-Governor undoubtedly had the right to exercise all the authority which he had assumed.

After recess the discussion on Mr. Fisher's resolution was continued at great length and at 11 o'clock the House divided, the resolution being lost, 53 to 100.

The House then went into Committee of Supply, taking into consideration the military service appropriation. Col. Denison took the opportunity to again urge upon the attention of the Minister of Militia the desirability of remodelling the schools and of introducing the cadet system. Captain Casey asked for a new arm for the force, declaring that the Snider was antiquated. Major Sutherland urged that the issue of clothing and equipment should be more liberal. He referred especially to the head dress worn, and the fact that though helmets were prescribed as the full dress of rifle corps such as his, the 22nd Battalion, these helmets have to be procured at the cost of the men themselves. Sir Adolphe Caron said he agreed that the head dress should be supplied by the department, but it was admitted by military critics that forage caps were a necessity and the department having to supply these could not on the present appropriation supply both helmets and forage caps.

In answer to a suggestion by Col. Kirkpatrick, that fatigue suits should be issued to save the full-dress uniform, Sir Adolphe Caron said he believed the subject was one well worthy of consideration, and he would give it attention.

The appropriations for lighthouse construction were next discussed.

On the vote for the superintendence of insurance, Sir Richard Cartwright gave notice that on concurrence he would have some observations to offer with respect to the propriety of a minister of the Crown having any official connection with companies inspected by officers of the department. He would not proceed at present because he noticed that the First Minister was not present.

After further progress the House adjourned at 2.10 a.m.

RAILWAY SUBSIDIES.

A Million and a Half to be Granted, All Revotes—The List.

The last four votes represent the balance of grants earned but as yet unpaid. The list is as follows:

Northern and Pacific Junction, from Gravenhurst to Callender, $35,000.

These subsidies are made conditional upon commencement of construction before Aug. 1, 1891, and completion within a reasonable time, not exceeding four years, to be fixed by order-in-council. Some new votes to railways will in all probability be submitted next week.

CAPITAL GOSSIP.

Mr. Weldon's Boodlers Bill to Go on the Government Order Paper.

Mr. Wilson of Elgin inquires if legislation will be introduced this session based on the Labor Commission's report.

A deputation is in the city from Toronto to urge upon the Government the granting of a subsidy to the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway. This enterprise is said to be in the interest of the Canada Southern Railway and will be the third projected line between Toronto and Hamilton. Sir John promised to take their representations into consideration.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

A DISCUSSION IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS REGARDING IT.

Mr. Barron Complains that the Government is Trifling—Mr. Stevenson's Remarks—The Premier and Others Speak.

SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD. The hon. gentleman (Mr. Barron) has made a number of statements which I think unworthy of him, and for which he has no foundation. He supposes everything against the Government, and he supposes everything against the Commission. Who were the commissioners? I suppose he would not object to Judge Weller——

MR. BARRON. No.

SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD. Judge Weller, who lives at Peterborough, and he is the chairman of the Commission. Will he object to Mr. Kennedy, of Montreal, one of the first hydraulic engineers on this continent, and who is now absent in consequence of illness and has been obliged to go to Europe, which everybody regrets? The third gentleman is an engineer of standing, Mr. Frank Turner, of Toronto. Everyone knows of him. These are three honorable, upright men, and to say that they were appointed to make a sham report to enable the Government to back down is unfounded, is unworthy of the House and of the hon. gentleman, and, if I had not been called to my feet by the remark of the hon. member for South Oxford (Sir Richard Cartwright), I should have considered it unworthy of reply.

MR. BARRON. I did not say it was a sham report.

SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD. I leave it to the House if that is not the case.

MR. BARRON. I said they knew what the report would be and they were likely to take advantage of it.

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT. There is another side to this question. It is six or seven years since the Government asked for considerable sums to carry out this work. It seems to me extraordinary that after this work was undertaken, and after pledges were made by some members of the Government—certainly by Sir Charles Tupper—that the work should be proceeded with, in the sixth or seventh year afterwards the Government should find it necessary to institute a Commission to find out whether, in 1889, it was possible to do a thing which they had declared, or one of their number had declared, was to be done in 1881, 1882, or 1883—I cannot recollect the exact year, but I recollect the facts. The Government ought, before going into the expenditures which they then incurred, to have found out, through their engineers or other competent authorities, whether the thing could be done or not, and the appointment of the Commission appears to me, and I think will appear to the country, to indicate that they commenced this work on very imperfect information, and that they made representations to the inhabitants of the Trent Valley on very imperfect information.

SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD. The hon. gentleman is unjust, though I do not think he is intentionally unjust, in the inference he has drawn. The Trent Valley scheme was before the country and was a subject of discussion many years ago.

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT. Fifty years ago, at least.

SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD. Before the hon. gentleman or I was here, the Government of the country got some light on this subject. The Trent navigation was considered to be an inland water carriage similar to the Rideau canal. The reports are to be found, the statements of the cost are to be found. When the Government took up this matter some years ago they decided it must be a work to be built by degrees, as the country could afford it. The Government have gone on and built it by degrees, and the hon. gentleman opposite admits that the work, so far as it has been built, is of great advantage to the country through which it passes, that it has opened out a large stretch of water communication, that there are steamboats plying on those waters, doing a very considerable trade. The Government have gone on steadily in the construction of the canal, bit by bit, coming every year to Parliament and explaining how much would be built in that year, and how much money was wanted. The statement has been make lately by engineers of standing that whatever might have been the grounds on which the original estimates were made by competent engineers—and that original plan was adopted by public sentiment years ago—those grounds have changed, and it would cost much more now. Well, the Government of the day would have to come to Parliament to get a vote. It was a sum exceeding by some millions the original estimate. These two very competent gentlemen were appointed, and a third gentleman of high standing for his character—and certainly any leanings he might have would be in favor of the complete construction of this work—was appointed chairman that he might, as a legal man, marshal the evidence. We are waiting for that report, and that must be submitted to Parliament, it must meet the assent of Parliament, and we would be quite unjustified in going on, having been informed again and again of late years that the work would cost infinitely more than was stated by the engineers in those days. And there is no loss of time. The hon. gentleman says we have been idling. We have been carrying out steadily the object with which we have started, that is to build a water line of communication by degrees, taking a vote for enough to employ a certain number of men, and do a certain amount of work during the next year. We are doing so this year, and before this money is expended I hope that Mr. Kennedy will be back and then we will get a report of the whole matter, and it will be for Parliament to judge, when we come down with the estimates, of the expediency of expending this money. I do not believe that hon. gentleman has any grounds for saying that he believes these gentlemen are going to report adversely. I do not think he has been taken into their confidence, I do not think he knows anything about it; and he cannot get up now in his place and state that he has any reliable information that these gentlemen have been such fools as to tell him, or to tell anyone else beforehand, what the report was going to be. I challenge the hon. gentleman to substantiate that statement. It is so absurd in itself that I do not think, with all due respect to him, that we can place any reliance upon it unless he produces additional evidence of it. It cannot be so. These gentlemen know their duties. They are gentlemen of character, they are professional men as well, and they would not have consulted the hon. gentleman, or taken him or anybody else into their confidence. The hon. gentleman for South Oxford (Sir Richard Cartwright), when he was speaking about the St. Lawrence Canal, although that is part of the policy of the Government, did not hesitate to state, and it was his duty to state, that he had heard that on the whole it would be more economical, and perhaps as well, to use a system of transhipment rather than deepen the canal to 14 feet. Well, the Government were pledged to build a water communication within a depth of 14 feet, and yet if Parliament chooses to say: We have changed our mind, or if the Government, on full evidence, think that it would be inexpedient to carry out their original intention, they are not to be charged with doing anything wrong: on the contrary they are to be praised, to be lauded, even though the hon. gentleman might call it backing down. They should be lauded if, upon a careful study of the circumstances, they think that the original intention ought to be, in the interest of the country, changed. That is the plain state of the case. The hon. gentleman says it is not a political question at all. The whole animus of the hon. gentleman was political in the most miserable party sense.

MR. BARRON. I am not going to be drawn out by the First Minister to give the source of my information. I am willing to admit at once that I have had no conversation whatever with any of the commissioners, but I am positive that my information is most reliable that the Commission is going to report adversely to the construction of this canal.

SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD. It cannot be.

MR. BARRON. It can be. It is quite possible that some of the commissioners may have spoken to others and given their views as to what the report is going to be. I will not say whether that is so or not, but it is quite possible that in some roundabout way the information may have come to my ears. But we can only wait for the future to prove whether I am right or wrong; I am willing to rest my case with the future. The Premier said that I charged them with idling. Now, I used the word "idling" in connection with the work at Fenelon Falls, and I reiterate it. I say for two years and a half they have had that money expended at Fenelon Falls, the interest upon it being lost, because there has been no use made of the works, and the reason is the obstruction to which I drew the attention of the Finance Minister two years ago, and nothing has been done from that time to the present. Now, to show that I am not altogether wrong in regard to this matter, I want to read the First Minister's statement in this House on the 11th July, 1885:

> "The system is a very old one. It has been reported on by many able engineers, and at last the Government adopted the idea of making a permanent work by connecting the two great waterways."

Meaning Lake Ontario and Georgian Bay. Now, if that was his intention, then I ask why, in the name of common sense, we must appoint a Commission now to find out whether it is necessary to do that which he said was going to be done in the year 1885. He goes on:

> "It may be it cannot compete in all respects with other and deeper waterways, and with a railway system, but it will be substantially a Dominion work, connecting the two waters, and at the same time a great advantage to the fine district of country through which it passes."

Now, of course the First Minister may read me a lecture. I am young in the House, and he, being so very much my senior, is at liberty to do so; but his lecture will not be accepted by the people of this country who believe that they are being deceived. But I am quite willing to rest my contention as against his with the people in the country who are interested in this great work.

[MR. LANDERKIN defended Mr. Barron's manner of dealing with the subject and brought in the Ontario Ship canal and the Jesuit bill debate.]

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT. It was stated by the Government in 1883 that they had full information on this subject. I find that Sir Charles Tupper stated at that time that the facts had all been collected, and that $8,000, the cost of the survey, would complete the work so that he would be able, next session, to report the whole scheme. The Government, according to Sir Charles Tupper, ought certainly to be in possession, before 1889, of all the facts and should have ascertained the cost.

SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD. Even if the canal were not finished there has been substantial benefit done to that part of the country.

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT. My point was this: that the hon. gentleman's colleague had many years before stated to the House that the Government would be in a position in a very short time to give complete estimates of the cost of the work and state what they were going to do. Several years elapse, then the Government appoint a Commission. That is not business, and it is not the way a public work should be carried out. In so far as the advantages to the particular localities are concerned, all well and good; but when the Government propose through a responsible Minister to engage in works of this kind, I repeat we have a right to expect that they have made up their minds as to what they are going to do, and have obtained full estimates as to the cost of the work.

Our Hats are Inimitable

Every day now adds its emphasis to the judgment of gentlemen as to the beauty and excellence of our spring Hats. They're buying them. They're not doing it without having first compared and decided that ours bear away the prize for shapeliness and quality as well as for faultless making and moderate prices. Gentlemen are critical when it comes to getting a light weight Hat. They are a necessity in these spring days—a necessity in which they esteem style as essential. Witness the demand for our Genuine Cooksy, Woodrow and Ellwood Celebrated Zephr weight Hats made especially for us. There is something peculiar and inimitable about the gracefulness of our Hats.

A WORD ABOUT OUR CLOTHING DEPARTMENT, THIS SPRING:

Never in the history of the trade has such an Array of Fine Clothing been placed before a buying public. Our Stock this Spring embraces all the LATEST DESIGNS and PATTERNS, and as they were made under our own special supervision, the workmanship is of a superior quality. Notwithstanding all this our prices will be found Lower than ever. When we came to you as the Revolutionizers of the Clothing Trade, we promised you then that we would benefit the public, and now after a long trial have we kept our word? If so, let that be our best guarantee to the public, that we deal honestly and squarely with them in the future. We are not so egotistical as to believe that we please every one (our Divine Master when on earth did not please everyone), still to those who we did not please, as well as those we did please, we sincerely return thanks for past patronage. As we are not infallible we are prone to make mistakes and our judgment like any human being's may err in buying. Still we try to avoid errors, as much as possible, and therefore it is our proud boast when any one has a greviance we never refused to make it right when brought to our notice. This spring we are going to REDOUBLE OUR ENERGIES, and by keeping GOOD GOODS, NICE GOODS, SQUARE DEALING, and EXTREMELY LOW PRICES, we hope to merit a Continuance of your Generous Patronage.

Annoying a Woman.

Two Contracts.

Mr. J. W. Dinwoodie, of Campbellford, the Herald says, a few days ago received the contract for excavating a raceway for water power in the town of Trenton, covering about 60,000 yards. He has also received the contract of grading four miles of new railway, between Trenton and Frankford, for the Central Ontario Railway, and building the culverts and cattle guards.

Organized "Colts."

The junior portion of the local cricket club, known as the "Colts," met last night over Schofield's drug store for the election of a captain. The junior club last year made no mean showing in their matches with the older heads, and they are going in for the game this season with more vim than ever. Wm. F. Hamilton was the unanimous choice of the meeting for the position of captain and he accepted. C. H. Allison was elected secretary. In appointing a secretary the Colts concluded that they were old enough to have a secretary of the own, and their scribe can, if possible, assist the secretary of the Peterborough Cricket Club.

Worth Reading.

No young man or woman should attempt to make business his or her life calling without first having some previous training. At no institution can this be better given than at the Peterborough Business College. The enterprising proprietors are having the roller rink fitted up in the most modern style and are adding to their staff a penman who cannot be excelled in this important art. No other college offers such advantages as the Peterborough Business College. The attendance, instead of decreasing at this season, is gradually increasing, which is a sure proof of success. d66tf

St. Paul's Young People.

After the special service in St. Paul's Church last evening, a large number of the young people of the congregation assembled in one of the class rooms for the purpose of perfecting the organization of the "Society of Christian Endeavor" which was initiated at a meeting on Friday night last. Rev. Mr. Mitchell, of Port Hope, who is assisting in the special services, was present and has lent valuable assistance in the organization of the society. A constitution has been adopted and a goodly number of the young ladies and gentlemen of the church have signified their intention of becoming either active or associate members. The society is formed for mutual spiritual benefit and at each meeting some subject or topic will be taken up and discussed. The officers elected were:—

PRESIDENT—Mr. Alfred Johnston.
VICE-PRESIDENTS—Miss Fanny Dixon and Mr. McCallum.
SECRETARY—Mr. F. Hall.
TREASURER—Mr. Wm. Thompson.

A number of committees were also appointed. The first meeting will be held on Monday night next, when the subject for consideration will be "Christian Courage."

THE MUSIC BOX.

The Piano Agent gets into Trouble and is Sent up for Trial.

The Toronto piano agent, Chas. Chapman, whose trial before Police Magistrate Edmison was enlarged yesterday, was proceeded with this morning and occupied the attention of the court until nearly three o'clock this afternoon.

THE EVIDENCE.

Wm. Buller, the carter who refused to answer Mr. Poussette's questions yesterday, was the first witness called and when the question was put to him "Did you see the prisoner enter Carter's house on Tuesday last?" he answered in the affirmative. Some little discussion arose over some of the questions put to him, but the Magistrate held that no improper or incriminating questions had been put. Buller's evidence brought out nothing new in the case.

Mrs. Carter was the next witness and she was kept in the box for nearly an hour. She had been at at Mr. Potvin's on Tuesday morning when Chapman had offered that gentleman the $32 rent, and said she told the agent she was willing to take the money and give it to Potvin and then she would allow him to take his piano. This Chapman refused to do and some time after as she was sitting in Mr. Potvin's kitchen she heard a noise in her shed as if some person was breaking the door. She went out and saw Chapman and three other men going in through the shed and she then heard a noise as if the kitchen door had been broken in. Then she saw them carry out the piano and take it away on a cart. She said she did not know how much was paid on the piano. The original price was $325, and from some papers produced, it appeared that there was some $260 still due on the instrument.

Mr. Richard Hall also gave his evidence in reference to the seizure for rent, as also did the bailiff, Mr. J. Potvin.

John Parrington, another one of the men who is said to have been with Chapman when the piano was moved, was called, but did not tell much.

This was all the evidence, and then the counsel began argument as to the settlement of the case.

Mr. Dumble, who had been present in the court room during the progress of the case, was, on Mr. Edwards' request, allowed to make a statement as to the legal advice he had given Chapman. He said that the man came to him and showed him the agreement in which was a clause that if Carter failed to fulfil his part of the contract the piano could be seized forcibly or otherwise, and that he had gone with Chapman to the Division Court bailiff and asked him if Carter's goods had been seized and the bailiff said they had not, as he had been unable to get into the house. He then told Chapman that there was nothing to prevent him from taking his piano according to his agreement.

Mr. Poussette offered to settle the case if the magistrate would sanction it, if the prisoner would pay the rent and all the costs that had been entailed. This the defence refused to do.

The counsel then commenced their argument and for nearly two hours they discussed the one point whether the goods were under legal detention. Mr. Edwards held that the tendering of the amount of the rent by Chapman to the bailiff in the presence of Mrs. Carter did not leave the goods under legal seize as Chapman was the owner of the piano. Mr. Poussette and the Magistrate were of the opinion that a third party, like Chapman, could not make a legal tender to the bailiff. Finally the magistrate enlarged the case until Saturday to allow Mr. Edwards if possible to produce the law which proved his contention.

GOOD FRIDAY.

The Services in the Different Churches—Interesting Services at St. John's.

To-morrow will be Good Friday, the commemoration of the day of the crucifixion of our Saviour and a day which is observed with solemn ceremony by all the Protestant and Catholic churches. It is observed as a public holiday in every land and by Christians with almost as much reverence as the Sabbath. The Church of England have special services on this day. The services in the town churches to-morrow will be as follows:—

AT ST. JOHN'S.

Our readers have been already informed of the list of services at St. John's Church to-morrow viz: at 10 a.m., 11 a.m. with morning prayer, litany and sermon, 1.30 p.m., 3.30 p.m. and 7.30 p.m. We desire, however, to call special attention to the two afternoon services. That commencing at 1.30 p.m. is a modification of what is known as "The Three Hours Service" held in many parishes in commemoration of our Lord's agony on the cross, and lasting from 12 to 3 p.m. The service to be held in St. John's to-morrow will only last for an hour and a half, viz. from one 1.30 to 3 p.m. It will consist of very brief addresses on the seven sayings of our Lord on the cross, interspersed with hymns and pauses for private meditation. The service being of a less formal nature than the ordinary type, there is no obligation upon any one to remain in the church during the whole time, and any person who is unable to stay the entire service will have the fullest liberty to enter or leave the church during the singing of any of the hymns. The half past three service is intended chiefly for children and it is hoped that a very large number of them will avail themselves of the opportunity especially afforded them of remembering the Saviour's sufferings. But though this service is intended primarily for children, the clergy of St. John's are very anxious that people should understand that they desire the attendance of adults as well. The hour is convenient, the service will be short, only three quarters of an hour, and a large number of parents and young people should be present. The boys' confirmation class will not be held this week owing to the Good Friday services.

AT ST. LUKE'S.

There will be special service in this church to-night at eight o'clock, consisting of litany, intercession and reading. The service to-morrow will commence at 10 o'clock a.m.

AT ST. PETER'S.

There will be three special devotional services at St. Peter's Cathedral to-morrow. The first is at eight o'clock in the morning, another at three in the afternoon, and the third at 7.30 o'clock in the evening.

AT GEORGE-ST. CHURCH.

Service will be held in the George-st. Methodist Church to-morrow, 11 a. m., conducted by the pastor, the Rev. M. L. Pearson. Subject of sermon, "The Trial and Condemnation of the Saviour." Collection in aid of the worn out ministers' fund. Evening service at 7.45. All are cordially invited.

OTHER CHURCHES.

In St. Paul's, the Baptist Church and the Charlotte-st. and Mark-st. Churches, meetings are to be held in the evening.

The Official Declaration—The Majority 352 Against the Act.

Mr. Charles Stapleton, the Returning Officer, made the official declaration this morning of the vote in the recent contest for the repeal of the Scott Act. The declaration was delayed through returns not being received or not being properly made out. Dr. Fife and W. F. Hilliard attended this morning on behalf of the supporters of the Act, and Messrs. E. A. Peck and James Stewart for those opposed to it. The total vote cast was 3,440, and the majority for repeal or against the Act was 352. The vote was as follows:—

The Spring Work and Fall Grain—Football Club Organized—Other News.

Correspondence of the Review.

AGRICULTURAL.—The spring seeding is now in full blast in this neighborhood. The fall wheat has come through the winter in splendid condition, but the clover crop is almost an entire failure, being heaved out by the frost.

STOCK NOTE.—Mr. D. Trescott, who has always been an enthusiastic admirer of well bred stock, has recently added a registered thoroughbred Holstein bull to his herd. Your correspondent has not yet had the pleasure of inspecting this new acquisition, but have been credibly informed that he is a very fine animal. This breed of cattle have a good reputation for their milking qualities and are steadily growing in favor with the farmers in the cheese factory districts.

FOOTBALL.—The young men in this vicinity have organized a football club. They intend to do some lively kicking this summer and will be out for practice as soon as the hurry of the spring work is over.

FARM SOLD.—The farm of the late Thomas Graham, situated on the broken front concession, was sold last week for the sum of $3,500. A gentleman from near Lindsay was the purchaser.

A HUMAN SAVIOUR.

Rev. G. Warren Lectures at St. John's Church.

After the usual eight o'clock service at St. John's last evening, the Rev. G. Warren, of St. Luke's, Ashburnham, gave a lecture taking as his subject "The agony of a Saviour's Soul." The rev. gentleman based his remarks on the words:—

"Now is my soul troubled, and what shall I say? Father, save me from this hour, but for this cause came I unto this hour."—John xii, 27.

The rev. gentleman's discourse was an excellent one, in which he pointed out that the Saviour when on earth was as man having a body and soul, and undergoing and being subject to the sufferings, temptations, grief and death and being capable of the truest affection. He explained the cause of the Saviour's words "Now is my soul troubled." It was because Christ felt death as any man would, and because he could look into the future and see the dangers and trials that his followers would suffer through martyrdom. Another cause was that He could see the day of judgment, when multitudes would lose the life that was to come. In concluding his lecture the rev. gentleman impressed upon his hearers that each one was called upon to carry the cross of Christ, and they should bear that cross and it would bring them to life eternal. Each one had a cross. If they were old it might be in relation to business, or if they were young it might be in relation to the pleasures and duties of life. In closing he said that just as Christ was human when on earth so He was now, and they knew that at the right hand of God they had a High Priest who could be touched with human sympathy. This should be an incentive to them to do ten times as much as they had in carrying out the words "Father, glorify Thy name."

CHINA HALL

CHINA
AND
QUEENS WA

Immense sums have been paid for rare specimens of antique China. Think of $5,000 being given for a china plate—cracked at that. Consider $24,000 as the market value of a set of 120 pieces of Sevres china. Hold in one hand a cup and saucer and in the other hand the $3,000 that the cup and saucer brought at a Parisian auction. Truly, the craze of collectors for rare specimens of Palissy ware, has given fictitious values to many an unpretentious plate and cup. When money is tight it is a comfort to think of $2,000 being paid for a hawthorn jug that would barely hold a quart of milk. These are prices that astonish, but the serious side of the question is that at China Hall you can secure full sets of China that will grace any tea table for so little money that anyone can afford the outlay. Not only China, but good substantial dinner sets fit to set out the table of an M. P. or Mayor. Come to CHINA HALL and see what money will do. You'll not have to spend the value of six first-class farms for a China Tea Set.

BEAUTIFUL JIM.

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER

"I don't think so," said Jim, icily. "And I would leave that name out of the question if I were you—it doesn't sound well. Well, as to telling your sister, as a matter of fact, I did not tell her—she found it out."

"How?" Tommy hardly spoke above a whisper, and his heart began to beat so fast that he was nearly suffocated.

"Well, I naturally told her that I was not the man who murdered Owen."

"Well!"

"And then she expressed great anxiety lest I might fall under suspicion again. So, in order to reassure her, and not in any way to let light in upon you, I told her that I could safely establish my innocence at any time. Naturally she pressed me to do so at once, particularly as your father, although he believes in me himself, will not consent to our marriage until all fear of my danger is at an end; and then I had to tell her that, for the sake of this man's relatives, I was bound to keep silence. She did not see it"——

"Ah, girls are so beastly selfish," Tommy broke in. "It's the way they're brought up."

"Perhaps so," said Jim, dryly. "However, she did not see it, and even went so far as to say that she should tell your father and get the mystery cleared up somehow; and then I had to say that I would not have your father know it for any consideration, and she guessed."

There was a long and death like silence; but at last Tommy looked up. "And what is she going to do?" he asked.

"Nothing!" returned Jim. "She is going to wait. But she charged me to tell you that she forbears only for your father's sake; that she has neither pity nor mercy for you; that, but for him, she would willingly deliver you up to justice to-morrow. And she says that, just so far as is necessary to blind your father, she will be to you as she was before, but no further. That if you at any time do the smallest thing that she disapproves, she will go to your father at once and tell him everything; and she told me to remind you that she is bound by no promise to shield you, and has no reason for concealment."

For some time Tommy sat staring into the fire place blankly, trying hard to recover from the blow which Beautiful Jim's words had dealt him; but at last he looked up.

"Am I to spend the rest of my life in purgatory under Nancy's thumb?" he asked, hoarsely.

"I'm afraid that's about it," returned Jim, stolidly.

"But I tell you it was an accident, a pure accident," he persisted, miserably.

"Oh! yes, of course; most murders are," replied Jim, quietly. "It couldn't be your fault for pitching a seven-pound dumb bell at Owen when his back was turned, but poor dear Owen's fault for getting in the way of it. I believe that's generally the way with murders; but, unfortunately, jurymen are such infernal blockheads that they can't often be got to look at the matter in the right light. It's a devil of a nuisance, of course, but there the juries are, and their decision is law."

"Life won't be worth having," Tommy groaned, abjectly.

"Neither would it at Portland, even if you got let off so easily as that," returned Jim, with what Tommy designated in his own mind as unfeeling brutality. "And you should have thought of that, you know, before you took to shying dumb bells about."

And then all at once, and without warning, Tommy burst out crying, and sobbed convulsively for some minutes.

"It's too hard," he burst out, "that my whole life should be ruined like this. I tell you I'd no idea, no notion, not the smallest, of killing the fellow. He always was a contrary, crossgrained brute"——

"Take care, take care," muttered Jim between his teeth.

"He was—perhaps not to you, but to me from the very first and always," Tommy cried, passionately. "And that day, after spying and busying himself about my private affairs, which had and could have had nothing to do with him, he goaded me almost—almost," fiercely—"nay, altogether to madness by his cold, icy, supercilious, damnable airs. I was mad when I did that, but mad as I was, I had never a thought of killing him; I swear I never had."

"At the same time," said Jim, frigidly, "you would find it uncommonly difficult to persuade a jury to look at it in that light."

"I know it," Tommy rejoined, wretchedly, "but do you think I ever forget it? Night and day, alike, I have that horrible thud in my ears, and Owen's dead face, as I saw it in the morning, before my eyes—good heavens, man! don't you think that I have suffered a very hell of regret, and that I don't suffer it still every day, every hour, ay, every moment of my life?"

"No, I don't," returned Jim, no more moved by this outburst of passion against a self wrought fate than he would have been by a blue bottle fly buzzing up and down a window pane. "I saw you in the Winter Garden an hour ago, and 'pon my soul, even knowing you as well as I do, I was astonished at your powers of enjoyment—I was indeed."

"You told me yourself," cried Tommy, fiercely, "that I was to look as usual, that I was not to go about looking hang dog and wretched."

"So I did; but I never expected to see you take up your little flirtations again with quite the zest you displayed this afternoon. However, it's no use going over the old ground again and again in this way. I have given you your sister's message, and, for the present, you appear to be safe, though, of course, one can never tell what may or may not turn up. I don't think you need imagine that she is going to make your life a burden to you, for really I don't believe she will ever want to see you, or be in any way mixed up with you again. I think what she means by 'your doing anything that she disapproves' is the chance that you might want to marry—the girl at the Duck's Tail, for instance."

To be Continued.

THE HUNT FOR MORRISON.

Looking for the Outlaw in a Copper Mine—The Officers' Keen Scent.

MONTREAL, April 17.—C. F. Griffith, a Sherbrooke merchant, was in town to-day looking up two boys who ran away from his employ. Mr. Griffith says he is sure that now things have gone so far Morrison will not be captured without bloodshed.

A good story, which serves to show what a keen scent the officers are now following, comes from the Excelsior copper mines, 3 miles from Broughton and about 60 miles from any place where Morrison has ever been seen. A few days ago J. N. Greenshields was at the mines and having occasion to send a cablegram to England telephoned a code message to the station agent at Broughton. The message being duly recorded, the agent was asked if there was any news of Morrison yet; and replying in the negative Mr. Greenshields jokingly remarked: "The workmen say that the timekeeper says three men went down the Kent shaft and only two came up again, and they say the third man must be Morrison." Mr. Greenshields thought no more of the matter until he received the following telegram from Captain Prideaux, who is in charge of the mine:

BROUGHTON, Que., April 16.—Bissonnette and four constables here after Morrison. Threaten to summon myself and others to Sherbrooke. Advise. W. PRIDEAUX.

To this Mr. Greenshields wired in reply:

Allow Bissonnette and men to go down shafts to hunt for Morrison but warn him of danger. J. N. GREENSHIELDS.

Ambitious City Notes.

HAMILTON, April 17.—Navigation opened in Hamilton harbor this morning. The Modjeska is expected here on May 20, and will be put on the Toronto route, the Macassa remaining over night at Toronto and the Modjeska being stationed here.

Last evening a gentlemanly-looking man, about 40 years of age, was among the lodgers at No. 3 station. He was well dressed, but as his upper garments consisted of a thin lawn tennis coat, no vest and a linen shirt, he was hardly in a condition to stand the rigors of a Canadian climate. He registered as John Smith, steamer Nipsic, Samoa, but subsequently told a reporter that his brother is a prominent lawyer in Toronto. "Mr. Smith" is engaged in tapering off a prolonged jag.

Mrs. Caroline E. Stark, wife of Dr. Stark, died at her late residence about 9 o'clock this morning, after a long illness.

FIRES OF A DAY.

Two Warehouses and 8000 Bushels of Grain Burnt at Cayuga.

CAYUGA, April 17.—At about 2.30 this morning fire was discovered issuing from the large warehouse of the Grand River Gypsum Company, situated at the Grand Trunk Railway here. The flames rapidly spread, and almost simultaneously the grain warehouse of B. & E. Baxter was a mass of raging fire. Some 8000 bushels of grain were in store, also a considerable quantity of gypsum. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Started by the Dynamo.

NEW YORK, April 17.—A ferry boat was about starting to-day when flames were seen shooting out of the gangway used by teams. An alarm was promptly given and the passengers hurried ashore. Captain Day and his crew also escaped unhurt. The boat was worth nearly $100,000. She was lighted by electricity, and it is believed the fire was started by the dynamo.

Belleville Briefs.

BELLEVILLE, April 17.—The City Council will meet on Saturday night and prepare the Bridge bylaw for re-submission to the people.

The Government have restored to the Harbor Bill the schedule of tolls which was struck out by the Senate.

The Curling Club will hold their annual dinner on April 25.

The Henderson House, one of the largest hotels in town, has been closed. The former proprietor was insolvent.

A boy named Frederick Pope was run over by a heavy roller in Sidney last night and dangerously injured.

Was there a Murder?

OTTAWA, April 17.—Information was brought to the police to-day that a young French girl named Louise Durant had been murdered in the bush back of Rochesterville on Monday night by an alleged Italian paramour. The matter was immediately investigated, but no trace of the missing girl could be found, and no arrests have been made. The girl was stated to have been keeping house for several Italians. The men have not yet been located.

The Minneapolis Strike.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 17.—Soon after noon a car on the Bloomington line reached the corner of Washington and Seventh-avenues. It was found the switch had been spiked. A big crowd gathered and stones flew. Several hit the driver, who unhitched his horses and abandoned the car. The mounted police charged the crowd with drawn clubs. Eleven men were arrested. The crowd, numbering several thousands, was surly and sullen, but there was no more trouble. The abandoned car was drawn away by fresh horses and another driver.

There were several brushes to-day between the strikers, their sympathizers and the police. A mob on Washington-avenue was the hardest to handle. It would be scattered in one place only to gather in another. Many arrests were made, some of the officers picking up small boys and bringing them to the station. This afternoon a Bloomington-avenue car was boarded by a number of men. The police were forced up. It gathered others as it proceeded and when it reached Hennepin-avenue it was packed, many climbing on the top. The driver became excited and the car was run off the track several times. It was finally started for the shops two blocks away. A small riot followed on its arrival there. After savage clubbing by an officer and with the assistance of the office employes, President Lowry lending a hand, the car was housed, but not before it was badly wrecked. The attempt to effect a settlement between the company and the strikers to-day was a failure.

The Nova Scotia Legislature Prorogued.

HALIFAX, April 18.—The Local Legislature was prorogued yesterday afternoon by Chief Justice McDonald, Administrator of the Government.

To Close on Good Friday.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The Produce Exchange voted to-day to close on Good Friday. The proposition to close April 20 was defeated.

MURDER IN WINNIPEG.

A WOMAN OF THE TOWN KICKED TO DEATH.

[illegible] Suspected of the Crime—The Montreal Police [illegible] Home From the Morrison Expedition.

HAMILTON, April 19.—The $20,000 breach of promise suit brought by Miss Myra Hurrell of this city against Thomas O'Callaghan of London will be tried at the assizes next week. The plaintiff and defendant were examined before Mr. Sadleir yesterday, when Mr. O'Callaghan was so ungallant as to contradict Miss Hurrell's sworn assertion that he had proposed to her. The trial promises to be quite interesting. The London man's lawyer bears the appropriate name of Love.

The miserable woman, Ellen Hill, whose husband died in the hospital yesterday morning, was arrested last night for drunkenness. She had her child with her and let it fall several times on the stone pavement.

A special meeting of the Hamilton Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was held last night. Mr. Adam Brown, M. P., President of the Society, explained his bird bill, after which a resolution was passed regretting its defeat and expressing the hope that success would crown his efforts at the next session of Parliament.

The Building Committee of the Free Library Board met yesterday afternoon and had a chat over Architect Stewart's report on the old Upper Canada Bank building. Nothing was decided upon.

The second annual dinner of the Association of Stationary Engineers (No. 2), of this city, took place last evening at the Dominion Hotel.

WINNIPEG, April 19.—Mary Hood, an abandoned woman died to-day, it is supposed from kicks by her paramour, Bob Keffer, who has been arrested.

Death Busy at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, April 19.—Mrs. Isabella Barker, relict of the late Mr. A. Alexander of this city and mother of Professor W. J. Alexander of University College, Toronto, died yesterday at her late residence in this city. She was in the 77th year of her age.

At the ripe old age of 87 years, Mrs. John Waugh, widow of the late Mr. John Waugh, carpenter, of this city, passed to her rest yesterday. Mrs. Waugh came to this city over half a century ago and has lived here ever since.

Mrs. Thomas Allison of this city died on Wednesday evening and the funeral will take place to-morrow.

At an early hour this morning, Mr. George Morton, sr., died at his home, No. [illegible]. The old gentleman was visited with a paralytic stroke on Saturday last and remained unconscious up to the end. He leaves a grown-up family, Mr. George Morton, the well-known barber of South John-street, and Mr. Emanuel Morton, the giant, being sons of his.

Forgeries in Marmora.

BELLEVILLE, April 19.—A note made by Jacob Lee Cook of Marmora for $3000 and endorsed by three good farmers was sent to the Bank of Montreal here to be discounted on behalf of the Tweed Bank. Mr. Richardson, manager of the Bank of Montreal, was suspicious and refused to discount the note. An enquiry having been instituted it was found that the endorsations were forgeries. It is said that the Traders' Bank, Madoc, has a similar note for $3000 and O'Flynn's Bank, Madoc, another for $900. Cook is the manager and proprietor of a cheese factory and has a good farm in Marmora. His credit was in every way good. Yesterday he disappeared. Every effort will be made to have him arrested.

Back to Durance Vile.

KINGSTON, April 19.—Allan Hersey, arrested a few days ago on a charge of having robbed the till at Catlin's restaurant, G. T. R. station, of $40, is an escaped prisoner from the Penetang Reformatory, whither he was sent four years ago from this city to serve a sentence of five years for larceny. A little over two years ago he escaped and went to the States. His return to the city and subsequent arrest for the larceny of the money mentioned reached the ears of the authorities at Penetang, and yesterday morning Mr. Murdoch, an official of that institution, arrived to take Hersey back. The prisoner appeared before the Magistrate and was handed over to the tender mercies of the official, who will convey him back to the home which he so abruptly left. Hersey is a sharp-looking youth, and when he saw Mr. Murdoch his first words were: "Is he after me? I don't like his looks." Since his return the young man has continually grown [illegible] so as to be in good shape for [illegible]. Although he has been away from the institution over two years, he will not have to serve the full time, according to the rules which govern that prison. He will have to serve but a few months.

A SCORCHER IN GOTHAM.

OVER $3,500,000 OF PROPERTY GONE UP IN SMOKE.

The Biggest Fire New Yorkers Have Witnessed in This Generation—One Man Killed and Several Injured.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The biggest and fiercest fire New Yorkers have witnessed in this generation swept the east bank of the North River shore to-day from 59th-street to what would be 65th-street if the street ran to the river there. It destroyed more than $1,500,000 worth of property belonging to the New York Central Railroad and at least $500,000 worth of stores of lard, flour and the like belonging to other persons, notably N. K. Fairbank, the great Chicago lard merchant; destroyed the two big elevators A and B of the Vanderbilt system, a big brick building stretching from 59th-street to 60th-street and occupied jointly by the Fairbank lard refinery and the Rossiter stores, and wiped out the dock property of the New York Central Railroad system from 59th to past 65th-street.

At least one man was killed in his headlong flight from the fire at the first outbreak. A number were injured by jumping from the windows of the burning buildings but in the wild terror of the conflagration no account was kept of them. The police have a record of the following casualties:

Henry Benning, a workman in Fairbank's refinery, killed by jumping from a third story window.

Rumors were flying round all the evening that a number of workmen had been caught and burned in the Fairbank refinery, but it was impossible to verify them. At least 250,000 people turned out to watch the brilliant sight from beyond the police lines on Twelfth-avenue. All the west side streets were blocked and the elevated trains carried swarms up and down town to swell the crowds. The police reserves were called out to preserve order. Every fire engine above 14th-street was called out, but the firemen fought against tremendous odds, partly owing to the nature of the ground, and their efforts were wasted. They made absolutely no impression.

For hours the wildest sort of a conflagration raged and for a time threatened to spread over a goodly portion of the city. The fire burned so furiously that the firemen were forced to abandon for frequent intervals positions advantageous for throwing streams of water on the burning buildings. The clanging of the bells of the engines mingled with the shouts of the firemen and the ding-dong of ambulances.

The fire originated in the five-story brick building which occupied the block from 59th to 60th-streets, facing the river front. It was 200 feet in width by 100 in depth. The walls were 20 inches deep and were constructed of the best materials. It was in the engine room of the Fairbank refinery, the old establishment of the W. J. Wilcox Company, one of the largest lard refining concerns in the country, that the fire broke out. Recently a new machine for cooling lard was built in this building, and it is understood that from this machine some lard boiled over and caused the fire. Soaked in grease as the old building was it was aflame in an instant. From the ground floor the fire swept upward to the roof.

The men at work in every story dropped their tools and ran for life. The stair hole was a glowing chimney spewing out fire. The windows were the only way out. They flung themselves out by scores headlong, and behind them burst the flames. How many were there no one could tell. Those who came out were picked up and carried away by friends. Crying wives and mothers crowded the police lines shouting for their husbands and sons or begging for news of them.

Within an hour and a half the entire section of the building occupied by the refinery was gutted. The northern section of the building, that extending to 60th-street, was occupied by the Rossiter Storage Warehouse Company. In it were stored about 1000 casks of ale and in the section occupied by the Refinery Company were thousands of barrels of lard material. This was all destroyed. A strong brick wall divided the building in the middle. Upon this wall the firemen hung their hopes for a half-hour of desperate effort. But the flames fed by molten lead leaped about and around it and reached across 60th-street and the slip. The walls of this structure fell with a frightful crash shortly before 4:30 o'clock and it was by a few seconds only that the firemen at work at the northern end escaped being burnt under the ruins.

Meanwhile the fire had burned so fiercely that grain elevator A, the biggest of the doomed elevators of the New York Central road, which occupies the water front from 60th to 61st-street, and which cost $300,000, had ignited and was well under way to be destroyed. Elevator B stood 800 feet farther up the river. Between the elevators on water front and Twelfth-avenue were first 27 rail road tracks which no fire engine could cross, and next the Union Stock Yards, a half acre of board enclosure and pens equally impassable. Between the enclosure and the tracks was a stone wall with a sudden descent of five feet. There was no way for a fire engine to reach the elevators except along 60th-street past the burning building, and that was almost impassable then and was soon to be blocked entirely.

Chief Shay telegraphed for the fire boats, for the Charity Commission's two boats and for the police boat Patrol. The Patrol was laid up for repairs, but the others responded. They came down with four or five tugs belonging to the railroad company and put their pumps at work to throw water on the threatened buildings. Soon every hose was playing and a select company of firemen directed operations.

It was almost impossible for any one but the firemen to approach within several hundred feet of the fire at this time. The building of the lard refining company and the Rossiter storage warehouse was still burning grandly in its ruins, and flames were shooting heavenward from the great grain elevator. Its two lower stories and foundation proper were built of brick, but the five upper stories were of slate and corrugated iron. When the outer covering rolled off—a great crackling crust—the flames shot upward for hundreds of feet and burning pieces of material blew in all directions with threatening force.

Details were sent to make an effort to save the elevator B. The falling walls and crashing timbers with the frightful heat rendered near approach dangerous and the firemen were repeatedly driven back.

[illegible] as the roof of elevator A fell in a [illegible] of flames dashed from the eaves of the adjoining elevator and as if fascinated by the flames dashed into the great glowing core of fire.

The docks and the sheds on the piers from 59th-street as far north as 64th-street were now a mass of flames. The approach of darkness added to the intensity of the scene. With the apparent helplessness of the firemen to check the conflagration the moment was decidedly tragic. The slaughter house of Mr. Eastman had caught fire and elevator B was by this time wrapped in flames. The fire boats were prevented from rendering efficient aid owing to the danger of taking fire if they came near the shore. When elevator B was partially destroyed the fire boats were enabled to run in between the docks and do some good work and at 4 o'clock the fire was under control.

The police estimates the damage at $3,500,000. No official statement could be obtained. At a late hour it was stated that four men were buried in the ruins of the refinery.

Window Glass Works Burnt.

FINDLAY, O., April 19.—About 11 o'clock this morning fire was discovered at one of the large frame buildings of the Canastota Glass Works at Bowling Green. A strong wind was blowing and the flames spread rapidly, consuming the entire plant including the big 20 pot house, packing house, storage house and several loaded freight cars standing on the Toledo, Columbus and Southern siding. Bowling Green has no fire department and nothing could be done to save the factory, which was completely destroyed in an hour. The entire plant was valued at $80,000 and owned by Canastota (N. Y.) capitalists. The plant was a grand success from the start about a year ago, and at the present time was shipping an average of four car loads of window glass per day. A hundred and twenty-five boys are thrown out of employment. The loss is a severe one to Bowling Green, which gave a large donation of land to secure the enterprise. The amount of insurance cannot be learned now. It is reported that the company will immediately re-build and will be ready to commence operations next year. The Canastota was the largest window glass factory in Ohio and at one time contemplated locating in Findley.

A Hotel Burnt.

OTTAWA, April 19.—The notorious resort in [illegible] known as Dube's Hotel was wiped out by fire last night. The hotel was the scene recently of great violence and disorder and the police had been closely watching it. The tenant was under a writ of ejectment for next Tuesday. Scarcely anything was saved. The hotel is a total loss, the stock and furniture nearly so. Values and insurances not known.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Ferdinand Werner, aged 60, was smothered to death last night in a fire that did $15,000 damage at Nos. 31 to 35 Centre-street. Six girls and three men were burned to death in this building on Christmas Eve, 1872.

The President Has Gone to Europe.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Many rumors are afloat about the affairs of the Callender Insulating and Waterproofing Company of Newark, N.J. It was reported that a receiver had been appointed. One report has it that there is a deficit of $[illegible]. It is conceded that President Callender has gone to Europe. James N. Nelson, the bookkeeper, was seen to-day and was reticent. He refuses to substantiate, although he appeared to recognize a statement which places the liabilities at $1,423,000 and assets at $737,000, and which declares that patents nominally worth $600,000 are actually worth nothing.

Mrs. Langtry's Cook Sues Her.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Mrs. Langtry is being sued by her ex-chef, Gustave Broche, for $200, unpaid salary. His lawyer, Louis Mathot, was unable to serve the summons in the case upon the Lily personally, and finally was obliged to secure from Justice McAdam an order allowing substituted service. The summons was left at the house Tuesday night, but as Mrs. Langtry is in Boston at present and does not expect to return to the city for seven weeks it is not known when she will receive it.

His Boston Girl Stuck to Him.

BOSTON, April 19.—When Alfred W. Edens, a reckless young real estate broker, arrested for forging a deed to two lots in Osceola, Fla., appeared in court a vivacious young lady caused quite a sensation by declaring that he was her lover, that they were to be married next Sunday night and that she proposed to bail him out, offering a mortgage of $1000. The young man's friends had always supposed he was engaged to a young lady in the South, where his family is said to be prominently connected. Edens is but a boy in appearance, but he attempted to swing some of the largest real estate deals of any out-of-town speculator in the city. He was agent here for J. T. Lancaster of Osceola, Fla. He was held in $2000 bail.

VINCENNES, Ind., April 19.—Sylvester Grubb was hanged to-day. On the scaffold he was asked if he had anything to say and responded that he had plenty to say but declined to open his mouth because there were so many reporters present. Grubb's neck was broken. At the Gibson County fair in September last, Grubb, in full view of several thousand persons, murdered Gertrude Downey, his sweetheart. They had quarrelled and the girl said she did not wish to keep company with Grubb any longer. He then shot her.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS.

General Payne's International Cup Which Lord Dunraven May Win.

BOSTON, April 19.—The following circular issued yesterday by the Eastern Yacht Club is the result of General Payne's offer to see that a cup for seventy footers is forthcoming:

A challenge cup for international matches between yachts not exceeding seventy feet water line measurement has been offered to the Eastern Yacht Club by one of its members.

At a meeting held yesterday the council of the club holding the opinion that the America's Cup represents the championship of the world, to be raced for by the fastest yachts within the prescribed limits, voted to accept the offer and now announces that a match of one or more races will be sailed for the above International Challenge Cup after the races for the America's Cup.

Previous to the offer of the cup assurance was obtained that the Valkyrie would compete for it.

Among the few yachtsmen as yet aware of the proposed races the above circular has created the greatest enthusiasm, for they see at last the probability of cup races in the East. Though no details as yet are settled, the sentiment of the club is in favor of Marblehead as the place for the races, and a strong effort will be made to have them there.

Predictions are made that the races for the new cup will be quite as interesting as those for the America's cup, and the possibility of a new seventy footer being built in the East is now being discussed.

The O'Connor-Searle Race.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Despatches received here to-day state that Henry Searle, Australian champion, and William O'Connor of Toronto, the American challenge oarsman, have been matched to row for $12,000, the champion challenge cup, and the single scull championship of the world. The stakes are the largest ever contended for by oarsmen. The race is to be rowed in England in September over the Thames course, four miles and three furlongs.

A Big Regatta Suggested.

CHICAGO, April 19.—A preliminary meeting of members of the Chicago Navy was held at the Sherman House last evening for the purpose of considering the advisability of asking the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, which body is to the East what the Mississippi Valley Rowing Association is to the West, to join the latter organization in a grand regatta this summer, the same to take place at Pullman in the latter part of July. Heretofore each association has held separate regattas.

A more largely attended meeting is expected on Monday next at the same place, when definite action will be taken.

Little Hope for the Polo Grounds.

ALBANY, April 19.—In the Assembly this afternoon the friends of the New York Aldermen managed to knock out Senator Coutant's bill allowing the New York Baseball Club to use the Polo Grounds for the baseball season. When the bill was reported favorably from the City's Committee by Mr. Crosby an effort was made to have it read immediately, but Messrs. Martin and Mahoney raised the point of order that no bill introduced after March 15 could take precedence of any bill introduced before that time without unanimous consent. They had their way and the bill went over with little chance of becoming a law.

After Jack McAuliffe.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Bill Reader, the English pugilist, who weighs 128[illegible], challenges Jack McAuliffe to fight with gloves for £[illegible] a side. Mr. George W. Atkinson of London, who personally cabled Mr. R. K. Fox the above intelligence, adds there is a "[illegible]" for McAuliffe.

SECRET VOTING.

MR. POWDERLY, General Master Workman of the Knights of Labor, was introduced to a Toronto audience as the most conservative representative of the labor movement on this continent. There is no doubt that Mr. Powderly is careful, but he can readily detect and scathingly expose a defect in the laws that should be remedied. On no point did he speak with stronger emphasis than he did in regard to the necessity for a secret ballot. In the United States the electors vote by ballot, but the system is very imperfect and secrecy is not preserved. Mr. Powderly argued that the system should be absolutely secret, and in that people generally will agree with him and will wish him and those who are advocating the use of a secret ballot success in their efforts.

But while the General Master Workman referred particularly to the United States, while speaking in Toronto he was in a Province that has a ballot system that, while it differs from that of the United States, is not secret. The voter receives his ballot paper, marks it unseen and may fold it carefully, yet it is so numbered to correspond with a number recorded on the books that the vote could be traced and the ballot paper examined. This should not be the case. Even if the ballots were carefully guarded by the proper custodians and never fell into other hands, the knowledge that the system is such that the way the ballot was marked could be ascertained may be used to influence or coerce an elector. In municipal and in Dominion elections the ballot is absolutely secret, and there can be no reason for the Ontario system in Provincial elections that would not apply to the Dominion and municipal elections, yet Mr. Mowat and his supporters refused to amend the law and voted down a proposition that the ballot should be secret. The Ontario Government has found the present system so useful for its purposes that it refuses to change it, although it is an imposition on the people. If the Government obtained no undue and unfair advantage through the ballot system not being secret, why does it refuse to amend it? Mr. Mowat, his colleagues and supporters will not yield any advantage they possess, no matter how unfair it is, how unjust to the people or how much a change is required or would be in the interest of justice.

NORWOOD NEWS.

An Interesting Case Regarding a Diseased Horse.

A VERY interesting case was tried before Justices Finlay and [illegible] on Friday last, says the Register, the leading points of which were about as follows:—In February last Mr. Thos. Howson, of this village, had a horse taken sick with what appeared to be a very bad cold. The veterinary surgeon, Dr. Stevenson, fearing contagion, ordered the horse isolated, and another horse, belonging to Mr. Ben. Howson, though kept in the same stable was not near the horse that was sick. When the disease developed Dr. Stephenson pronounced it glanders, and ordered the horse to be shot. The other horse was subsequently sold to Mr. David Kelly, a buyer for the Montreal market. At the time of the sale this horse seemed to have a slight cold, which, after it was sold by Mr. Kelly in Montreal, developed into glanders, the same disease that its mate was destroyed for in the winter. The man who purchased the horse naturally sought to recover the price of the animal from Mr. Kelly, and he, in his turn, sought to recover his loss from Mr. Howson. The point of law was whether Mr. Howson was responsible for the loss of the horse, it being clearly proved that he was not aware at the time of the sale that the horse was glandered; and the principal point in collecting evidence was, had the horse the glanders when sold to Mr. Kelly. When considerable evidence had been taken the case was adjourned to Tuesday afternoon, when it was settled without a decision being given from the Bench, Mr. Ben. Howson refunding the price of the horse, and paying the expenses incurred, and each paying his own costs of the court. No blame whatever can be attached to Mr. Howson in the matter, and, as the loss to Mr. Kelly has been fully met, Mr. Ben. Howson is the only one who suffers pecuniarily. The court ordered that this horse also be destroyed.

Mr. David Mim, a gentleman who was well known in town, died in Toronto last night, where he lately has been residing. The deceased gentleman was a victim to the dread disease, consumption. He has been for over ten years engaged as confidential secretary to Mr. Geo. A. Cox, a position which he held until the time of his death, although for some time past he has not been actively engaged in the duties of his office. He was a young man of a very quiet and unassuming disposition, but was a favorite with all with whom he came in contact, and many were the expressions of sorrow to be heard when the sad intelligence of his death became known among his many friends in town. The deceased leaves a wife and family who will have the sympathy of their many friends in their bereavement, as also will his father and relatives who reside in town. He was a member of Peterborough Lodge of Oddfellows and the funeral will be held under the auspices of the Order to-morrow afternoon. The body will arrive here this evening from Toronto.

Our Hats are Inimitable

Every day now adds its emphasis to the judgment of gentlemen as to the beauty and excellence of our spring Hats. They're buying them. They're not doing it without having first compared and decided that ours bear away the prize for shapeliness and quality as well as for faultless making and moderate prices. Gentlemen are critical when it comes to getting a light weight Hat. They are a necessity in these spring days—a necessity in which they esteem style as essential. Witness the demand for our Genuine Cooksy, Woodrow and Elwood Celebrated Zephr weight Hats made especially for us. There is something peculiar and inimitable about the gracefulness of our Hats.

A WORD ABOUT OUR CLOTHING DEPARTMENT, THIS SPRING:

Never in the history of the trade has such an Array of Fine Clothing been placed before a buying public. Our Stock this Spring embraces all the LATEST DESIGNS and PATTERNS, and as they were made under our own special supervision, the workmanship is of a superior quality. Notwithstanding all this our prices will be found Lower than ever. When we came to you as the Revolutionizers of the Clothing Trade, we promised you then that we would benefit the public, and now after a long trial have we kept our word? If so, let that be our best guarantee to the public, that we deal honestly and squarely with them in the future. We are not so egotistical as to believe that we please every one (our Divine Master when on earth did not please everyone), still to those who we did not please, as well as those we did please, we sincerely return thanks for past patronage. As we are not infallible we are prone to make mistakes and our judgment like any human being's may err in buying. Still we try to avoid errors, as much as possible, and therefore it is our proud boast when any one has a grevience we never refused to make it right when brought to our notice. This spring we are going to REDOUBLE OUR ENERGIES, and by keeping GOOD GOODS, NICE GOODS, SQUARE DEALING, and EXTREMELY LOW PRICES, we hope to merit a Contiuance of your Generous Patronage.

The Place to Buy.

The public are well aware that Elliott & Tierney's is the place to get the best Value in Groceries; their goods require no puffing. The bargains in all lines of goods are wonderful. Call at the Palace Grocery for square dealing and good articles at lowest prices. A full line of Vanderem & Holmes (New York) biscuits, very fine goods.

P.A.A. Improvements.

The directors of the P. A. A. intend making considerable improvement in their grounds this season and although the season is still very young the prospects are most bright and encouraging. Among other improvements which will be made the track is to be re-cindered and a tennis court is to be laid out and nicely sodded, so that those who have a weakness for a "racket" can enjoy a game under most favorable circumstances, as the court will be a first-class one. Changes will also be made in the dressing-room and booth, and everything will be in first-class shape for this season.

Worth Reading.

No young man or woman should attempt to make business his or her life calling without first having some previous training. At no institution can this be better given than at the Peterborough Business College. The enterprising proprietors are having the roller rink fitted up in the most modern style and are adding to their staff a penman, who cannot be excelled in this important art. No other college offers such advantages as the Peterborough Business College. The attendance, instead of decreasing at this season, is gradually increasing, which is a sure proof of success. d2&f

GOOD FRIDAY.

Services in the Different Churches Well Attended.

Good Friday was very quietly spent in town, a Sabbatical stillness prevading the community. Church services were all well attended, both during the day and in the evening.

There was large attendance at the services at St. John's, both at eleven a.m. and seven p.m. A number of beautiful hymns were rendered throughout the services appropriate to the occasion, the congregation entering heartily into the singing. At the evening service "The story of the Cross" was sung. In the afternoon there were about one hundred children, together with their parents, present at the service, which was conducted by Rev. C. B. Kenrick and were of a most profitable nature.

THE METHODIST.

At the George-st. and Charlotte-st. Methodist churches services were held in the morning, when good congregations turned out. At George-st. the choir rendered a couple of very beautiful anthems, and the pastor, Rev. M. L. Pearson, delivered an able sermon on "The Trial and condemnation of the Saviour."

ST. PETER'S.

The three services at St. Peter's, at eight in the morning, three in the afternoon and seven in the evening, were attended by large congregations. In the evening Rev. Father McEvay preached a sermon on "The way of the Cross."

Police Court Pencillings.

The enlarged Carter piano case will probably be disposed of on Monday next.

George Henry, the proprietor of the [illegible] hotel on George-st., appeared at the Police Court this morning and pleaded not guilty to a charge of a breach of the [illegible] Act. Mr. E. B. [illegible] was present for the prosecution and [illegible] appeared for the prisoner. The witnesses failed to put in an appearance and the case was enlarged until five o'clock this afternoon.

Fred Jacks, a twelve-year old lad, was given a lecture and some good advice by the Magistrate in regard to the bad habit of stone throwing on public streets. Fred threw a good-sized stone across Hunter-st. on Thursday night and struck the plate-glass window in Taylor & Macdonald's drug store, almost shattering the entire window. The lad was brought to the Police Court and will probably be more careful in future.

Y.M.C.A. Notes.

Tonight, Saturday evening, at 8 p.m., a meeting for young men will be held. There will be good music and singing, led by the Y.M.C.A. orchestra, and short addresses.

Sabbath evening at 8.15 there will be a gospel and song service. A short address will be given by Mr. O. C. Rowse.

On Thursday evening a reception will be tendered to the young men of the town by the Association. Refreshments will be served in the reading room from 7 to 8 p.m. by the committee of ladies of the different churches, after which a choice programme of music, instrumental and vocal, will be given by the Y.M.C.A. band and members of the association. Addresses are expected from Messrs. T. S. Cole, Travelling Secretary, T. B. Utley, General Secretary, Lindsay, and pastors of the churches. Young men are earnestly invited to be present. Cards of invitation may be had from members of the reception committee and at the rooms from the acting Secretary. This will be an evening of pleasure for all who attend.

An adjourned meeting of the ladies committee will be held on Monday afternoon at 3 p.m. in parlor. All friends desiring to assist with provisions will kindly send the same to the hall not later than 3 p.m. Thursday afternoon, where they will be thankfully received.

Civic Committees.

The Finance, Fire, Water and Light, and Manufacturing Committees of the Town Council met on Thursday night and did some little business, which will be reported at the next meeting of the Council. The Water and Light Committee considered the [illegible] the position of a dozen new hydrants.

Welcome Speakers.

While the active committees have made ample preparations for the tea and platform meeting in the George-st. church on Tuesday evening, the people generally have shown [illegible] interest in it and the tower fund [illegible] a large number of tickets [illegible]. Rev. Messrs. Tovell and Wallace, [illegible] Mr. Geo. A. Cox, of Toronto, Rev. Mr. Dewey, of Lindsay, and others will give addresses, and the meeting promises to be a pronounced success.

Local Talent in Lindsay.

An organ recital was given by Mr. J. S. Parker, organist of St. Paul's Church, in the Cambridge-st. Methodist Church at Lindsay last night, which was most successful. The programme consisted of some fourteen numbers, comprising, besides Mr. Parker's organ renditions, three vocal solos by Miss Vair, of town, and three selections by the Lindsay Octette Club. The brilliant playing of Mr. Parker was, needless to say, greatly enjoyed and Miss Vair's singing was also highly appreciated.

The Annual Visitors.

The tramp nuisance is now in good running order, these travelling gentlemen of leisure being quite numerous of late. Last night a couple of them rested their weary forms on the hardwood sofa in the police cells, and on Thursday night three of them made themselves unusually obnoxious at the C. P. R. station. The two came in on the 11.30 express, having occupied an uncushioned seat on the rear of the tender of the engine. When the express stopped here they jumped off, just to stretch themselves, and when the train began to move again they sought to return to their seat on the bumper, but the conductor threw them off. They then decided that the waiting room of the station would do them for a bedroom, and refused to [illegible] notwithstanding the protests of the station men. The police were finally telephoned for, but when Constable [illegible] arrived at the station the [illegible] had left the [illegible] for Ashburnham, where they spent the night on the green, green grass.

THE COMPETITIVE SYSTEM

A COMMERCIAL SYSTEM WHICH IS AN EVIL TO THE WORKINGMEN.

Mr. A. W. Wright Gives a Three Hour Address in the Opera House—The Workingman's Condition, and the Causes of Wealth and Poverty—A Clergyman Regrets [illegible]

In compliance with the request of General Master Workman Powderly, a mass meeting of the workingmen was held in the Opera House on Thursday night. The meeting was held to allow the workingmen an opportunity of listening to Mr. A. W. Wright, of Toronto, one of the members of Executive Board and a leader in the Knights of Labor. The workingmen did not turn out in as large numbers as was to be expected, still there was a fair audience composed entirely of workingmen.

A CLERGYMAN'S REGRET.

Mr. Richard Calvert, Master Workman of the local Assembly, was in the chair, and after opening the meeting with a few remarks, he read a letter of regret from the Rev. J. C. Davidson, which stated that the rev. gentleman was unable to attend as every minute of his time was occupied, although it would have given him great pleasure to have listened to what the objects and aims of the Knights of Labor were. This letter was sent in reply to an invitation which was extended through the press asking all the local ministers to be present at the meeting.

Then the chairman introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. A. W. Wright.

A THREE HOUR'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Wright's address was a very able one and occupied almost three hours. He spoke of the present condition of the laboring classes and pointed out at length the two main causes—land monopoly and usury—which led to this condition. In opening he explained the cause of the absence of District Master Workman Elliott who was engaged at Ottawa in sending out the report of the Labor Commission, a report which they were anxious to have in the hands of every Knight of Labor. He said they hoped they would get more important legislation as a result of the labors of this commission, but it would have to be by their own exertions. He said he intended to speak of the objects and aims of the Knights of Labor, but would first dwell on the reasons why workingmen should organize to bring about a better condition for themselves. Some thought that higher wages and shorter hours were going to better their condition, but, he said, they knew by experience that this would never do it. The letter from the clergyman suggested the thought "Can you better the condition of men by changing their Sundays?" He believed with the new school of political economy that it was a man's environment that determined his character rather than the internal influence. A great deal could be done by the latter, but all could not be accomplished. A man who was born on the steppes of Tartary or on the plains of Africa could never rise to the same level, mentally and morally, as they had, if left in their own surroundings. Therefore, he said, any movement that was to change a man's character must be in the way of changing his surroundings. Make better, his home more beautiful, and by so doing they would take away the tendency to evil. The Knights of Labor said that any system, law or custom which stood in a man's way physically, morally or mentally, should be removed. They were called an anti-poverty organization and so they were, and they traced the cause of that poverty to the competitive commercial system. There were three kinds of poverty, physical, moral and mental poverty. Physical poverty not only meant a lack of daily wants, but also included that which caused a man's body to deteriorate and, he said, there were children who were born into the world under conditions which made it impossible for them to have physical wealth. Then mental poverty was the poverty of mind, and moral poverty was that which made a man, for instance, intemperate. This intemperance had a cause. Many of their temperance friends made the mistake of saying that drunkenness was the cause of poverty, but he would be forced to differ with them, for he believed that poverty was the father and not the child of drunkenness. If they wanted to make men temperate or moral they must change their condition. Then the speaker referred to the increased facilities for the production of wealth. He said some people said it was due to the invention of labor saving machinery and the discoveries of science. Well, if this was the case, he asked, what should have happened. The workingmen should have been enjoying twenty, thirty or fifty per cent. more of the world's wealth or else be working far shorter hours. But this was not the case, and the only reason that could be given was [illegible] which were [illegible] that wage-saving machinery. Capital, as they all knew, had never made an invention, labor had made them all, but nevertheless and any system that allowed capital to own labor's invention, was not in the spirit of justice or fair play. Workers were now working with machines and were working more hours than they were two hundred years ago, and in many cases were not as well off as they were then. He said that there had been a great increase in the production of wealth but that increase had been gathered by capitalists. He then dealt with the arguments that were advanced by those who held that the workingman's condition under the present system of competitive trade was better than that of former days. He pointed out the causes which political economists alleged were to blame for the increase of wealth on one hand and abject poverty on the other. [illegible] panics and so-called over-production. These, he said, were both the results of stupidity. He pointed out that it was not "over-production," but "under consumption" that caused these periods of destitution and hard times. He then dealt with another reason which was advanced as a cause of the increase of wealth and poverty on either hand, namely, that labor was subject to the law of supply and demand. They admitted that this was the case so long as the competitive commercial system existed. He dwelt on this law of supply and demand at great length, dealing with the political economists who said that this law would allow the wages to fall to the minimum on which it was possible for a man to live, but no lower. He said that many men were to-day receiving

CAPITAL OWNED THEM ALL,

LESS THAN A LIVING WAGE.

He said they did not deny this, and they had to thank the trusts and combines which were showing them that this law of supply and demand could be mastered. He said he hoped these combines would put the screws on so tight that it would become unbearable, for the workers had almost to have their brains knocked out before they would see that they were being robbed of all they produced. The political economists asked them to suggest a remedy for these evils if they existed. The Knights of Labor knew something of their cause. The evils existed under Protection and under Free Trade, so that neither of these was the cause and so could not be the remedy. They existed under a Republican government and a despotism, so neither of these could be the cause or the remedy for them. He pointed out two great causes—land monopoly and usury. He referred further to the results of the competitive system which made it to the interest of every man to get the best of the bargain with his fellows. The Bible said "Do unto others as you would be done by," but now-a-days the rule was "Do your brother before he does you." He spoke of the condition of the young women employed in so-called philanthropic institutions in Toronto who received only $1.50 a week and had to find themselves a room and one meal every day and three on Sunday, and who were forced to choose between starvation on this wage or prostitution. Then he showed the working of this iron law of labor—that of supply and demand—and set it plainly before his audience by

AN ILLUSTRATION.

He took four men—a man with a wife and five children, a man with only a wife, a bachelor, and the Italian. He supposed the first man to have a job, when along came the man with only the wife to keep and he could underbid him, and he would get the job. Then the bachelor came along and as he had no wife to keep he could underbid No. Two and so he would get the job. But then came the Italian who understood cheap living and he could underbid the bachelor and so he got the job. But it did not stop there. The bachelor thought he could live as cheaply as the Italian and began to practice economy in living and he underbid the Italian and got the job back. Then the man with the wife also practiced and the wife goes to work and he is enabled to underbid the bachelor to the extent of his wife's wages and so he again secures the job; but then the man with the five children puts his wife and five little ones to work and is thus enabled to underbid the man with only a wife. Thus they had the man working for the minimum wage, but they had the women out of their homes, and the homes broken up, and he asked them how they could expect in a self-governing country to have an intelligent people if the mothers were out of the homes and the children were taken from the homes and sent into the workshops and factories. He said all children came into the world with the image of God stamped upon them, but when they were put into this sweat bag of supply and demand that image of God was forever erased from their faces. He said the employers were to blame and they (the workingmen) were the employees. He told them their was one machine which they could control, and that was the machine that eats and wears clothes. If they organized these men then they could control the market, and they should always make it their business to see that the goods they bought were labeled as having been made by men who had received a proper wage. This was the only way while the competitive system existed to control the market. Land monopoly and usury were the two main causes of the workingmen's condition, and they could not make these impossible while the competitive system existed, and therefore they should make this competitive system impossible. The way he proposed to do this was by giving the government the control, as it had of the postal service, of railways, the gas companies, the coal mines and telegraph services. In closing he spoke a word to the Knights of Labor urging them to build up their order with good and sound men only and to spread the principles of the order. He also urged them to bring the women into their organization, for all great movements and reforms had been largely brought about by the influence of women.

At the close of the lengthy address Mr. Robt. McGregor moved a vote of thanks to the lecturer, which was seconded by Mr. Geo. Ball in a short speech in which he spoke of what the Knights of Labor had accomplished.

Mr. Wright briefly acknowledged the expression of thanks and the meeting closed with three cheers for the Queen.

CHINA HALL

CHINA GLASS and QUEENS WARE

Immense sums have been paid for rare specimens of antique China. Think of $500 being given for a china plate—crockery at that. Consider $[illegible] as the market value of a set of 12 pieces of common ware. [illegible] a cup and saucer and in the other hand the $2.00 that the cup and saucer brought at a Parisian auction. Truly, the craze of collectors for rare specimens of Palissy ware, has given fictitious values to many an insignificant piece of crockery. We certainly think it is a comfort to think of [illegible] paid for a hawthorn jug that would barely hold a quart of milk. These are prices that astonish, but the curious side of the question is that at China Hall you can secure full sets of China that will grace any table for so little money that anyone can afford the outlay. Not only China, but good substantial dinner sets fit to set out the table of an M.P. or Mayor. Come to CHINA HALL and see what money will do. You'll not have to spend the value of six first-class farms for a China Tea Set.

BEAUTIFUL JIM.

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER.

"[illegible] that is altogether out of the question," said Tommy, in a relieved tone and with [illegible] air about him.

"Yes, I'm sure it is," said Jim, "for Miss Meeking simply would not look at you now. All the same, I don't think your sister would stand you marrying any body; she wouldn't think it right to let any lady go blindly into such a thing as a marriage with you would be. Least of all would she allow your marrying one of the Leslies, so you had better let your attentions cool off in that quarter."

"I can't see what difference"—Tommy began, when Jim cut him short.

"Do you think you are fit to marry any good woman?" he asked. "Why, you know as well as I do, that if any one of the Leslie family had the least idea of the truth, they would shun you as they would shun a leper. You know it; so be warned in time, and be sure that your sister would never allow a marriage with one of them to take place without fully acquainting Mr. Leslie of your past. I dare say it is hard [illegible] fall heavily on those who commit them, and very properly too. And I'll tell you, Earle, the very first thing you've got to do to make your life better than it is now, and your mind easier—that is, get rid of the false idea you've cajoled yourself into believing of Owen's death being an accident; it was no more an accident than my asking your sister to marry me was an accident, so the sooner you acknowledge the truth to yourself and try to conquer that cowardly temper of yours, the better"—and with these words Jim got up and unlocked the door, as an intimation to Tommy that the interview was at an end.

CHAPTER XXIV.

THE LAST OF POLLY ANTROBUS.

But Beautiful Jim soon found that Tommy was incorrigible. True, warned by the threat conveyed in his sister's message, that young gentleman had almost entirely ceased his visits to the Leslies' home and his attentions to the blithe and bonny daughters thereof; but apparently his mind had quite (as a general rule, that is to say) thrown off the events of the past, and he was having just as good a time as he had ever had. Only he was careful, unless Beautiful Jim was safely out of the way, to confine his flirtations to the married women, to whose houses—being such a mere boy—he was always welcome.

[illegible] about this time Polly Antrobus' [illegible] off, and [illegible] with [illegible] ceremony transformed [illegible] of Skelton house, [illegible]

[illegible] of it as such, although everybody in Blankhampton [illegible] to witness it, and freely discussed the [illegible] from the bald spot on the back of his large head to the squat, flat feet on which his squat, flat, little body was supported.

And everybody discussed poor Polly, with her face of living agony and her pretty, soft blue eyes staring out from the soft frame of her snowy veil, and full of a great unspeakable [illegible] of pain and [illegible], [illegible] as if she had been some [illegible] [illegible] under a [illegible] [illegible] women of [illegible], who had been a child and had grown up to the full perfection of her beauty among them. Poor Polly! poor

dear Polly! with that brave morning's fine [illegible] passed away from the old city which had known her as a pretty child, as many and many a girl had done before her, to be henceforward little more to it than a name—to be "[illegible]" viewed by the general public through the somewhat uncertain [illegible] of her mother's oily descriptions. Poor Polly! She was not [illegible] the last pretty girl that [illegible] married in Blankhampton in [illegible], alas! I fear there may be many another to come.

It had just struck the quarter before 12 when she came, looking lovely it need hardly be said, dressed in white from head to foot, plain, simple and severe, from the hem of her long gown to the snowy tulle which half hid her golden head, her only ornaments a cluster of orange blossoms near her throat and an enormous bouquet of delicate and rare white blossoms in her hand.

"And not a single one of the superb jewels we've heard so much about," whispered one in the crowd to her neighbor.

"Oh, I dare say they're like To-To's grand marriage—all imagination!" was the reply.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

Bradstreet's and Dun Wiman's on the State of Trade.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's report moderate gains in the distribution of staple goods at Baltimore, Kansas City and Pittsburg. There is a good average business doing at Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans. The outlook for wheat, cotton and corn is bright. Mercantile collections have improved at Pittsburg, Detroit, Chicago, Burlington, St. Joseph and New Orleans. San Francisco has shipped 187,000 bushels of wheat to Australia this year and tonnage for 200,000 bushels more has been engaged. Good Friday observances have curtailed the volume of business somewhat this week, and at New York the centennial inaugural celebration will further check the volume of wholesale trade.

Country produce and building materials are more active at New York, with prices tending upward. Building is active and the demand for materials is 20 to 30 per cent. in excess of last year. Trade in furniture, machinery, naval stores, fruits, leather, rubber, paper, paper stock and cans is quiet. Liquors, paints, jewelry and boots and shoes are fairly active. Prices of furniture, naval stores and crude rubber tend downward.

Stock speculation at New York has been dull and mostly of a professional character, with downward tendency, owing in part to the coming centennial celebration. Bonds have advanced slightly, call loans are 3 to 3½ per cent. and demand sterling is firm at $4.88½ to $4.89. Net railroad earnings of eighty-seven companies for February aggregate $10,000,000, against $9,500,379 last year.

Sugar advices from primary sources are stronger and prices of raw are ⅛ to 7 1-16c. higher, holders of raw declining contracts at current rates. Crop estimates are less encouraging. Arrivals were 14,230 tons heavier this week. Stocks at the four distributing points of the United States are 53,000 tons, against 144,000 tons a year ago. There was a heavy demand for refined early in the week, which was followed by a stiff advance amounting to ⅛c. on the week. The price of sugar is declared to be not yet abnormally high.

Coffee prices in speculative lines have been fairly supported, although holiday observances in Europe and at home have checked trade. Rio is unchanged on the week. Jobbers are awaiting a revival of demand from their customers.

The breadstuffs market is weaker and lower, the trading in wheat is of smaller volume and prices are off ⅝c. on increased stocks afloat and unusually favorable western crop outlook. Flour is weak in sympathy and prices are shaded. Indian corn forms an exception, with an advance of 1⅛c. on reduced offerings and better foreign demand. Oats are ⅛ to 1c. lower. Hog products and lard is dearer.

The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Dun, Wiman & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade will say: It is still the fact that most of the indications usually considered of value point to a genuine improvement in business, though moderate in amount and rather in volume of transactions than in profits. Yet in some directions the outlook grows less satisfactory every week and the disappointment and uncertainty in a few important branches affect all trade in some degree. Crop prospects brighten steadily. Lower prices result in largely increased exports. Money is abundant, the treasury is pouring out freely and there are no signs of pressure from abroad. Railroad earnings are increasing and payments through banks, yet failures in some important branches of trade are numerous. Collections are generally slower than usual.

Business failures during the last seven days number for the United States 211 and for Canada 35, a total of 246 against a total of 230 last week and 222 the week previous to the last. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 195, made up of 177 in the United States and 18 in Canada.

A Paleolithic Man.

GAINESVILLE, TEX., April 19.—A strange discovery was made yesterday by a citizen in the northwestern district of this county. Having occasion to sink a well, Mr. Scott selected a spot in a valley near a ravine of great length, and which during heavy rains is transformed into a raging torrent, depositing in the valley [illegible], gravel and other debris. After reaching a considerable depth, and while in a formation of limestone gravel that had been formed almost uninterruptedly from the earliest days, Scott came upon the vertebræ and ribs of an animal. The ribs were about the size of a small pig's and rapidly tapered. When unearthed the remains were found to be those of a man of gigantic stature, whose body tapered like a serpent. Near the bones of the man's right hand was found a rude stone hatchet, which is said to be similar to the handiwork of the Paleolithic man.

All on Board Lost.

NORFOLK, Va., April 19.—An unknown vessel went ashore Wednesday night near Life Saving Station No. 21. All on board were drowned and the vessel went to pieces.

Pittsburg's Hot Day.

A Winnipeg Highwayman.

WINNIPEG, April 19.—There was a daring attempt at highway robbery in Main-street late the other evening. R. Gourlay, a driver of the Street-Car Railway Company, left the station with the last car. He had no passengers. Before he got far on his way a man jumped on to the front of the car and caught at his throat, and said "hands up." The driver, not realizing what his assailant was driving at, shoved him off the car, thinking that he was drunk; but he jumped on again, drew a revolver and again requested Gourlay to throw up his hands. Gourlay swung the brake around suddenly, again knocking the would-be highwayman off the car, and then he proceeded on his journey. He was not further molested.

Our Hats are Inimitable

Every day now adds its emphasis to the judgment of gentlemen as to the beauty and excellence of our spring Hats. They're buying them. They're not doing it without having first compared and decided that ours bear away the prize for shapeliness and quality as well as for faultless making and moderate prices. Gentlemen are critical when it comes to getting a light weight Hat. They see a necessity in these spring days—a necessity in which they esteem style as essential. Witness the demand for our Genuine Cooley, Woodrow and Ellwood Celebrated Zephr weight Hats made especially for us. There is something peculiar and inimitable about the gracefulness of our Hats.

MORRISON A PRISONER.

THE OUTLAW LODGED IN SHERBROOKE JAIL.

Constable McMahon of Montreal Captures the Fugitive in a House at Marsden—A Brief Fusilade.

MONTREAL, April 21.—Donald Morrison, the Lake Megantic outlaw who has defied the whole force of the Provincial Government for over twelve months, was captured this evening by a constable from Montreal.

The Government failing in their attempts to arrest him for the murder of a United States Marshal named Warren at Lake Megantic appealed to the Mayor of Montreal and he sent out a force of city police headed by Judge Dugas. These men were ten days in the woods without success, though Morrison persuaded Dugas to hold an interview with him, but no terms could be arranged. Yesterday all these police except five were recalled and returned to the city.

To-day one of the Montrealers, Constable McMahon, saw a man answering Morrison's description enter a house at Marsden, and after watching the house for several hours went up and demanded that the man come out.

He did so, but instead of obeying the policeman's order to throw up his hands he drew his revolver and fired three shots at McMahon and his Indian companion.

Quicker than a flash they placed their rifles in position and brought the outlaw to the ground with a wound in his hip. Assistance soon arrived and the captured outlaw was taken to Sherbrooke Jail by special train.

PHILIPS STILL IN JAIL.

Judge Desnoyers Again Refuses an Application for Bail.

MONTREAL, April 21.—In the Maloney-Phillips case to-day the clerk read over the deposition of F. W. Ellis in the Maloney case and Mr. Ellis affirmed that it was equally true in the case of Phillips. Some further evidence was given in reference to the booty taken and the recovery of jewelry, and the case was adjourned till Tuesday.

Lawyer Greenshields thought that Harry Phillips should be given a chance to do his Easter duty and be let out on bail for that purpose. Judge Desnoyers, however, declined, saying there was a good chapel in the jail.

Von Rohmer has [illegible] the protection offered by Judge Loranger, but there is no likelihood of his arrest.

SHOT BY A BURGLAR.

A Gang of Professionals Operating at Winnipeg—Bank [illegible] at Moosomin.

WINNIPEG, April 21.—The gang of professionals which recently arrived here made [illegible] jewelry house being visited. A clerk named Hunt heard them and going out of the room saw a man on the stairs who retreated. Hunt followed when the burglar stopped and grabbing him and holding him against the wall fired, the ball passing through Hunt's left arm, and inflicting a slight wound. The burglar then fled and Hunt chased him [illegible] the [illegible] were called but could find no trace of the desperadoes.

Henry Constantine, son of the inspector of Mounted Police at Moosomin, accidentally shot himself yesterday while handling a rifle and died from the effects of the wound.

Sir Charles Tupper arrived yesterday from [illegible]

The impression out west is that the recent attempted robbery at Indian Head existed only in the imagination of the operator.

The bylaw to raise $14,000 to erect a new market here was carried yesterday, 97 to 15.

A Postoffice Robbed.

PEMBROKE, April 2.—The postoffice here was entered and robbed last night. An opening was made into the back vault large enough for a man to crawl through, and everything in the shape of money, stamps and registered letters is said to have been taken. The amount of the loss is not [illegible] reported taken. Two suspicious-looking parties who were [illegible] lately are believed to be the robbers.

LONDON NOTES.

George Fryer's Downfall—Cruelty to Horses—An Amorous Veteran.

LONDON, April 21.—The Glasgow express robber, George J. Fryer, now in jail here, attributes his downfall to his wife's extravagance. Her outlays were more than his income could bear, so he made up the deficiency from the company's cash. Discovering her unfaithfulness, he determined to leave her, but at her dictation he wrote a letter announcing that he had gone with another woman. Some time afterwards he got a newspaper containing a report that she had married a [illegible] and on the strength of that report he married again. [illegible]

Charles Wright, a gypsy horse trader, was arrested Saturday night for cruelty to animals. The case is of a most brutal character. He was in the habit of tieing strings round horses' tongues to make them go. On Saturday a crowd gathered around a horse [illegible] from its mouth. The crowd attracted the attention of a policeman, who found that the horse's tongue was nearly cut off with a string. He immediately arrested Wright and locked him up.

James Constantine, formerly an inmate of Mrs. [illegible] Home on South-street, went back there yesterday and asked for a girl there as a servant. As soon as [illegible] he threw his arms around her [illegible] her. A policeman was called in and Constantine was arrested.

THE SEVEN HUNDRED SAFE

THE DANMARK'S PASSENGERS AND CREW UNHARMED.

Part Landed at the Azores, Whence They Have Arrived at Lisbon—The Others on Board the Missouri.

COPENHAGEN, April 21.—A telegram from Lisbon announces the safety of the crew and passengers of the steamer Danmark. The tidings reached Lisbon from the Azores.

Taken Off by the Missouri.

LISBON, April 21.—Forty-two of the crew of the Danmark have arrived here. Mr. Rahon, the first officer, who is among them, reports that on April 4 the Danmark's shaft was broken. On the next day the disabled steamer met the steamship Missouri, from London March 28 for Philadelphia and Baltimore. The Missouri towed the Danmark until April 5, when the latter seemed to be about to sink. As first the Missouri was only able to take on board 20 of the Danmark's passengers, but after having jettisoned a portion of her cargo she found accommodations for all the crew and passengers of the Danmark.

The Missouri then proceeded to the Azores and left there the first and second officers and 320 passengers. She then continued her journey to Philadelphia with 340 passengers and the remainder of the crew. The captain and three engineers of the Danmark left the Azores on April 14 for London on board a steamer from Demerara.

The Danmark was about 800 miles from Newfoundland when the accident happened. Some say that the engines broke down. Engineer Kaas was found dead in the engine room after the accident.

LATER.—Forty-two sailors and all the passengers left at the Azores by the Missouri came to Lisbon on the steamship Acor.

The death of the Danmark's engineer was due to the bursting of an engine pipe. The engineer was killed on the spot and the ship was badly damaged. In consequence of this damage, together with the breaking of the shaft, the vessel was helpless in the heavy seas that prevailed.

The Missouri's First Trip.

NEW YORK, April 21.—The steamship Missouri is a new vessel and this is her first trip from the other side. She is in the carrying trade between London and Philadelphia.

ON TO OKLAHOMA.

The Coming Tide Still Rolling on—20,000 Already Across the Line.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., April 20.—More than 10,000 settlers have crossed the line within the past three days and the coming tide keeps rolling on. To-morrow 5000 will arrive by railroad and wagons if the latest advices from the north and east are reliable. A dispatch received here to-day by the Guthrie Town Site Company from Secretary Noble reads as follows:

"The law restricts town site entries in Oklahoma to 320 acres each. Actual cases will be decided as they arise, on the application to district land offices after the agencies are opened for business."

No Liquor to be Sold.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., April 20.—Marshals Jones of Kansas and Needles of the Indian Territory, who are in authority over the Indian Territory and Oklahoma, were in this city today and announced that they had instructed their deputies to confiscate all liquors taken into the territory.

Boomers Who Avoid the Main Trails.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 20.—A dispatch to The Star from Arkansas City says that it has been estimated by ranchmen that from 500 to 1000 boomers will have made an illegal entrance into Oklahoma before noon of April 22.

The telegraph company is preparing for a tremendous day's business on Monday. It has been estimated that there will be 100,000 words of special dispatches from Oklahoma on the day of the opening.

Stage Robbery Near the Border.

FORT SMITH, Ark., April 20.—A rumor was received here this morning that the stage running between Wagoner and Walker, on the southern border of Oklahoma and on the bank of the Canadian River, had been robbed late Thursday night. The driver jumped into the river after being shot through the arm and swam across. He walked to Walnut Creek and stated that his passengers, consisting of two men and a boy, were in the hands of robbers and the coach had been burned.

Thirty Boomers Prisoners.

CHICAGO, April 20.—A dispatch from Purcell, I.T., regarding the reported conflict between deputy marshals and boomers, says thirty boomers were taken prisoners, seven being wounded. One deputy was slightly hurt.

[illegible]

PURCELL, I.T., April 21.—On Tuesday [illegible] Arnold, who reside in the Choctaw [illegible] near this place, started with their teams for Oklahoma. A rumor has reached here that three of them were killed on the road. The report is that they attempted to pass other boomers on the road, which resulted in the fight for the right of way. Albert, Ward and Jones Arnold being killed. It is not stated whether any one was killed on the other side. The Arnolds are part negro and are well known as railway [illegible].

CABLE NEWS.

Socialism Recrudescent in Germany—Emperor William's Hatred of the French.

BERLIN, April 20.—Herren Liebknecht, Grillenberger, Schumacher and Harmare are involved in the prosecution impending against 108 Socialists as members of a secret society. The prosecutions do not impede the electoral preparations of the Socialists, who are feverishly active throughout the empire. Everywhere new workman's associations are forming, and already numerous candidates have been selected. A striking characteristic of the movement is the spread of the canvass beyond towns into the country. Short electoral fly-sheets, written in a clear style, denouncing landowners are widely distributed among the peasantry. The police have arrested Socialist agents engaged in the propaganda at Edinburgh, Pomerania, and seized enormous quantities of American revolutionary leaflets. The Munich Allgemeine Zeitung says South Germany has never witnessed anything like the present recrudescence of Socialism, the aim of which is to influence the peasants and smaller land owners with a view to obtaining their suffrages in the coming election.

Prince Bismarck in consulting with the Emperor on overtures from the Vatican for the appointment of a nuncio at Berlin found unflinching opposition, the Emperor even declining to consider the nomination of a certain archbishop to fulfil the functions of nuncio. The Vatican hoped that the presence in the capital of a high Catholic dignitary would overshadow the humbler Protestant clericals and give eclat to the Church, as such a dignitary would figure in some degree as a primate. Prince Bismarck is credited with a willingness to assent but the Emperor's prejudices are unconquerable.

The Emperor in ordering the trousseau for Princess Sophia, sister of the Empress, who is to be married to Prince Frederick Leopold, and that of his own sister, Princess Sophia, who is to be married to the Duke of Sparta, stipulates that they shall be entirely of German manufacture and specially forbids the use of any French silk, lace, linen or other material. All the members of the Imperial family will make presents of jewelry, which have been ordered in Germany.

The squadron which will accompany the Emperor to England consists of the ironclads Baden, Bayern and Oldenburg, the corvette Irene, which will be commanded by Prince Henry of Prussia, and the Aviso and Wacht. Admiral Kalle commands the squadron. The imperial yacht Hohenzollern will convey the Emperor to Spithead.

The arrangements for the visit to Berlin of Emperor Francis Joseph have been stopped. Since her sojourn at Ischl the condition of the Empress has slightly improved. Professor Krafft Ebing, an expert in nervous diseases, who attended the Duchess of Cumberland while she was insane, has charge of the Empress. He predicts a gradual amelioration of her condition. Meantime Her Majesty passes whole days without speaking or moving. If the Empress improves she will go to Wiesbaden, but if her disease becomes aggravated preparation will be made to take her to Styria.

The Catholic Congress at Vienna will open on April 29. It is expected the congress will proclaim the necessity of the re-establishment of the temporal power of the Pope and declare the right of the Church to direct schools to the exclusion of state interference.

The syndicate of the Vienna corn market has decided to abandon the international congress of grain merchants. This congress has been held for fifteen successive years, drawing a host of visitors and a large amount of capital. The syndicate alleges that the insults which the populace heaped upon the large number of Jewish dealers have rendered necessary the removal of the annual market to Pesth.

The East African Association has elected Herr Vohsen, the German consul at Zanzibar, a director in place of Dr. Peters. Dr. Peters, it is said, will soon return. Captain Wissmann refuses to sanction the Emin relief expedition and no porters are obtainable.

The supreme ecclesiastical council has forbidden Chaplain Stoecker to speak at political meetings.

An Error of a Vowel.

LONDON, April 21.—Lord Rosebery's answer to Lord Hartington is simple but curious. All Lord Hartington's comments, and all the criticisms and queries of the last few days, are due to the error of a single vowel. Lord Rosebery was reported in all the papers as saying: "Home Rule is distinct from the national and historical argument, and is simply a matter of devolution." What he did say was: "Home Rule, as distinct from the national and historical argument, is simply a matter of devolution." The correction upsets a whole library of conjectures respecting a new departure by Lord Rosebery, Mr. Gladstone and the Liberal party generally.

Birmingham's Troubled Waters.

LONDON, April 21.—Mr. Chamberlain has written a long letter in reply to the charges against him in connection with the Birmingham election. He alleges, but does not prove, that no binding compact existed between the Liberal-Unionists and the Tories to accept Lord Randolph Churchill for a candidate. He has against him the positive statement of Sir Joseph Sawyer, of Mr. Rowlands and of other local Tory leaders. For him appears only Mr. Powell Williams, who [illegible] Mr. Chamberlain in politics. Lord Randolph himself has been telegraphed to—he has been fishing in Scotland—and replies that the allegation that he would not accept an invitation to stand is absolutely inaccurate, and that Mr. Rowlands' statement is quite true. So Mr. Chamberlain will have to write another letter. He and his friends, by way of pouring oil on the troubled waters of Birmingham, have passed a resolution that the recent victory is mainly due to the Liberal-Unionists. The Tories, who think that they polled four out of the five thousand votes given to Mr. Bright, received this in a temper which you can imagine.

Thus it becomes more and more probable that this quarrel may spread far beyond Birmingham, and may result in an open collision between Mr. Chamberlain and the Tories. The Liberals accordingly look on with a smile which threatens to become a grin. For these and other good reasons the Liberals are spending their Easter holidays in a contented spirit. Mr. Gladstone went to church at Hawarden yesterday, thousands of pilgrims looking on and touching hats as he passed. The thousands of pilgrims appear to have made long journeys for that very purpose.

Riotous Strikers in Vienna.

VIENNA, April 21.—There was serious rioting in this city to-day arising out of the strike of tram-car drivers.

Egyptians Defeated by Soudanese.

SUAKIM, April 21.—A force of Soudanese today attacked and defeated a party of Egyptians from [illegible] a fort to Fort Hatch. The Egyptians lost 16 killed and wounded. They were forced to take refuge on the steamer [illegible] and have returned to Suakim.

A Bloody Riot.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 21.—The trouble between the Minneapolis Street Railway Company and its 600 odd employes, who went out on strike ten days ago against a reduction of wages, culminated in a bloody riot, in which upwards of 20 persons, including 20 policemen, were more or less injured, two fatally.

U.S. BOODLERS IN CANADA

HAVE MORE REASON THAN EVER TO BE UNEASY.

Prof. Weldon's Bill Transferred to Government Orders—Three Important Bills Put Through Committee.

OTTAWA, April 20.—The House had a Saturday sitting to-day, the first of the session. The uneasiness of the colony of United States boodlers in Canada will not be at all allayed by the action taken with reference to the bill of Professor Weldon of Albert to extend the list of extraditable crimes. Sir John Thompson moved that the bill be transferred to Government orders.

Hon. Mr. Laurier said the details of the bill would occasion a very long discussion and it might be well therefore to leave it over to next session.

Sir John Macdonald said there was great moral impatience on the part of the people of Canada to put an end to the inflow of rascality from the United States. Cynics might say we had enough rascality of our own, but it was well to tell the world that we don't want either these people or their ill-gotten gains. He thought the bill so unobjectionable in principle that it would meet with but little opposition, but if its details were likely to lead to protracted debate it would then remain for the House to say what disposition should be made of it.

Hon. L. H. Davies thought the Imperial authorities would not allow the proposed act to come in force. He knew it would meet great opposition in the House.

Mr. Charlton endorsed the Premier's contentions.

Hon. David Mills objected and said there was a big heap of constitutional questions in the way of the measure.

Sir John Macdonald then pointed out that both England and Canada were anxious to enlarge the list of extraditable offences, and that whatever delay had taken place in this direction was due to the action of the American authorities. By passing the bill we would inform England and the United States that Canada is anxious to have the extradition treaty enlarged, and this would have a beneficial effect.

The motion then passed.

When Hon. John Costigan's bill to further amend the Inland Revenue Act was before the Committee of the Whole Mr. Davis moved an amendment permitting brewers in the Northwest to manufacture 4 per cent. beer, that strength being now imported for sale by special permit. The motion was lost without division, and the bill adopted.

When the bill to amend the General Inspection Act was before the committee Mr. Davis moved to increase the number of inspectors of grain standards from 9 to 11, so as to give the Northwest representation on the board. The amendment was accepted by Mr. Costigan and the bill agreed to.

The bill amending the Copyright Act was agreed to after some discussion on the powers of Parliament to enact such legislation, and on Sir John's statement that it would not come in force until it had received Imperial assent.

After recess the debate on the resolution respecting the proposed subsidy for the Atlantic steamship service was resumed in committee of the whole. Some opposition was offered by Ontario members on the ground that the improved service would not be of sufficient advantage to offset the increased expense. Colonel O'Brien held that the country should not pay $500,000 to gratify St. John or Halifax. He wanted a class of vessels that would give farmers cheaper and faster freight service. Six-day ocean steamships such as proposed were of advantage only to the rich, to the class who used Pullman cars on the railways.

Mr. Paterson of Brant held that the people of the Upper Provinces were bound to use New York as a more expeditious port than Halifax or St. John, but Prof. Weldon and Mr. Shanly showed that with a reasonably fast mail train to meet the incoming boats the passage from England to Toronto would take less time via Halifax than via New York.

The evening discussion was mainly devoted to a discussion of the relative advantages of St. John and Halifax as the winter terminal port. A few minutes before midnight the resolution was adopted by the committee and the House adjourned.

The Missing Link.

OTTAWA, April 21.—Sir John Macdonald has given notice of a resolution affirming the expediency of the building by the Government of the proposed line of railway between Harvey and Salisbury and asking an appropriation this year of $[illegible] towards that object. The line to be built is about 120 miles long and passes through a country rich in unworked coal beds. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company have long been pressed to build this link as part of their short line but have declined. It will make Halifax about 25 miles nearer to the Upper Provinces.

A Georgetown Fire.

GEORGETOWN, April 20.—Shortly before [illegible] o'clock last night a fire broke out in the dwelling house of W. R. Brown, wagonmaker and implement agent. The fire had attained considerable headway before it was discovered. The members of the family were soundly sleeping, and when aroused barely escaped with their lives. Mr. Brown's loss is heavy. It includes his dwelling, wagon shop and contents, implements and a new wagon and two other dwelling houses owned by him and occupied by R. Black, Geo. Errington and M. Newton, the contents of which were partially saved. Insurance about $1000, in the Glasgow and London and the Wellington Mutual.

Sentenced to Death.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Grace Smallwood, a small, weazened colored woman, was to-day sentenced to be hanged Oct. 11. She murdered her illegitimate child at its birth by tying a shoe string around its neck. Her mental condition is open to doubt. In passing sentence the court said it had reason to believe executive clemency would interfere to prevent its execution. This is the first time since Mrs. Surratt's trial that a woman has been sentenced to death in the District of Columbia.

A Father's Terrible Crime.

ADDISON, N.Y., April 20.—Frank Hancock, employed as fireman in the mill of Waite & Atwell at Blue Run, Pa., was found dead this morning between 6 and 7 o'clock, having hung himself in a bedroom of the shanty he occupied. In a bed in the same room lay the bodies of his four children, two with their throats cut, the other two stabbed in the heart. The eldest was 10 years old. The youngest child, aged 4, was still alive when the horrible discovery was made, but has since died.

Explosion of an Oil Tank.

LIMA, O., April 20.—One of the large iron tanks of the Standard refinery exploded this afternoon and scattered oil in every direction. The tank contained 40,000 barrels of distilled oil. The oil ran down and filled the ditches along the Chicago and Atlantic road, which made it necessary to bank the fires of locomotives while passing the grounds to prevent a large conflagration. The loss will reach $40,000. No one was injured.

Running Under Police Protection.

ST. PAUL, April 20.—During the afternoon a large number of street cars were kept [illegible], one or two policemen being in charge of each. About 50 Kansas City men have arrived to take the places of strikers. Some of them claimed to have taken advantage of the free transportation offered to reach this city and did not go to work.

PROPOSED LINE OF ACTION.

The "Citizens' Committee," of Toronto, Issue a Call for a Convention.

The Citizens' Committee of Toronto, have prepared the following address to the people of Ontario on the subject of the Jesuit Estates Act:—

To the People of Ontario:

The passing of the "Act respecting the settlement of the Jesuit Estates" by the Quebec Legislature, following the incorporation of the Jesuit Society, compels all who love their country to take earnest thought as to the most effective means of maintaining our civil and religious liberties and preventing the encroachments of ecclesiastical authority.

We emphatically disclaim any desire to interfere with the free exercise of their religion on the part of our Roman Catholic fellow-citizens. The influences to which we are opposed threaten the rights of Roman Catholics no less than of Protestants. Were claims like those advanced in this Act to be put forward on behalf of any Protestant Church or its rulers, we would unhesitatingly take the same stand on behalf of freedom from ecclesiastical domination.

The grounds on which we protest against the Act in question are mainly the following:—

(1) It recognizes a right on the part of the Pope to interfere in the administration of our civil affairs, which is derogatory to the supremacy of the Queen and menacing to the liberties of the people. There can be no mistaking such language as the following:—"The Pope allows the Government to retain the proceeds of the sale of the Jesuit Estates as a special deposit, to be disposed of hereafter with the sanction of the Holy See."

(2) It places $400,000 of public funds at the disposal of the Pope, for ecclesiastical and sectarian purposes—an appropriation of public money contrary to the whole spirit of British and Canadian legislation, unjust to the Protestant minority in Quebec, and subversive of the religious equality which ought to exist.

(3) It permits the withdrawal of the whole of the proceeds of the Jesuit Estates, valued at over two millions of dollars ($2,000,000), with the exception of sixty thousand dollars ($60,000), offered for Protestant education, from the educational fund of the Province, though these estates had been devoted by the Crown "inviolably and exclusively to the education of the people."

(4) In granting the common of Laprairie by way of commemorating what the Procurator of the Jesuit Fathers terms "that glorious concordat, the effecting whereof would be associated with the name of your (Mr. Mercier's) Government as soon as the Holy Father has ratified it," the Act opens up a wide field for future demands on the part of the Jesuits. The Procurator states the claims which he anticipates from the "concordat" in the following terms:—"That is, that the establishments of the Jesuit Fathers in this Province are always allowed in accordance with their deserts, and, if they ask for it, to participate in the grants which the Government of this Province allows to other institutions to encourage teaching, education, industries, arts and colonization." Undoubtedly, therefore, we have not heard the last of the claims of the Jesuits!

Our profound conviction is that this Act is unjust, unconstitutional and disloyal, and that the endowment of a society which has been expelled from one Roman Catholic country of Europe after another; which was "absolutely and forever suppressed" by Pope Clement XIV. on grounds of morality as well as expediency; which was disqualified to hold property by Imperial Act in 1774, and which has been felt to be an intolerable evil in every country in which it has been established; is a measure fraught with serious peril to the peace and integrity of the Dominion.

This Act is not an isolated occurrence; it is but a somewhat startling development of the policy by which Ultramontanism has sought to control legislation and to secure ecclesiastical ascendency in the Government of this country.

The question at issue is not simply one of constitutional law. Even if it could be shown that the Legislature of Quebec acted within its powers in passing this Act, it would not alter our conviction that such legislation is perilous to the peace and welfare of the Dominion, and that on grounds of public policy it ought to be strenuously opposed. At the same time we are convinced that the arguments advanced to show that the Act is unconstitutional have not been successfully combated. It is to us a matter of deep regret and concern that the Dominion Government has announced its intention not to disallow the Act; and the gravity of the situation is greatly increased by the fact that the House of Commons has not intervened in any way for the protection of the interests which are threatened. Without impugning the motives by which members were influenced in voting, the fact remains that the two great parties in the House of Commons have combined to prevent any interference with the operation of this pernicious Act.

The matter dealt with in the Act, so far from being "one of Provincial concern only," is one in which the whole Dominion is deeply interested. If one member of the body politic suffers, all the members suffer with it. The rights of the Protestant minority in Quebec are our rights. The dishonor of Quebec is the dishonor of Canada. If we are correct in asserting that this Act is derogatory to the supremacy of the Queen and menacing to the liberties of the people, then it concerns the honor of the whole Dominion to have it set aside. While Provincial legislation should not, without urgent reason, be interfered with, it would be pressing the policy of non-interference to a point fatal to the unity and well-being of the Dominion to maintain that the Central Government must stand helplessly by and allow measures such as that under consideration to become law.

We appeal to the people of Ontario to rise above party, and consider the gravity of the issue here presented. While recognizing the importance of other matters before the country on which public opinion is divided, our clear conviction is that this question should take precedence of them all. We do not aim either at antagonizing or promoting any political party, but we urge men of all shades of political opinion to recognize the supreme importance of maintaining unimpaired our heritage of civil and religious freedom, and to unite in taking the wisest and most energetic steps to undo the mischief which has been wrought.

We suggest that action be taken without delay on the following lines:—

(1) That petitions be presented to the Governor-General in Council asking him to disallow the Act. It is our conviction that the vote given in the House of Commons does not truly reflect public opinion, and that it may not be useless to bring influence to bear on the Government by exercising the right of petition.

(2) That steps be taken to have the constitutionality of the Act properly tested in the Courts.

(3) That such an organization be formed, and such measures adopted, as shall ensure united political action for the purpose of securing and maintaining perfect religious equality throughout the entire Dominion, and preventing ecclesiastical dictation in public affairs.

It has been decided to call a convention from all parts of the Province, to be held on Tuesday, 11th, and Wednesday, 12th, days of June, with the view of forming a Provincial organization by which the great objects set forth in this address may be advanced. It is hoped that from every city, town, village and township in Ontario representatives will be sent to take part in the Convention. We further express the earnest hope that similar action will be taken by the other Provinces of the Dominion, and we shall be prepared gladly to co-operate with the sister Provinces in securing ends which are of unspeakable importance to the whole country.

Every important interest of the people commends and sanctions this appeal. The sense of right, the love of peace, the hope of progress in all that makes a country truly great, the determination to maintain the liberties handed down to us from our fathers, all combine to urge us to sustained and strenuous resistance to the malign influences which threaten the well-being of our country. Our prayer is that the God of nations may guide us to the choice of measures which shall be for the lasting welfare of the land.

THE CONVENTION.

The following suggestions for the appointment of delegates to the convention are respectfully offered by the Citizen's Committee:—In order that the proposed convention may be a thoroughly representative one, it is suggested that meetings be held in every municipality in the Province to appoint delegates. It is further suggested that delegates be selected in the proportion of not fewer than four for each township municipality, two for each incorporated village, ten for each incorporated town and twenty for each city. The convention will doubtless find it necessary to take steps for raising a large amount of funds in order to carry out the objects proposed, but inasmuch as considerable expense will necessarily be incurred previous to the convention and in connection therewith, it is desirable that contributions should be freely forwarded to J. K. Macdonald, Esq., 15 Toronto-st., Toronto, Treasurer of the Citizens' Committee.

NORWOOD NEWS.

A Fire During the High Wind—Father Conway's Easter Offering.

Correspondence of the Review.

FIRE.—During the high wind of Sunday a dwelling on Belmont-st. owned by Mr. John Harper, sr., and occupied by Mr. J. Squire, took fire and for some time proved to seriously endanger the safety of that portion of the village. It is supposed that a spark from a neighboring chimney started the fire, which, singular to say, caught under the front door, on the outside. It was discovered only when the fire had reached the roof on the inside. The family were at dinner when neighbors reached it after some sharp work managed to get control of the fire. As a fearful wind was blowing it was a critical time as had not the fire been extinguished the upper portion of the village, built principally of wood, must have been swept away. The house will need repairing before it can be used again. Some of the household stuff was broken in removal, and carpets, etc., damaged by water.

COLLECTION.—At St. Paul's R. C. Church, on Easter Sunday, the collection, Father Conway's Easter offering, amounted to $140.25.

The Death of an Aged Lady—He Knew Where to Apply.

Correspondence of the Review.

DECEASED.—Mrs. Mary Burnett, aged 75 years, passed away peacefully on Thursday morning, 11th inst. The deceased lady had been a sufferer for over two years, during which time no murmur was heard from her, and her gentleness and patience endeared her to her surviving relatives who ministered to her wants. Her body was laid to rest in the English Church burial ground, Apsley, beside the remains of her husband, whose death she survived four years.... Mrs. Lawson, sister of Mrs. Burnett, is dangerously ill.

WANTED.—One of our townsmen received the following per post card from a well known village "out front":—"If you know of any good boy that wan'ts to learn harness making, tell him I want a boy, a boy that don't drink or run around nites. I want a good boy." The enquirer evidently knows where material is to be sought.

BERWICK, Ill., April 21.—As a mixed train on the Central Iowa Railroad last night was going over the bridge at Cedar Creek, a wheel broke and two cars were hurled into the creek and took fire, burning the bridge. Only One of Its Kind.

Indiana, among other distinct features, is the proud possessor of the only successful skunk ranch in the world. If there are any other skunk ranches now on a paying basis I have not yet visited them. The domestication of this little rhododendron has so far been left to Mr. Joseph Lininger, near Huntington. He has a ranch there of this kind, and goes into society very little indeed, I am told. Few go to see him, and his groceries are handed over the fence to him by means of a fishing pole.

Skunks are most prized for their fur and also their oil. The oil is not used on salad, as many suppose, but as a remedy for croup. Skunk's oil is worth ten cents an ounce, and the contest between a tablespoonful of it and a case of croup is said to be entirely one sided. Mr. Lininger began with fourteen of these animals. He now has several hundred of them, and can buy any of the adjoining farms at his own price.

Last summer he used to go to church at Huntington every Sunday morning, but this year the church is paying him $5 a week to pray in secret.

The skunk is said to possess strong affection for the human being, but in most instances it is not returned. The skunk resembles the elephant in one respect, viz., because he cannot climb a tree.

Mr. Lininger [illegible] this little animal does not require [illegible] little is of the very pl[illegible] an offal eater after [illegible].

The one which supplies the little [illegible] with his all pervading scentiments may be easily removed, says Mr. Lininger, and then the animal is as harmless and even more devoted than the common house cat. Possibly that may lead to the general adoption of the animal as a house pet some day, and along with the stingiest building our house will be filled with delight. Then the New York landlord who cannot let us have a house if we are injudicious enough to be parents and publicly admit it can let his high stoop brown stone front to a poodle dog infirmary or a skunk aquarium, and thank heaven that he is not encouraging American children in our great metropolis.—Bill Nye in New York World.

The Man with a Big Head.

Senator Sawyer tells a good story on himself. There was a man up in the Oshkosh country of the name of Hutchinson, who was a great boaster. If he cut one log of wood he would be sure to report a hundred, and if he saw a dozen blackbirds sitting on a stump they would be a thousand before he told about them in the nearest saloon. One season he did some logging for Mr. Sawyer, and for his pay received a check on the Northwestern National bank for $129, payable to his order. Mr. Hutchinson had never had such an experience before, and he showed the check to his friends with a great deal of pride before he took it to the bank to get it cashed. When he did so the teller, of course, made him write his name on the back of the paper, and that was an incident of still greater importance in Mr. Hutchinson's life. Then he went to his home in the woods, and said to everybody whom he met on the way:

"Old Sawyer can brag as much as he's a mind to about his money, but the bank made me indorse his check before they would cash it for him."—Washington Cor. New York Tribune.

His Case the Saddest.

"This is the seventh time within two hours that you have asked me when the train left for Lansing," replied the policeman at the Third street depot to a young man with a satchel.

"Is it against the law?"

"No, but it is rather annoying to me."

"Well, if it annoys you how do you think I must feel about it? The fare is $2.60, and I've got to think of some way to get out there on $1.30."—Detroit Free Press.

Scott Act Charge Dismissed.

"The Insurance and Finance Chronicle," Montreal, says:—That Mr. Lister who brought the charge in the House of Commons against the Manufacturers Life, little thought that he was the means of giving the company a grand advertisement, for when Sir John A. Farm and Dwelling Sold.

There was a large representative attendance at the sale of Dr. Kincaid's property on Saturday afternoon. The private residence on the corner of George and Murray-sts. was soon knocked down to Mr. Wm. Yelland at $4,000. The farm south of the town was sold en bloc to Messrs. W. R. King and Samuel Thompson, of Douro, for $12,000. This is considered cheap property. The mortgages have been fully met, including all expenses.

A Mammoth Canoe.

The Ontario Canoe Company are now building a canoe of extraordinary dimensions, the largest that has been turned out for some time. It is a veritable ark, a regular passenger boat. The dimensions are 35 ft. long by 52 inches beam, and the capacity is estimated at 18 persons. The canoe is for the Toronto Canoe Club and will be used as a club boat. When under paddle the crew sit two abreast, eight on each side. The craft will be taken to the Sugar Island canoe camp, on the St. Lawrence, and is expected to create a sensation.

Worth Reading.

No young man or woman should attempt to make business his or her life calling without first having some previous training. At no institution can this be better given than at the Peterborough Business College. The enterprising proprietors are having the roller rink fitted up in the most modern style and are adding to their staff a penman who cannot be excelled in this important art. No other college offers such advantages as the Peterborough Business College. The attendance, instead of decreasing at this season, is gradually increasing, which is a sure proof of success. dtf

The Last of a Departed Brother.

The remains of the late David Sloan were followed to their last resting place in the Little Lake Cemetery yesterday afternoon by a very large and respectable funeral cortege. The last sad rites were solemnized under the auspices of the I. O. O. F., the deceased having been an old member of Peterborough Lodge, No. 111. The members of the two local subordinate lodges turned out in large number and, headed by the Fire Brigade Band, together with the Canton which appeared in uniform, paid their last respects to their departed brother. The floral tributes which were laid on the casket were very beautiful, including a handsome anchor sent by Mr. G. Cox, a wreath from his brother Oddfellows, an anchor from his fellow office associates and several other beautiful offerings from private friends. At the cemetery the interment took place with the solemn and impressive ceremony of the Order.

CHEMONG LAKE RAILWAY

WILL BE OPEN IN TIME FOR THE EXCURSION SEASON.

An Excellent Proposal Regarding the Chemong Lake Park—A Joint Stock Company and an Hotel—The Railway Wharf at the End of the Line.

The railway company is making preparations for running trains on the Chemong Lake railway, which was built almost to completion last year. Something has to be done and a wharf will be constructed. This work will be completed in time for trains to be running by the opening of the excursion season.

The timber for the wharf is being got out by Mr. W. S. Kelly, of Bridgenorth.

will be L shaped. It will extend 180 feet into the lake and will be built 35 feet west, giving 125 feet of wharfage. At the end of the wharf there will be nine feet of water, which will be ample, as the Esturion, one of the largest vessels on the lakes, draws only five and a half feet. The wharf will be twenty feet wide. It will be built of solid crib work filled in with stone, and with a floor of three inch plank. The front extension will be constructed on different levels, so as to accommodate crafts of varying sizes. The railway track will be built down the east side of the wharf, and a light will be placed on the outer corner. It is also proposed to erect a small pavilion on the end of the dock to accommodate passengers using the boats, and this will be a convenience that will be appreciated. The station will be rebuilt and the necessary sidings for the traffic will be laid.

A large amount of traffic is expected for the road when the wharf is completed. It will be drawn principally from Harvey, Ennismore, Bobcaygeon and North Smith. It is expected that there will be a in lumber, posts, square cedar and cordwood, besides the ordinary commercial traffic that will find its way over the line.

There is a good picnic ground at the end of the line on the lake shore, which will attract parties, and the route to Chemong lake and through the connecting waters will no doubt be a popular one for excursions. On Jacob's Island, at the entrance of Pigeon lake, Mr. Bottom intends to erect a pavilion for such parties.

The Chemong Lake Park.

The Chemong Lake Park has heretofore been a popular place for picnics, large and small, and as time went on its popularity increased, although it could only be reached by the inconvenient means of horses and vehicles. When this railway is opened this beautiful park may be reached by means of the railway and boats. A swing will be put in the bridge at Bridgenorth, and boats will be able to run from the new wharf to the Park. But a and one that would be more welcome, is likely to be carried out. We understand that last year the railway company offered to run a line to Bridgenorth if they received a bonus sufficient to pay for the right of way from the present line to the Park. The enterprising owners of the Park have offered to pay for the right of way, and it is altogether probable that the railway will accept the offer and that, with a station at or near the Park, it will be the most popular summer resort [illegible], attracting not only the people of Peterborough, but tourists and others in search of recreation from long distances.

This Park includes seventy-five acres of land. Its beautiful situation, on the shores of Chemong lake, is well known to most or all of our readers, many of whom have enjoyed the cool breezes, the grassy plateaus and slopes, and the silvan shade of the Park. Half of it has been laid out in lots, but thirty-five or forty acres have been reserved with a view to utilizing them as a public resort. If the railway is built to the Park, will be erected, and a wharf, boat houses and bathing houses will be built, and the grounds will be so improved that the fame of the Park will extend. As it is, a number of citizens have built cottages there, and with the easier means of access the great popularity of the resort would be assured. There can be no doubt that the building of the two miles of railway from the present road to the Park would draw a large amount of passenger traffic over the line, while it would increase the commercial traffic.

If the railway is built the owners of the Park intend to form a joint stock company to build the hotel and control the Park, and the best men available will be placed at the head of the company and in direct control. Always receiving a refreshing breeze from the lake, and with its natural shade—and, also, which is worthy of notice, the absence of the pestering flies that trouble other resorts—Chemong Lake Park is a beautiful place to resort to during the heated season, and the proprietors of the place are deserving of encouragement in their efforts to make it more accessible.

A Sudden Death.

John O'Connor, generally known as "Black Jack," one of the well known and old residenters in this county, died rather suddenly in town yesterday. The deceased man has been living lately with some relatives in Otonabee, and drove into town on Saturday in his usual health, and was in the Hub saloon when he was taken ill. He was placed in bed, and medical assistance called but his time had come and yesterday he passed over to the great and silent majority. Apoplexy is assigned as the cause of death. The deceased has lived in these parts for about forty-nine years, and at one time owned a good farm, and was worth a little money.

Personal.

The Cobourg Sentinel-Star says:—"Mr. R. J. Salisbury has accepted a position in the wholesale book and stationery house of C. M. Taylor & Co., Toronto, and left this week to fill it. We wish him success."

Mr. M. M. Boyd, of Bobcaygeon, who has been suffering from a severe attack of congestion of the lungs, is hoped to be in a fair way for recovery.

We are pleased to learn, says the Cobourg Sentinel-Star, that our townsman, Hon. Sidney Smith, who has been dangerously ill for some time at the residence of his son-in-law, in Toronto, is much improved, and hopes are entertained of his soon returning home.

Y. M. C. A.

The meeting for young men on Saturday evening was well attended and is growing in interest and members. On Saturday evening Mr. O. G. Bowes delivered an earnest and practical address from Mark [illegible]. Every seat was occupied and great interest manifested by all present. Our reception on Thursday is intended to bring our young men together for the purpose of enabling them to see for themselves what are the aims and advantages of the Y. M. C. A. There is quite a demand for invitations. Our young men should apply early to the Reception Committee for them. Messrs. Early, Miller, Armstrong, Bean, Bennett, Gordon and Colville are at Cobourg attending the Y. M. C. A. Conference.

EASTER SUNDAY.

Services at St. John's and the Other Churches.

Yesterday was Easter Sunday and special services were held in several of the local churches.

ST. JOHN'S.

At St. John's the usual Easter services were [illegible] yesterday [illegible]. The neat and pretty stone structure which occupies such a beautiful site on Hunter st. presented a beautiful and pleasing appearance within. There had been tasteful eyes and busy hands at work on Saturday decorating the sacred edifice, under the supervision of Mr. H. Long. The windows were filled with choice flowers and green foliage and moss, and the archway to the right of the pulpit presented a beautiful sight, with its pyramid of plants of all descriptions. The handsome new pulpit which has just been placed in the church was used for the first time yesterday morning. It is finished in an excellent manner, and has a very improving and ornamental effect on the appearance of the church while at the same time doing away with a long-felt and desired want. It cost, with the fixtures, about $125, and on either side of the minister is a beautiful brass gas standard, which were the gift of Mayor Stevenson.

Upon occupying it for the first time yesterday morning, Rev. Mr. Davidson prefaced his sermon with a few remarks referring to the pleasure at the offering the congregation had made to [illegible] the people in the church, an offering which had been made to God, for the furtherance of His Kingdom among them and for the glory of the Father, Son and Holy Spirit. The singing throughout the service was excellent, and the beautiful Easter hymns and anthems were rendered in a manner which could not fail to make an impression on all present. The congregation was a large one and all seemed to enter into the spirit of the services with fervor. Rev. C. B. [illegible] read the [illegible] lesson and Rev. J. C. Davidson, M.A., delivered a brief and appropriate sermon from the words:—"[illegible] saw that the stone was rolled away."—Mark xvi, 4.

The rev. gentleman said how beautiful and whole-souled must have been the joy of the disciples on that first Easter day and he then referred briefly to the last aspect of the closing scene in the Saviour's life, the overcoming by Him of that last obstacle which they could not overcome. This came to them as a message at the Easter time, a message to members of the congregation and a message individually and personally. In a few earnest words he impressed the tidings of the text, "the stone is rolled away," upon his hearers and told them they should do as the women had and they would see what those women saw. They should continue their journey, think not of the ponderous stone, but journey on and [illegible] would be there to see the stone rolled easily aside, moved by the hand of Almighty God, which was still as able to roll the obstacle away as on that first Easter day.

ST. LUKE'S.

St. Luke's church was beautifully decorated with flowers yesterday in honor of the Easter festival. The Rev. C. Warren officiated at Morning Prayer and the Rev. Mr. Walsh took charge of the evening service. There were large congregations at all the services. The Rev. Mr. Warren officiated at St. John's church, Lakefield in the evening.

The annual vestry meetings will be held at St. John's and St. Luke's churches this evening.

ST. PETER'S.

At the Cathedral yesterday morning three masses were celebrated, at 6, 8 and 10.30. At the last His Lordship Bishop Dowling pontificated. The singing at this service was special and the choir acquitted themselves excellently. Mozart's "Kyrie" and "Gloria," and Farmer's "Credo" and "Sanctus Magnus Dei" were sung in a grand manner, the solo parts being taken by Misses Dunn and McFadden (soprano), Miss Mahony (alto), Mr. Geo. Ball (tenor) and Mr. Jas. Coughlin (bass). At vespers in the the evening two handsome new statues of St. Joseph and the Virgin Mary were blessed by His Lordship Bishop Dowling.

AMONG THE OTHER CHURCHES.

At George-st. Church yesterday morning, Rev. M. L. Pearson delivered a special sermon appropriate to the day, taking for his subject "The first Easter Morn." In the evening after the sermon the rite of baptism was administered to some eight or ten adults, and after the service a reception service was held, when about twenty-five persons were given the right hand of fellowship.

The Endeavor Society of the Charlotte-st. Church meets to-night for the election of officers.

The Society of Christian [illegible] of St. Paul's Church, holds its first regular meeting to-night.

A meeting of the young people of the George-st. church will be held this evening at eight o'clock for the purpose of organizing a Young People's Christian Association.

Fulljames' Death.

A murderer, Brown, at Moorhead, under sentence of death, confesses that he shot and killed a man named Benton Casey at Hillsboro one week after the prize-fight in which Fulljames was killed. Before the murder Casey admitted that he had killed a man with his fist a week before, and that the man was Fulljames.

Bravely Done.

On Saturday night what might have been a serious runaway was happily prevented. Henry Reid, a farmer from Douro, was driving up George-st., with a team of horses attached to a democrat, and when just in front of the City Hotel the horses took fright by part of the harness giving away and started up street at a furious rate, when two young men sprang from the sidewalk and seizing the horses by the head and bravely clung to them and succeeded in bringing them to a stand still. Mr. Reid had a narrow escape, for the traces being broken he had no control whatever over one of the horses.

The Piano Case.

The enlarged Carter piano case came up before Police Magistrate Edmison at the police court this morning. [illegible] The point as to whether the offer of Chapman of the $[illegible] for rent could be held as a legal tender, thus releasing the goods from lawful seizure was argued by the counsel. The Police Magistrate asked the prisoner to make an election as to whether he would be tried summarily by him or be sent up for trial. The prisoner's lawyer [illegible] plain on the point, he would have to commit the prisoner for trial. Bail was accepted, the prisoner in $500 and Mr. T. Cavanagh for $500.

A Hallelujah Wedding.

Easter time did not pass without the Salvation Army holding special services. The posters announced the celebration as "Three days with God," which will end with a grand hallelujah wedding. The special meetings opened on Saturday evening, when a very enjoyable and profitable service was held in the temple on Simcoe-st. Capt. Bates, of Bobcaygeon, Capt. Knowles, of the Eastern division, and Capt. Hendricks, who was formerly a soldier in the corps here, but is now stationed at Ottawa, were present and took part in the meeting. The feature of the meeting were the "rivulet squad," who consisted of Messrs. Wright and Bray, of Cobourg, Mr. Ireland, of Warkworth, and Mr. Stone, of Lindsay. This band gave several old time Methodist [illegible]. A march out took place at 6.30 in the morning, and all the soldiers [illegible] for the knee-drill and love feast at 7 a. m. Then a holiness meeting was held at eleven which was fairly well attended, and in the evening at 7.30 the barracks was well filled for the free-and-easy meeting. Messrs. Ireland and Bray gave their experiences and rendered several hymns, and Mr. Stone, "the little red man," also gave his experience and sang a Dutch song, which was very amusing. To-night a grand [illegible] is expected, when a hallelujah wedding will be performed, and at the conclusion of the service a wedding supper will be given in the basement of the temple. It is expected that some thirty or forty officers from outside stations will be present. Col. Doodle and his wife, both noted army evangelists, are expected to visit the local corps a week from Friday next.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

THE OPENING OF THE SPRING ASSIZE COURT.

Mr. Justice McMahon on the Bench—A Large [illegible] Civil Cases—The Grand Jury.

The spring assizes [illegible] opened this afternoon, Mr. Justice McMahon presiding. This is Justice McMahon's first official visit to Peterborough. There are seven criminal cases and sixteen civil cases on the docket.

The bar was represented by Messrs. John Burnham, E. B. Edwards, W. H. Moore, John O'Meara, R. M. Dennistoun, E. H. D. Hall, J. M. Hayes, G. W. Sawers, Arthur Stevenson, John Green, J. M. Burnham, D. W. Dumble, of town; and Messrs. W. H. Riddell, of Cobourg, in charge of the crown business; B. B. Osler, Q.C., W. Cassels, Q.C., G. H. Watson, of Toronto, and J. W. Curry, of Millbrook.

THE GRAND JURY.

The following was the Grand Jury panel, and the Grand Jury was regularly sworn:—

E. B. DAVIDSON, Foreman.

Jos. Barnard
Thos. Brooks
John Cameron
Jos. D. Collins
M. Clark
Jas. Darling
W. B. Ferguson
Thos. Foster
Jno. Gladman
J. C. Sherin

Robt. Hall
J. J. Hartley
Geo. Huey
Jas. Lancaster
Jas. Moore
Chas. O'Reilly

[illegible]
Geo. Payne, jr.
J. C. Sullivan

J. T. Stenson.

Justice McMahon, addressing the Grand Jury, said the criminal calendar contained four charges of forgery and one of larceny, and it was possible that there might be other cases of parties on bail. He pointed out the evidence they were to receive, and that they were to consider whether a prima facie case was made out and not to try the cases. He explained at length and clearly the nature of the crimes of forgery and larceny. He then brought before the jury the question of the abolition of the Grand Jury system, which had been brought up in the Senate by Senator Gowan, and explained the duties of the procurator fiscal in Scotland, where there were no Grand Juries. If they wished to express an opinion on the subject he would see that it was forwarded to the proper place. They would, of course, look through the gaol and court house.

The Grand Jury then retired.

DISMISSED.

The case of Queen vs. Sampson, for larceny, in which James Sampson, of Belmont, was charged with stealing cloth from Eliza Wood last September, was the first case called. After hearing a couple of witnesses the case was dismissed without going to the jury.

Appearances Are Deceitful.

The other afternoon a very modest looking gentleman sauntered into McClurg's book store and began looking at the treasures in the English corner. Mr. Millard eyed the stranger with suspicion, for the reason that not very long ago a modest looking gentleman pocketed several treasures and made off with them. But Mr. Millard was not long in discovering that the quiet stranger knew somewhat of books, for he talked very intelligently of the best editions. Mr. Millard began, in fact, to feel sorry for the man. "Here," thought he, "is a gentleman who is a bibliomaniac. See how fondly his tireless eyes gloat on those extra illustrated Dibdins! What envious, what hopeless pangs are now surging in his bosom! Poor devil, it is my duty to steer him away from these incomprehensible prizes and up against some books within the compass of his means."

But the stranger would not be steered worth a cent. He would inspect nothing but the costliest treasures. "I am sorry that you have sold the Washington 'Burns,'" said he, ruefully. "I would have taken it and been only too glad to get it."

"[illegible]," suggested Mr. Millard.

"Cheap enough," said the stranger, [illegible] "And now [illegible] you to send these [illegible] volumes to me at the Richelieu hotel! The clerk will pay the bill. By the way, what is the [illegible]?"

"[illegible]," said Mr. Millard, [illegible].

"Well, send them to the Richelieu [illegible]," said the stranger, "and the clerk will pay the charges for [illegible]."

A far away, a distressful, a bilious look [illegible] Mr. Millard's [illegible] eyes. "[illegible]

The cart [illegible] two quilts, a straw [illegible], a pillow and an old blanket [illegible] the outfit.

"So you have just got married?" I asked.

"Yes, sah—done jist got married to dat gal."

"How old are you, uncle?"

"Shoo, now, but I reckon Ise about 60."

"And you've got a young wife?"

"Yes, sah—done got a gal."

"And you are happy?"

"Happy, sah! Why, Ise walkin' right on aige all de time!"

"And you are now going out to make a start in life?"

A DISASTROUS FIRE.

Barns, Sheds and Cattle Burned—Loss $3,000.

A most disastrous fire occurred about half past one o'clock on Sunday morning at Welsh's brickyard in Otonabee. About two o'clock the blaze was noticed by more than one in town and an alarm was sounded. The brigade turned out with remarkable promptness, but when the hose wagon got as far as Crescent-st. it was seen that the fire was away outside of the town, and the firemen returned murmuring words, not of praise, in reference to the man who had rung the alarm.

However, the fire was a most serious one for Mr. Welsh. It originated in the barn and before it was noticed had gained considerable headway. The stables were situated directly underneath the barn and contained five horses, two cows and a calf. When the fire was noticed an attempt was made to rescue the horses, but the smoke was so dense that it was impossible to gain an entrance to the stable, and the horses and cattle had to be left to their own fate. One of the horses and one of the cows, however, succeeded in escaping from the burning structure, although badly burned. The fire spread to the brick residence of Mr. Welsh which stood near and this building was also totally destroyed. The barn with the contents together with the house were totally destroyed and Mr. Welsh places his loss at about $3,000, upon which he has an insurance of $1,100.

How the fire originated is a mystery, as there is not the slightest suspicion that any one would fire the building out of malice and it is thought probable that some tramp has been sleeping in the straw in the barn and by some accident fired the stack, which would burn with great rapidity.

Ha! Ha! Ha! Do you see the point? Kidd sells good honest Tea as a beverage. Seeit now?

Brevities.

—There were no arrests since Saturday.

—One tramp lodged in the cells last night.

—No. 2 and No. 4 Companies will parade on Tuesday night in the drill shed at 7.30.

—The heavy wind of yesterday was terrific, but no serious damage has been reported.

—The Lindsay Post says:—"The Peterborough Baseball Club has not got over its winter sleep yet, but our secretary is waiting to arrange a series of games with them."

—"Mr. Pearce," says the Warder, "who lost an arm on the Grand Junction Division, G.T.R., last winter, has been appointed superintendent of the railway swing bridge below Peterborough, on the Otonabee. His duties soon begin. The congratulations of many warm friends in Lindsay follow Mr. and Mrs. Pearce."

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

"Snuff the candle," and see the true merit of our teas. Nothing better in town for the money than what M. R. Kidd is selling.

Sleepless nights, made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. S. C. Wells & Co., proprietors, Le Roy, N. Y.

CHINA HALL

Immense sums have been paid for rare specimens of antique China. Think of $[illegible] being given for a china plate cracked at that. Consider $[illegible] as the market value of a set of [illegible] pieces of old [illegible] china. Hold in one hand a cup and saucer and in the other hand the [illegible] that the cup and saucer brought at a Parisian auction. Truly, the craze of collectors for rare specimens of Pottery ware, has given fictitious values to many an unpretentious plate and cup. When money is tight it is a comfort to think of $[illegible] being paid for a hawthorn jug that would barely hold a quart of milk. These are prices that astonish, but the curious side of [illegible] is that at China Hall you can secure full sets of China that will grace any tea table for so little money that anyone can afford the outlay. Not only China, but good substantial dinner sets fit to set out the table of an M. P. or Mayor. Come to CHINA HALL and see what money will do. BEAUTIFUL JIM.

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER

But it was not so. The jewels were in existence sure enough, but Polly had flatly refused to wear them on her wedding morning, although her mother had coaxed and [illegible] the bridegroom had been evidently much disappointed that his bride's world should not see in what honor he held her. Still Polly was obdurate. Wear them she would not and did not—not even the beautiful string of pearls, which, as Mrs. Antrobus plaintively said, would just have made all the difference between her wedding and all the other weddings that took place in Blankhampton.

On this point To-To had stood her friend, and had backed her up vigorously in her resolve not to appear on her wedding morning blazing with jewels.

"You're perfectly right, Polly," she said, with her own delightful little matronly air. "I always think it such execrable taste to wear jewels for a wedding, simply execrable!" and, would you believe it, there were people among the relatives and intimate friends of the Antrobus family ill natured enough to say that the young Mrs. Herrick Brentham did not wish the difference between her wedding gifts and her sister's to appear in too startling contrast; but, of course, that only shows how inordinately ill natured people can be in this world, and particularly in Blankhampton.

CHAPTER XXV.

NANCY AND ROSE MEET.

It must not be supposed that during this time the police at Walmsbury were idle. On the contrary, they were putting forth their best efforts to find out something, or, for the matter of that, anything about the mysterious case, so as to prove themselves better up in their work than the two Scotland Yard men, who were employed in the interests of the Owen family, and who, like their fellows at Walmsbury, seemed to be at a deadlock.

But, puzzle their brains and poke and pry as they would, it seemed impossible to find out anything more than had been done already.

They had both abandoned that clew which seemed to point to Mr. Beresford as the guilty person, and toward young Earle the finger of suspicion had never seemed to point at all.

A suggestion had been made that Rose Mosking perhaps knew more than any one else about the matter; but that astute young lady being forewarned was thus forearmed, and, in spite of the many and extraordinary questions which were put [illegible] showing [illegible] that she was [illegible] to [illegible] frightened [illegible] admitting a single word [illegible] the interview with Capt. Owen on the afternoon of the murder than she had admitted at the inquest.

In her way she had been true enough both to her promise to the dead man and to young Tommy. She still saw the force of all that Owen had urged against a marriage between her and the last of the Earles; but, while she was filled with horror at the way in which he had come by his death, and every spark of admiration for her gentleman sweetheart had died out, she was yet determined not to betray him into the hands of justice. So, out of Rose Mosking, neither the Scotland Yard detectives nor the Walmsbury police got any information whatever.

So the bright summer days slipped over, and the Earles, father and daughter, began to think about making a move to their country place, Earles Hope. And scarcely were they settled there before Beautiful Jim came—came without a word of warning—came only for a few hours—that he might take a passionate farewell of her whom he loved best in all the world, and three short words were enough of explanation: "Active service—Burmah."

CHAPTER XXVI.

SECURITY.

The Blankshire regiment was off to the east so suddenly that but little leave, even of a few hours' length, could be granted to its officers for the purpose of making farewells. Beautiful Jim had been especially favored by [illegible] and had been granted permission to leave Blankhampton only from [illegible] of the afternoon until officers' call the following morning.

Naturally enough, all the officers wished to have the same privilege, but young Earle was not among those who pressed for it; so, as he was anything but a favorite with his commanding officer, he was not one of those who were singled out to receive it.

In truth, the lad was anything but anxious to go to Earles Hope. If his father and sister had been in town, it is probable that he would have begged hard for leave and have made his farewell to them and other farewells at the same time. But being at Earles Hope, and alone, Tommy had no heart for begging a favor of his colonel, who he knew disliked him, that he might go and face Nancy and all the [illegible] would give himself on account of what she knew about him. No; and besides that, the way out of the difficulty was so easy, leave was so difficult to get—in fact, next door to impossible—and by not asking with much anxiety for it, he got passed over for those that did, so that it was an easy matter to write home that he was grieved not to be able to come and say good-by, but that leave was an impossible favor to obtain with so little service as he had.

Unfortunately for the success of this wise calculation, Beautiful Jim spent his few hours of leave in going to Earles Hope, arriving there late in the evening and having but two hours to stay.

TORONTO TOPICS

Honors at Old Trinity—A Wedding of Wilful Murder—A New Church.

TORONTO, April 22.—The medical degree in [illegible] was conferred upon the students of Trinity Medical School on Saturday at Trinity University. Convocation Hall was crowded. Mr. H. W. Armstrong, the gold medalist, was highly complimented by the Dean. The silver medalists were Messrs. H. Chapple and J. M. McFarlane. These three gentlemen received the degree of M.D.C.M. The silver medalists in the primary were James Sutherland 1st, James Third 2nd.

The annual meeting of the Toronto branch of Queen's University Endowment Association was held in the lecture room of St. Andrew's Church on Saturday afternoon. A matter of considerable interest was brought forward by Mr. Macdonnell, namely the securing of a common examination for matriculation for all the universities in Ontario. For the last two years one set of papers has been prepared by Toronto university and another by the combined universities of Trinity, Victoria and Queen's. In view of all this Mr. Macdonnell moved:

Whereas, it is in the interests of university education that there should be a high and uniform standard of matriculation for all the universities of Ontario; and whereas, the securing of such a standard would render more effective the work in our high schools and collegiate institutes directed to preparation for a university course; resolved, that in the opinion of this association the Minister of Education should be respectfully invited to call a conference of representatives of the universities of Ontario and of the inspectors of high schools to consider this whole subject.

The motion was seconded by Dr. McTavish and unanimously carried.

At 8 o'clock Saturday night Coroner Johnson convened a jury to inquire into the death of the child whose body had been found on Friday in the bush near Eglinton. The medical testimony went to show that the child had been born alive but had not been properly cared for, and a verdict of wilful murder against a party or parties unknown was returned.

Yesterday was the dedication day of Immanuel Baptist Church, corner of Jarvis and Wellesley-streets. This structure, which has very recently been completed, cost $40,000, of which there still remains a debt of about $12,000.

Harry Alpass, the young Hebrew who by means of bogus [illegible] defrauded a number of people in different parts of Canada and the United States out of various sums of money, was brought up in the Police Court Saturday, when he pleaded guilty to having defrauded Mrs. C. W. Gauthier of Windsor out of $100, and Mrs. K. P. Patton of Utica out of a similar sum, and he was remanded to Friday next for sentence. It is stated that the prisoner worked his swindle on people in Seneca Falls, Collingwood, Castleton, Beamsville, Bowmanville, and Ottawa.

The breach of promise case of Miss Lizzie Macdonell against Martin Sudmedo has been settled out of court. This is the case which attracted some attention last fall, the headquarters of the love-making being at Johnny Bear's hotel in King-street west.

At 2.30 on Saturday afternoon Coroner Johnson attempted to resume the adjourned inquest on the body of the Beasley infant found buried in a field at Chester the other day, but there had to be a further adjournment until to-day as three of the jurors did not appear. The coroner hesitated at issuing warrants for their arrest, but they will get a talking to when they appear to-day. Each is liable to the estreating of his bond, which is $100.

In the Assize Court Saturday morning, before Judge Rose, Roland Israel Gideon Barnett was put on trial for appropriating to his own use a valuable security consisting of a promissory note for $300, made by C. F. Bunbury on Aug. 12, 1887. His lordship decided that the case was not proven according to law and he would not allow the case to go to the jury. Barnett was therefore discharged on this count but went back to jail to await sentence on the charge upon which he was previously convicted of misappropriation of Central Bank property.

Lightning's Work.

PORT HOPE, April 20.—During the thunder storm last night (Friday) the barns of Mr. Thos. Cann, lot 11, 6th con. of Hope, were struck by lightning and set on fire. When the fire was discovered it had gained such headway that Mr. Cann only succeeded in saving his horses, sheep and two cows. Eight head of cattle and many fowl were burned. The stables, three barns, a quantity of grain, together with all the implements and machinery, were destroyed. The loss amounts to between $4000 and $5000, insured in the Royal of England for $2500. The residence of Mr. E. A. Walker, near Welcome, was also struck by lightning about the same time and the blood [illegible] Miss Ella Walker also received a severe shock. One end of the building was shattered, but did not take fire. About $100 damage done, covered by insurance.

BRANTFORD, April 20.—The barn of Geo. Bawkinhimer, Burford Township, was struck by lightning during the severe storm of Friday and consumed, with its contents, including a team of horses and many implements. Another barn was struck and likewise destroyed, near Burnlaige, belonging to a farmer named Cronkwright.

Boulanger Ordered to Leave Belgium.

BRUSSELS, April 22.—M. Bourée, the French ambassador, yesterday informed Prince de Chimay, Minister of Foreign Affairs, that the meeting of the Boulanger Committee in Brussels impressed the Paris Government unfavorably. The Cabinet therefore sent an official to the hotel at which General Boulanger is stopping to warn the General that he must leave Belgium of his own accord, or the Government would expel him. After consulting with Rochefort General Boulanger consented to leave. The other Boulangist leaders in Brussels will accompany him. He will start for London on Wednesday next.

[illegible]

In a home in Co[illegible] avenue not many evenings ago the father unwilling to [illegible] thought it incumbent upon him at a certain period during the evening's exercises to take his youngest son upstairs for a short outing [illegible] to its mother. The echoes from the [illegible] to the parlor, and while there was great sympathy for the afflicted [illegible] apparent, a laugh could not well be restrained when, in the midst of the "boohoos," was heard the shrill, treble voice: "Pa, I think it's real mean for you to spank me. Why don't you let mamma do her own work?"—Boston Record.

THE ANTI-COMBINES BILL

PASSES THROUGH THE COMMITTEE STAGE IN SAFETY.

The Steamship Subsidy Resolutions Adopted by the House—The Government's New Arrangement With the C.P.R.

OTTAWA, April 22.—In answer to enquiries, during the sitting of the House this afternoon, Sir Hector Langevin said it was not the intention to introduce this session legislation based upon the Labor Commission's report, but the Government would during the recess examine the report and the evidence so as to determine if legislation is necessary.

Sir Adolphe Caron said the negotiations with the Imperial authorities respecting the British Columbia coast defences were still in progress and were strictly confidential. The National Committee, consisting of the Major-General commanding, the Adjutant-General, the Commandant of the Royal Military College, and the inspector of artillery, is to meet from time to time as may be deemed expedient.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell said the owners of the seized vessel Bridgewater had made a demand for $30,303 compensation.

On the motion to adopt the report from the Committee of the Whole on the resolution to provide for a fortnightly steamship service between British Columbia and the Australian colonies and New Zealand, Hon. Mr. Laurier moved an amendment declaring that the Government failed to show that such a service would result in advantages in any way commensurate with the cost. This amendment was lost on a party division of 55 to 77, and the resolution as reported from the committee was concurred in.

Hon. Mr. Foster then moved the adoption of the report of the Committee of the Whole on the motion to provide for a subsidy for a fortnightly steamship service between British Columbia and China and Japan.

Hon. Mr. Davies moved an amendment declaring the inexpediency of adopting the report until the correspondence and the negotiations and agreement between the British Government and the Canadian Pacific Railway have been laid before the House, also that the subsidy should be made conditional upon the vessels calling at Victoria or Esquimalt. This amendment was declared lost on a division, and the report was concurred in.

Hon. Mr. Foster moved the adoption of the report of the Committee of the Whole on the resolution respecting a contract for a fast weekly steamship service between Canada and the United Kingdom.

Hon. A. G. Jones moved an amendment declaring that the amount of the proposed subsidy should be reduced so as to provide, instead of a 20-knot service as introduced, a 17-knot service, all that is required for the passenger and general interests of the country, while at the same time offering greater facilities for freight; also that it should be made a condition of the subsidy that the terminal port should be in Canada.

After recess the amendment was discussed and declared lost on a division.

The House then went into committee on the Combines Bill. It was opposed by Hon. David Mills, Mr. Edgar, Mr. Colter and others on the ground that it declared only against unlawful combinations, leaving it not stated what kind of combinations are unlawful and recourse having to be had as before to the common law. After discussion the bill was adopted by the committee without amendment, save by the addition by Clarke Wallace of a clause exempting the provisions of the bill from application to any handicraft on the performance of labor.

The House then went into Committee of Supply, taking up the supplementary estimates.

THE NEW AGREEMENT.

Between the Government and the Canadian Pacific Railway.

OTTAWA, April 22.—By the terms of the agreement made between the Government and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, laid on the table of the House this afternoon, the Government covenants and agrees to build as direct a line of railway as the character of the country will permit between Harvey and Salisbury and to lease the same to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and their successors in perpetuity, for the annual rental of $1 per year for twenty years and after that an annual rental of $73,400; to give the Canadian Pacific perpetual running powers over the present (or some other) bridge at Fredericton and also running powers over the Intercolonial from Salisbury to Moncton.

The Canadian Pacific Railway and the Intercolonial are to furnish cars, etc., for express service between Montreal and Halifax, as near as may be in proportion to their respective mileage.

The agreement and schedules attached thereto provide for the character of the construction, width of cuttings, etc., and contain the provisions as to maintenance, etc.

The agreement is signed by Sir John on behalf of the Government and by Mr. Van Horne on behalf of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Belleville Briefs.

BELLEVILLE, April 23.—The Assizes were opened at 2 p.m. yesterday before Judge Falconbridge. There are 29 civil and 7 criminal cases for trial.

A silver watch, a revolver and a fur cap were stolen Sunday morning from the house of George Pringle near Sidney station. The robber was pursued and surrounded, but threatening to shoot any one who tried to arrest him he made his escape before a policeman, who was sent for to the city, could arrive.

Mrs. Sydney Thrasher of Huntingdon was on Saturday evening thrown from a wagon by a runaway and broke one of her arms.

The new Sunday school-rooms at the Methodist Tabernacle were reopened Sunday.

John Plant and Thomas Irwin were yesterday fined $1 and costs each for illegal fishing in the river.

The aldermanic election in Bleecker Ward yesterday resulted in the return of Mr. Harris by 31 majority.

UNLUCKY COUNT HERBERT

FAILURE OF THE REAL PURPOSE OF HIS ENGLISH MISSION.

Crown Prince Rudolph's Suicide Raises a Crop of Imitations—The Rioting in Vienna Renewed.

LONDON, April 22.—It is asserted that the recent visit of Count Herbert Bismarck to England, which, although ostensibly in pursuit of a political mission, was really made for the purpose of fructifying his hopes of marrying a kinswoman of the Marquis of Londonderry, resulted in a complete failure, and that the engagement is off.

Accident to an M.P.

LONDON, April 22.—Mr. Cyril Flower, M.P. for Luton, was thrown from his horse while riding yesterday and severely injured. The accident was caused by a dog's snapping at the heels of his horse. Mr. Flower in endeavoring to control his mount lost his seat and fell to the ground. One of his feet caught in the stirrup, and he was dragged a considerable distance, being several times hit in the forehead by the heels of the horse.

The Paris Exposition.

LONDON, April 22.—The arrangements for the official opening of the Paris Exposition are now completed. The opening ceremonies will be very simple, but the decorations of the streets and buildings will be very elaborate. There will be a plentiful display of bunting and music galore, and the number of troops and officials in the procession promises to be enormous. The officials of the exhibition alone are a small army in themselves, and these personages will form a prominent feature of the pageant.

His Grace of Edinburgh.

LONDON, April 22.—The Duke of Edinburgh, Commander-in-Chief on the Mediterranean station, is prostrate from fever and is returning to England on board the Alexandria.

Rudolph's Imitators.

LONDON, April 22.—Since the Crown Prince Rudolph died sensational suicides are on the increase. The second couple killed themselves last week. The girl lamented she would miss the best of the fun, as she would like to hear what people would say when the corpses were discovered. Another curious attempt at suicide was that of a girl of 18, who swallowed paraffine because of disappointed love to revenge herself on her rival by haunting her.

The Irish Viceroyship.

LONDON, April 22.—Lord Brownlow denies that he has accepted the Viceroyship of Ireland. He says he has never been offered the post.

Charged With Conspiracy.

DUBLIN, April 22.—Mr. Conybeare, M.P., has been summoned to appear before the court at Falcarragh, to answer the charge of conspiring to oppose the law.

The King a Monk Would Be.

BELGRADE, April 22.—The Journal Seibobran says that ex-King Milan has become a monk of Jerusalem with a view to eventually becoming Patriarch of all the Servians.

The Czar Tormented by Fears.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 22.—The Czar is suffering from extreme nervous excitement, being in constant dread of attempts upon his life.

Seven New Cardinals to be Appointed.

ROME, April 22.—The Pope celebrated mass in the Consistory Hall to-day. Many strangers were present. At midday he received prelates and others. At the coming consistory he will create seven cardinals.

Earthquake in Egypt.

CAIRO, April 22.—A slight earthquake shock was felt here to-day.

Renewed Rioting in Vienna.

VIENNA, April 22.—The rioting in connection with the strike of the tram car men was renewed here to-day. The strikers attacked the cars and smashed many of them. The cavalry were again called out and a charge was made upon the rioters, many of whom were wounded. About a hundred strikers were arrested.

Love at First Sight.

BUFFALO, April 22.—A rather romantic event took place at St. Paul's Church to-day. Mrs. Scroggs, relict of the late General Scroggs, was united in marriage to George Albert Stitt, formerly of Toronto, but now of this city. The ceremony was witnessed by a few friends of the bride and groom, among others being Wm Stitt, a Toronto merchant and brother of the groom. The bride is 62 years of age and possesses a large fortune. The groom is 22 and was employed in Adam Meldrum & Anderson's dry goods house. Mrs. Scroggs first met him at that store in a business way and both say it was a case of "love at first sight."

Massachusetts Votes Wet.

BOSTON, April 22.—The constitutional prohibition amendment is defeated by from 35,000 to 40,000 majority.

THE OKLAHOMA BOOM.

Fifteen Thousand People Enter the "Promised Land."

WICHITA, Kan., April 22.—Three train loads of boomers numbering 1500 people left here for Oklahoma this morning over the Santa Fe road. A large number also left by way of the Rock Island road. Another train has been wired for. The number of people going from all the railroad towns in Southern Kansas is far greater than was anticipated.

The Guthrie Bank Will Open To-day.

NEWTON, Kan., April 22.—Three train loads of people for Oklahoma left this morning over the Santa Fe road. Among them were a number of capitalists, who will organize a bank and open stores in Guthrie to-morrow morning. Two hundred dwellings were shipped.

The Gates Ajar.

CALDWELL, Kan., April 22.—A special from Pond Creek says: At exactly noon the gates to the "Promised Land" were thrown open to about 15,000 people on the old Caldwell and Fort Reno trail. It was one of the most exciting times ever witnessed in the west.

The Inter-State Commission.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The Inter-State Commission has been considering several complaints of George Rice v. the Cincinnati, Washington and Baltimore Railroad and others. Besides the question of reasonableness of rates, the following questions are raised: Like classification of barrel and tank oil and of the right of railroads to charge for the weight of the barrel package in addition to the weight of the contents; discrimination arising from the returning of empty tank cars free of charge, and also of the paying of a mileage rate on such empty cars; whether railroad companies are not obliged to furnish tank cars as well as other cars for oil transportation.

The question presented may affect nearly all the railroads of the country over which oil is shipped. Accordingly 150 railroads and navigation companies have been notified that upon application a copy of the complaint in these cases will be furnished by the Inter-State Commerce Commission and they can present arguments and be heard upon the questions involved. Carriers not so notified will also be allowed to appear.

Killed by Lightning.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., April 22.—While a family named Adams living at Pond Ridge were eating their evening meal Saturday a bolt of lightning came down the chimney and killed a man named Brown who was visiting them. Mr. and Mrs. Adams and five children were severely shocked and it is doubtful if they recover. The house caught fire but the flames were put out. The lightning demolished everything in the room and passed out at an open window, striking a tree and smashing it to splinters.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—The [illegible] Missouri with 321 people from the [illegible] Danmark arrived [illegible]. [illegible] well but three persons, who are [illegible].

THE CAPTURED OUTLAW.

Morrison Doing Well Physically but Naturally Low-Spirited.

SHERBROOKE, April 22.—The escort arrived with Morrison in this city this morning about 4.30, and immediately proceeded to lodge him in the jail after which a doctor was summoned to probe the wound. The flow of blood had ceased before reaching Sherbrooke. Dr. Austin's examination proves that the ball passed right through his body, having glanced to one side, but without breaking any bones. He is now doing well physically, but is naturally low-spirited at having been finally caught. The hour of his capture being so late, few people knew of it, so that the excitement at Marsden was not very great and no one in Sherbrooke knew of his arrival. He will be brought up for preliminary examination at as early a date as possible. The Montreal policemen and others are returning home to-day.

A Female Firebug.

BLUEVALE, April 23.—Mrs. Hooper was yesterday charged before Justices Miller, Duff and Edgar with having set fire to the Bluevale cheese factory. The case was placed in the hands of Detective Greer of the Provincial Government force about a week ago, who proceeded to work up the case with great astuteness and managed to gather up such a mass of evidence as resulted in a committal of Mrs. Hooper.

An Unfortunate Family.

HALIFAX, April 23.—John McLellan of Springville went alone to the river on Saturday to start a jam of logs. His pike pole was found near the place and later his body was recovered from the river. His sister was shot in Chicago by a jealous lover a few weeks ago. He leaves a wife and family.

TRADE AND TRAFFIC.

Leading Features of the Grain and Produce Markets at Home and Abroad.

TORONTO, April 23.—During the past two weeks the prospects that any shipments of Canadian cattle would be made early in May have been slim. The large receipts in Chicago and the consequent low price have not been particularly cheering to Toronto dealers, and they had begun to fear that they would be able to do nothing before the end of May, at the very earliest. A shipment with prices as low as they have been in Chicago meant that a Canadian dealer would be compelled to accept a price at from $10 to $15 per head below what is regarded as a fair remuneration. But the reports from Chicago yesterday indicate a slight improvement. Should this improvement continue, shipments may be made from Toronto early in May, but if not, there will probably be nothing done before the end of the month.

PRODUCE.

St. Lawrence market was flat yesterday. The supply was small, the demand poor and prices generally unchanged. New butter is beginning to come in slowly in pound rolls, but it is in very small quantities, and the price keeps up to 27 and 28 cents. Pound rolls of old butter sell at 24 and 25 cents. Quotations: Dressed hogs, per cwt., $7; beef, forequarters $4, hindquarters $6.50; geese, per lb., 9c.; ducks, pair, 70.; chickens, pair, 85c.; butter, rolls, 27c., tubs, 20c.; onions, bunch, 30c.; lard, per lb., 13c.; eggs, 12c.; potatoes, bag, 30c.; turnips, bag, 25c.; parsley, doz., 10c.; apples, barrel, $1.25; rhubarb, 20c.; radish, 10c.; lettuce, 50c.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts of hay and straw were small, the demand fair, and prices steady. Hay sold at $15 to $18. Straw was a little higher, at $11 to $12.50.

There was no grain offered on the street yesterday.

The only quotations made on 'Change yesterday afternoon were for oats and were as follows: Milling oats, 33½c. bid here, with 39c. asked to arrive; for two cars choice white 33c. bid, 34c. asked to arrive; oats offered at 33½c. to arrive; offered outside, f.o.b., at 26c., 27c. bid; 22½c. bid on track, 33c. asked; 32½c. asked to arrive; offered 33c. on spot.

THE BARLEY MARKETS.

Oswego reports: Barley unchanged. No. 1 Canada held at 63 cents; No. 2 extra Canada at 65 cents. Lake receipts—14,000 bushels.

Buffalo reports: No sales, feeling about steady; No. 1 Canada quoted at 70 to 72 cents; No. 2, 66 to 67 cents; No. 3 extra, 62 to 63 cents; No. 3, 58 to 60 cents.

THE CHEESE MARKETS.

UTICA, N. Y., April 23.—The Utica Board of Trade held its first meeting yesterday and elected officers for the ensuing year. The prices offered for cheese were so unsatisfactory that sellers disposed of none directly and no quotations were established. There were 1550 boxes consigned.

LITTLE FALLS, N.Y., April 23.—1334 boxes of factory and 115 of farm dairy were sold nearly all being consigned. Two lots of full cream factory sold at 9¼; one lot of 50 boxes at 9½ and one lot of of 25 boxes at 8¾. 77 packages of butter were sold at 21 to 22, the bulk at 21. Fifteen packages of creamery were consigned.

THE BASIS OF AN APPEAL.

Grounds on Which Quebec Protestants Will Memorialize the Queen.

MONTREAL, April 22.—At a meeting of the Protestant Ministerial Association this morning, Rev. S. S. Bond presented these resolutions to form the basis, of an appeal to the Queen against Catholic encroachments on Protestant privileges in this province:

That the Protestant minority in this province have not the same civil and religious equality possessed by Roman Catholics in all other provinces of this Dominion, but are burdened with many disabilities by those laws which make special provision for the Roman Catholic Church, to the detriment of their church, and as this inequality and injustice are contrary to the general law and sentiment of this Dominion and of this continent, we now appeal to our fellow-citizens of all creeds and nationalities to help us to secure in this province the same justice and equality enjoyed by all creeds in every other province in this Dominion. For this purpose ask we them to join us in obtaining by all legitimate means:

First, the disallowance of the act for the settlement of the Jesuits' estates or its removal from the statute book by judicial process, as being an endowment of one church and as endangering the security of our educational interests.

Second, the use of all taxes paid by Protestants in corporations, as well as individually, for Protestant education.

Third, the repeal of all laws, whether imperial or provincial, that give to the Roman Catholic Church power to collect tithes by civil process, as creating a motive to seek the removal of Protestants.

Fourth, such legislation as will prevent the existence of parishes for civil purposes, as giving a power of aggression on Protestantism detrimental to the peace and well being of our mixed population.

Fifth, such change in the marriage laws, whether imperial or provincial, as will give perfect equality. To this end we require (1) that all marriage licenses or a guarantee to the country against all legal impediments shall be issued by the civil authority with equal price and all paid to the state; (2) that Protestant ministers be granted the same power to solemnize the marriage of a Protestant and a Roman Catholic or two Catholics as is possessed by Roman Catholic priests to marry a Catholic and a Protestant or two Protestants, so as not to subject the Protestant faith to, and protect Roman Catholic from, the propagandism of the other.

THE THIRTEEN THANKED.

AN OVATION TO THE M.P.'S WHO VOTED FOR DISALLOWANCE.

The Meeting Under the Auspices of the Citizens' Committee at Toronto—D'Alton McCarthy's Speech.

TORONTO, April 22.—The Granite Rink was filled last night on the occasion of the meeting under the auspices of the Citizens' Committee in honor of the thirteen M.P.'s who voted for Col. O'Brien's disallowance resolution. The thirteen were represented by D'Alton McCarthy, John Charlton, Col. F. C. Denison and G. R. R. Cockburn, all of whom addressed the meeting. A vote of thanks was tendered the supporters in Parliament of disallowance. The speech of the evening was made by D'Alton McCarthy, Q.C.

Mr. McCarthy, in rising to reply on behalf of the thirteen, said he did not feel able to find fitting words to express his sense of the honor conferred upon the thirteen by the resolution just passed so enthusiastically and heartily. After a few other preliminary remarks the speaker referred to the action of Parliament in regard to the Jesuits bill. Said he, I have been witness to votes on great questions, I have seen both parties rally all their forces in order to put their standing before the country, but I have never witnessed before, and I doubt if parliamentary history records such a scene as we saw on March 27, when the whips of both sides rallied all their forces—and what for? Not merely to record their votes for and against the Government, but unanimously to put down the few men who were prepared to speak out independently of party and as they believed in the interests of their country. Why were both parties so anxious on this occasion to vote the same way, to cast the very largest vote that was ever recorded in the Canadian Parliament? The reason is this: both parties were anxious to prove to the people who have ruled this Dominion so long—so long that I am now tired of it—[loud applause]—they both wanted to prove that they were the best friends of the Lower Canadian party, governed by their hierarchy, marshalled and led to maintain power, place and pelf from the Dominion.

Mr. McCarthy then related the details of the debate on the Jesuits Bill in the House of Commons, how the thirteen were talked down and voted down by the leaders and followers of both sides of the House. He proceeded to answer some of the arguments presented by the supporters of the Government during the debate. This matter, said he, divides itself into two separate and distinct considerations. If this bill is beyond the power of the Province of Quebec then the bill can be assailed in the courts at any time, and by the courts it will be pronounced to be void. If that bill was void on legal grounds it ought to have been so declared by the Administration, because that is their duty. The question, however, was not to him a dry question of law. It is a question of policy. It is a question whether, if it was in the power of the Province of Quebec to pass such a law, such a law should not have been wiped from the statute book.

Before one could arrive at a satisfactory conclusion on this question it is necessary to go back a little in history, to understand upon what basis the so-called moral claim of the Jesuits rested. When this country was ceded by the King of France to the Crown of Great Britain, the Jesuits had been dissolved so far as France is concerned. The year preceding the treaty of 1763 the Jesuits of France were dissolved and expelled from France as being inimical to the best interests of the country, so that had this country continued to be a part of France the Jesuits would have been expelled from Quebec as they had been expelled from France. The speaker then went into details to show the unconstitutional character of the Jesuits Bill, going over the same ground as that taken by him when discussing the question in the House of Commons.

Why had Mr. Mercier taken up this claim of the Jesuits and passed it through the Quebec Parliament? It was to make himself solid with the hierarchy. They asked their price, they wanted to know what they were to get. He agreed to revive this old, stale claim of the Jesuits, he hied himself off to Rome and laid himself at the feet of His Holiness. He, the premier of an English province, actually asks permission from His Holiness to sell the public lands of the Province of Quebec! Well, have we come to this—that the premier of a British province has to go and sit at the feet of a foreign potentate, be he prince or pope, to get authority to dispose of the public domain? [Loud applause.] The Minister of Justice said the interference of the Pope was merely for the purpose of settling a dispute between two bodies of the Church, that the Pope merely acted as an arbitrator. There was not a single word in the records to show that such was the case.

If this was a just claim on behalf of the Jesuits why didn't they get the whole $400,000? They only got $160,000. Why did they only get that if they were illegally treated and had been despoiled of two million dollars? The speaker said he would like to see Mr. Mowat dividing the public money among Principal Caven or Dr. Stafford the same as the Pope did among the Jesuits and the bishops of Quebec. [Applause.] What a row there would be! [Laughter.] If there is one thing in this free country that should be solemnly settled, and settled once for all, it is the principle that all religions should be free and equal before the law. [Applause.] No church in free Canada is going to have any advantage over any other church.

The Minister of Justice admitted there was no legal title to the estates, but he put forward a moral claim. Now, the Jesuits had years ago coaxed the King to dedicate these estates for the purposes of education, and for the purposes of education they had been dedicated. Where was the morality for these people afterwards to turn round and claim this property that had been dedicated for educational purposes should be granted to themselves? The speaker would rather term their claim an immoral one. He never denied the perfect freedom of the Roman Catholic people to enjoy their own religion, but what he did protest against was the Pope's assumption to exercise in any part of the Dominion any temporal control or any temporal power. [Applause.]

Why did the 188 members record their votes in favor of allowing the bill? Many of those who were on the speaker's side politically had voted with great reluctance with the Government. He never supported Sir John with more pleasure than when he allowed the law to take its course with regard to Riel, but he regretted that on this occasion he and Sir John had to part company, when both parties, instead of supporting Ontario and the other English Provinces, had conspired to capture the solid French vote.

It has been said this was a provincial matter, that the provinces, within their own sphere, were omnipotent. The speaker believed that this country was not composed of a string of provinces connected together for merely commercial purposes. He believed this country was a Dominion—hear, hear,—and whenever any of the provinces attempts to pass a law that is hurtful to the national life of the Dominion then it is the duty of the Dominion to step in and disallow that law. If there is any one subject more than another upon which the Government should exercise conscious vigilance it is upon this question of religion.

What of the future? Is this agitation to end here? Gentlemen, the future is in your hands. It depends on you. Do you mean now what you say? [Cries of "Yes, yes."] Are you determined that you will be represented by men who will make this their first principle? [Hear, hear.] If we are to make Canada a nation we have to stop French aggression, which was now asserting itself so strongly in our own province. The time has now arrived when we have to take care of our own house in Ontario.

BOSTON, Mass., April 22.—The dwelling of Patrick Joyce, built on the marsh on the outskirts of South Boston, collapsed yesterday morning, took fire and was burned. Mrs. Joyce and three children were in the house when it fell and all were severely injured. They were rescued before the fire reached them.

THE HITTITE SCHEME.

The Liberal party appears to be drifting into an out and out adoption of Congressman Hitt's proposal for commercial union. Sir Richard Cartwright's resolution in the Commons could be read as an approval of that scheme, and the press of the party has spoken in unmistakable terms in reference to it. When the Liberals took up unrestricted reciprocity they said it differed from and was not so obnoxious as commercial union, but they seem to have realized that Sir Charles Tupper spoke the truth when he told them that their idea of unrestricted reciprocity was a wild chimera, as the United States would not be a party to such an arrangement.

Mr. Hitt's commercial union resolution was not passed by Congress, but it received the endorsation of the House of Representatives. It proposes absolute free trade between Canada and the United States, with a uniform tariff for both countries as against all other countries. Under this arrangement the power of controlling the tariff would be taken from the Canadian Parliament and practically taken away from the Canadian people. Mr. Hitt in his speech in Congress said:—

"Undoubtedly the Canadians, in being subjected to the same tariff with us, would in all fairness be consulted as to its provisions; but we, sixty millions, would in all fairness generally have the prevailing voice in determining what the rate should be."

That is, when the opinions of both countries agreed Canadians would have the privilege of consenting to the tariff, but where the requirements of the countries differed Canada would have to submit to such duties as the United States wished to impose. Canada would be consulted, as a matter of form, but would be allowed no controlling voice. This, indeed, is quite natural, for the larger population of the United States would scarcely submit to the Dominion fixing their tariff rates, and the result would be that we would have to submit to such taxation as the United States proposed without having a voice in the matter. Mr. Hitt also said:—

"There is no practical difficulty in having officers of the United States revenue service in their ports with function of inspection to prevent losses to revenue or injury to our merchants."

There would surely be no difficulty for the United States in the scheme if Canada allowed the Republic to control the tariff and also to place men in charge of our customs houses to attend to the collection of the revenue. This gentleman further said:—

"Undoubtedly the receipts from duties at Canadian ports might change, because the market of Canada being largely supplied with goods from the United States, the large sums they now collect from importations from across the sea might be decreased."

That is, as the United States manufacturers would have free access to the Canadian markets, while British importations would be subjected to a much higher duty than is now paid upon them, the business of the Canadian ports would fall off. The Canadian shipping, railways and cities would lose this trade, as would also the British manufacturers, in order to benefit the manufacturers in the United States. Mr. Hitt also informed the House that the Canadians wished to export raw products and to purchase manufactured goods. There he made a mistake. This country had adopted and found beneficial the policy of the encouragement of the importation of raw material that cannot be procured here and the manufacture in the Dominion as far as possible of such articles as are required.

The commercial union scheme would involve taxation without representation, the loss of business at our ports, injury to Canadian railways, a combination with the United States against British trade, the injury of Canadian manufacturing industries, and practically placing Canada in a condition of vassalage. It would also injure our export trade to Great Britain, where a market is found for a large part of Canadian agricultural exports. It is a scheme that Canada would never consent to adopt.

LAKEFIELD LOCALS.

Correspondence of the Review.

The Fencing Club Entertainment.—On Wednesday evening of last week the Lakefield Fencing Club gave an entertainment in the P.O.A. Hall. There was a capital audience all of whom were much pleased with the performance. The programme included fencing exercises, boxing, sword exercise and several special feats. To the programme Messrs. T. J. Bird, Jos. Madill, T. W. Eliot, F. Baries, H. Sherin, J. Edward, Geo. Madill all contributed. The various exercises were taken with spirit and precision and showed great proficiency and dexterity on the part of members of the club. Mr. Eliot accomplished the feats of cutting a bar of lead and almost succeeded in severing the body of a sheep at one stroke. Mr. Eliot is the tutor of the class who did credit to his instruction. The proceeds go into the treasury of the club which will be benefitted to a fair extent. Later on the club will give another entertainment which is sure to be popular and well attended.

Forestry Suggestions—The New Report.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Why should we not, this spring, when the season is opening so early, see a large revival in tree planting and forest preservation? Every farmer in Ontario must now be convinced that this country cannot successfully compete in wheat-growing with other lands, and that the attention of agriculturists must be turned to other branches, notably cattle-growing, for which purpose grass-growing must be the chief means. For cattle, too, the shelter of trees is needed, and to produce heavy crops of grass one of the best methods is to have the fields well sheltered by trees on those sides not exposed to the winds. I have observed this both in England, Scotland and Canada. Passing through the British Isles, indeed, one cannot help noticing that between hedges and trees, their farms are far better protected than ours, and that they grow grass crops twice as abundant as those obtained here.

It is surely time, in Ontario, that we commenced what is common in most farming countries, the planting of trees in groves of some acres in extent. In such as these, timber can be grown such as can neither be obtained in the forest nor in isolated trees, for the tree by itself grows to branches which mean knots; and has not, either, the impetus given to growth by surrounding trees, for it is the tendency of trees to emulate each other in height, that they may spread their branches to the upper air. These plantations, too, will give winter shelter, which cannot be so well expected from single lines of trees, though these also, in default of better, are excellent in their way.

I may take this opportunity of informing your readers that the forestry report for the present year, containing much information of interest to those who care for tree preservation, is now being distributed, and will be sent to any of your readers who send me their address. It is a pamphlet yearly issued by the Ontario Government in the interest of tree planting, and is sent free; there is no charge for the book and none for postage.

Our country is rapidly drying up for want of sufficient tree shelter. The climate is less favorable for agriculture; less pleasant for habitation. Of a hundred rivulets once well remembered in the forest, scarcely one remains in the clearing. The rainfall at intervals is less beneficial to the growth of crops; the winds are far more severely felt. With some general effort at planting, all this would be greatly changed for the better. Other countries have found this the case, and we should profit by their example.

Yours, &c.,
R. W. Phipps.

CAPITAL GOSSIP.

Hon. J. A. Chapleau Expected To-Day—Mr. Coughlin, M.P., Much Better.

Ottawa, April 22.—Hon. J. A. Chapleau is expected at the Capital to-morrow.

Mr. T. Coughlin, M.P., who was removed from the Water-street Hospital to the Small-pox Hospital, his illness being pronounced diphtheria, is much better to-day.

Bishop Duhamel was given a reception to-night at Ottawa University. He recently returned from Rome.

Mr. Wainwright, representing the Grand Trunk, has arrived in the city to interview the Government respecting the securing for that road running powers similar to those to be enjoyed by the Canadian Pacific over the road from Harvey to Salisbury. Equal running powers over the Intercolonial are also asked.

The Grand Trunk are not to be without their share of the good things distributed this session. It is understood that a resolution will be submitted subsidising the St. Clair Tunnel project to the extent of 15 per cent. upon the $2,500,000, which that work is estimated to cost.

Two fast express trains per week with refrigerator accommodation are to be run this season over the Intercolonial for the purpose of supplying fresh fish from the Maritime Provinces to Montreal and the west.

As a result of their interview to-day with the Minister of Justice, Messrs. John Ross Robertson and D. A. Rose have left satisfied that it is not expedient to further press, on behalf of the Canadian Copyright Association, that the act now being put through the House should be made retroactive in the matter of permitting the reprinting of British works.

Death of an Old Oshawan.

Oshawa, April 23.—The remains of Wm. Deans, an old resident of Oshawa, arrived here yesterday from Toronto, at which place he died Sunday, in the 56th year of his age. He had been long connected with the Oshawa cabinet factory and served some two or three years at the Council Board. He was a native of Scotland and belonged to the Masonic order.

Bishop O'Connor's Farewell to Barrie.

Barrie, April 22.—Rev. R. A. O'Connor, Bishop-elect of Peterboro, preached his farewell sermon to his Barrie congregation Sunday. In the afternoon he was presented with an illuminated address and a purse of $500, to which he appropriately replied. Last night C.M.B.A. No. 51 presented him with an address and gold headed cane.

Worth Reading.

No young man or woman should attempt to make business his or her life calling without first having some previous training. At no institution can this be better given than at the Peterborough Business College. The enterprising proprietors are having the roller rink fitted up in the most modern style and are adding to their staff a penman who cannot be excelled in this important art. No other college offers such advantages as the Peterborough Business College. The attendance, instead of decreasing at this season, is gradually increasing, which is a sure proof of success. d85tf is made very often by merchants advertising goods at very low figures and when the public call to price the goods they are much higher than the prices their advertisement calls for, or they are just out of the goods. Now, it is altogether different with W. J. Morrow. When you see his advertisement you can rely on procuring the goods at the price stated, just so long as he can get the goods, but of course when we are out you must make an allowance. We have another consignment of beautiful 3 lb. tin Peaches at 15 cents per tin. 3 lb. tin Tomatoes, 3 for 25 cents. W. J. Morrow, 340 George-st.

A Great Mistake

Y. P. C. A.

At a well attended meeting last evening the Young People's Christian Association of the George-st. Methodist Church was organized. Rev. M. L. Pearson presided, and after devotional exercises he explained the object of the meeting. It was resolved to organize the Society, and after considerable discussion as to its objects, the following officers were elected:—

PRESIDENT.—A. E. Scott.
1ST VICE-PRESIDENT.—H. A. Strike.
2ND VICE-PRESIDENT.—Miss Effie Turner.
SECRETARY.—H. Dixon.
ASSISTANT-SEC.—Miss Ellsworth.
TREASURER.—R. F. Morrow.

The Association proposes holding religious meetings every Monday evening. A committee was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Scott, E. A. Pearson, Dixon and Doxee, to prepare a constitution, to be submitted to the Association after the public meeting next Monday evening.

A HALLELUJAH WEDDING.

The Knot Tied in the Presence of a Large Audience.

The Hallelujah wedding at the Salvation Army temple last night attracted a large crowd, who were all anxious to see the knot tied. There is always a certain amount of eagerness, more especially among the gentler sex, to witness wedding ceremonies, and that of last night, although there were no magnificent costumes of silk or satin to feast the eyes of the lady spectators, still, nevertheless, the ceremony was an interesting one in many respects.

THE BRIDE AND GROOM.

Shortly after seven o'clock the grand march out took place, and the large number of officers who were here to take part in the event together with the members of the local corps made quite a long procession, headed by the brass band of the Lindsay corps. When the parade reached the barracks, the meeting was opened with a song, and Staff-Capt. Marshall took charge of the programme. Seated on the platform was Rev. G. H. Davis, who was present to perform the ceremony, and on a small table exhibited to the view of the audience was the three-storey wedding cake. Just after the meeting was opened the bride-elect, Capt. Knowles, of the Eastern Division, and her bridesmaid, Capt. Hinde, of the local corps, together with the groom, Capt. Bates, of Millbrook, and his best man, Capt. Spencer, of Millbrook, came upon the platfrom and were greeted with some applause. The bride and her bridesmaid were attired in their usual army uniform, but wore a white sash across their right shoulders.

After Rev. Mr. Davis had offered up an earnest prayer and several of the soldiers and officers had in a few words given their testimony, "The Jubilee Singers" gave a quintette and Capt. Cook, a young lady officer, sang a hymn and played a solo on the cornet.

TWO MADE ONE.

Then Staff-Capt. Marshall read the 23rd Psalm and made a short address before the ceremony of the evening was performed. He said many had come out of curiosity to see an army wedding, and would probably wonder why it was performed so openly, but he said they had got into the habit of doing everything for the glory of God, and they believed this marriage was for the glory of God, and, if this was so, he thought the more people who witnessed it the more God would be glorified. He believed that the two officers would accomplish more for God together than apart, and where they now separately fought their thousands he hoped that together they would drive their tens of thousands before them. He then read the obligations which the two contracting parties had to take, under the Army regulations. In their obligations they said they did not seek the marriage to please themselves but because they believed they would be the better able to serve God and work for the salvation Army. They promised not to allow the marriage to lessen their love to God, or interfere with their Army work, and said if one should become ill the other would continue to fulfil all the promises. Then Rev. Mr. Davis rose and performed the ceremony in the usual manner and at the close the groom seized his newly-wedded wife in his arms and imprinted the sealing kiss upon her lips amid the cheers of the soldiers, the music of the band and the amusement of the audience.

ADDRESSES BY THE PRINCIPALS.

Then the bride came forward and, after thanking those friends who had remembered her, spoke a few earnest words telling of the salvation she enjoyed. She was followed by her husband who said he was glad to be present on that occasion. (Laughter.) Since he had known Captain Knowles, some eight years, he had always found her to be a kind-hearted and earnest worker, and he believed wherever their lot might be cast they would be found doing God's work.

Capt. Hinde thanked those friends who had contributed provisions towards the supper and after "the boy preacher," from Millbrook, Capt. Spencer, had given his experience the meeting closed with the doxology.

The happy couple who had been the principals in the event of the evening were then congratulated by their fellow soldiers and many friends, and an immense crowd adjourned to the basement of the barracks where the wedding supper had been laid. The spread was a most bountiful one, and was much enjoyed by all who partook.

First After Lent.

A social hop was given in the new Snowden block on Simcoe-st. last night by the "Jolly Six." The music was good and there was a fair attendance. The light fantastic was indulged in until an early hour this morning.

Canada's New Party.

A mass meeting will be held in the Opera House on Monday evening next when Dr. Sutherland, of Toronto, will deliver an address on "Canada's New Party." The chair will be taken at eight o'clock. Those who want to be enlightened on the principles of the new party should be present.

Kind of a Surprise

At the meeting of the Endeavor Society of the Charlotte-st. Church, the following officers were elected for the ensuing half year:—

PRESIDENT.—Miss Neill.
FIRST VICE PRESIDENT.—Miss Sherlock.
SECOND VICE PRESIDENT.—Mr. J. Crane.
SECRETARY.—Mr. G. Wilson.
CORRESPONDING SECRETARY.—Miss B. Morrow.

Also the Chairmans for the following Committees—Reception—Miss M Neill; Devotional—Mr. A. Tebb; Visiting—Miss Carrie; Membership—Miss Graham; Entertainment—Miss M. Neill. The Secretary and Treasurer read their reports, which showed satisfactory progress during the past six months. A vote of thanks was tendered the president and other retiring officers for their valuable services. It was decided to hold the next meeting on Friday instead of Monday night on account of Dr. Sutherland's lecture.

Youthful Transgressors.

There are two little fellows in town today who realize fully that the way of the transgressor is hard. These are two boys, one probably about eleven and the other ten years of age, named Dwyer and Harrison respectively, and whose parents reside in the northern portion of the town. The two lads have evidently began very young to tread the way of the evil doer, for, it is said that one of them has not been at home for about a week. The lads were arrested for stealing chickens. They had captured all the poultry they could get their hands on and put them in a barn and were just about to start a "hennery" on no small scale when the police caught them. As they sat on the prisoner's bench before the Magistrate this morning at the Police Court they vied with each other to see who could cry the harder and one would think their hearts would break. The Magistrate did not know exactly what to do with them, but finally he gave them a few words of warning and told the Chief to lock them in the cells until night on bread and water. The two boys were thoroughly frightened and will probably in the future leave other people's chickens and property alone. They had better, for their larceny will be held over their head on good behaviour.

THE BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT ENDS IN A NON-SUIT.

The Aged Couple's Courting—The Kissing Seen through a Key-hole—Roraback Pleads Guilty to Forgery—A Verdict for $40 Damages in the Ennismore Assault Case.

Yesterday afternoon the Grand Jury came into the court and returned true bills in the following cases:—Queen vs. Foster, uttering a forgery; Queen vs. Milburn, forgery, and Queen vs. Roraback, forgery. In the case of assault—the barber's scrape—there was "no bill" found and the case dropped.

AN ASSAULT CASE.

SMITH VS. YOUNG.—This was an action for $1,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been caused by an assault on Dec, 26th last. Philip Smith and John Young, of Ennismore, had been in town and had a few words at the Court House. On the way home Smith caught up to Young on the Chemong Lake bridge and asked Young to let him pass, but he did not. On the road to the Cross, Smith came up to Young's waggon on the road, and his brother-in-law, Philip L. Smith, got out, but found that Young had gone to Sullivan's. Smith's proceeded and saw three men crossing the fields, who shouted at them. The Smith's were in the post office at the Cross when Young came in and asked, "was it me you were hollowing after." Smith answered that it was, and Young struck him, with the result that there was considerable of a row and that Smith was cut on the face. After the row he went home and attended to his chores, but claimed that he was unable to attend to his work for five or six weeks and had a doctor's bill of $19, and for this and his sufferings asked for the amount named. The case occupied most of the afternoon. The Jury returned a verdict for $40 for the plaintiff. Stone & Sawers for plaintiff; John Burnham for defendant.

"NOT GUILTY."

Charles Foster was arraigned on the charge of having uttered a forged order and pleaded not guilty.

RORABACK PLEADS GUILTY.

Irwin Roraback was arraigned on the charge of having forged a mortgage. This was the case in which the name of Robert Gardner, of Dummer, was forged to a mortgage for $2,050, the mortgage being executed in the office of Messrs Sawers & Stone and offered to the Midland Loan and Saving's Company. The prisoner pleaded "guilty." Mr. A Stevenson, who appeared for the prisoner, asked to be allowed to put in affadavits as to the prisoner's general character, and the request was granted.

SECOND DAY—TUESDAY.

The Court resumed at 9.30 o'clock this morning.

The Breach of Promise Case.

The first case called was that of Reynolds vs. Jamieson, in which Sarah J. Reynolds sued Samuel Jamieson for $30,000 for breach of promise of marriage. Mrs. Reynolds, the plaintiff, is a widow lady, who resides in Cavan, about five miles from Millbrook. She is nearly 50 years of age and wears her years well. She was the wife of Mr. Wm. Reynolds who was a magistrate in Cavan. Mr. Jamieson, who lives in Millbrook, is considerably older than the plaintiff, being, in fact, somewhat feeble with the weight of years. He is believed to be well off. His wife died six or seven years ago, and last December he married again, whereupon Mrs. Reynolds entered the suit.

Mr. G. H. Watson, of Toronto, and Mr. E. B. Edwards, of Peterborough, appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. B. B. Osler, Q.C., of Toronto, and Mr. J. W. Curry, of Millbrook, for the defendant. Mr. Edwards opened the case for the plaintiff.

THE PLAINTIFF'S EVIDENCE.

MRS. REYNOLDS was the first witness called. She said:—I know the defendant, Mr. Jamieson. My husband was a farmer, and died seven years ago. I was about forty years old at the time of his death. I knew the defendant about a year before my husband died. He had been a farmer, but is living on the interest of his money. In 1884 the defendant, while I was passing his house, spoke to me about the breaking of the Millbrook bank. Mrs. Widders, a neighbor, brought me word that Mr. Jameson had shown her through his house, and that if I would marry him he would give me all his property except $6,000. That was in September, 1885. I said I did not want to marry him, but afterwards agreed to see Mr. Jamieson at the fall show at Millbrook in October. When I was returning from the show Mr. Jameson came out and called me. He talked about his girl going to be married, and

ASKED ME TO MARRY HIM,

and that at his death all his property would be mine except $6,000. I said I did not wish to marry, but he insisted on it, and I agreed to meet him at Mrs. Widders. He said I was always respectable and nice looking, and had been kind to my first husband. Clara was not his own daughter. He has no children. We met at Mrs. Widders the following week. There was no one living with him except Clara, and he complained of her. I said if he had me I would want good clothes too. He said I would be his own. He asked me to get in the buggy, but I did not. He told me names of persons who had money from him and said he was wealthy, and asked me to marry him. He said he had drawn up writings promising to give Clara $6,000. I didn't agree to marry him, and he asked to see me again. He put out his arms and said "come here my dear," and wanted me to get in the buggy. He came to my own place after that. I occupied the front part of the house and Mr. and Mrs. Veal the other part. Mr. Jameson came the next week. I shook hands with him and he offered to kiss me. I bent away from him and he said if I didn't like him as well as the money it would not do. I did not let him kiss me. He stayed an hour or an hour and a half. He called again some time after that. He complained that Clara did not get married, as he did not want to get married until she did. His visits started in October and in December I acceded to his request. He said he would put Clara away in the spring, but I said he need not do that. He said he came for nothing else but to make me his wife. He

KISSED ME MANY A TIME.

He wanted to pull me on his knee and did so a number of times. He visited me a number of times after I agreed to marry him. He came in partly crying one day and said there was no sign of Clara getting married and he did not know what to do with her. In February he said he couldn't get married until Clara did. In March he repeated that, and said he had not asked me to marry him. He kissed me when he came that time, but I was not on his knee. I got vexed and ordered him out when he said he had not asked me to marry him. I told him I'd take the law of him. We shook hands when he left. In June I met him by arrangement at Mrs. Widders'. He wanted to visit me until Clara got married and then he would marry me. It was arranged that we should get married when Clara did. Clara got married last fall. Mr. Jamieson did not go near me. He married Miss Argue in November or December. I have not had any talk with him since. His visits occasioned talk and the neighbors were alarmed for fear I would marry him. I was very vexed when he got married, I got a dress to get married in if I went to Peterborough. He told me he would have to get a suit. He told Mrs. Widders he had got them and paid $7 for getting them made.

To MR. OSLER—I had made up my mind not to marry before he came. Before I was married a man deceived me, but I did not sue him. I lived with my husband six years. He was older than me. The first time he came to my house he kissed when he came and when he left, and the second or third time he pulled me on his knee. I think it was the third time I sat on his knee that I agreed to marry him. He stayed once to tea. He did not stay long because he had a hired horse. I would not marry him if he was a poor man. I liked him well enough. I would not marry him as a man. I would not take him with a thousand dollars thrown in, nor with two thousand, nor with three thousand, nor with five thousand. I would have married him with

TEN THOUSAND THROWN IN.

I would want about that sum thrown in with him to marry him. You couldn't expect me to marry him if he was a poor man. In March, 1887, I said I would have the law of him, and would not let him renew his promise. In March, 1888, was the last time he was in my house. (Mr. Osler read from Mrs. Reynolds' examination the words:—"Until Clara got married I was at liberty to refuse him or not, as I saw fit.") I couldn't say that was false. I said in my examination, "until Clara got married I was under no binding obligation to marry him." I did not mean that. I refused to let him come to my house until Clara got married. The only letter I sent him was after he got married. It was written by Mrs Lackey. It was as follows:—

THE ONLY LOVE LETTER.

CAVAN, Dec. 5, 1886.

Mr. Jamieson,

DEAR SIR,—I want you to come up to my house on Monday, Dec. 10th, and settle with me before I take further proceedings, as you came to my house on a fraud.

MRS. S. J. REYNOLDS.

Mr. Jamieson said he was 60 years old when he came to see me. I lost money when the bank broke. I promised to marry Jamieson to get a home. It was in November, December or January that we become engaged. On his fourth or fifth visit Mr. Jamieson put his hands on my knee, and I told him I'd put him out. If he died before spring he said he would send a man for me with some money.

THE FRIENDLY MESSENGER.

MRS. WIDDERS was next called. Mr. Jamieson took me and my daughter through his house. He said he was lonely and that he had been thinking of Mrs. Reynolds. He asked me to tell her that he had fancied her and to ask her to marry him. I took the message to Mrs. Reynolds and she said she did not want to marry. I urged her to think of it. Afterwards Mrs. Reynolds said she would be at the show at Millbrook, I went to the show. I saw Mr. Jamieson at the village looking for Mrs. Reynolds. The witness corroborated Mrs. Reynolds' evidence as to the interview in the buggy. Afterwards Mr. Jamieson again complained to me of being lonely, and said he felt like going to her and taking her in a buggy to Peterborough to be married.

To MR. OSLER—I never felt any hard feelings against Jamieson. My father was unfortunate and was sold out. Mr. Jamieson had the mortgage. I saw him three times about it. I never threatened him to get Mrs. Reynolds to bring an action. I did not tell Mr. Alex. Barr that I would scold Jamieson or that I would get Mrs. Reynolds to sue him.

To MR. EDWARDS.—Mr. Jamieson told me to tell Mrs. Reynolds he was wealthy.

The court then adjourned for lunch.

ASKING FOR ADVICE.

MRS. AGNES LACKEY was called when the court resumed. She said:—Mr. Jamieson came to our place and asked my opinion as to him marrying. He said he thought of Mrs. Reynolds, but he was afraid she would not love an old man like him. He asked me to speak to Mrs. Reynolds, but I did not consent. I saw him going to Mrs. Reynolds'. He said he liked Mrs. Reynolds and wanted to have her. I saw him later in Peterborough. Mrs. Reynolds and he had had a dispute and he wanted Mrs. Widders to go and intercede for him. It was agreed that he was to go to Mr. Widders' on Monday morning and he went. Mr. Jamieson said once that Mrs. Reynolds wanted money from him and he said he would give her a deed of the two hundred acres. That was after the dispute.

To MR. OSLER—I am the mother of Mrs. Widders. We have had transactions with Mr. Jamieson. There were claims came in against us and Mr. Jamieson put in the first. I may have said things against him. I never told Mr. Barr that if Jamieson came in I would knock his brains out. I did not take a tea pot off the stove to scald him, and did not say I would follow him. I took up a stone to throw at him.

MRS. VEALS said:—I live in part of the house with Mrs. Reynolds. Mr. Jamieson came to the house in October, 1885. He spent his time with Mrs. Reynolds. He might have came twice or three times in a month. He came once when she was away and complained about his girl. He said he would have to get married to Mrs. Reynolds. He said he would have to put Clara away. I saw Jamieson kissing Mrs. Reynolds several times. I was in my kitchen and LOOKED THROUGH THE KEY-HOLE.

Mr. Jamieson had tea there once, and my husband and I had tea with them. I knew Mrs. Reynolds got a dress to get married. I saw Mr. Jamieson the day after he was married. I wanted to sell wood, and he said he dare not go out there, for Mrs. Reynolds would put him out. He spoke of her ordering him out and said he was sorry he had made her cross. He asked me if I thought she would do anything to him if he got married, and I said I thought she would not.

To Mr. OSLER.—Mr. Jamieson may have came ten or twelve times. I looked through the key-hole three times, and saw him kiss her when he came in. I heard them kiss. I never told my husband until later. When Mrs. Reynolds asked me what I knew, I told her about the key hole.

The case for the plaintiff was then closed.

THE CASE DISMISSED.

Mr. OSLER submitted that there was no case, as at the quarrel in March the engagement was ended and there was no corroborative evidence that it was renewed.

Mr. WATSON argued that, though there were words in March, the engagement was not relinquished.

There was considerable argument on the point by the counsel, and the official reporters notes were looked up and read.

Justice McMAHON said the evidence disclosed that in March, 1886, Mrs. Reynolds put an end to the engagement by ordering the defendant out of the house. At the subsequent meeting in June, the plaintiff says in one breath that the engagement was renewed, but that until Clara was married he could not come to the house and she did not feel herself bound. There was no renewal of the formal intercourse. There was an exoneration of the defendant, and the case was dismissed.

BOARD OF TRADE.

Finishing Up the Work of Organization—A Rush of New Members for Election.

A general meeting of the Board of Trade was held at the Council Chamber on Monday night. There was a fair attendance, with the President, Mr. Geo. Hilliard, in the chair.

The revision of the proposed by-laws was taken up and proof sheets of the by-laws closely scanned. Discussion as to points raised elicited a variety of opinions and amendments were made where advisable.

It is probable that some amendment to the charter will be applied for, as many of the business men of the County have applied to be admitted as members. The Act of Incorporation, it would seem, confines the territory of the Board to the town only, or to the district immediately surrounding, and it is felt that the borders of the Board should be enlarged.

Nineteen new members were elected and the names added to the roll. The business men of the town are recognizing that the Board must prove to be of great benefit and the stronger and more representative it can be made, the better for its usefulness in the future. As soon as the preliminary work of getting into order is completed, subjects for discussion will be submitted.

EASTER VESTRY MEETINGS.

St. John's and St. Luke's—Officers Elected and Resolutions Passed.

The Easter vestry meetings of St. John's and St. Luke's churches were held last evening, when the usual business was transacted and officers elected.

St. Luke's.

Rev. Mr. Warren presided at the vestry meeting at St. Luke's, Ashburnham. There was a fair attendance of the congregation. Service was held at 7.30 and at eight o'clock the business meeting opened. The officers elected were as follows:—

RECTOR'S WARDEN.—Mr. J. Burnham.
PEOPLE'S WARDEN.—Mr. H. T. Strickland.
ASSISTANT CHURCHWARDENS.—Messrs. H. C. Rogers and R. Mead.
SIDESMEN.—Messrs. Ingram, Adams, Lush, W. Manice, and Everett.
FINANCE COMMITTEE.—The churchwardens, and Messrs. Peck, Mead, Adams, Rooney, R. B. Rogers, E. R. Burrett, R. Maniec, W. G. Bain, Mrs. John Heap, Mrs. Orde, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Macfarlane Wilson, and Misses. Mills, Burritt and Burnett.

The churchwardens presented their financial statement which was audited and found correct. The report of the committee on the building fund was also read and proved very satisfactory and encouraging. It was shown that the principal of the church debt had been reduced by the amount of $750 during the past year.

RESOLUTIONS TO THE CLERGYMEN.

The following resolutions were then unanimously carried:—

"That this vestry desire to express their thanks to Rev. Mr. Warren for his care and attention to the church and parish since he came, and also desire to congratulate him on his appointment to the important parish of Lakefield."

"That the members of this vestry desire to express their joy and satisfaction that the Rev. Mr. Bradshaw has so fully recovered his health as to be able shortly to return to his duties and that the clerk forward to Mr. Bradshaw a copy of this resolution."

Messrs. J. Burnham, P. Maniee and H. C. Rogers were elected lay delegates to the Synod.

St. John's.

The report of the proceedings of the vestry meeting at St. John's is unavoidably held over from this issue, but will be published to-morrow.

The Travelling Tramps.

Constable McGinty had another opportunity of testing his sprinting powers last night at the C. P. R. station. When the 11.30 train came in three of the travelling fraternity who usually take a seat on the bumpers without troubling to purchase a ticket, jumped off, but when the train started the tramps again attempted to board it. The fireman called the constable's attention to the men and he gave chase, but this time the fellows made their escape in the dark.

CHINA HALL

Immense sums have been paid for rare specimens of antique China. Think of $5,000 being given for a china plate cracked at that. Consider $34,000 as the market value of a set of 120 pieces of sèvres china. Hold in one hand a cup and saucer and in the other hand the $3,400 that the cup and saucer brought at a Parisian auction. Truly, the craze of collectors for rare specimens of Palissy ware, has given fictitious values to many an unpretentious plate and cup. When money is tight it is a comfort to think of $2,000 being paid for a hawthorn jug that would barely hold a quart of milk. These are prices that astonish, but the serious side of the question is that at China Hall you can secure full sets of China that will grace any tea table for so little money that anyone can afford the outlay. Not only China, but good substantial dinner sets fit to set out the table of an M. P. or Mayor. Come to CHINA HALL and see what money will do. You'll not have to spend the value of six first-class farms for a China Tea Set.

BEAUTIFUL JIM.

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER

And, in answer to the old man's anxious inquiries, he replied that he was afraid Earle had not the most remote chance in the world of getting even six hours' leave out of Blankhampton, while to Nancy he confided the fact that her brother had not got leave because he had, to his knowledge, not asked for it.

"Did he tell you so?" she asked. "Did he give you any especial message to my father?"

"Not he, my dearest; he never speaks to me if he can help it; and you can understand that I don't exactly seek him out as my friend," Jim answered. "No; the the fact was, I thought, not being much of a favorite with the chief, that he might have a good deal of difficulty in getting that or any other privilege, so when I got mine I put in a word for him. I thought your father would certainly be very anxious to see him. However, the colonel cut my hint precious short. 'If Earle wants leave, Jim,' he said, sharply, 'he can at least ask for it;' and so, of course, I hadn't any more to say, though I guessed from that that the young beggar wasn't keen to come home at all."

Nancy understood her brother's feelings well enough; she knew that he lacked courage, after what had happened, to come home and face his gallant old father's honest eyes; she knew that he did not dare to face her at all.

It was, therefore, with a pang of dismay that within ten minutes of saying good-by to her Jim, Mr. Earle came to her and told her that he had given her maid and his man orders to be ready to start for Blankhampton by the earliest train in the morning, "which passes Marchton" (their nearest railway station) "at twenty minutes past 6," he ended, briskly.

Nancy stared at him for a moment, simply speechless with surprise. "But father, my dear," she exclaimed, "it will knock you up altogether, you are not fit for it—you"—

"Nonsense—nonsense. My only son does not go off to active service every day," he answered, brusquely, "and time is precious; they leave Blankhampton on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock."

So to Beautiful Jim's unspeakable delight, and to Tommy's unutterable disgust, on the following morning, before any one of the Blankshire regiment had so much as had time to think about anything so comfortable as luncheon, Mr. and Miss Earle arrived at the infantry barracks in a hotel carriage.

And Tommy looked as he felt—done! However, he had no excuse but to go through with the day as best he could—although he wished himself already in Burmah over and over again, and fairly hated Nancy for the part which she played, giving him a limp hand for an instant without a shake in it, looking right over his head when she spoke to him, giving him the edge of her jaw to kiss if he wished to do so. Only once, indeed, did she look at or speak to him fair or straight.

"Stuart," she said, sharply, when they were just back to town again, "the colonel says you will be free at 8 o'clock to come and see us. I want to see you alone. Do you understand?"

"Can you arrange it?" he asked, sulkily not daring to refuse.

"Yes. Mr. Beresford is coming at that time also, and I will take you into my bedroom while I say what I want to say to you. It will not take me more than ten minutes."

"Very well," said he, curtly.

Miss Earle looked at him—and she knew him pretty well, so was able to read what was passing through his mind as easily as if he had been a book.

"And don't attempt to shirk it," she said, sharply, "because I've got something to say to you, and I mean to say it before you go. Do you understand?"

"Oh, perfectly," returned Tommy, with a sneer. The sneer roused every feeling of evil that had any foothold in Nancy's gentle heart; they were not many, but they were enough to make Tommy thoroughly uncomfortable for the rest of that day.

"If you fail to keep your tryst," she said, coldly, "our father knows everything before 7 o'clock to-night," and then she turned from him without another word and rejoined the others, who were walking toward the carriage.

So almost before the clock a little way up the High street had struck the hour, young Tommy made his appearance in the sitting room which was for the time being that of his father and sister, and a few minutes later was followed by his comrade, Beautiful Jim.

Then was Nancy's opportunity, nor did she neglect to take advantage of it. "Oh, Stuart," she said, in a tone so admirably easy and like her own that Beautiful Jim was fairly startled and looked up quickly, fully convinced that in the pain of parting his gentle sweetheart had forgotten all the past. "I have something to show you—come into my room for a minute. Jim, you will talk to my father till we come back, won't you?"

Jim bowed and made some polite rejoinder, and Nancy went briskly out of the room, followed by Tommy.

They found her maid busily arranging her gown for the evening. "You can go down for half an hour, Susan," said Nancy, and as the maid obeyed, closed the door behind her and turned the key in the lock. Then she went across the room to Tommy's side, and surely, if Beautiful Jim could have seen her at that moment, he would not have found much forgetfulness of the past in the sternly compressed lips and the shining scornful eyes.

"I have not asked you to come here to reproach you, Stuart," she began, looking straight at him with her wonderful, clear gray, shining, honest eyes.

To be Continued.

The Canada Stained Glass Works, of Toronto, have again increased their staff in every department. The Church and House Ornamental Glass turned out by this firm can be relied on both for durability and excellence of design. Persons requiring glass in every style or quantity whatever should address the makers, McCausland & Son, Toronto.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Morality Inspector's Fort Antonia Shown "Move-on" Jarvis.

TORONTO, April 22.—It is again reported that Mr. Joseph Priestman and the others who were arrested with him in his office have instructed their solicitors to enter a civil action against Morality Inspector Archibald for illegal arrest and false imprisonment, damages being placed at a heavy sum.

Another of the alleged assailants of P. C. Duncan, a young man named Frank Kitchen, was taken into custody yesterday.

The police Sunday made several fruitless searches for liquor in places where it was suspected an illicit traffic was being carried on.

Thirty-two prisoners crossed the Don in the Black Maria Sunday and there they remained until this morning, the Police Court taking a holiday yesterday.

Early yesterday morning an attempt was made to burglarize the residence of Mr. Samuel Rook, 306 Spadina-avenue.

The 5-year-old daughter of Mrs. Lysaght, Adelaide-street west, was badly burned by her dress igniting from a lighted match.

Mrs. Ellen Wright, the proprietress of a baby farming institution at 19 Portland-street, is in the cooler for abandoning one of her infant charges on a door step on Sherbourne-street.

Messrs. McMichael and Deane, two Torontonians, earned high places at the recent examinations of the New York Homoeopathic Medical College.

Ex-Constable Jarvis, of "move on" fame, who was convicted at this assizes of assault, was yesterday released on a suspended sentence. Justice Rose delivered a severe lecture to the prisoner, who felt the biting words more perhaps than a castigation.

At three o'clock yesterday afternoon Convocation Hall at Toronto University was filled with interested spectators to witness the conferring of degrees in medicine and dentistry on 74 fortunate candidates. Sir Daniel Wilson, President of the University, presided.

A fracas in the National Club Sunday night has caused no end of talk about town. Mr. P. McPhillips, the gentleman who complains of being held under a tap by two other members of the club, is a young lawyer, at one time a partner of Hector Cameron. The members of the club are doing their level best to hush the matter up, but Mr. McPhillips, it is claimed, will see his assailants punished to the full extent.

The inquest on the body of the infant Barnsley was resumed yesterday before Coroner Johnston. The jury brought in a verdict of "death from natural causes and not otherwise." Two delinquent jurors, John Reed and Thomas Davidson, will have their bond of $100 each estreated and they will be summoned to appear at the Assizes.

SWEPT BY FIRE.

Disastrous Conflagrations at Port Hope and Welcome—Church and Mills Burnt.

PORT HOPE, April 22.—Yesterday afternoon, about 3 o'clock, fire originating from a chimney in the house of Mrs. W. Shaw, in the village of Welcome, destroyed the dwelling together with the nearly new brick church adjoining on the south and the house and stables of John Grimson. The loss is about $10,000; insurance: Mrs. Shaw, $1200 on house and $1000 on contents in Watertown Mutual; church, $3000 in Mercantile; Mr. Grimson, $800 in Agricultural of Watertown.

About 9 p.m. some scoundrel fired Mr. John Helm's large frame grist mill here and the flames spread to J. Dyer & Sons' stone woolen mill, both of which went up in smoke. The grist mill was fired on the night of April 4, but on that occasion little damage was done. Mr. Helm had an insurance of $4000 and Dyer & Sons $4000 on machinery and $4000 on stock. The loss will be extremely heavy. A dozen families are thrown out of employment.

Mysterious Fire at Hepworth.

HEPWORTH, April 22.—At 10 o'clock yesterday morning flames were discovered issuing from the roof of the residence of J. E. Murphy, lumber merchant of this place. Damage to the extent of $2500 was done. The wind was high, and but for the timely arrival of the G.T.R fire brigade by special train from Wiarton the whole place would have been burned down. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

A Kingston Blaze.

KINGSTON, April 22.—A stone dwelling in Division-street owned and occupied by Matthew Elliott was burned on Sunday. Insured for $2800 in the Queen's Fire and Life. The fire was caused by a spark from the chimney setting fire to the shingles.

Kindled by a Lamp Explosion.

WOODSTOCK, April 22.—The handsome residence of Mrs. Eaigh on the corner of Princess and Wellington-streets was almost completely destroyed by fire early this morning, caused by a lamp exploding. The loss is covered by an insurance of $9000.

Many Square Miles of Flame.

BELLOW'S FALLS, Vt., April 22.—A fierce forest fire is raging in the woods adjacent to this place. Ten square miles of woodland has been burnt.

A Freight Shed Burnt.

BOSTON, April 22.—One of the freight sheds of the Boston and Albany Railroad was burned here to-day. The building was 450 by 80 feet and contained 80 or 90 carloads of baled hay. Ten freight cars were also destroyed. Loss $37,000.

The Revenge of Time.

Tapeyard—Who is that stunning girl you raised your hat to?

Ribbonley—Miss Goldie Bullion.

Tapeyard (timidly)—She didn't return your courtesy. Perhaps she doesn't know you.

Ribbonley (bitterly)—No! she does not know me now; but when I am the only young man at Ocean Foam next summer she will not only know me but pine for me in vain.—Lowell Citizen.

A Smart People.

First Thief—I've got a sure and safe thing now. I go to houses in a hurry and ask for a Bible with big print to read to a sick man. They give me the family Bible in a hurry, and I sell 'em at second hand book stores.

Second Thief—I tried that in one city, but it didn't work. Everybody seemed to see through the game, for they said they hadn't any Bibles. I just tell you there ain't no gettin' ahead o' them Chicago folks.—Philadelphia Record.

Very True.

Stern Parent—Young man, I am astounded at your impudence. You seek to marry my daughter knowing her to be wealthy in her own right, while you haven't a cent.

Self Possessed Youth—That's all right. What's the need of my having money when she has plenty?—Boston Courier.

Our Hats are Inimitable

Every day now adds its emphasis to the judgment of gentlemen as to the beauty and excellence of our spring Hats. They're buying them. They're not doing it without having first compared and decided that ours bear away the prize for shapeliness and quality as well as for faultless making and moderate prices. Gentlemen are critical when it comes to getting a light weight Hat. They are a necessity in these spring days—a necessity in which they esteem style as essential. Witness the demand for our Genuine Cooksy, Woodrow and Ellwood Celebrated Zephr weight Hats made especially for us. There is something peculiar and inimitable about the gracefulness of our Hats.

FOUND DROWNED.

The body of Mrs. Wm. Milburn found in the Otonabee.

About ten o'clock this morning Earnest Laplante was paddling down the river, and when just about opposite the foot of Charlotte-st., a dark object lying in the shallow water near the island attracted his attention, and upon closer examination the object was found to be the body of a woman, who had evidently been in the water for some time. Laplante paddled to shore, and notified the police of his ghastly find. Constable Adams accompanied him to the place where the body lay in the water, and it was drawn to the shore. The news that a woman had been found drowned spread like wildfire, and when the body was drawn ashore at the landing of the Peterborough Boating Club house, there was an immense crowd, eagerly waiting to satisfy their morbid curiosity. The woman was dressed in a long black jacket, made of a heavy ulster cloth, wore a dark dress, and checked green underskirt. Her head was uncovered, while on her feet she wore a pair of apparently new buttoned boots, and on her hands were a pair of black curly gloves. The face was much bruised and disfigured, and the body was much swollen, so that identification was not easy. The first person who identified the body was Mr. T. Cavanagh, who immediately upon seeing the corpse said it was Mrs. Wm. Milburn. Shortly afterwards Mr. Cavanagh's identification was made sure by the arrival of others who had known Mrs. Milburn well, and all doubt as to was dispelled. The husband of the unfortunate woman soon after arrived and the last vestage of doubt was removed.

Mrs Milburn, whose husband is a well known and much respected farmer of Smith Township, has been missing from her home since the 23rd of February last. It was not know for certainty where she was, some reports saying that she had gone to Montreal and others that she had committed suicide. This morning's developments have proven the last to be correct, and there is no doubt but that the unfortunate woman from trouble of her own was driven, in a moment of despair, to end her troubles in a watery grave. It was on the 19th of February that Mrs. Milburn left her home, and it was on Saturday, 23rd, following that Mr. Milburn heard the last of his wife. On this day he received a letter written by her which was and informed her husband that she had decided to end her life by jumping off the Black Bridge. Upon receiving this letter Mr. Milburn instituted a quiet search for his wife, but by word he received from Montreal he was led to believe that she was in that city, and his fears of the worst were somewhat eased. Now, however, it would seem that the poor woman did carry out the intention she mentioned in her last letter, and ended her troubled life in that tragic manner.

Mr. Milburn will have the sympathy of his many friends in the wave of trouble which has visited him, as his son Victor Milburn was found guilty at the assizes here yesterday of having attempted to utter forged cheques.

An inquest on the body was not considered necessary, and the remains were taken in charge by the unfortunate woman's husband, and were taken to the cemetery this afternoon and will be interred to-morrow.

Meeting of Officers.

A meeting of the officers of the 57th will be held in the Orderly room at the drill shed to-morrow evening.

Indicted for Perjury.

An outcome of the Foster forgery case is a charge against Mrs. Elizabeth Nix, of Ashburnham, for perjury. The charge is based on the evidence given by Mrs. Nix, at the preliminary hearing in the Police Court. She at first said she saw the sewing machine lease signed in Millbrook, but afterwards acknowledged that she did not and gave evidence similar to that she has given at the assize court.

A Negro in the Toils.

Wm Huffman, a negro, who is well known around town having kept the hotel on George-st. just south of Charlotte, known as the "stone-front," was arrested at Millbrook yesterday on a charge of larceny for which a warrant was held against him here. Chief Roszel went to Millbrook last night and brought Huffman to town this morning. It is alleged that the colored man when here in February last attending the races went into the store of Charles Butler on Hunter-st., and tapped the till. There is also an old Scott Act conviction of over a year's standing against Huffman. He left town not since and has been long in Millbrook living. Police Magistrate Dumble was engaged at the Assize Court, and no police court was held until this afternoon, when the prisoner was remanded.

AT THE ASSIZE COURT.

FOSTER ACQUITTED OF THE CHARGE OF FORGERY.

Young Milburn Found Guilty of Uttering a Forgery—Ross Acquitted of a Similar Charge—The Grand Jury Presentment—An Ejectment Case.

After the conclusion of the breach of promise case, Charles Foster was put on trial on the charge of having uttered a forged order knowing it to be forged. Mr. Riddell and Mr. Wood acted for the Crown and Messrs. Dennistoun and Stevenson for the prisoner.

MRS. ARTHUR ARMSTRONG was the first witness. She lived near Millbrook and Charles Foster was her brother. She did not sign and did not give anyone authority to sign the document produced. [The document was an agreement to purchase a Singer sewing machine purporting to be signed by Mrs. Armstrong.]

TO MR. DENNISTOUN—I have complained to my brother of the machine I have. I don't remember him saying he would get me one.

ELIZABETH NIX, sworn, said she lived in Ashburnham. Mr. Foster came into her place one evening and asked her sister, Mrs. Mabbit, to sign a paper, it would save him going to Millbrook. She consented and signed it. He came there often to see her sister. She did not see the paper.

TO MR. DENNISTOUN—My sister is a widow. She was making preparations to be married. I heard her say when Foster asked her to sign the paper, "Now, Foster, I won't have to pay for this." Couldn't say that I heard Mrs. Armstrong's name mentioned. About the time the prisoner went away my sister was getting ready to leave. She got a telegram and went away and is away yet.

WILLIAM RUSSELL, sworn, said that on making a sale such as this purports to be the salesman would receive $6. He heard Foster say he had sold a machine to a sister of his at Millbrook. He told me not to call on Mrs. Armstrong, at Millbrook, and he would make it right with Miss Anderson (the bookkeeper). Foster had paid the first instalment himself. Had a quarrel with Foster once and didn't speak for a couple of days.

FRANK COOKE, sworn, said he was an agent of the Singer Company. Received a card on April 2nd telling me that there was a hand machine at McComb's glove factory. I had brought the machine from there the day before.

To MR. DENNISTOUN—I think the post card may be in the writing of the prisoner. I had confidence in the prisoner and had not heard anything against his character.

JAMES McCOMB, sworn, said Foster left a machine at his glove store and asked that it be left there till he called for it. It was there four or five days, when Coon took it away.

CHIEF ROSZEL, sworn, said he telegraphed to St. Thomas, where Foster was arrested. Brought Foster back and he said he had not signed the lease, nor had Mrs. Armstrong, but that a woman did. Next morning he said he could prove that by Mrs. Nix. He had a ticket to Detroit. He said he intended to make his sister a present of the machine.

SARAH ANDERSON, employed by the Singer company, said Foster had given her the lease a few days after the date on it. He said his sister bought the machine, and the witness paid him $6 commission, he paying over $3 as the first payment.

TO MR. DENNISTOUN—Foster said when the next payment was due he would make the payment.

JOHN ORR said the machine brought back from McComb's agreed with the description in the lease.

MR. DENNISTOUN submitted that the document produced was not an order for the delivery of goods within the meaning of the statute, and that the case fell through.

After argument the judge agreed with this contention and ordered that a verdict of not guilty be entered.

Addressing the prisoner, the judge said that there was not doubt that he had uttered this document knowing it to be forged. He warned him to be careful and told him he could go.

MILBURN GUILTY.

Victor Milburn was arraigned on two counts, the first being a charge of having forged Mr. T. Cavanagh's name to a cheque, and the second with having uttered the cheque knowing it to be forged. He pleaded not guilty to both counts of the indictment and the trial proceeded—Messrs. Riddell and Wood acting for the crown and Mr. E. B. Edwards for the prisoner.

The evidence was similar to that given at the preliminary trial in the Police Court. Milburn, who is only a lad, took a cheque signed "T. Cavanow" into Mr. T. W. Robinson's and into Messrs. Gough Bros. and tried to get it cashed. After he was in Mr. Robinson's the police were notified and he was arrested.

About the only new evidence was that of Chief Roszel, who said that Milburn had admitted to him that he had written the name, and a number of witnesses who were examined as to the prisoner's previous good character.

After the addresses of the counsel and the Judge's charge, the jury retired and soon after returned with a verdict of guilty on the second count—that of having uttered or tried to put off a forged document—with a strong recommendation to mercy.

TRUE BILLS.

The Grand Jury returned true bills in the cases of Queen vs. Chapman, the piano case; Queen vs. Ross, forgery, and Queen vs. Nix, perjury.

COONE VS. SCOLARD.

This was an action for damages for unlawful ejectment. The plaintiff arranged for the lease of a farm in Ennismore, but a condition of the lease not having been fulfilled the defendant, the owner of the land, got a bailiff and put his things off the premises. The case occupied about four hours. Verdict for the defendant with costs.—Gunn, Orillia, for plaintiff, W. H. Moore for the defendant.

THE PIANO CASE.

The Carter piano case was taken up. Chas. Chapman was charged on three counts, with having unlawfully taken away on April 16th a piano under lawful seizure, with having stolen a piano the goods of L. Potvin and with stealing a piano the goods of John Hall (the landlord.) Mr. Riddell appeared for the crown, Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q. C., for Mr. Hall, the private prosecutor, and Mr. E. B. Edwards for the prisoner.

Mr. Edwards objected to the indictment, but after argument the trial proceeded.

It will be remembered that when Prof. Carter went away Mr. Hall seized the goods in the house, among them a Heintzman piano. Chapman, agent for the Heintzman company, tendered the amount of the rent, $32, to L. Potvin, who had the goods in charge as landlord's bailiff, but he refused to take it from him, saying if Mrs. Carter gave him the money he would give her the keys. Then the agent forced his way into the house. The evidence of Messrs. E. Hall, L. Potvin, W. Butler and Mrs. Carter was heard, and the facts detailed as was done at the Police Court. Mr. Edwards again raised the point that as the amount of the rent had been tendered the goods were not under legal seizure, and after argument the case was dismissed, the jury being directed by the judge to enter a verdict of not guilty.

THIRD DAY—WEDNESDAY.

The court resumed this morning at 9.30 o'clock.

GRAND JURY PRESENTMENT.

The Grand Jury came into court during the morning with their presentment, which was as follows:—

The Grand Jurors of our Sovereign Lady the Queen in making their presentment beg to congratulate Your Lordship upon the occasion of your first judicial visit to Peterborough, and to thank you for the clear and full instructions, as expressed in your charge, of the duties devolving upon the Grand Jury, which they have found of great benefit in considering the various bills that have come before them.

The Grand Jury having considered the matter of the replacement of the grand jury system, do not see their way clear to recommend any change, but on the other hand cannot see how the interests of justice would be better served by entrusting them to any single individual, and they do not see that as a matter of economy there would be any appreciable lessening of expense, to at least this county.

The Grand Jury visited the gaol and are pleased to report that everything was found in good order, the place clean, well kept, and the prisoners as well pleased as could be expected with persons in their position with their treatment.

R. S. DAVIDSON,
Foreman.

Peterborough, April 24, 1889.

Justice McMAHON, addressing the Grand Jury, said that he concurred with their opinion as to the abolition of the Grand Jury system, and said it must be gratifying to the people of the county to know that the money expended on the prison was well expended, and it must also be gratifying to the sheriff and other officers to hear this approval of their management of the prison. He then discharged the jurymen from further attendance.

ROSS ACQUITTED.

Wm. Ross was then put on trial for forging Mr. Jas. Stevenson's name to a cheque for $18. A man presented the cheque in Messrs. Foot & McWhinnie's in the fall of 1887, and obtained a pair of boots and the change. The cheque was afterwards ascertained to be a forgery. The only question was as to whether Ross was the man. The evidence given was substantially the same as that given at the Police Court preliminary hearing. The identification was not very strong, Mr. McWhinnie's recollection of the man being the clearest. After argument the case was given to the jury, who returned a verdict of not guilty. Mr. W. A. Stratton appeared for the prisoner.

LAID OVER.

The charge against Mrs. Nix for perjury was not pressed at this court, and is laid over. There is a probability that it may not be pressed to trial. This ended the criminal business before the court.

A NEWSPAPER CASE.

The libel case of Clancy vs. Curran of the Orillia News-Letter, was taken up this afternoon.

ACCIDENT ON THE C. P. R.

Runaway Freight Cars Collide With the Express.

An accident occurred on the C. P. R. between here and Toronto which delayed the express due here at 11.25 until late in the afternoon. The particulars of the accident are not easily obtainable, but from what can be learned it was a collision between the express and a freight train, but fortunately it is reported that no person was injured.

It is said that while an eastern bound freight train was shunting at Clairmont station, which is some little distance east of Toronto, nine cars of the train broke loose and started down the grade towards Green River, a station which is nearer Toronto. There were no train hands on the nine cars which escaped and, therefore, the runaways had nothing to impede them in their wild race down the grade. When the accident occurred the express had left Green River coming east towards Clairmont and no warning could be given to it, but it rushed along until it met the nine freight cars and then the collision occurred. It is reported that no persons were injured, although it hardly seems credible that the passengers on the express could escape so fortunately. The freight train was thrown from the track and badly smashed and the express was also damaged, but to what extent is not positively known. An auxiliary train was sent to the scene of the wreck from Toronto and the work of clearing the line was pushed with all possible speed.

In consequence of the accident there were no Toronto papers to be had in town this afternoon.

A Broken Head and a Dog's Sagacity.

Mr. Fred Poulette a laboring man who lives on McDonnel-st. met with a severe accident just before six o'clock Monday evening. He was crossing the bridge over the creek near the Protestant Home when he accidentally fell into the water. The creek here is very shallow and is filled with sharp and rugged rocks. Poulette's head struck on these boulders and he was so severely cut and bruised as to be left insensible. His faithful dog which was with him, however, with wonderful sagacity, began to howl most piteously and ran up and down the road until the attention of some of the men at Hamilton's foundry was attracted to the spot and Poulette was found. Medical assistance was summoned and it was found necessary to take about twenty stitches in the cuts which the unfortunate man had received on his head.

Singing by Proxy.

"It," said Mrs. Langtry in a recent interview, "has been eight years since I went on the stage; it was necessity that brought me there; I like bread and butter, and had not the money to get it. When Mrs. Labouchere came to me and suggested that I should make my first venture in amateur theatricals for the benefit of a charity I was just making up my mind to start a market garden, for I felt sure I could succeed in that, and I had a vague idea that cabbages and cauliflower and asparagus, having the stamp of my special attention, might be given a short vogue in Covent Garden market. I went on the stage determined to accept criticism from whoever offered it, and I do believe that the orchestra and stage people are far the best critics, for they see all sorts and conditions of acting. I will tell you something funny that happened to me at my first professional appearance, which was in January, 1882. I was to play Blanche Hay, and, if you remember, she has a song in the second act. I do not sing, consequently it was necessary to have some one behind the screen to sing for me while I played the accompaniment and imitated all the movements. The first night it was a great success, so much so that Clement Scott insisted that I was doing all the singing, but the second the singer had either gotten so intoxicated with her own melody or had looked too often upon the wine when it was red, for long after the time for her to stop she kept on singing, and, though she was conducted from off the stage, the audience could still hear her warbling away as she was taken out the stage door."—Chicago Herald.

Leaving in Time.

Thaddeus Stevens was one of the most remarkable men of his time, or of any time. During his long career in the house of representatives, he was the acknowledged leader of his party, and no one ever thought of disputing his primacy. For quickness of wit and sarcasm, he had no equal, and any one who locked horns with him in debate was quite certain to come off second best. It is related of Mr. Stevens that, when a young man practicing law in Pennsylvania, he was trying a cause before a judge who was disposed to rule on every question against him. Mr. Stevens bore this for some time, and then, hastily gathering up his books and papers, started for the door. The judge, somewhat surprised at this, hailed him and asked if he meant, by leaving in that manner, to show contempt of court. "No," replied Mr. Stevens, "I am leaving in order that I may not show my contempt."—San Francisco Argonaut.

The Modest Newspaper Man.

It seems strange that newspaper men, so eager to advertise and make famous, or notorious, all manner of men and things, instinctively shrink from seeing their own name in print. It matters not whether the reference to them be short or long, complimentary or otherwise, the vast majority of journalists do not want themselves "written up." Why is it? Let those who wish to moralize upon and analyze the reasons for this queer fact.—Lowell Critic.

LORD RANDOLPH ANGRY

AND THREATENS CHAMBERLAIN WITH POLITICAL ANNIHILATION.

Serious Riots at the Austrian Capital—Boulanger's Stay in London to be Brief—An Engagement With Cameroons Natives.

LONDON, April 23.—Lord Randolph Churchill, in an angry letter reproaching Mr. Chamberlain for his want of magnanimity after the Conservative sacrifices in Birmingham, and justifying in detail his own actions, bluntly tells Mr. Chamberlain that if the Conservatives choose to test their strength throughout Birmingham the result would certainly be the political annihilation of Mr. Chamberlain and his friends, who, if they have Unionism at heart, had better moderate their pretensions and conciliate rather than provoke the Conservatives.

The Riots in Vienna.

VIENNA, April 23.—On account of the street railway strikers' riots the favorite Ottakin and Dornback quarters have been occupied by cavalry. Every arrest yesterday was followed by many of the mob with the object of rescuing the prisoner. It is estimated there were 20,000 rioters. On woman was trampled to death. Many persons were seriously injured.

STOCKHOLM, April 23.—Princess Eugenia, sister of the King, is dead.

Boulanger's Travels.

LONDON, April 23—Gen. Boulanger will arrive at Folkestone via Ostend to-day. His friends resent the assertions that his departure from Brussels was compulsory and declare that he will return to the Belgian capital after a brief sojourn in London.

An Archbishop's Hope.

DUBLIN, April 23.—At the State lunch, which took place at the Dublin Mansion House yesterday, Archbishop Walsh expressed the hope that the causes which had led to the abrogation of the former custom of electing a Roman Catholic and Protestant Lord Mayor alternately would soon be removed and that the reinstated custom would thereafter be strictly observed.

Fight with Natives.

BERLIN, April 23.—The North German Gazette publishes the report of an engagement between the crew of the German gun boat "Hyena" and a party of natives of the Cameroons. The vessel landed a force of seventy-five officers and men and a hot fire ensued, resulting in the retreat of the Germans. One sailor was killed and two officers were wounded.

A Settlement Prevented.

DUBLIN, April 23.—The negotiations for the settlement of the troubles of the tenants on the estates of Capt. Vandeleur on the terms proposed by Mr. Thomas W. Russell, member of Parliament for South Tyrone, which promised a speedy and satisfactory ending, have been suddenly stopped by the obstinacy of one of the holders, a Mrs. Daxon. This woman is the mother of an Irish-American who returned from the United States in February, and got possession of a farm from which the former tenant had been ejected. Daxon installed his mother in possession of the farm and went back to America. The mother, who was evicted from the same farm in 1869, refuses to accept the terms suggested by Mr. Russell, or indeed, any other than her own, and the probabilities are that hostilities between Capt. Vandeleur and his tenants will be speedily resumed.

A LADY'S EXPERIENCE.

The Danmark's Officers Praised—It was Awful Work.

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—Miss Bena Pearson, of Omaha, Neb., one of the cabin passengers on the Danmark, says:—When the crash caused by the broken shaft aroused us we knew something serious had happened, but the officers and crew were so assuring in their declarations that there was no danger that we never felt we were doomed. When it was decided to transfer us we walked down the ladder to the open boats and when we got to the Missouri they tied a rope around our waists and hoisted us up. They did it so tenderly and carefully that we experienced no inconvenience to speak of. Like most of the others I lost everything I had except what I had on. No effort was made to get at the baggage, because it was out of the question, and only such things as hand satchels, bundles and other packages easily portable, were thought of. A few of the women in the steerage cried and displayed their fear in other ways, but there was nothing like confusion or panic, and I can only attribute the calmness of the passengers to the cool and calm efforts of the ship's officers and crew. One woman in the steerage of the Danmark left everything behind but a cage containing two canaries. This she succeeded in bringing safely with her to Philadelphia.

THE DEAD ENGINEER.

Nothing now can be learned as to the death of engineer Kaas, of the Danmark, there having been no witnesses of his fate. One theory is that he committed suicide. The most generally believed story is that he was killed while trying to stop the machinery after the shaft had broken.

CORMORANTS.

The Missouri had to pay exhorbitant prices for supplies at St. Michaels. She shows signs of the rough weather which she experienced.

AN AWFUL EXPERIENCE.

Captain Charles Hansen, skipper of the yacht Brooklyn, of the Corinthian Yacht Club, Marblehead, Mass., a passenger on the Danmark, and who materially assisted in transferring passengers, says:—"I passed through a terrible time, and I only marvel that the other passengers behaved as coolly as they did. The broken shaft ploughed an awful hole in the bottom of the Danmark, which was temporarily repaired, but when the wind shifted the water poured in torrents and the vessel began to settle, stern first. There were sixty-five children. The youngest on board was four months and the oldest eighty-four years. They were taken from the Danmark by the companion ladder, and clung into the Missouri at an awful risk, considering the rolling of the sea. The work was terribly hard. When Captain Knudsen left the Danmark it was thought she might float twenty-four hours, but being so far from port it was risking too much to stay on her."

The Secretary of State.

NEW YORK, April 23.—Hon. J. A. Chapleau, Secretary of State, will arrive in Montreal to-morrow evening at 8 30 by the Boston train.

The Polar Explorer.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 23.—Lord Lonsdale arrived here from the Arctic regions by the Bertha this morning in good health. He returns to England via Winnipeg and New York.

A Horrible Revelation.

She had advertised for the return of her dog, and it was a long haired Skye terrier—regular valuable thoroughbred. The reward was to be $10. A stalwart Celt came timidly forward and asked if that was the dog. Being answered affirmatively and paid the reward, the affection of the lady, who kissed and hugged her poor, dear, little darling, attracted his attention and the following skirmish ensued:

"Where did you find the darling?"

"Small comfort would it do you, madam, did I tell you."

"But tell me while I caress the angel."

"I can't tell you, because you would not like it."

"But, dear, darling Dandy—was Dandy cold?"

"Sure, madam, I don't know. I saw your advertisement in the paper and recognized him tied to the end of a long stick and a woman washin' off windows wid him."—Philadelphia Press.

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

A Few Strenuous Protests Culled by The Detroit Free Press.

The last issue of The Arizona Kicker contains the following cheerful paragraphs:

NOT A SUCCESS.—Last Saturday night soon after 11 o'clock some gentleman whose identity is unknown to us fired a charge of buckshot through the side window of our editorial room directly at the spot where our cot is usually placed. Had the cot been there we should have been inquested on and buried ere this. But the cot wasn't there. We are not party, but we are no hayseed. We haven't slept twice in the same spot for the last twelve weeks. We have learned the ways of this community at considerable cost and trouble and we don't propose to plant ourselves as a midnight target.

We feel sorry for the gent who wasted his energies and ammunition. He doubtless went away from the window feeling that he was entitled to credit for doing a smart thing. Come again, old chap.

CAN'T TELL YET.—The Boston Acme Opera company is billed for two nights next week at Carter's hall. This may be a first class combination, or it may be a side show which our people should give the cold shoulder. No tickets have been left at this office up to date, and we shall not express our opinion in this issue.

ERRATA.—We find we were in error last week in regard to the shooting affray between the Hon. Bill Dakin and Col. Jones. We supposed at the time that Col. Jones was a regular subscriber to this paper, but a look through our list proves that we have never had his name at all. On the contrary, the Hon. Dakin has subscribed for five copies. We were misinformed as to the following:

1. Dakin did not call Jones a liar.
2. Dakin did not draw his gun first.
3. Jones did not offer to apologize.

We were hasty in saying that Dakin ought to swing from a limb, and that he had long been a terror to the town. We found him to be a mild, courteous, genteel citizen, full of push and enterprise, and his presence is a credit to the town. Col. Jones had better travel for his health as soon as able, and in case he finds a town to suit him better he should buy it and settle there.

NOT THIS YEAR.—A correspondent who signs himself "P. D. Q." wants to know why The Kicker doesn't pitch into the board of aldermen for its corruption, and he adds that every mother's son of them could be sent to prison for a thief. We don't doubt this assertion in the least, but we are not saying anything. We have the city printing this year at a good, fat price, and are not saying a word.

RETURNED.—Maj. Jim Smith created quite a sensation by descending from the stage as it reached town last Friday evening. We had no sooner notified him that his subscription to The Kicker had expired than he handed us two big silver dollars for a renewal.

The major has put in the past year in state prison, having been sent there by mistake, as his friends are convinced. He served his term like a man and has returned to the bosom of his family and society. He has cards out for a "high coffee" day after to-morrow, and the elite will be there in legions.—Detroit Free Press.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowls, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Absurd!

Ward McAllister—Who is this Anson that the newspapers are yelling about! Where does he come from!

Citizen—Have you never heard of Capt. Anson, the leader of the great Chicago nine!

Ward McAllister (with lofty contempt)—Nine, did you say! Only nine! What absurd folly to make a hero of such a man!—Chicago Tribune.

Pigs in the Clover.

Mrs. Briggs—You can't get 'em in the pen, can you!

Mr. Briggs—No. The pesky little things. There they go again.

"Those pigs remind me of you, John."

"Why?"

"Because they'd rather run round everywhere else than go home."—Chicago Herald.

At the Sunday School.

"And now, children," said the superintendent, benignantly, "are there any questions you would like to ask before we leave this lesson?"

"How long did it take you to get all the pigs in the pen the first time you tried?" inquired the sweet little girl on the front seat.—Chicago Tribune.

Something That Wouldn't Make Much.

Managing Editor—Did you prepare that article on "The Intellectual Attainment of the Four Hundred?"

Reporter—Yes, sir.

Managing Editor—About how much space will it occupy?

Reporter—About six lines.—Burlington Free Press.

OUR AWFUL FIGHTER.

A True Story of Why He Joined Us and Why He Left Us.

It having become noised about that we were going to make a horseback trip through a portion of the cattle country, various individuals made applications for situations. We needed only a cook and a man to take charge of the baggage, but the applicants kept coming, and the day before we left a chap appeared who introduced himself as Awful Davis.

"Look-a-here, fellers," he began in a business way, "I want to be counted in on this. Indeed, it's a slight on me that you hadn't applied for my services. You'd have been in a purty pickle to have gone without the undersigned."

When asked to explain what peculiar value his services might have to us he uttered a long whistle of surprise and replied:

"Well, you are innocents, and no mistake! Who's going to do your fighting for you?"

As the Indians were at peace we didn't expect any trouble.

"Oh! you don't! Bless me, but what dear, good little boys! Injuns! Nobody said Injuns. It's the white men you've got to look out for. You're going among the tuffest lot in the whole world. They are right on the fight all day and all night. Any one of the gang can turn himself loose and hammer Halifax out of the whole five of you in ten minutes."

He wanted to go along to do our fighting. He would furnish his own mule and make the trip for a dollar a day and his keep. When asked if he had any recommends he put on an injured air and answered:

"And you never heard of Awful Davis! Never heard of the man who has fit fifty-six fights and come out on top every time! Pertend that you want a certificate of character from a feller who fights, standing, kneeling, or lying on his back! This makes me weary!"

We talked it over and finally engaged him, and when informed of the fact he replied:

"Very well, gentlemen. From this moment you are in my keeping. Just pint out the kuss you want pulverized and I'll do the business. I shan't put airy limit on you. I'm to fight day or night and to lick six men a day. If you could bring about three or four a day for the next week I should feel obliged, as my liver is a leetle torpid and I want exercise."

During the first day's ride we met but few people. One of those was an old Indian, lame in the left leg, and Awful Davis halted the party and observed:

"Gents, did I hear any of you tell me to lick this copper reptile?"

None of us had told him so.

"I beg your pardon, gents. I want you to understand that I'm allus on hand. I'd like to git down and hammer him for the benefit of my liver; but of course I'm under orders."

We had pitched camp and were waiting for supper when a cowboy rode up. The greetings were friendly, and he got down to have a bite with us. He was hardly on the ground before he saw our Awful fighter and uttered a humph! of disgust.

"What you got thar?" he asked.

"He's our fighter."

"Your fighter! Did you bring him along to fight anybody or anything?"

"He hired to us to do our fighting, but he's had no show yet."

"Well, I'll give him a show! Come out o' that, you cowardly kyote!"

The Awful was skulking behind the baggage. He rose up at the command, and the cowboy shouted at him:

"Bill Wheeson, I know ye and I owe ye one. Come out here and earn yer hire!"

"Is that you, Jim Phillips?" queried our Awful as he advanced a step.

"Of course it's me, you yaller cur from the bottom lands!"

"And you want to fight?"

"I want to show these 'ere gents that you ar' the biggest liar and coward in America! Come out here!"

"Gents, is it your wish that I projuce a funeral here?" asked the Awful as he turned to us; "shall I bang his feechurs into one bloody mass—kill him deader'n a beef bone with one blow?"

We answered that it was.

"Here—tie one hand behind me—tie both hands behind me—tie my feet together, and I'll lick him then!" howled the cowboy.

"Jim Phillips, you haven't got two minits to exist!" solemnly announced the Awful. "I'm comin' fur ye like a dozen cyclones biled into one! Look out, now!"

He spit on his hands and stepped back, as if to get a running start, and next thing we heard was the thump! thump! of his feet as he fled afar into the darkness. Some time during the night he returned for his mule. Next morning we found the following explanation scrawled on a piece of paper and stuck into a split stick: "Seezed with sudent yillness—good-bi."—New York Sun.

For Yourself.

If you esteem a good article buy where quality is secured and at a reasonable price. In teas, for instance, quality is what tells. To be absolutely sure as to quality give Hawley Bros. a call. Ask for a sample and test it with what you have been using. Remember the only exclusively tea depot in town is at Hawley Bros. d94 is made very often by merchants advertising goods at very low figures and when the public call to price the goods they are much higher than the prices their advertisement calls for, or they are just out of the goods. A TOWER FOR GEORGE-ST.

THE "IDLERS AND STRANGERS" MEET WITH GREAT SUCCESS.

Grand Donations and a Splendid Tea—The Platform Meeting—Addresses by Rev. Messrs. Wallace, Tovell, Dewey, and Pearson—An Original Poem on the Tower—The Programme—$1,300 Raised Towards the Tower.

The "Idlers and Strangers" of the George-st. have covered themselves with honor by the grand success of their tea and platform entertainment given in that church last evening. They have made a record for themselves, and have shown that, though this was their first effort, they are by no means to be despised and hereafter, it is safe to say, their assistance will be in demand in all the enterprises of the church. The object which they had in view is now well known, viz., the raising of sufficient funds to erect a tower on the church, which will add greatly to the appearance of the structure and do away with that unfinished appearance which the absence of the tower gives the building. That this object will be attained is now assured, so that the gentlemen who have labored so faithfully and energetically will have the satisfaction of knowing that their efforts have not been in vain.

THE TEA AND DECORATIONS.

Tea was served in the Sunday school room of the church, and the appearance of the room brought forth exclamations of admiration from all who entered it. Bunting and Chinese lanterns had been hung with most artistic and beautifying effect from pillar to pillar, and flowers and canary birds gave an additional and most pleasant aspect to the decorations. Then the tea that was served was of the same admirable and high standard as the decorations, and the wants of the hundreds who partook of the bountiful and toothsome repast were attended to in a manner which satisfied every one. Indeed, the tea was pronounced one of the most pleasant and successful that has been enjoyed for a long time.

THE PLATFORM MEETING.

Shortly after eight o'clock, when all who so wished had partaken of the good things provided in the school room, the platform meeting was held in the church. There was a good audience and the programme provided was much enjoyed. Seated on the platform were Prof. Wallace, of Cobourg, Rev. Messrs. Dewey, Tovell, Pearson, Davis and Mr. Jas. Kendry.

The meeting opened with a hymn, after which Rev. Mr. Davis offered up an opening prayer. Then Rev. Mr. Pearson made a few remarks in reference to the entertainment and introduced the chairman. He said, that the committee in charge had done their utmost to have the best possible man occupy the chair. They had first sent an invitation to the Governor General, but that gentleman through business engagements had been forced to decline. Then Sir John Macdonald had been asked, but he too had found it impossible to accede to the request as also had Hon. Edward Blake and Mayor Clarke, of Toronto. Then Mr. Geo. A. Cox had been invited to preside, but he also found it impossible but had done the next best thing and sent a cheque for $100. Just here he also stated that a telegram had been received from Rev. Messrs. Crossley and Hunter wishing the idlers and strangers success and subscribing $20 towards the tower fund. Mr. Pearson then introduced the chairman of the evening, who, though he was not a member of Parliament at present might be one some day—Mr. Jas. Kendry.

THE PROGRAMME.

Mr. Kendry, after a few appropriate remarks, called upon Rev. Mr. Dewey, of Lindsay, for a vocal solo. Before giving his solo Rev. Mr. Dewey made a few happy remarks and then sang in a most pleasing manner the song "The World is Growing Better."

Prof. F. H. Wallace, of Victoria University, Cobourg, a former pastor of George st., next gave a very interesting and short address. He said he was always glad to be in that church and rejoiced in its prosperity. He referred to their "towering" aspirations and ambitions and then spoke of the practical aspect of Christianity, and the result that should follow a great revival such as Peterborough had just experienced.

Mrs. Daly then rendered "Consider the Lilies" in a most charming manner, and was followed by Miss Sanders, who gave a recitation in a remarkably excellent manner.

Dr. Goldsmith was next called upon for an address, and in a few words referred to the magnificent success of the entertainment and to the "Idlers and Strangers" to whom the success was due.

Rev. Mr. Dewey then sang another solo, "Tell it over once again," in fine voice.

The Rev. L. Tovell, of St. Catharines, who is also a former pastor of the George-st. church, made a few felicitous remarks, in which he spoke of the pleasure he felt at being present and alluded to the gentlemen upon the platform, especially singling out Rev. Mr. Pearson. He spoke in a happy strain for a few minutes and then said he had on Saturday last when wondering what he would say to his old friends in Peterborough scratched off a few lines of in reference to the tower which it was proposed to erect, and these verses he would give them. They read as follows:—

A tower strong of graceful form,
This sacred temple shall adorn;
A monument of toil and care,
And zeal and love, and wisdom rare.

And sounding out o'er hill and dell,
May be the deep toned bronzed bell,
Whose swinging shall the people wake,
From Auburn mills to Little lake.

Perchance there may from tower strong
Spring forth a spire pointing long,
To worlds above where angels dwell,
The home of our Immanuel.

Within the tower there may be found
A space, far up from dusty ground,
For praying bands whose hearts' desire,
Shall wait the pentecostal fire.

A winding way within shall be,
Where feet may climb, that men may see
The busy street, and pleasant home,
And sweet retreats where lovers roam.

From summit high they'll cast fond eyes,
On gardens, lanes and streams that rise
On sweeping curves where boatmen row,
And where the waters grandly flow,

And pleasant parks all dotted o'er
With trees well kept, that more and more
Their branches spreading, yield a shade,
For playful child and watchful maid.

They'll look from lofty tower top
On fields remote, where golden crop
The farmer's barns with plenty swell,
And gladden urban homes as well.

They'll point with pride to where the poor
Are sheltered, fed, and helped endure
Their sorrows keen, and taught to stand,
By faith while on the "Border Land."

Then northward turn to scan the ground
Where England's orphans may be found;
With prayer uplifted to the Son,
That God may bless each little one.

And on yet further, near the shore,
Where broad Otonabee doth pour
Her volume deep of waters blue,
The hospital stands forth to view.

Still northward and the rattling wheel,
The curling smoke and flashing steel,
The rumbling stones, and roaring strife,
Reveal the factory's busy life.

A birds-eye view from off this tower
Will tell where centres real, of power,
Hold wide dominion o'er the thought
Of those who would the truth be taught.

There stands St. John with solemn pines,
Around whose walls the ivy twines,
An heir of all the faith of seers
Like Ridley and his grand compeers.

And there St. Paul's, a neighbor true,
Enriched by teaching "old and new,"
Her prayer upholding all who stand
For God, and home, and native land.

And old St. Andrew's stately, bold,
Resisting unjust claims for gold
With reverence for such men as Knox,
Who stood for right like mountain rocks.

And there on Murray-st., a church
Where Baptists congregate to search
The Word, that made a Carey shine
On India's shores in light divine.

A younger sister farther south,
In homely clad, and looking north,
In friendship, smiles on rich and poor,
Who pass within her open door.

Her banner, how it proudly floats
O'er silken robes, and homespun coats;
Her music sweet, her discourse clear,
She chains the eager worshiper.

Fair Charlotte-st. and George-st. one;
Your light pour forth like morning sun,
And in the golden future share
The fruits of constant toil and care.

These pulpits and the printing press;
Heaven help them ever to impress
On every conscience, mind and heart,
The patriot's clear consistent part.

The hour demands resistance great
To evils that beset the state;
The influence of the Papal See,
Must not destroy our liberty.

The British flag, 'tis heaven's command,
Must float in honor o'er this land,
And as for one to reign supreme
The patriot prays "God Save the Queen."

Nor must the Demon's bitter dregs,
Conveyed in barrels and little kegs,
Enflood the nation's peopled plains
Destroying dinner, soul and brains.

The darkly maddening waves that roll,
Replenishing the drunkard's bowl,
On prohibition's rock shall break,
When Zion, strengthened, shall awake.

Let pulpit, press and parliament
Be one in use of armament;
Let moral forces thrust the foe,
And legislation end the woe.

From tower peak such thoughts as these,
Start forth like Pheasants from the trees,
And swift on anxious wing they fly,
Lest maltsmen seek their veins to dry.

Descending now at this late hour,
The question comes, "Who built this tower?"
It's solid walls imposing are,
It's trimmings gleam like silver'd star.

Beneath its grand uplifted form
The generations yet unborn,
To worship God, will enter here
And breath a holy atmosphere.

Across its shadow, shaded light,
Fair brides will step with spirits bright,
And bridegrooms march with highborn thought
And bless the man who ties the knot.

And mourners draped with sable bands,
(The casket borne by gentle hands)
Through entrance wide, will hither meet,
Their tears to shed at Jesus feet.

Great hosts will face these massive walls
And throng these chaste and sacred halls,
A witness long this tower shall be
Of those who loved to bow the knee.

The grand "Amen" will here be heard
From lips of fire touched by the Lord,
And hallelujahs roll with power
Through arches, aisles and lofty tower.

And now my rhyme is well nigh spun,
Just one word more, it is, "Well done,"
Well done, my brother, friend of yore,
God speed you till your work is o'er.

Ye "idlers" towers of strength are ye,
Ye "strangers" citizens shall be,
All hail such workers hither sent,
We glory in your monument.

Ye shall be pillars in this place
If tower ye raise this house to grace,
And let us all our faith uphold
That endless joy this trust may yield.

MAGNIFICENT SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Rev. Mr. Pearson then made the closing address, thanking the "Idlers and Strangers," in behalf of the audience for the splendid entertainment they had provided. The rev. gentleman explained the meaning of the term, "Idlers and Strangers." The Idlers were those who had never taken any active part in former entertainments, and the Strangers were those who had newly united with the church. He then called for subscriptions to the tower fund. The chairman, Mr. Kendry, was the first to respond to the call with $102. Messrs J. J. Hartley and J. D. Flavelle were also put down for one hundred each on the strength of promises they were said to have made. Messrs. A. Rutherford, D. Belleghem, A. Clegg, Dr. Goldsmith subscribed fifty dollars each, and the twenty-five, ten and five dollar subscriptions came in quick order until the magnificent sum of $1286 was raised towards the $2000 required for the erection of the tower. Of this sum about $150 was realized from the entertainment. It is expected that the remaining eight hundred dollars will be easily secured by subscriptions and that the church will this summer be graced with a handsome tower.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the rev. gentlemen who had given addresses, and the meeting closed with the doxology.

A WORD OF PRAISE.

To the members of the executive committee great praise is due for their energetic and successful work in setting on foot the project and raising such a handsome amount. Of the committee Messrs. Wyatt, Early, Ed. Green, Geo. McBurney and Dr. Goldsmith have labored faithfully and well. Mr. Wyatt especially deserves much credit for his indefatigible efforts towards making the entertainment a success, for since the enterprise was started he has given his best endeavors towards crowning the event with success. Needless to say the committee are highly gratified and elated over their unexpected success.

ST. JOHN'S VESTRY MEETING.

An Affecting Scene—Officers Elected and Other Business Transacted.

The annual vestry meeting of St. John's church was held in the school house Monday night, the rector, Rev. Mr. Beck, occupying the chair. There was a large attendance and considerable interest was manifested in the church affairs. After the minutes of the last meeting had been read and confirmed, the accounts for the past year were presented and laid on the table. They were referred to Messrs. Hedden and A. V. R. Young to be audited and reported on at the adjourned meeting.

OFFICERS.

The officers elected were:—
RECTOR'S WARDEN.—Dr. Burnham.
PEOPLE'S WARDEN.—Mr. Sheffield.
SIDESMEN.—Messrs. H. Long, Wm. English, Joseph Mills and H. T. Everett.

AN IMPRESSIVE SCENE.

At this stage of the proceedings the rector left the chair, which was taken by Dr. Burnham.

Before Rev. Mr. Beck left the chair, however, Judge Weller rose and said he could not allow the opportunity to pass without expressing his and the congregation's pleasure at having their rector presiding at the meeting, and also to express their satisfaction to him for sanctioning the re-engaging of the two curates. After some further eulogistic and feeling remarks regarding the rector's relations with his congregation, Judge Weller resumed his seat.

The rector was too much overcome by his emotion to respond, but merely thanked them for their kind expressions and left the church, the congregation all rising as he passed out.

OTHER BUSINESS.

On motion, Judge Weller, Dr. Burnham, Dr. Halliday and Messrs. G. A. Smith, R. A. Morrow and A. P. Poussette were appointed a finance committee.

Rev. Mr. Clementi moved, seconded by Judge Weller, "That Rev. J. C. Davidson be engaged as curate-in-charge and Rev. C. B. Kenrick as assistant curate, the arrangement terminable at the end of any year, by six months' notice on either part." The mover referred in commendatory language to the services of both of the rev. gentlemen and to the ability they possess for the positions.

Judge Weller endorsed Rev. Mr. Clementi's statements, and said he felt all the congregation would join him in the expression of the wish that they might remain.

The resolution carried unanimously.

Mr. Seward was re-engaged as organist at the same salary as he previously received, and he also was the subject of many flattering references.

A vote of thanks was passed to Mayor Stevenson for the gas standards placed by him on the pulpit, and also to Mr. T. G. Hazlitt, for his liberal donation towards lumber purchased from the Dickson Company.

The lay delegates appointed to the Synod were Dr. Halliday, Judge Weller and Mr. J. E. Belcher.

The meeting adjourned for two weeks.

A TOUCHING FAREWELL.

PETERBORO'S BISHOP-ELECT CONCLUDES HIS SERVICES AT BARRIE.

An Eulogistic and Touching Address—A Very Feeling Reply—A Severance of Ties of Eighteen Years' Formation.

On Sunday last Rev. R. A. O'Connor, Bishop-Elect of Peterborough, concluded his labors at Barrie as pastor of St. Mary's Church. The rev. gentleman at the conclusion of his Easter sermon in the morning very feelingly referred to his long service in the parish. After vespers in the evening, amidst the immense congregation which thronged the church,

A LENGTHY, ILLUMINATED ADDRESS

was presented to the rev. gentleman, accompanied by a purse containing $800. The address expressed gratification beyond measure at his Lordship's elevation to the dignity of a Bishop and his appointment to the vacant See of Peterborough, his people regarding it as a fitting tribute to his worth and a suitable reward for his exemplary life. The address refers to his long residence among them as a pastor and mentioned the fact that he went to Barrie when the financial affairs of the parish were at a low ebb, and the handsome Church, the beautiful new Convent and the school building which he leaves behind him are monuments of his untiring energy. It also expressed profound regret that his parishioners now bid him farewell, and in conclusion wished him a long life of usefulness in the new sphere of action to which he has been called.

REV. FATHER O'CONNOR'S REPLY.

The rev. gentleman replied in the following words:—

MY BELOVED BRETHREN,—I thank you most cordially and sincerely for the expressions of love and esteem which you bear towards one who has been your pastor for nearly a score of years.

I am aware of the high honor that has been conferred upon me, and I duly regret that it should not have fallen upon more worthy shoulders. If I had the choice myself, I should have preferred to remain here amongst the people of Barrie, from whom I have received so many marks of affection.

I accept with great pleasure your congratulations on my elevation to the dignity of a Bishop. You refer in glowing terms to the good works that have been accomplished since I came amongst you, but I must say that it is due to you yourselves, who have made so many sacrifices and who have exhibited so much generosity, that these works of good have been brought about. The pastor cannot alone carry out all good deeds, unless he is helped by the people, and I must ascribe the honor and success of what has been done here to your generous co-operation and the uniting together that I have always found among the people of this congregation and also those who differ from us in their religious belief, and I have to thank them also for the many acts of charity and the many ways in which they have aided us. If my days amongst you have been pleasant, if they have been years of quietness, years of pleasure, it is owing to the kindness that I have experienced, not alone from my own people, but from the people of every denomination in town, and I bear testimony to the great regard for each other's belief that has always been manifest in this town, and I hope such feelings may continue with greater force in the future. We are all here citizens of one common country, and it should be the duty of all citizens to prove all kindly feelings towards another, and I bear testimony to the people of many other towns that I have been acquainted with, that the people of this town have always worked in harmony; there have been no religious discords, and I may say that you are an example to the people of the whole Dominion, and I thank you now most sincerely for the generous purse with which you have presented me—two years ago when celebrating my silver jubilee, and now on the eve of my departure from among you. I may say that I shall never forget the kindness, good will and charity that I have experienced, not alone from my own people, but from the other congregations of Barrie as well, and you may be sure that I shall never forget you, and that I shall pray that God may bless you both spiritually and temporally, and, although separated from one another for the time, we shall all meet again at last.

Many of this congregation were moved to tears and the regret expressed in the address at the rev. gentleman's departure was shown to be heartfelt.

The Bishop-elect goes into retreat for a week. It is expected that he will arrive in town on the 30th of this month, and his consecration will take place on the first of May.

Not Much.

Little Emily, 5 years old, is a great favorite in spite of her incorrigible freedom of expression. The other day she had been on a visit with her mother at a friend's, and had remained to dinner. At the table she had amused the family, with the possible exception of its elderly and serious head, by occasional remarks. As the meal was drawing to an end the hostess remarked:

"Emily, wouldn't you like to stay here all the time, and be our little girl?"

Emily looked up, pointed her finger at the head of the family and exclaimed, contemptuously:

"What! And have him for a father?"—Boston Transcript.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Canadian Pictures.

We hear that during the month of June, next, there is to be exhibited in the Egyptian Hall, Piccadilly, London, England, a series of pictures made in Canada, Australia and New Zealand, principally by Mr. Edward Roper, late of Hamilton, Ontario. From what was said about a previous exhibition of Mr. Roper's held in Old Bond-st., a few years ago, we expect that what will now be shown of his works will be extremely interesting and we advise our friends to tell their Old Country friends to pay a visit to this collection. It is principally of the Country west of Winnipeg, especially amongst the mountains of B. C.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria,

BEAUTIFUL JIM.

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER

Young Tommy shifted irresolutely from one foot to the other. "I should think," he blurted out, "that you could hardly be so mean when I'm just off to active service, and may never come home again."

"A very good thing if you never do," she responded, coldly; "but, all the same, it is just because you are going to the front, and perhaps never may come home again, that I asked you to come up here. I want to know if you have considered that, in the event of such happening, it is possible, even probable, that your guilt may fall on the shoulders of another who is perfectly innocent?"

Tommy looked at her blankly. "What do you mean?" he asked.

"I mean," said Nancy, steadily, "that, supposing you happen to be killed out there or to die, and Mr. Beresford gets home safely, the charge against him might be raked up again, and he might find it difficult, or even impossible, to clear himself."

"I never thought of it," said Tommy, with evident sincerity.

"I don't suppose you did—you don't think very much of any one but yourself, you know," said Nancy, very scornfully. "I have thought of it, however, and I mean you to secure him from any such risk."

"How?"

"By leaving a written account behind you of Capt. Owen's death."

"I shall do nothing of the kind! Do you think I'm going to incriminate myself in that way? No. I'll be shot if I do," he cried, indignantly.

Nancy eyed him coolly. "Hanged, you mean," she said, with extreme quietness.

Tommy made a great start. "Nancy," he said, hoarsely, "are you trying how far you can go?"

"No," she replied, steadily, "for I have no need. I know exactly how far I can go, and you also. You will sign that paper before you leave this room," she added, "or I go straight to my father with the whole story. If you were a man," with great scorn, "you would be only too glad to save a man who had borne so much for you from such a risk; but you are the same Stuart you have been all along, bad, selfish and reckless to the lowest depths of your wicked heart."

"Beresford has not kept silent for me!" muttered Tommy, sullenly.

"No, but he has done so for me," she rejoined; "and therefore I am going to secure him from running any further risk through your sin than he had done before."

"You are going to do this and that; you won't have the other," Tommy cried, furiously. "'Pon my soul, Madame Nancy, you will carry things too far, if you don't mind. I shall not stand very much more of your high hand, I assure you. By Jove! madame," he blurted out, in a vain attempt to bounce Nancy out of her stronghold, "you forget yourself. Do you know who I am?"

Nancy looked at him for full a minute before she spoke. "Yes," she said, slowly, "I am sorry to say I do know exactly what you are. You are Capt. Owen's murderer."

All Tommy's artificial indignation died out instantly. "No, I'm not that—it was an accident," he stammered.

Nancy smiled. "It is not worth while to mince matters between you and I," she answered. "It does not signify what you call it, you killed him; that was enough for me. Now, we have no more time to waste over this kind of argument; sit down there and write out what I wish."

Tommy sat down and rested his head dejectedly on his hand. "I—I don't know what you want," he said, forlornly.

"I know you would not," said Nancy, taking her keys out of her pocket and unlocking her desk. "I have put down exactly what I want you to copy and sign—here it is."

She handed a sheet of note paper to the wretched boy, on which was written the following:

"I, Stuart Earle, lieutenant in the Blankshire regiment, being on the eve of departure for active service in Burmah, do testify that on the —th of May, 188-, I caused the death of my brother officer, Capt. Richard Owen, by throwing a dumb bell at him. I swear that no other person was in any way involved in his death, or knew anything whatever about it."

"I tell you it was an accident," said Tommy, fiercely.

"Then you can add it, if you choose," said she.

So Tommy seized a pen and passionately copied out the few words, adding at the end that the entire affair was an accident; that although he had thrown the dumb bell at Owen in a passion, he had never had the smallest intention of killing him, or even of doing him any injury whatever. "And how do I know you won't let this get out of your hands?" he asked, raising a haggard and wretched face to look at her.

"You may trust me," she said, quietly. "Under no other circumstances than the imminent danger to an innocent person would I disclose the truth, not on account of our family honor, which must be poor indeed, since it has not had a better influence on you—but solely because of the sorrow it would be to my father."

"And you would like it to work an influence against me with my father?" he asked. "To get me cut out of my inheritance, for instance?"

Nancy looked at him in disgusted scorn. "Am I you?" she asked, contemptuously; and so, stung to the depths of his ignoble soul, young Tommy seized the pen once more, dipped it into the ink, and signed his name at the foot of the page: "Stuart Earle, Lieutenant, Blankshire Regiment."

"There, will that satisfy you?" he asked, savagely.

POE'S FORDHAM COTTAGE.

THE PLACE WHERE THE POET PASSED HIS QUIETEST DAYS.

He Moved Out There So His Wife Could "Get Good Air and Dig Dirt"—The Motherly Friends of His Last Days. Doing Editorial Work at $10 a Week.

The Poe cottage where it now stands occupies a little plateau on the bluff, a few minutes' walk above the Fordham station of the Harlem railroad. The road winds up the hill from the railway over a natural pavement of the hard gray gneiss. In the summer one might pass the cottage without knowing there was one there. One end of it is close upon the road, but the sides and roof are so covered with vines and shaded with trees that the foliage hides the structure in a rustic arbor. The cottage itself is a simple and primitive affair that was built more than seventy years ago. It is long, low and box shaped, the sides as well as the roof being shingled. A broad porch runs along the south side facing the lawn, and in front of this grows a vigorous cherry tree which was planted by Poe in 1847 and which has rarely failed during recent years to bring out a full crop of fruit. On the lower floor there are two large square rooms and a kitchen. The middle room was used by Poe as a dining and sitting room, and his visitors were also received here after his wife became ill. She then occupied the front room as a bedroom, and it was there she died.

IN THE FASHIONABLE QUARTER.

The second floor has three rooms with low ceilings, but they are neatly plastered, airy and comfortable. One of these over the front room is of the same size and is said to have been Poe's favorite room. The old fashioned brick chimney runs up through the roof and has an open fireplace, where a cheerful wood fire can blaze and crackle in winter. It is said that Poe wrote two of his latest poems, "Ulalume" and "Eureka," in this room. The quietest days of his life were spent in his home in Fordham. When he became famous from "The Raven" and some of his stories, Poe was living in the city in humble quarters near Washington square. This was then the fashionable neighborhood of New York, and brown stone dwellings had only just begun to start up along the lower end of Fifth avenue.

The reputation which he obtained from his literary work did not materially increase his means. He had for several years been doing editorial work on The Evening Mirror at a salary of $10 a week. He subsequently went out to live in a house along the boulevard in the neighborhood of Eightieth street, which was then well out of town. The decision in a libel suit in his favor gave him a few hundred dollars in ready money, and in the spring of 1846 he rented the Fordham house and went with his wife and her mother, Mrs. Clemm, to live there. His wife, Virginia, was then suffering from consumption. She rallied for a little, but soon again began to fail and died in the following year.

The grounds around the cottage comprise about two acres. They slope away into a shady, grassy hollow. A bare ledge of rocks overlooks the cliff and the valley nearly 100 feet below. To the east the view stretches into Connecticut and over the sound to the blue and distant hills of Long Island. There is a tradition that a British battery occupied this site for some time during the Revolution. Poe was visited frequently here by those who knew him through his reputation. His expenses were small and his duties only such as he cared to assume. He took long walks, often going to the city on foot, and his favorite route was down and over the Harlem at High bridge.

MRS. CROMWELL'S RECOLLECTIONS.

One of his neighbors, Mrs. Reuben Cromwell, who lived for many years a few hundred yards from the Poe cottage, remembers him when, as a girl, she saw him for the first time in a cherry tree picking fruit. She thought him "nice looking and sociable." He told her he had brought his wife out there "to get good air and to dig in the dirt," but Mrs. Cromwell observed, "she was too weak and thin to dig much, and she soon became sick and never went out." Their house, she said, was plainly furnished, and they seemed to be very poor; but they were contented. Mrs. Clemm was called "Muddie" and Poe "Eddie."

On the morning that she heard of Poe's death in Baltimore, Mrs. Cromwell went over to the house and found Mrs. Clemm packing up. She had received a letter from Poe saying that he was about to be married again to a Baltimore woman and he would come for her. She was overcome at the news of his death and repeated that if she could have been there to nurse him through his "bad spell" he would have recovered. The neighbors raised money for her to go on to Baltimore. Poe had been behind in his rent for several months, and Mrs. Clemm afterward returned to sell off their little household goods. Of these Mrs. Cromwell obtained a clock, a rocking chair and the old family Bible.

The cottage which Poe obtained for $100 a year has been rented during recent years for $400. In 1883 the house and land were sold at public auction for $5,700. For a number of years it has been occupied by Mrs. E. D. Dechert, the widow of an engineer who assisted in making the plans of Central park, and subsequently laid out the avenues and drives of Fordham. With the growth of the city, land has greatly increased in value within a few years in this neighborhood, and the sight is one of the best in that portion of Fordham. The owner now intends to tear down the house if it is not taken by the park department, and to dispose of the property in building lots.—New York Tribune.

A Timely Table.

A Canadian crank wants to annex the New England states, and has introduced a proposal to that effect in the Dominion parliament. The "annexation" will resemble the capture of a prisoner told of in war literature, somewhat as follows:

Soldier—I've caught a prisoner.
Officer—Bring him along, then.
Soldier—He won't come.
Officer—Then come yourself.
Soldier—He won't let me.—San Francisco Post.

Getting It Down Fine.

Marguerite, a blue eyed cherub of 3 years, knows how she wants the gas turned when she is ready for sleep. After she had said her prayers a few nights ago, and as her mother was preparing to lower the gas jet, she said: "Mamma, turn it to just a pimple," and then closed her eyes to sleep and dream of "Pigs in Clover."—Buffalo [illegible]

THE COTTON "COMBINE."

COLORED GOODS MEN IN COUNCIL AT MONTREAL.

The Trade of the Country Increasing—"Honest" Canadian Goods—A New "Association" Formed.

MONTREAL, April 24.—A meeting of the Colored Goods Association was held this forenoon at the Windsor. Mr. A. F. Gault was unanimously elected chairman and there was present a full representation of the mills. The following are the names of those present and the mills they represent: Mr. D. Morrice, St. Croix Cotton Company; Mr. Whitman, Gibson Cotton Company; Mr. John M. Parks, W. Parks and Son; Mr. A. F. Gault, Stormont Cotton Company; Mr. R. R. Stevenson, Montreal Cotton Company; Mr. Long, Merritton Cotton Company; Messrs. Tilden and Murray, Ontario Cotton Company; Mr. J. M. Young, Hamilton Cotton Company; Mr. Birkett, Dundas Cotton Company. Mr. [illegible], the representative of the Lybster Cotton Company, was unable to be present, but expressed his views on the different subjects by letter.

Upon comparison of stocks on hand and orders it was found that the mills were in excellent shape, stocks being extremely light and of the most reasonable goods and the orders well spread over every variety of goods. It was evident from the different reports that the trade of the country is increasing, not so much from the contually increasing population as from the fact that the people are in a better position to resort to manufactured goods instead of the old homespun articles made by the farmers' wives themselves.

During the last two years the mills have found numbers of lines for their machinery which were never thought of before. Each new line stopped the importation of foreign goods and suiting the country quite as well, if not better. All Canadian manufactured goods are "honest," or free from dressing.

The meeting was continued in the afternoon and after some routine business had been transacted the association was formed with a few changes from the old methods.

THROUGH BY DAYLIGHT.

The C.P.R. to Inaugurate a Fast Service Between Toronto and Montreal.

MONTREAL, April 24.—The Canadian Pacific Railway are discussing the advisability of an eight-hour day service between Montreal and Toronto, and with this end in view have constructed two magnificent new passenger engines on an entirely new model. The designer is Mr. F. R. Brown, the mechanical engineer of the company.

They are a new departure in passenger locomotives and reflect no small amount of credit upon their inventor. The engine has two wheels instead of six. Six wheels are driving wheels with a four-wheel truck in front. These driving wheels are 78-inch. Cylinders [illegible]

THE RAILWAY SUBSIDIES.

ROADS WHICH ARE TO BE AIDED WITH LANDS AND CASH.

The House Discussing the Supplementary Estimates—Senator [illegible]'s Bill Thrown Out.

OTTAWA, April 24.—The House to-day spent the greater part of its two sittings in Committee of Supply, the supplementary estimates being under consideration. Business is being rapidly pushed through with a view to prorogation at the earliest date possible.

In answer to an inquiry by Mr. Sutherland Sir John Macdonald said the cost of the Harvey and Salisbury line of railway would be about $14,000 a mile.

Hon. Edgar Dewdney announced that in view of the probability of a lengthy discussion on the bill consolidating the Northwest Territories Act and making certain amendments, it had been decided to withdraw the bill for this session.

The resolutions providing for a revote of certain railway subsidies to railways were considered in committee and adopted.

The House then went into Committee of Supply, taking into consideration the supplementary estimates for 1889-'90. Objection being taken to an item of $2000 additional salary to Collingwood Schreiber, Chief Engineer of Government Railways, for special services, Sir John Macdonald very highly eulogized that officer and stated that to his knowledge Mr. Schreiber had been offered and refused a position with much greater emolument than he now received. He admitted that the practice of thus adding to the stipulated salaries of Government employes was objectionable, and in that particular case he promised to make a change by increasing the regular salary.

After recess, the House being still in Committee of Supply, a discussion arose on the Sunday traffic on the Welland Canal. Messrs. Somerville, Rykert, Rain of Wentworth, Boyle and others spoke against its continuance.

Sir John Macdonald said against the protests of the Sabbatarians the Government had to put the strong representations of the commercial interests in the form of petitions from Boards of Trade and others against any interruption in the traffic. The canal was closed on the Sabbath day from [illegible] a.m. to [illegible] p.m., vessels only being locked through in the early morning or late at night and [illegible] to attendance at church [illegible]. It was to be remembered that we had to meet the competition of the Erie Canal where Sunday traffic was allowed. In order that the House might fully understand the question of the question he would lay upon the table all the correspondence received on both sides of the question.

The committee made good progress with the supplementary estimates and at 2 o'clock the House adjourned.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Salvation Army Circles Excited—Serious Allegations Made Against a Husband.

TORONTO, April 23.—There is quite a ripple in Salvation Army circles over a matter which will create no little scandal if the leading spirits are unsuccessful in their efforts to hush things up. Some time ago ex-editor Sumner, of The War Cry, who had left the field, wrote a book of sixty-four pages, entitled, "The New Papacy; or, Behind the Scenes in the Salvation Army," which was duly printed and 5000 copies delivered to a Yonge-street bookseller. Hardly had this been done when Commissioner Coombs heard of it, and, backed by a wealthy local sympathizer of the Army, proceeded to the bookseller and bought up the entire edition, with the exception of two or three copies, which had been sold, and then went to the printer and purchased the plates and [illegible] and later in the day made a bonfire of the lot. The revelations published are said to be highly spiced, and deal with the mode of raising and dispensing of money in the Army. Sumner, it is said, has also been secured and shipped to England, whence he came.

As the morning passenger train on the Canadian Pacific Railway which left the Union Station at 8.45 yesterday for Montreal was going up the grade about two miles east of Scott River, six or eight cars of a freight train [illegible] broke loose and came thundering down the grade. The engineer of the passenger train promptly reversed his engine, and his presence of mind averted what would otherwise have been a most serious mishap. As it was the passenger engine was badly raked and one of the freight cars completely wrecked, while the others were more or less damaged. No one was injured.

Miss Simpson, the young lady at whose instance Thos. A. Miller, a well-known veterinary surgeon, was charged with [illegible] snatching some time ago, complains that when the case came before the Grand Jury her evidence clearly made out a prima facie case, but the jury threw out the bill and sent her a purse containing $5 in token of their sympathy. The girl returned the money indignantly and is now taking steps for a new trial.

The eminent [illegible] restaurateur, Mr. Peter Green of York-street, bewails the disappearance of his steward Charlie and his waiter Harry, who have gone with a whole [illegible] receipts.

The action of Brennan v. Brennan, which has been on the peremptory list for some days past, was commenced yesterday afternoon in the Civil Assize Court. The plaintiff is Susannah Elizabeth Brennan, and the defendant, Joseph Scott Brennan, is her husband. The suit is for alimony and the custody of a child. The statement of claim sets out that the plaintiff married the defendant in Hamilton on April 17, 1882, and lived with him as his wife until April, 1888. During this time one child was born. The plaintiff ceased to live with the defendant because of his "many acts of unkindness, indecency, unfaithfulness, gross misconduct, and cruelty," the instances of which are enumerated as follows: In August, 1884, the defendant committed adultery with a young lady named [illegible], engaged as a servant in their house at Hamilton; the same night he dragged the plaintiff out of bed and tormented her in many ways; on other numerous occasions he is charged with "coarse, violent, lewd, obscene, blasphemous and filthy language." In February, 1884, the defendant [illegible] the plaintiff, spraining her arm. He is also charged with attempting to rape one Abbie Addy, a cousin of the plaintiff, in March last, when she was in a room alone, and she was compelled to escape to avoid him. On the following morning the defendant pulled Mrs. Brennan's hair and used violence to the child. In February, 1887, the defendant is alleged to have attempted to rape a young lady named Miss [illegible], and when the [illegible] used one threatened to bring Brennan to the Hamilton Police Court he desired the plaintiff to perjure herself by swearing that the young lady was not in the house when the offence was alleged to have occurred. The husband, the plaintiff claims, is not a proper custodian of the child, and she seeks to obtain it and support for it and herself.

Brennan, in his defence, claims that he conducted and provided a home properly for his wife, and was not addicted to intoxicating drink. His wife, he alleges, was ambitious for social position, and was dissatisfied that he was a mechanic. In her aspirations and dissatisfaction, he alleges, she was encouraged by one John Earls, of Toronto, and left home not because of any misconduct on his part, only because she desired to move in the circles of society in Toronto in which Mr. John Earls moves. It is also claimed by the defendant that his wife was slightly intimate with one John McCoy, of Hamilton, in the early part of 1888 during the absence of the defendant at Brennan's mills at Huntsville. The defendant is a member of the wealthy lumber firm of M. Brennan & Sons, Hamilton, who have mills and lumber woods in Simcoe and Muskoka. Mrs. Brennan is a sister of Mrs. John Earls, wife of the well-known Grand Trunk Railway freight agent, Toronto, who resides at 109 Spadina avenue.

NEWS OF THE OLD WORLD.

LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL'S EPISTOLARY MASTERPIECE.

Boulanger's Advent Creates General Interest in London—The Visit to Sandringham [illegible] in a Manifesto.

LONDON, April 23.—The Easter holidays have been enlivened by Lord Randolph Churchill's letter to "My dear Mr. Chamberlain," an epistle which will rank among the masterpieces of controversial literature. The people who dislike Chamberlain, including, I fear, a majority of the inhabitants of this kingdom, are enchanted at seeing him handled in this easy fashion. Chamberlain himself would, perhaps, say free and easy. Lord Randolph takes up his pen, he tells us, not for himself, but for the Birmingham Tories. Was there a compact by which Central Birmingham was to have Lord Randolph as a member? That is the question. "Well," says Lord Randolph coolly, "Mr. Rowlands, who knows, says there was. You, who ought to know, say there was not. Mr. Rowlands is incapable of making an assertion contrary to facts within his own knowledge." I put it more bluntly than Lord Randolph does, but the meaning is the same. "You had your own way," he goes on. "You kept me out, no doubt, on public grounds. You might have been satisfied with that, but you now try to embroil me with my friends. You make an acrimonious attack upon them—on them to whom at this moment you owe everything and without whom you would be politically annihilated. You seem to consider that you can catch Conservative votes with vinegar, that Conservatives ought to be glad and proud to be mere Gibeonites—hewers of wood and drawers of water to yourself and your friends, and that when they have fulfilled whatever tasks you devolve on them they are to be content to be told that they are unprofitable servants."

I fear that in my abridgment that savor of polite irony and of urbanity which flavors Lord Randolph's sentences disappears. But [illegible] understand the Tory wrath is hot against Chamberlain, and that the Unionist alliance in Birmingham will not be [illegible] unless Chamberlain accepts Lord Randolph's advice, withdraws his pretensions, suppresses what they think insults, and consents to conciliate instead of provoking the men on whose votes his own seat depends.

The coming of "Gen." Boulanger does certainly create some interest, if not general enthusiasm, in London. Most of the papers have long articles on his expected advent, and if they do not hail him with enthusiasm they treat him as a personage. Some of them are even prepared to interview him. The prevailing note in all these discussions is one of pride that London should be the one inviolable asylum for political offenders in all Europe. John Bull once more shows how much he likes a rebel or a conspirator, always provided that he is a foreigner and does not rebel or conspire against the Queen. It is publicly announced by telegraph that the general expects to be seasick while crossing the channel; therefore no reporters will be admitted to the steamer. Count Dillon, Rochefort and the black horse are all coming with him. He is to ride the black horse in Rotten Row. All the lion-hunters of London—their name is legion—are looking forward with rapture to his arrival.

The Queen's visit to Sandringham is the first since the Prince of Wales had typhoid fever. "About time!" ejaculates the loyal Briton, who is more loyal than ever because Her Majesty gave up her projected journey yesterday, which would have deranged all the holiday traffic west of London.

Parnell did not get the freedom of Edinburgh without a struggle, which robs the honor of much of its freshness. Two public meetings of protest were held yesterday. "Why," asked an eminent speaker, "should [illegible] be considered for the [illegible] Why, because Fleet Street [illegible] should Parnell be made a citizen of Edinburgh?" The list of his opponents included many names eminent in Scotland. The sentiment in his favor was mainly a [illegible] sentiment. It was the [illegible]

The [illegible] and Randolph's [illegible] are passing off much as usual. The military [illegible] in the south coast [illegible] creditable to the volunteers. There are those who discover in them evidences of a better feeling than before between the regulars and the volunteers. Easter Monday in London is over, with little disorder. In fact the streets were seldom quieter than they were at midnight on Monday.

Stephenson & Collier's new comedy opera Doris was a near [illegible] at the stage of the Lyric theatre. Doris has no story, nor any dialog that sparkles, nor songs of a literary merit. It is not original or remarkable, but clever. The chorus was good, the band pretty good, the scenery good, the costumes and properties handsome, but not [illegible] or elaborate. The audience bore good-humoredly with two acts, but revelled in the third and greeted the authors and performers with undiscriminating impartiality.

AGAIN REMANDED.

The Harvey Embezzlement Case Put Over for Another Week.

GUELPH, April 24.—The Harvey embezzlement case which has been remanded again and again came up to-day for trial and was remanded once more for another week. The private prosecutor was ready to go on with the case, but Crown Attorney Peterson asked for the remand on the grounds that he could not see his way clear to try Harvey for the minor crime of embezzlement while the more serious one of murder was hanging over him, and that he would not take the responsibility of bringing Harvey out of prison to the Police Court without consulting the Attorney-General as to whether it would be in the interests of justice to do so as matters at present stand.

His Worship Police Magistrate Saunders coincided with him and said that this remanding was illegal and made the law a farce.

Mr. E. McLean, who appeared for Harvey, had the report of Messrs. Lye, Cross and Mitchell, the accountants, ready to give in evidence in the case, but as the prisoner Harvey was not present it was not allowed to be read. A copy was got by the reporters of the city dailies for publication, but before it could be published Mr. Guthrie for the prosecution forbid it, giving as his reasons that it was a contempt of court and that it also would prejudice the case.

In the meantime the Crown Attorney will correspond with the Attorney-General as to the bringing of Harvey into the court and when the trial comes up next Wednesday the accountants' report will be given in full.

HAMILTON'S FREE LIBRARY.

A Site Finally Selected by the Board—Mishap to a Schooner.

HAMILTON, April 24.—The Free Library Board at its meeting last night finally decided upon the Turner site for the building, tenders for the latter to be advertised for at once. The site chosen is immediately east of the Centenary Church on Main-street west. It is 143 feet deep by 90 feet wide, and the cost is $9000. There is light on four sides. At present the ground is covered with a lot of wooden rookeries that are a disgrace to that portion of the city.

Frank Weaver, while at work demolishing an old building at the Grand Trunk station, threw himself off the roof along with a board and had two ribs broken.

The schooner Guiness met with a mishap this morning. There was a gale blowing from the southwest and the schooner, in trying to get through the piers, was driven against them. A piece was broken off her stem and her bow was stove in. She was obliged to lay up for repairs.

T. B. Townsend has purchased the whole of the Oaklands estate from the different holders of portions of it. The estate will remain closed to the public this summer, but the chances are that a portion of it at least will be used for park purposes next season.

GOT AHEAD OF THE BOOMERS.

How the United States Marshals Captured the Choice Sites.

KANSAS CITY, April 24.—A Journal special from Oklahoma says: The Deputy United States Marshals laid out Oklahoma City Sunday night and Monday morning. They entered the supposed choice lots with tents. When the train arrived about 1 o'clock with 2000 people about 700 had been at work. The later comers were struck with amazement. They mechanically walked over to the town site, took what the Government officials had left and went on out two miles staking town lots. Water at Oklahoma is plenty and there is a lack of fire and dust. But the days are hot, the nights cold and food hard to obtain.

There is now an organized crowd at Guthrie which to-morrow will put a squatter upon the lot of every man who anticipates 12 o'clock noon on the 22nd. A hundred choice lots will be jumped at one time. The jumpers will be backed by 300 armed men. Now that freight can be obtained building in both cities is going on rapidly. Plowing has already commenced. There will be enough vegetables raised for home consumption. The horses will have corn fodder to carry them through the winter. There will be no famine although there will be much suffering. Endeavors are being made to induce the surplus population to go to Texas. Unfounded stories of violence and murder are being sent out by sensational correspondents.

AN EX-CONVICT'S LEGACIES.

Warden Hodson Gets $300,000 from a Former Boarder—Northwest News.

WINNIPEG, April 24.—By the death of ex-Convict Manse in England, Warden Bedson receives a legacy of $300,000 and H. Vivian, Canon Matheson and St. John's College $50,000 each. The will will be contested by deceased's family, who reside in the Old Country.

A large block of railway bonds of the Manitoba and Northern Pacific is being sold and the iron for the Morris and Brandon branch has been ordered.

Chief McKenzie is about to sever his connection with the fire brigade.

Battleford citizens held a meeting Thursday to consider the best suitable way of erecting a monument to those who fell at Cut Knife.

May 22 has been proclaimed Arbor Day.

Crushed Beneath the Wheels.

HALIFAX, April 23.—A distressing accident occurred on the Intercolonial at Londonderry yesterday morning. Hiram Ross, 21, while coupling cars fell beneath the wheels and had his right shoulder dreadfully crushed. Doctors amputated the arm at the shoulder, removing part of the scapula also. Ross' death is expected, but there is a chance of his recovery.

Orillia News.

ORILLIA, April 23.—A terrific hail and rain storm visited this place yesterday afternoon. Numerous windows were broken in town.

Mr. A. Tait, accompanied by his engineer, leaves for Barrie to-day to bring home his new pleasure yacht Gipsy. The Gipsy is 65 ft. long, 10 ft. beam, and will average about 12 miles an hour.

The Second Lynching at That Spot.

DANVILLE, April 23.—Scott Bailey, colored, made a desperate but unsuccessful attempt yesterday to assault a prominent young lady. The attempt was made in the daytime at the lady's home in the village. Bailey was caught soon afterwards, confessed his crime and was lynched about midnight. He was hanged from the same place from which Bruce Younger was hanged less than a year ago for a similar offence.

A Disastrous Cloud Burst.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 24.—One of the heaviest rain and hail storms ever known here occurred this afternoon. It was a veritable cloud burst. Fire had broken out in the debris of the Jackson building which burned Sunday and the firemen were there to put it out. When the storm burst a wall fell hitting Firemen Leach and Howell and injuring several others. The Ivy-street [illegible] was blown down and destroyed, loss $100,000.

Hit by a Freight Engine.

GUELPH, April 24.—James Mulhall, a section man on the Grand Trunk Railway here, to-day had his leg broken and otherwise injured by being thrown off the truck by a freight engine.

HALIFAX, April 23.—Among the passengers on the steamer Halifax for Boston yesterday were Mr. Somers and Detective McAulay of New York and Henry Hardie the extradited forger. The papers arrived from Ottawa on Monday evening and the preliminaries for the immediate removal of Hardie to New York were completed Tuesday. The money which was found in Hardie's possession when arrested and which the city marshal banked for safety was drawn and handed over to Detective McAulay.

THE TOWN SCHOOLS.

ATTENTION is called to the growth of the town of Peterborough and to the increase of its population by the fact that the Board of Education finds it necessary to provide increased accommodation for the children attending the town schools. An increase of population, when it becomes as marked as it has in Peterborough, necessitates further school accommodation as surely as it does additional dwelling houses or enlarged churches. While hundreds of dwellings have been erected and occupied, and every church in town has been enlarged and filled, the school buildings have remained unchanged as to size, and the time has come when the people are asked to provide additional buildings in which their children may be taught.

Of late years the northern part of the town has grown rapidly. Whole blocks that were almost vacant three or four years ago are now almost entirely covered with dwellings, while farm lands have been turned into building lots and houses erected upon them. Many children in this part have a long distance to go to school, and with the largely increased number of children of school age in the district a ward school is very desirable. One result of the establishment of a ward school there would be an increase in the attendance, for, with a shorter distance to go, more names would appear on the roll and the attendance would be more regular. In the south ward the attendance has entirely outgrown the accommodation, and a building in the vicinity has had to be procured and temporarily utilized for the children who were crowded out of the school proper. The addition which it is proposed to erected at this school is necessary and can scarcely be done without, while a school in the north ward is greatly needed. Under the circumstances the ratepayers would only be doing what the requirements of their children call for in authorizing the Board to incur the expenditure necessary to provide this additional accommodation, and in voting for the public school debenture by-law to be voted upon on Wednesday next.

The present Collegiate Institute premises have been a bill of expense for some years. Erected many years ago, the building has served the purposes of a high and public school for a long time, but the changes in the regulations and the new departmental requirements have caused alterations and improvements to be made at times, only to find that the accommodation was pronounced unsuitable. Frequent alterations and the expenses incurred in making them, while not giving satisfaction, would soon run away with considerable money—in fact, has caused considerable expense—and the question is submitted to the ratepayers whether they would prefer erecting a new building for the high school, leaving the present rooms used for it to be utilized for public school purposes. There would be an advantage, to both the public and high schools, in having these schools in separate buildings where they would have no connection with each other, and a consequence would be a better return for the money expended upon them. The increase in the attendance at the central public school and the consequent crowding has been such that, the Public School Inspector informs us, all or almost all of the space now used by the high school would be taken up by the public school if it was vacated. One room in the basement used for the public school, on the east side, is said to be unsuitable for the purpose, and a general room is needed for the children in the winter season, which, with the additional space required for ordinary public school work, would occupy the present high school premises.

Every parent is careful to provide for the requirements of his children, and is anxious not only for their present comfort and well-being, but to give them the necessary mental equipment to enable them to make their way through life. No parent would wish to have his child's education interfered with on account of deficient school accommodation, or to have its health impaired studying in over-crowded or otherwise unsuitable rooms. This can be taken for granted without any reservation. The only question is as to whether the additional buildings proposed to be erected under the two separate by-laws are needed, and no ratepayer should vote against them without first carefully investigating and ascertaining whether the requirements of the educational training and health of the children of the town call for the proposed improvements. We feel sure that such an investigation would convince all that the public school by-law should be carried, and that a large majority would be convinced that it would be unfortunate if the Collegiate Institute by-law was defeated.

DOMINION DOINGS.

A SENSATION IN A QUIET SUBURB OF TORONTO.

Elopement of a Windermere Woman With a Young Lodger—Andy Mahoney Again Lodged in Jail.

TORONTO, April 24.—Windermere has a sensation caused by the [illegible] of Mrs. Burfield, who, it is alleged, has levanted with a [illegible] [illegible] half her age. Her husband, George Burfield, a respectable man, well-known in St. Alban's ward, is left to mourn the heartless departure of his better half, as well as make provision for a family of six small children.

Mrs. Burfield's new-found lover, as alleged, is William Fitz-Morris, better known at Windermere as "Bill," a rather [illegible] looking young Englishman, who for the past year or two ran a washer manufacturing machine at the Ontario Bolt Works, where George Burfield is also employed at present, on the construction of the branch railway line from West Toronto Junction to the Bolt Works and the noisy rolling mills. No one appeared to know much of young Fitz-Morris' antecedents, save that he came from London originally, and eight or nine months ago went to board at Burfield's house, which is situated on the rising ground near the Bolt Works and adjacent to a number of other buildings.

The story of the gradually formed intimacy between Mrs. Burfield and her lodger is most likely known only to themselves. With this the local people have nothing to do; their interest was wholly engrossed with the simultaneous disappearance of the two and conjectures as to their probable destination, of which no one is yet correctly informed. The elopement occurred on Thursday night last. Mr. Burfield, it is said, immediately consulted the Toronto detectives, and a warrant was sworn out for the arrest of Fitz-Morris, but the route he and Mrs. Burfield took could not be learned. Mr. Burfield is said to have been quite prostrated over the affair.

Mrs. Burfield is a buxom lady of pleasing manner and about 35 years of age, and Fitz-Morris a slim, sallow-faced, beardless youth of 19. It is needless to say that everybody is talking, and much sympathy is expressed for the deserted husband, who is using every endeavor to discover the guilty pair.

Andy Mahoney Again in Durance Vile.

MONTREAL, April 23.—Andy Mahoney, who has been out on bail ever since the [illegible] days after his arrest in connection with the $14,000 jewelry case, was re-arrested to-day when he came to court to attend at the enquete in the Phillips case. Judge Desnoyers has ordered him to bring new bail instead of that furnished by Henry Phillips, who is under arrest himself, and the delay being up to-day Andy will again lodge with Father Payette. It is said some startling developments in the case are likely to come out within the next few days.

Murder Will Out.

AYLMER, April 23.—At an early hour this morning Provincial Detective Clayton and Coroner P. W. McLay were notified to investigate a case of supposed murder at Springfield, six miles from here. Some eighteen years ago Gifford Williams mysteriously disappeared. Evidence is forthcoming that he was foully murdered and his body thrown into a well. Since then a large brick hotel has been erected over the spot.

Winnipeg Winnings.

WINNIPEG, April 23.—A verdict of manslaughter was returned against Bob [illegible] at the inquest on the body of Mary Hind this evening.

Gabriel Dumont is going to Montana to collect a party of halfbreeds and Indians who participated in the Riel rebellion to take with him to Paris.

Two Dwellings Consumed.

SEVERN BRIDGE, April 23.—Two dwellings and contents belonging to William Hodgson, farmer, of North Orillia, three miles from here, were destroyed by fire at noon to-day. Nothing was saved; loss about $1000; no insurance; cause, a defective stove-pipe.

ROBBED OF HER HAIR BY LIGHTNING.

But Otherwise She Was Uninjured—Miraculous Escape of a Workman.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., April 24.—A strange electric freak occurred near Elizabeth, Wirt County, a day or two ago. A heavy thunder storm passed over the residence of Mr. S. P. Barton. A terrible flash of lightning followed, striking the house and scattering the building in every direction. Mrs. Barton was standing in the middle of the floor at the time with a glass jar of canned fruit in her hand. The jar was broken and scattered and the woman's hair burned close to her head, still neither Mrs. Barton nor her two children, both of whom were present, were otherwise injured.

A Miraculous Escape.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., April 24.—Lightning struck the shop of Smith Bros., in Whigville, Saturday. Hoyt Smith, who was sitting at his lathe near the corner of the building where the bolt came down, was paralyzed and knocked into the shavings, which were set on fire by the electric fluid. The lightning followed the main line of shafting, firing the oil on every bearing. The shop was on fire in six or eight places before the workmen were aware of what had happened. Mr. Smith lay unconscious in the flames when the situation was realized by his comrades. The hose from the stand pipe were turned on, and life and property saved. Mr. Smith was found to be badly burned, but recovered without serious results, after experiencing a feeling of numbness for some hours.

EMBEZZLER FOSTER IN MEXICO.

The New York Produce Exchange Gratuity Fund Defaulter Located.

NEW YORK, April 24.—The word was passed around yesterday among the brokers on the Produce Exchange that the whereabouts of William E. Foster, jr., the lawyer who swindled the gratuity fund of the Exchange out of nearly $200,000 by means of forged mortgages, has been learned at last. The news came from Foster himself, in a private letter addressed by him to an old acquaintance on the Exchange, and mailed in an obscure town in Mexico, where Foster has been since his memorable flight from this city.

It was last summer, it will be remembered, that the startling disclosure was made that he had been systematically robbing the gratuity fund, of which he was the attorney, and the very day on which the matter was made public he negotiated a loan of $10,000 with an uptown bank and disappeared. Until the receipt of this letter not a word had been heard of him and his hiding place was a mystery. Pinkerton's men have tried to find him, his photograph and personal description have been sent to every city in the civilized world, a large reward has been offered, every clew has been carefully followed, and yet until yesterday no one had the slightest idea where he was. When last seen he was on a train [illegible], going in the direction of Canada, and how he got to Mexico is yet to be explained. It is not stated whether or not his [illegible] daughter shares his exile.

[illegible]

NANTICOKE, Pa., April 24.—By the premature explosion of a blast in No. [illegible] slope in the Susquehanna Coal Company, [illegible] Evans was killed and his son-in-law, [illegible] Pettibone, fatally injured.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Wants to Take a Wife, but Has [illegible]—A Pugilistic [illegible] Raided.

TORONTO, April 24.—The Board of License Commissioners are meeting daily to hear deputations in opposition to the granting of licenses and to receive applications. When James Cusack, a well-known elderly gentleman who wants a license for the Montreal House, 140 King-street west, presented a duly-signed petition yesterday Commissioner Ryan asked: "Are you married?" "No, sir," he said, "but I've a great desire to be." It was explained to Mr. Cusack that the board has strong inclinations against granting licenses to unmarried men, whereupon the applicant promised if the license were granted to get married within six months but declined to say whether he had selected the fair lady yet, that being a matter, as he explained, "betwixt me an' myself."

Yesterday's 11.30 G. T. R. train from the east brought two cars of immigrants and between sixty and seventy young girls sent out by Miss Rye. They were passengers on the Sardinian. The children went on to the home at Niagara Falls, and the immigrants will distribute through Western Ontario and Manitoba.

Samuel Tripp, a lad employed in the Kemp Manufacturing Company's works, had three of his fingers jammed in a press. They were amputated at the hospital.

The body of an infant, enclosed in a small wooden box, was found yesterday morning in a drain on Macpherson-avenue. It was taken to the morgue. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of still-born.

While adjusting a belt on a pulley in Dinsmore & Hooker's planing mill in [illegible] yesterday morning a man named Moore, who lives in Argyle-street, received a severe wound. The belt slipped and struck him on the head just above his right eye.

The police were alive to the fact of a contemplated pugilistic mill last night, and carefully watched the Kingston-road, where a little beyond the Woodbine was a house, in a large room of which the arena had been prepared. At 2 a.m. the detectives raided the place and found a number of local sports there, but no apparent evidence of a fight. It transpired subsequently that the select gathering were aware that they were watched.

The Kirmess' over which there has been so much speculation and anticipation, opened yesterday afternoon in the Pavilion in a blaze of glory. It will last all week.

FIGHTING FOR A CORPSE.

DEDHAM, Mass., April 24.—About a week ago Mary Carpenter, a handsome brunette, 26 years of age, died of consumption. She resided with her husband, Oscar Carpenter, in her mother's house. The deceased was a Catholic and her husband is a Protestant. Mrs. [illegible], her mother, secured a lawyer when she was aware that her daughter was to die, and had her make a will directing that her body be given to her mother, who was to have charge of her burial.

When Carpenter heard of this he became incensed and claimed that he had been told that the ground in which his wife was buried was not consecrated ground, for if it was he could not be buried beside her, because he is a Protestant. Carpenter said last night that he would claim the body of his wife and have her buried where he pleased, using force if necessary. His mother-in-law will fight him and a lively time will be the result.

The Vienna Riots.

VIENNA, April 24.—The strike of carmen is nearly ended. Rioting, however, continues in the Favouriten and Ottakring quarters. The mob yesterday stoned the cavalry and reinforcements of infantry were required. Many rioters were wounded and a large number were arrested.

The Deadly Cigarette.

ROCKLAND, Me., April 24.—Willie F. Welch, aged 12, died yesterday from immoderate cigarette smoking affecting his brain and nerves. For two years he averaged a dozen cigarettes daily.

Jumped From the Brooklyn Bridge.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Last evening Patrick Carroll, a shoemaker 28 years old, jumped from the south roadway of the Brooklyn bridge into the East River. He jumped at a point a little beyond the New York tower. He was picked up by a tug. The tug landed Carroll on the New York shore and turned him over to an officer. He was taken to the hospital. Carroll said he came from Connecticut.

Our Hats are Inimitable

Every day now adds its emphasis to the judgment of gentlemen as to the beauty and excellence of our spring Hats. They're buying them. They're not doing it without having first compared and decided that we bear away the prize for elegance and quality as well as for fashion making and moderate prices. Gentlemen are critical when it comes to getting a light weight Hat. They are a necessity in these spring days—a necessity in which they esteem style as essential. Witness the demand for our Genuine Cooley, Woodrow and Ellwood Celebrated Zephir weight Hats made especially for us. There is something peculiar and inimitable about the grace fulness of our Hats.

is made very often by merchants advertising goods at very low figures and when the public fail to bring the goods they are much higher than the prices their advertisement calls for, or they are just out of the goods. Now, it is altogether different with W. J. Morrow. When you see his advertisement you can rely on procuring the goods at the price stated, just as long as he can get the goods, but of course when we are out you must make allowance. We have another consignment of [illegible] 25 cents per lb. [illegible] W. J. Morrow, 349 George-st.

Excitement at the G.T.R. Station.

Some little excitement was occasioned on the streets to-day when it was noised abroad that a [illegible] had attempted to commit suicide at the G.T.R. station by throwing herself in front of the 11.35 train. The report was not correct, but arose from the actions of a young woman, Mary [illegible], who suffers, so it is said, from mental weakness at times. It appears that the young woman has been [illegible] without purchasing a ticket. She has frequently taken a ride to Hastings and Lakefield, but of late the conductors have become acquainted with the unfortunate woman and [illegible]. She was at the station, and while standing on the track attracted the attention of those standing on the platform, and several of the crowd attempted to persuade her to leave the track. [illegible] finally she left the track and went into the coach. She was taken from the coach by Constable Adams and was placed in the cells. Considerable sympathy is expressed for the unfortunate young lady and her friends.

AT THE ASSIZE. COURT.

VICTOR MILBURN GETS FOUR YEARS IN PENITENTIARY.

Irwin Bornback Sentenced to Two and a Half Years—The Orillia Newspaper Case—Regarding a Lease—The Rogers-Foresters Case.

THE NEWSPAPER CASE.

The case [illegible] arose out of a paragraph published in the Orillia News-Letter, the defendant's paper, in which the plaintiff, Wm. [illegible], was referred to in [illegible] manner. After the action had been brought the defendant published an apology, whereupon the plaintiff's solicitor offered to abandon the action upon the payment of costs up to date. The defendant refused [illegible] and the action came to trial. The judge, learning that the plaintiff did not seek substantial damages, awarded him a verdict of [illegible]. [illegible] & Leonard for plaintiff; McCosh, of Orillia, for defendant.

LEAHY VS. ULLYOT.

Mr. Leahy, the plaintiff, had purchased a farm from the executors of the late James Campbell which Mr. Campbell had leased to Mr. Ullyot for six years. The lease [illegible] covenants on the part of Mr. Ullyot to clear up a burnt swail and to fence it in a proper and sufficient manner, and it also contained a covenant that he should leave all the cleared ground seeded down with timothy and clover. It appeared that Mr. Ullyot had rented the farm for a pasture for horses and was not required to cultivate [illegible] being in the covenant. Mr. Leahy, the purchaser, complained that Mr. Ullyot had not left the farm all seeded down and that the clearing was not up to the contract. A large number of the most respectable farmers of the neighborhood gave evidence, and the weight of the evidence was that the land had been well cleared and that the [illegible] good as the balance of the farm would allow and in view of the probability of it being burnt by fires on the adjoining land. Much evidence was heard that during the past two or three years, owing to the dryness of the seasons, it was almost impossible to get grass seed to grow [illegible] thrown over the cleared slash. The court left it to the jury to say whether, according to the custom of the country and in due course of husbandry, Mr. Ullyot had complied with the evident meaning of the covenant. The jury evidently thought so, for they returned a verdict for the defendant.—Poussette & Johnston for the plaintiff; Dumble & Leonard for the defendant.

FOURTH DAY—THURSDAY.

At 9.30 o'clock this morning the court resumed.

THE FORESTERS CASE.

The case of Rodgers vs. the [illegible] Order of Foresters was called. W. Laidlaw, Q.C., Toronto, and [illegible] appeared for the plaintiff, and Hon. A. S. Hardy, Q.C., and Wilkes, Toronto, for the defendant. The action was brought by Margaret Rodgers, of Lakefield, widow of John E. Rodgers, to recover from the Order of Foresters $1,000, the amount of an endowment policy held by her husband in the Order as a member of the court in Lakefield and payable to her. Rodgers became a member of the Order in 1880 and died on January 28th, 1888. One of the rules of the Order is that if a member dies through the excessive use of intoxicants or through an accident traceable to intoxication the High Court is not bound to pay the endowment. If a member violates any of the rules of the Order the local court of which he is a member has the power to expel him. In this case Rogers was not expelled or called before the local court on any charge. After his death the objection was raised that his death was caused by intoxication, and payment of the endowment being refused, the action was brought to recover payment.

Mrs. Rodgers was the first witness called and said her husband died on Jan. 28th, 1888. They had two children living, and had moved into Lakefield from a farm in [illegible], after which her husband kept a livery stable. Her husband had to go to the hotels in the prosecution of his business and drank some, and sometimes kept liquor in the house. He came home one day, she believed early in February, and told her he had been struck by another man. There was a mark on his temple. About ten days after Dr. Bell was called in. He was their family doctor and also physician for the Foresters. Her husband [illegible] had convulsions on the Monday before he died. Dr. Fraser was called in that day. She signed the claim paper witnessed by Mr. Morris. Above the certificate signed by her was one signed by the doctor that her husband had died of delirium tremens, but she did not know the doctor's certificate stated that until after she had signed the paper. [illegible] She said that one of the officers of the Foresters asked her to go to Mr. Sherin's to prepare the claim papers. She received a letter of condolence from the officers of the local court and received $80 from the financial secretary for funeral benefit with the exception of 25 cents for dues. That was after the claim papers were signed. Her husband complained of the pain in his head caused by the blow until the time of his death. She noticed her husband bringing up a little blood in the morning from the time of the blow until the time he died.

Dr. Bell said that during the last years of Rogers' life he had [illegible] or to get Mr. Cochrane or Mr. Hall to do so. His last illness was caused by over-indulgence in liquor.

The court [illegible].

BORNBACK SENTENCED.

When the court resumed Irwin Bornback, the old man [illegible] years of age, who was convicted of forging the name of Robert Gardner, of [illegible], to a mortgage, was brought up for sentence and the Judge sentenced him to two and a half years in Penitentiary. In passing sentence the Judge said that the prisoner's age was all that prevented him from making the sentence seven years. He referred to the number of cases of forgery at the present court and said that society must be protected.

Why We Celebrate This Month.

One of the bright young teachers in the model department of the normal school decided recently that she would interest her class in the history of the home of the free, etc., by devoting a portion of one hour to a discussion of the centennial celebration which is to occur in New York on the 30th of this month. As a starter she asked: "Now, who can tell me what it is that they are going to celebrate in New York on the 30th of this month?"

There was a profound silence among the children, but at last one little fellow put up his hand in a hesitating sort of way and said: "I think I know."

The youth was encouraged to unfold the unknown information to the class, and promptly said: "Why, it's just one hundred years ago since George Washington graduated, and they are going to celebrate it."—Albany Express.

Busting a Coincidence.

A woman yesterday stood at the writing desk in the corridor of the postoffice with a pen in her hand and a postal card before her. She was thinking deeply when a man approached with a postal card in his hand, looked at [illegible] for a pen and finally said:

"Madam, are you going to use that pen for the next five minutes?"

"Yes, sir," she replied. "I am just going to write to my husband."

"And I am just going to write to my wife. Curious coincidence, eh?"

"I don't know about that. My husband run away, and I have just got his address and [illegible]"

"By George, madam, but how singular! My wife also skipped out and I was wondering what to say to her. We are in the same boat. Shall we write: 'Come home, darling,' or, 'I never want to see your face again'? What a curious coincidence!"

[illegible] "Dyin' to write a mash, are you? This is the way you look for work, is it? Come home with me or I'll pull all the hair out of your head and scratch that woman's eyes out!"

He went [illegible] along in tow, and a newsboy who sat on the window sill looked after the pair and soliloquized:

"That's what I call busting a coincidence and catching a liar at the same time. Better write for your darling to return by telegraph, mister."—Detroit Free Press.

BOODLERS MAY BEWARE

THE WELDON BILL PASSES THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

It Will Not Apply to Past Offences—The Copyright Act Amendment and Anti-Combines Bill Passed.

OTTAWA, April 25.—Three measures of importance and of general public interest passed through [illegible] the Copyright Act amendment, the Anti-Combines Bill and the Boodlers' Expulsion Bill. The latter lost its sting, however, for those members of the boodle brigade now disporting themselves in the Dominion, the retroactive clause being expunged, and the act will apply only to offences committed after its passage.

On motion for the third reading of the bill to amend the Copyright Act Sir John Thompson explained in answer to questions that [illegible] Canada. Respecting the limit of time within which a work copyrighted in Canada must be [illegible] after its publication in England, he did not think it would be fair to make that longer than one month, as in the meantime Canadian readers would be deprived of the opportunity of procuring the work. [illegible] He was assured that the general prices would not be increased under the operation of the bill and that the prices of many desirable works would be cheapened.

As to the proposition to make the provisions of the bill retroactive with respect to the registration of British copyrights, he thought it [illegible] such opposition in Great Britain on the ground of interference with vested rights that the whole bill would be seriously imperilled, [illegible] question to settle with the Colonial Office.

The bill was read a third time and passed.

The Anti-Combines Bill was read a third time and passed. Mr. Curran offered an amendment to allow an appeal against any conviction to the highest court of appeal in criminal matters in the province where such conviction shall have been made on all questions of law and fact, but this amendment was declared lost.

On motion of Sir John Thompson the House went into committee on the bill introduced by Professor Weldon to amend the Extradition Act so as to permit the surrender by Canada of fugitives charged with certain criminal offences. [illegible]

Strong opposition was made to the retroactive clause on the ground that under it persons who had many years ago committed indictable offences in the United States and had since led honest lives would be liable to [illegible] brought upon their [illegible] and families long after the offence had been forgotten.

On division the committee adopted an amendment moved by Mr. Lavergne and the bill will now apply only to offences committed subsequent to its passage. After other minor amendments the bill was reported by the committee and read a third time and passed.

Mr. Charlton, on Mr. Foster's motion to go into Committee of Supply, spoke at considerable length in condemnation of the recent increase in the export duty on logs. Though he believed that the Government had last fall increased the duty at the request of the lumbermen these same lumbermen had seen from the hostility that the increase had aroused in the United States that their own lumber market there was likely to be injuriously affected by the increase of the import duties and they therefore wanted the duty reduced. [illegible]

Hon. G. E. Foster said the increased export duty had been imposed in response to the almost unanimous demand of the lumbermen. Now the same men wished the duty removed because of their fear of [illegible] legislation on the part of the United States. The request for a reduction of the duty was now under the consideration of the Government, and would be dealt with in the manner considered in the best interests of the country.

In amendment to the motion to go into supply Mr. Barron moved a resolution censuring the Government for the sale in 1882 of a certain timber limit on the Indian Reserve at Whitefish Lake, north of Georgian Bay. [illegible]

The House adjourned at [illegible] a.m.

BEAUTIFUL JIM.

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER

Nancy took it up and read it carefully through [illegible] the same [illegible] put her own name at the bottom. "Yes, that is all I wanted," she said, quietly, and folding up the paper, placed it in an envelope and tied it carefully round with string. Then she lighted a taper and sealed it in several places, finally taking a pen and writing on the back: "Private memorandum relating to Stuart Earle, the Golden Swan, Blankhampton."

"There, that is safe, I think. I don't want to keep you any longer," and with a little wave of her hand she dismissed him.

It would be hard to say how bitter were young Tommy's thoughts as he made his way back to the sitting room, there to take up the weary burden of society with his old father. [illegible] there. Oh, [illegible] when he came to it [illegible] to the bar, where he called for a strong brandy and soda, and then, finding that it did not have the restorative effect that he desired, asked for green Chartreuse and drank three or four glasses of that before he felt himself his own man again. And with each one he drank to his sister Nancy's eternal confusion and tribulation, with never a sense of thankfulness for the mercy that from one cause or other had been shown to him.

Well, well, Lord Chesterfield is looked upon as an old fashioned dowdy now, but, all the same, he knew a thing or two, and human nature was very much in his time what it is now, and he said: "The heart never grows better by age; I fear, rather worse; always harder. A young knave will only grow a greater knave as he grows older."

CHAPTER XXVII.

OFF TO THE WARS.

Quite a crowd was gathered at the station the following morning to see the gallant Blankshire regiment go off to the wars. There was Mrs. Barnes with all her children, and little Mrs. Seton, as brisk and as bright as a bee, laughing as loudly as if parting with her major was one of the best jokes in the world, though to more than one who knew her best the laughter had an uncommonly suspicious ring about it, and had a quiver through its rippling thrill which told of tears not very far away. And there were the Charterhouses and the Stantons and the Marcus Orlands, all come to do the last honors to their friends, husbands and wives alike profoundly thankful that the fortune of war had not called upon them to leave home and all they loved behind and go out to fight for queen and country in the [illegible]. And there was [illegible] Nancy and [illegible] and lovely Aileen, holding fast by Nancy Earle's hand, as if she was afraid she should break down if she did not hold it tight enough.

Nancy understood so well what the pressure meant, and once or twice turned her sweet dove's eyes upon her friend, just to show her that there were no tears there, and that she would keep up for her composure. And last of all there was Mr. Earle, tall and straight and commanding in presence, with his handsome old face set like a mask and his white hair as well brushed and sparkling as ever. Ah! but it was a terrible wrench for him, parting with his only son on such an errand; and almost at the same moment a thought flashed into the minds of Nancy and Beautiful Jim alike, a thought which said: "Alas! he is so old, so frail, and his belief in his only son is so great. I am so glad we have Aileen, for though it is a poor [illegible] knowledge would have held the bitterness of death for him."

Almost unconsciously Nancy slipped her hand [illegible] his arm and clung to it, but the old man mistook her meaning. "Don't give way, my dear," he whispered, "let them see the Earles can give up their best [illegible] and country [illegible] both."

He had forgotten her interest in Beautiful Jim; he only remembered that his boy, his heir, the last of his name, was off for the wars, and might never come back.

Nancy dropped the arm! She forgot nothing!

Not that the old man noticed anything. He was intently watching for the last glimpse of the handsome young face of his [illegible] the train moved slowly out of the station amid cheers and the frantic waving of handkerchiefs to the gay and jolly strains of "The Girl I Left Behind Me," he gave a great gasping sigh, which melted Nancy's momentary anger and made her clasp his arm tighter than ever.

And then little Mrs. Seton, who had joked and laughed and cheered and waved with the best as long as her faithful major's head was thrust out of the carriage window, suddenly created a divertisement by breaking down altogether into such a passionate torrent of tears, that even the dullest of those who had wondered at what they called her "spirits" but a few moments before, wondered no longer, but said among themselves, as they wiped their own eyes, what a brave little woman she was, and what a treasure the big major possessed in her.

"Oh, I am going out at once," the little woman was saying brokenly at that moment to the sympathetic woman on whose breast she had poured out all her long pent up feelings. "He said I wasn't to, but I shall. Why, he might be wounded out there, and who would nurse him, I wonder? He never can bear any one [illegible] him, if he's only got a headache. But, all the same, when you've never done anything for yourself in all your life, and never even gone a long journey alone, it's no joke to face going out to India, or still worse to Burmah, without a soul to help you to do a thing."

HIS WIFE GOT THE BOODLE

AND NOW REV. MR. TOMKINS WANTS SOME OF IT BACK.

A Cause Celebre from the Niagara Frontier Tried at the [illegible] Assizes—Why Mrs. Tomkins was Jealous.

HAMILTON, April 24.—The cause celebre of Tomkins v. Tomkins [illegible] Armour of the [illegible]. The evidence adduced was exceedingly racy and in many of its details [illegible]. All the parties to the suit come from Niagara Falls South. The plaintiff, Rev. George Tomkins, brought the action against his wife, her father and uncle, charging conspiracy to obtain his property. He subsequently withdrew the charge of conspiracy and proceeded with the action as far as the recovery of certain property was concerned. A settlement was made a year ago, but the reverend gentleman asked that the settlement be set aside.

The plaintiff is a short, gentlemanly looking Englishman with a [illegible] beard and a pair of pince nez glasses. Mrs. Tomkins is a young lady with a pale, delicate face and a graceful figure set off by a fine black silk dress. [illegible]

Briefly stated, the facts are as follows: Rev. George Tomkins came to Niagara Falls South about six years ago from England and became engaged to Miss Lizzie [illegible], daughter of a [illegible] in that town. Then he went home and [illegible] a former wife and returned to wed the Canadian beauty. He had a fortune of $60,000 in England, some of which he did not get, [illegible] his wife and her relatives bled him of the whole of his wealth [illegible].

The plaintiff, who was the first witness, told his story substantially as above stated. After the marriage he said they went on a bridal tour to Europe. He had $60,000, which his wife's father helped him to invest, and the investments were a dead loss. He belonged to the Baptist denomination but was at that time a life insurance agent, though he occasionally preached at various churches there.

Mr. Blackstock: "You carried on the business of a churchman as well as that of a life insurance agent?"

Witness: "Yes, life and eternal life."

Counsel then questioned him with reference to his residence in Havannah, N.Y., where he admitted that he got into trouble. At Niagara Falls South a colored woman named Mrs. Dote, whose husband was a [illegible] car employe and away from home [illegible] for several days [illegible] the wife's jealousy. On one occasion he was going along a lane to speak to Mrs. Dote and tell her not to let her children call the wife names, [illegible] running after him [illegible] gave her a shaking and she was carried back to the house in hysterics. [illegible] some of her brothers, "for whom," said the divine, "I have now a warrant against for committing a murderous assault on me with a pair of [illegible]." He denied that he had admitted to his wife that he had [illegible] with the colored woman. His wife at one time attempted to shoot him and refused for several weeks to live with him.

[illegible]

[illegible] to my position as your husband until any one of the promises (made after due consideration) are broken I solemnly pledge myself: 1. To do all in my power to allay the [illegible] with Mrs. Dote, [illegible] any other [illegible] honor your [illegible] guard you against any recurrence of the cause of our sorrow by [illegible] to keep a pure life before God and man. 3. To never again visit, speak to, recognize or confer with the said Mrs. R. T. Dote personally or through a third party. 4. To abstain from [illegible] and other [illegible] any consideration [illegible] harm our child or yourself. 6. Not to buy, receive as a gift or keep in my possession a revolver. 7. To guard [illegible] nature from further shocks, and cherish your loving confidence [illegible]. [illegible] from former and experience your judgment of character to be better than mine, I will not speak to or associate with those whom you may [illegible]. Should any or all of the above promises be broken I hereby agree to [illegible] care and custody of our child to you, the mother.

GEORGE TOMKINS.

The witness usually had some loaded revolvers with him. He brought two over when coming to [illegible] Canada. [illegible]

Mrs. Tomkins [illegible] cool, took the stand and swore that her husband had voluntarily promised to give her half of the $60,000 he expected from England. Before their marriage she told him she was worth nothing. On one occasion he had placed a loaded revolver to her head and threatened to kill her if she would not give false evidence in a church trouble. She got $20,000 from her husband, which she has invested so judiciously that it is now worth $35,000. On cross-examination she said she became engaged to Rev. Mr. Tomkins on his second or third visit. She knew at the time that he had a wife in England from whom he had not then been divorced. She admitted she had told him that she had money, but it was in a joke. She said she was a speculator—also in a joke. The [illegible] had a letter from witness to her husband written before marriage in which she [illegible] "[illegible] peal to God that He will assist me, but I fear my little money is lost in the [illegible] speculation." [illegible] Tomkins said [illegible] wicked.

A number of witnesses were examined to show that the plaintiff had not previously claimed the property, and then Judge Armour dismissed the case against the defendants Mr. Redgate and Mr. Bender, and reserved judgment as against Mrs. Tomkins. He seemed to intimate the previous settlement should be binding on Rev. Mr. Tomkins, and will likely hold in that way.

Attempted Bank Robbery.

VENTURA, Cal., April 24.—To-day at noon one McCarthy, recently discharged from the county hospital, entered Collins & Sons' bank. The cashier had gone to lunch, leaving Jack Morrison alone. McCarthy told his poverty and desperation caused him to think of suicide. He laid a package on the counter which he said was dynamite, drew a six-shooter and demanded [illegible]. Morrison dodged behind the counter and ran out of the door. The robber seized $300 and walked into the street. Morrison gave the alarm and a crowd gathered, but as the man was armed [illegible] which was [illegible] on the street.

Suicide at Lawrencetown—Terrible Tragedy at Woods Hill.

HALIFAX, April 24.—Word was received from Lawrencetown yesterday afternoon that a man named Norman Hills had committed suicide there by hanging himself. He fastened one end of a rope to his neck and the other to a rafter in the barn.

John Schofield of Beach Hill, about three miles from Kentville, and his child were killed by lightning on Sunday night. Immediately following the shock a [illegible] the house falling on a 10-year-old child and injuring it to such an extent that it died a short time afterwards. Early Monday some neighbors happened to pass Schofield's house and noticed its dilapidated appearance. On entering the building a shocking sight was presented. Schofield was lying stretched upon the floor of the front room with his mouth cut and a black streak extending from the mouth down to his knee, which indicated the course the electric fluid had taken. Immediately beneath the dead man was a hole in the floor where the current had gone through to the ground beneath. The sight presented was a most ghastly one. Schofield's eyes were protruding from the sockets, his tongue was burned and his whole body was colored purple. His little child was lying close beside him with its head crushed in by the falling timber. In one corner of the room Mrs. Schofield and three children were huddled together almost scared out of their senses. They were removed to a house in the vicinity.

Britain's Trade with the U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Consul-General Waller of London reports a general revival of the trade and commerce of the United Kingdom. The improvement in business is especially noticeable in the shipbuilding industry. The value of goods imported into the United Kingdom from the United States in 1887 was $415,245,270 and exports thereto $201,350,750, an increase of $7,244,989 in imports and of $13,161,735 in exports over the previous year. Mr. Waller reports a continuous decrease in the kingdom in the number of persons committed for trial during the last decade. In 1870 the number was 1 for every 1466 of the population and in 1887, 1 for every 2000. The diminution in crime is ascribed to the spread of education.

THEY ARE DIRTY AND DRY

THE PLIGHT OF "PROMINENT CITIZENS" OF GUTHRIE.

In Oklahoma is Neither Water to Wash With or Whisky to Drink—The First "Natural" Death.

KANSAS CITY, April 25.—A Star special from Guthrie via rail to Arkansas City says: The facilities for getting news here are no better than two days ago. All matter has to be sent by messenger to Arkansas City. The corps of surveyors was yesterday increased to four and work began in the afternoon. All attention is paid to the work, as on it depends every lot owner's claim. Provisions continue scarce. One man yesterday sold thirty barrels of bread, 5-cent loaves selling at 15 cents each, or two for a quarter. The supply ran out, and while people were willing to pay the exorbitant price, bread could not be had at all. Crackers found ready sale at $1.50 per pound. The inconvenience caused by the blockade of freight is beyond computation. The freight, express and baggage increase with each train and lack of help prevents prompt distribution. The water question continues a serious one. Before the end of the week wells will be sunk.

Despite the fact that every train takes out large numbers of dissatisfied settlers every train brings in as many more. The order here is phenomenal. No whisky can be bought. A gentleman who is now speculating in lots has the promise of the agency of one eastern brewer for the entire territory and he is banking on great profits. The sun is very hot and where the sod has been spaded or plowed up the soil is mealy and blows in every direction. Prominent citizens are dirty and the scarcity of water prevents cleanliness. Citizens' meetings are held three times per day.

Died With His Boots Off.

ARKANSAS CITY, April 25.—The first natural death in Oklahoma occurred at Oklahoma City yesterday. Thomas O'Neill, a young married man from Marshall, Mo., died of a congestive chill brought on by exertion and exposure. Many cases of pneumonia are reported.

Failed to Get a Claim.

WINFIELD, Kan., April 25.—Silas B. Kennedy of Ruma, Ills., startled pedestrians here to-day by drawing a razor across his throat inflicting a slight gash. Later he shot himself through the head and died this evening. Two men said they accompanied Kennedy from St. Louis to Guthrie and all three failed to get claims. It is supposed Kennedy's mind was deranged by his failure.

Merely as a Precaution.

KANSAS CITY, April 25.—A Times special from Kingfisher says: Three more companies of infantry have been ordered here. There is no disorder and the troops are sent merely as a precaution.

The Spanish Government Made Uneasy by Utterances at the Catholic Congress.

MADRID, April 25.—At the session of the Catholic Congress here to-day Prof. Sanchez Castro denounced Italy's treatment of the Papacy. His speech has caused the Spanish Government considerable uneasiness. Before the opening of the Congress the prelates promised the Government here that nothing would be said or done that might irritate King Humbert.

Conceded the Demand.

VIENNA, April 25.—The tramway company conceded the strikers' demand of 12 hours per day and has promised to regulate wages as soon as possible.

LONDON, April 25.—William Walter Phelps left here for Berlin this evening.

Lords Alcester and Churchill called on General Boulanger to-day, the latter remaining half-an-hour with the General.

It is officially announced that Sir Edward Malet, the British Ambassador at Berlin; Mr. Scott, the British Minister at Berne, and Mr. Crowe have been appointed delegates to the Samoan conference.

He Was a Great Poolplayer.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Albert M. Frey, who died to-day, has held the poolplaying championship for three years. He defeated the champions of every country where pool is played. He was born in this city 2[illegible] years ago. He began playing when 1[illegible] years old and was beaten only a few times. He was the winner in the recent championship tournament. He was the author of the popular game of continuous pool by which pool contests are now decided. He was the proprietor of a well-known resort on Broadway.

RED-HOT PROTESTANTISM.

ANTI-JESUIT MEETING AT MONTREAL LAST NIGHT.

A Crisis Thought to be at Hand—A Series of Strong Resolutions Carried Amid the Greatest Enthusiasm.

MONTREAL, April 25.—The Queen's Hall was packed to its utmost capacity to-night on the occasion of the anti-Jesuit mass meeting. J. R. Dougall occupied the chair, and among the speakers were W. H. Howland of Toronto, John Charlton, M.P., Col. O'Brien, M.P., L. H. Davidson, J. J. MacLaren, Q.C., Rev. Principal Macvicar, Robert Sellar, editor of The Huntingdon Gleaner; G. W. Stephens, Rev. Dr. Antliff, Rev. James Fleck, Mayor E. L. Bond, Archdeacon Evans, Rev. Dr. Douglas, Rev. S. Bond and Walter Paul. The resolutions, five in number, were carried amidst the greatest enthusiasm. They were to the following effect:

Disapproving of the act incorporating the Jesuits and the act for the settlement of the Jesuits' estates as calculated to endanger the peace and wellbeing of the Dominion, and particularly of this province, by giving legal status to a society which in the past has proven itself an enemy of civil and religious liberty and by endowing a religious body contrary to the recognized principle of perfect equality of all churches; that the position accorded the Pope of Rome in the act, the claims he has advanced in his brief distributing the $400,000 placed at his disposal, the doubtful constitutionality of the act, the violation of guaranteed rights of the Protestant minority in this province and its essentially mischievous character, all demand its disallowance.

Protesting against any interpretation of the British North America Act by which the Governor-in-Council and the Dominion Parliament are relieved of the obligation of protecting the rights of Protestant or Roman Catholic minorities in any provinces as guaranteed by sec. 93 of said act.

Appointing a committee to give effect to the resolutions and to take such measures as may be deemed necessary to secure disallowance of the Jesuits Estates Act; to test the constitutionality of said act and of the act of incorporation of the Jesuit order; and to this end to co-operate with other similar committees throughout the Dominion.

That the meeting regards with indignation the provisions of the act, by which the fund for superior education is virtually abolished, withholding of the full amount of taxes paid by Protestants on their shares in incorporated companies, in striking contrast to the justice accorded Roman Catholics in Ontario, and the degradation of degrees conferred by Protestant universities. Each of these we regard as an invasion of our rights as guaranteed by the British North America Act.

That the meeting expresses strong displeasure at the law of compulsory tithing, at the law by which parishes exist and can be erected for civil purposes, at the priority of the church's claims over all other creditors, at those provisions of the marriage laws which give financial, civil and religious advantages to the Roman Catholic Church which are denied to Protestants. We regard these and all other provisions of the law by which a connection between the State and the Roman Catholic Church exists as creating inequalities and imposing disadvantages on the Protestant minority which no subject of Her Majesty in this Dominion should be called upon to endure. We further protest against any acceptance of the doctrine of the supremacy of the Church over the State and the practice of giving equality of position on state occasions to the chief officer of the Roman Catholic Church with Her Majesty's representative in the Province.

The meeting lasted till midnight. The whole question was considered in all its bearings and the action of the Dominion Government as well as the Provincial Legislature was commented upon freely and fearlessly. The impression seemed to be that a crisis was at hand and that it became Anglo-Saxons in Canada to be up and doing and prepare for a blow, which it was felt must come.

Mr. John Charlton, M.P., said he had every respect for French-Canadians, but the hope of preserving intact the French language and institutions was a hopeless case. If the present state of affairs continued the Church of Rome would soon possess two-thirds of the estate of the Province. He also referred to how countries like the State of Ohio progressed as compared with the Province of Quebec, whose progress was being retarded by the Church of Rome.

THE JESUITS v. THE MAIL.

An Objection to be Made to Test the Status of the Order in Canada.

MONTREAL, April 25.—The writ in the case of the Jesuits v. The Mail was returned in court to-day and an appearance filed by Messrs. McLaren, Leet & Smith. Mr. McLaren has retained Hon. Mr. Laflamme, Q.C., Minister of Justice under the Mackenzie regime, and another prominent Q.C. of this city.

The first proceeding on the part of the defence will be an exception to form, attacking the Jesuit incorporation—holding that the statute under which the Jesuits were incorporated is illegal and ultra vires, inasmuch as it is beyond the power of the Quebec Legislature under the British North America Act to enact such legislation.

Furthermore, that by the said incorporation the Local Legislature has recognized the authority of the Pope—a foreign potentate—to interfere in the legislation of the province and in counter authority to that of Her Majesty the Queen.

Other important issues of a similar nature will be raised. The object of this exception of form is understood to be for the purpose of widening the issues in the case, as by the declaration the defence is tied down to the issue as to whether the oath published by The Mail is that taken by the Jesuits or not. By exception of form the whole constitutionality and status of the Jesuits in Canada will be raised.

It is thought probable that under French law and before a French court the exception may be thrown out, in which case an appeal will immediately be instituted and taken to the Privy Council for final decision.

Death of Mayor Bickford of Dundas.

HAMILTON, April 25.—Henry Bickford, Mayor of Dundas, died at 9.50 last night from congestion of the lungs. Mr. Bickford was born in London, Eng., March 2, 1842, educated at Newton Abbott in the County of Devon, came to Canada in 1867 and in 1869 became head bookkeeper and manager for the firm of N. & F. Rooney & Co. of Toronto, where he continued until the dissolution of that firm in 1879. He then became a partner in the firm of S. Lennard & Sons, now S. Lennard, Sons & Bickford, proprietors of the Dundas Knitting Mills. Mr. Bickford was elected Mayor of Dundas in January, 1888, after having served a term as reeve. He was a member of St. James' Church and of the Masonic order.

The Scott Act Buried in Leeds and Grenville by About 1000 Majority.

BROCKVILLE, April 25.—Leeds and Grenville voted on the question of repeal of the Scott Act to-day and the result was a big majority for repeal. Only three municipalities report majorities for the act.

When the act was adopted on Dec. 18, 1884, there were 5058 votes cast for the act and 4384 against, a majority for the act of 674.

GUARDING THE JAIL.

Alleged Plot to Rescue Donald Morrison, the Megantic Outlaw.

SHERBROOKE, April 25.—This morning two of the Provincial Government Police were found on guard at the jail here. Enquiry as to the object of their presence there received the reply that the Quebec Government had yesterday received telegraphic information that reports were current that an attempt would be made to release Donald Morrison from the custody of the jail. No one in Sherbrooke had any knowledge of such rumors and it is considered here in the light of a hoax.

In any event Morrison's friends are probably aware by this time, although he is progressing favorably he is certainly not in a condition to be moved by legal release, much less in the manner intimated.

Was it Revenge?

MONTREAL, April 25.—Pete Leroyer's house on the shores of Lake Megantic, about 18 miles from Marsden, was burnt down early Tuesday morning. Pete stated to-day that this was evidently from a spirit of revenge for his share in the capture of Morrison. Leroyer received $25 from Judge Dugas to-day to take him back to his family, who have gone to Henrysburg near Lacolle. He seems to have little fear of going back to the scene of the arrest, though he says he expects to find much animosity against him there.

FOR HIS FATHER'S SEAT.

Mr. Rufus Pope Chosen as the Conservative Standard Bearer in Compton.

SHERBROOKE, April 25.—The Liberal-Conservative meeting at Cookshire to-day for the purpose of nominating a successor to the late Hon. J. H. Pope, Minister of Railways and representative for Compton County, was attended by delegates from every municipality in that very large county. After passing a vote of condolence to the family of the deceased minister it was decided that his son, Mr. Rufus Pope, be chosen as the Conservative nominee for the county. Mr. Pope returned his thanks to the convention for this mark of confidence.

CAPTAIN MURRELL RECEIVES.

Over 4000 Philadelphians Shake Hands With the Missouri's Chief Officer.

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—The dock of the steamer Missouri prior to her departure for Baltimore this afternoon presented a scene of gaiety and commotion. Captain Murrell, as an expression of his thanks for the honors conferred upon him since his arrival in this city, tendered a reception to the public aboard the steamer between 9 and 12 o'clock. Long before 9 o'clock the streets leading to the wharf where the Missouri lay were packed with people and in the three hours devoted to the reception an unceasing line of men, women and children passed by the captain, who heartily grasped the hand of each. Many and ardent were the expressions of praise and goodwill by those who grasped the hero's hand. Captain Murrell and the officers of the Missouri contributed their entire share of the testimonial fund raised for them to the rescued passengers of the Danmark, who lost nearly all they had in the world on the sinking steamer. The portion which the crew was to have received will be distributed to them. The captain presented the women and girls with miniature bouquets. He shook hands with over 4,000 persons, including twenty-five Indian girls from the Lincoln Institute. The latter gave him two pairs of moccasins. Thousands were unable to greet the captain. After her cargo was discharged the Missouri, amid cheers and the waving of handkerchiefs, steamed away for Baltimore.

BLEW OUT HIS BRAINS.

Suicide of a Jilted Icelander at Winnipeg—A Bequest to His Inamorata.

WINNIPEG, April 25.—Julius Jonasson's girl jilted him and he went out to Nuisance Ground last night and placing the muzzle of his gun to his head blew the top of it clean off. Part of the skull and one eye were found 40 yards off. Deceased, who was an Icelander, was despondent over his unrequited love affair and left his inamorata $50 in his will.

A Dynamite Factory Burns

NEW YORK, April 25.—The Emmons dynamite factory, a mile from Harrison, Westchester County, was burned to-night. The flames reached the dynamite stored in the factory and a fearful explosion occurred. Newton Emmons, son of the proprietor had his lower limbs terribly burned and lacerated and had his face and arms crushed by falling timber. Fireman Anderson was also injured. Loss $10,000.

Suicide in New York's Big Park.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Oliver Perry Lewis, aged 21, drowned himself to-day in Central Park reservoir, dressed in a claw hammer coat, white tie and under habiliments of full dress. Before drowning himself he fixed the day and hour of his funeral and sent out notices to friends asking them to attend it. The notes were on heavy black-bordered paper in envelopes to match.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

ADMINISTRATION OF THE MILITIA DEPARTMENT.

Mr. Mulock Says a New Man is Needed at its Head—Sir Adolphe Caron Defends His Conduct of Affairs.

OTTAWA, April 25.—There was a lively passage-at-arms in the House to-day. Mr. Mulock sharply attacked the Minister of Militia and Sir Adolph defended his administration of the department with incisiveness and vigor. Before this discussion arose a lot of routine was transacted.

In answer to Mr. Barron, who asked what disposition the Government intended to make of the fines collected under the Canada Temperance Act, now lying unexpended in the county treasuries, Sir John Thompson said these fines were fully disposed of by Order-in-Council of Nov. 15, 1888.

Sir John Macdonald gave notice of motion that the House should sit on Saturday, meeting at 3 o'clock.

The resolution reported from the Committee of the Whole respecting the revote of several lapsed subsidies to railways was read a first and second time and adopted.

The Senate amendments to the bill to amend the Summary Convictions Act were concurred in.

The bill to amend the Culler's Act was read a second time and adopted in committee.

The bill from the Senate to amend the Dominion Lands Act was also read a second time and adopted in committee.

Mr. Mulock, speaking upon Hon. Mr. Foster's motion that the House go into Committee of Supply, arraigned the management of the Militia Department during the incumbency of the present Minister of Militia. In that period of eight years he said the expenditure had increased a hundred per cent. while the efficiency had not increased in anything like that proportion. He claimed to speak on behalf of the volunteers of Toronto and district and declared that they were unanimously in favor of a change in the head of the department.

It had been charged against the Minister that he had made improvident contracts, that he had degraded the service, that he had introduced political considerations in the discharge of his office, and he held that these charges had been fully proved before the Public Accounts Committee. He instanced the award of a contract in 1887 to Sanford & Co. of Hamilton, at a price much higher than a tender then in possession of the department from Webb & Co., an English firm. Since 1886 the public had not been called upon to compete for contracts offered by the Militia Department. Adding the cost of freight to the English tender he claimed that the prices thus compared:

	Webb's tender.	Sanford's contract.
Cavalry tunics, 13th Hussar's pattern	$6 60	$7 66
Cavalry tunics, 6th Dragoon pattern	3 [illegible]	5 [illegible]
Artillery tunics	3 [illegible]	6 [illegible]
Infantry tunics, scarlet	3 21	5 [illegible]
Rifle tunics, green	3 [illegible]	5 [illegible]

He further claimed that in 1887, without even going through the form of sending a circular to the trade, the Minister had awarded a contract to James O'Brien & Co. of Montreal for a large quantity of great coats at the same price as in 1884, notwithstanding the fact that in the meantime the prices of the cloth had much decreased.

After recess Mr. Mulock quoted from the evidence taken before the Public Accounts Committee and also before various military boards to show the dissatisfaction with the clothing issued by the Militia Department, and dwelt especially upon the complaints from the Queen's Own Rifles. He declared that the present minister had no experience as a volunteer and should give place to some member of the force who would sympathize with it. He moved that the administration of the Department of Militia is unsatisfactory to the militia force in Canada and does not command public confidence.

Sir Adolph Caron made a spirited reply, first taking exception to what he termed the discourteous tone of Mr. Mulock's attack and declaring that that gentleman does not show the amount of insolence outside the House that he does in it. He did not believe that Mr. Mulock spoke the opinion of the militia. He expressed the orders of only one battalion—the Queen's Own Rifles. As to the statement that he had had no experience as a volunteer the Minister said he could point to his service under De Salaberry during the time of the Trent affair.

In the matter of the contracts he was not ashamed that he had transferred to Canada the execution of the contracts for the clothing for the militia which heretofore had been made in England. He had thus kept in the country some $200,000 a year which formerly went out of it for uniforms. True, there had been some trouble in the first attempts at manufacture, but it was admitted that trouble had since been overcome.

The House had been told that a swell regiment in Toronto, composed of gentlemen occupying prominent positions in banks and commercial institutions, had preferred to send their measure to a London tailor. These gentlemen added to their patriotism a love of style and wished to be dressed up in the most elegant fashion. He appreciated their good taste and desire for elegance as a battalion, but he could not be expected to serve out such tunics as their witness had shown to the committee as what they desired. Fancy Her Majesty having her army's uniform made by Poole!

He held that in all other respects, as in that now dealt with, the administration of the department was in the best interests of the country and such as to command the public confidence.

A lively discussion followed, participated in by Hon. A. G. Jones, Mr. Kenny, Mr. Lister, Mr. Hesson, Dr. Hickey, Lieut.-Col. Tyrwhitt, Col. Denison and Col. Prior.

The House then divided on Mr. Mulock's amendment, which was lost, 95 to 54.

Clarke Wallace and Cimon (Conservatives) voted for the resolution and Chouinard (Liberal) voted against it. Otherwise the vote was a party one.

The House then went into Committee of Supply and having passed a few miscellaneous items in the supplementary estimates for 1889-'90 the House adjourned at 2.30 a.m.

Went Through a Trestle.

SUNBURY, Pa., April 25.—An engine and eight cars, one of them an oil tank filled with oil, went through a trestle on the Pennsylvania Railroad five miles from Riverside this morning. The oil took fire and all the cars and the engine were destroyed. Jack Brosius, the engineer, and James Malone, a brakeman, were injured internally. The trestling had caught from a fire lighted by some fishermen and one section had been burned. A farmer says he saw the fire but made no effort to extinguish it, asserting he had put out a fire on the same bridge some time ago but had not been rewarded by the company.

PROTECTION PRINCIPLES AT OXFORD.

After fotry years of experience of the "blessings of free trade" in England a large and always increasing part of the people is busy in questioning the value of "the blessings." There are many who go so far as to deny that there are blessings in the train of a free-trade policy. Among the later meetings held in advocacy of a return to at least a modified system of protection was that held in the Corn Exchange of the old university town of Oxford. A Mr. Underhill spoke as to "the blessings" which free trade had conferred upon the British farm. He said: "Very many farmers have been ruined outright by it, because it brought foreign wheat into England cheaper than it could be grown at home. Others have been forced to emigrate, and the money and labor which they took abroad for the enrichment of other countries was just so much value lost to England. Others had abandoned their farms and gone to the towns, thus depressing the price of labor in an already overstocked market." Mr. Underhill is a farmer himself, and knows whereof he talks; he might have added that the value of English farm lands has decreased by more than 25 per cent. in the last ten years and the acreage under plows in a like degree. It is plain that free trade has not benefited the English farmer.

Mr. Pettinger is a workingman, and he spoke for his class. He said: "Workmen get double the wages in America that are paid here, but still some things are dearer in England than in America. Food is dearer. In America rent is higher, but there is more money to pay rent with. For all such things as are dearer in America the workmen have more money to buy them with. When I was in America," said Mr. Pettinger, "I heard a workman grumble because there was a duty on pianos; he said that it caused him to pay more for the one which he had bought for his wife. But the wife reminded him that, while pianos were cheaper in England than in America, yet the working people's houses were empty of them. English wages are insufficient to the purchase of musical instruments which are common in American homes." The workmen saw the point, and it was resolved that "the blessings" which free trade conferred upon the British workman were neither great nor many.

Next day they had a meeting in the Town Hall of the same city, and Mr. Hibbert, of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, spoke as a manufacturer. He said: "Free trade is all very well as a theory, and so long as machinery was crude and imperfect in foreign countries and excellent in England it worked well enough. But as soon as other nations found out that they had better make their cotton goods and knives and rails and plows at home, and use as much as possible of their home-grown grain and meat to feed their own people, then free trade ceased to be a blessing to England. It is a recognized fact that the wealth of a nation lies in its labor. If an English railway company has two offers for iron to build a bridge with, one from an English firm at £10 and one from a Belgian firm at £9, the company would accept the lower offer, but England would be poorer and Belgian richer by just the amount of English money sent into Belgium." So that Mr. Hibbert did not think much of "the blessings" which now accrue to, the British manufacturer from free trade.—Exchange.

Disastrous Fire at Stanbridge—Two Hotels Destroyed—A $35,000 Loss.

St. Alban's, Vt., April 25.—Stanbridge, P.Q., just across the Canadian line, was visited by a disastrous fire about 2.30 this morning, resulting in the destruction of the Canadian Pacific Railroad depot, freight house, engine house, one engine, two passenger cars and eight freight cars, most of which were loaded. Senager's large general store, two hotels and several houses were also burned. The fire originated in the railroad woodshed, and as the village is without a fire department, the buildings were at the mercy of the flames. Loss probably $35,000. Senager's store was a new one, and insured for $3000. The insurance on both hotels is $7000.

A Parrot Story.

A parrot was recently bought by a South Side lady upon the affidavit of the man who sold it that it had only a Sunday school education. The bird had in reality been the property of a saloon keeper, and, its cage being near the cracker bowl, everybody made free to give it crackers and teach it tough words. Its new mistress had hardly got it hung up when a lady friend called, and, of course, went into ecstasies over the parrot. When she began to poke her fingers through the cage and call out "Polly, Polly, Polly," the bird opened one eye, cocked his head sidewise, looked at the visitor and said with great gravity:

"Now, for God's sake don't ask me to have a cracker. I've sworn off."—Chicago Mail.

CAR DRIVERS' REASONS.

Why They Won't Wait When You Want Them to and Will When You Don't.

"Oh, how mean!"

That's what a lady on Fourth avenue looked as if she was saying the other day when she signaled a street car, and the driver, instead of stopping, whipped his horses and swung past on the run.

"Some of 'em swear," said the driver to a man smoking on the front platform. "Yes, sir, women, and pretty women, too. They swear right out so as I can hear 'em sometimes, when I whip up and leave 'em standing on the crossin'."

"Why didn't you stop and let her on?" asked the man in a somewhat indignant tone.

"If you cast your eye back you'll see another car not more'n a block behind. It'd be worth my position to stop for Ben Harrison under those circumstances. Them's the orders, sir, and if a spotter sees you break 'em you get your walkin' papers. We don't leave people in the lurch for fun, you know. We get lots of hard looks and hard words for doin' it, and that without our deservin' 'em. The people don't understand that if there's a car close behind it's orders to go right along and not stop for no one. We leave it to the car behind to pick 'em up.

"Sometimes, too, we've got to leave folks when we're a little behind time. You know that we try to run horse cars on exact time, and as a rule succeed pretty well. If we get in from a trip half a minute late we've got to explain. If we're a minute late there's the devil to pay. If we're two minutes late we've got to give mighty good reasons for it or we're suspended for three days. Didn't know that, did you? People generally don't, or they wouldn't swear at us so much."

"But," said the smoker, "I've seen Broadway cars stop several minutes in front of the theatres at night waiting for a load. Sometimes three or four cars will be bunched in front of the Metropolitan Opera house or Palmer's waiting for a load of passengers from the theatre. This delay often inconveniences passengers who are in a hurry."

"They ain't quite so strict about time on Broadway," said the driver, "owin' to the frequent blocking of the streets, which makes exact time impossible. At the same time, drivers and conductors who lay in front of the theatres like that run great risks. No company'll let the cars stop except when they have to, and if spotters should see 'em standin' there they'd be music, I tell you."

"But what possible object could they have in waiting for a load at a risk to themselves? The size of the loads they carry don't make any difference in their earnings, does it?"

"It's this way," said the driver. "Every car has a certain 'book.'—that is, it has taken in a certain amount of money a day on the average, for years, maybe. It is spoken of as a $22 car, or $23.50 car, or a $25 car, or whatever its average or book is. Now, you see, if any car falls below its book the company asks questions. They want to know if the driver makes a habit of not stopping for folks to save himself the trouble, or they ask whether the conductor gobbles the fares. Suppose, for instance, a $25 car drops to $22 or $20. That driver and conductor are under suspicion and liable to be laid off for other men who can keep the car's book up to the scratch. Anyway, a spotter is liable to be put aboard to see if all is straight, and then look out for trouble. Even if he finds everything straight, keep your eyes open. It's the spotter's business to make trouble, and he generally minds his business."

"Does a small book generally mean that a conductor doesn't ring fares up?" asked the man with the cigar.

The driver winked knowingly.

"It pretty generally means that very thing," said he. "I had a conductor on with me once whose book got about $5 a day below the average. They put a spotter on the car, and, by Jove! they found that he was puttin' the whole $5 into his own pocket. He got his walking papers, and, sir, he had cheek enough to go up afterwards, bold as you please, and demand an explanation of his discharge from the super.

"'We didn't think it was perlite for us to allow the stockholders in the road to run the cars,' was all the super'd say to him."—New York Sun.

Curiosities of Punctuation.

The following specimens of curious punctuation are given by The Printers' Register: A man who was suddenly taken sick "hastened home while every means for his recovery were resorted to. In spite of all his efforts, he died in the triumphs of the Christian religion." "A man was killed by a railroad car running into Boston, supposed to be deaf." A man writes: "We have decided to erect a school house large enough to accommodate 500 scholars five stories high." On a certain railway the following luminous direction was printed: "Hereafter, when trains in an opposite direction are approaching each other on separate lines, conductors and engineers will be requested to bring their respective trains to a dead halt before the point of meeting, and be careful not to proceed till each train has passed the other." A steamboat captain, advertising an excursion, says: "Tickets, 25c.; children half price to be had at the office." An Iowa editor says: "We have received a basket of fine grapes from our friend W., for which he will please accept our compliments, some of which are nearly two inches in diameter."

Every day now adds its emphasis to the judgment of gentlemen as to the beauty and excellence of our spring Hats. They're buying them. They're not doing it without having first compared and decided that ours bear away the prize for shapeliness and quality as well as for faultless making and moderate prices. Gentlemen are critical when it comes to getting a light weight Hat. They are a necessity in these spring days—a necessity in which they esteem style as essential. Witness the demand for our Genuine Cooksy, Woodrow and Ellwood Celebrated Zephr weight Hats made especially for us. There is something peculiar and inimitable about the gracefulness of our Hats.

The Cyclists' Meeting.

The meeting of the Bicycle Club was called for last evening, but a sufficient number of cyclists did not materialize and the meeting was postponed until Monday evening next in Mr. H. Rogers' office over the old post office. The cause of the failure of the boys to show up is explained by the fact that they were not able to pass the door of the Y. M. C. A. rooms without yielding to the tempting order of the coffee and the earnest solicitations of the young men, and so they never reached the second door in the hall way.

Success Attends the Ladies.

The apron sale and high tea which was held by the ladies of St. John's Church in the premises lately occupied by Mr. A. H. Sutton as a restaurant yesterday, proved a most successful affair, financially and otherwise, almost one hundred dollars being netted from the sale of aprons and the tea. The display of aprons was large and they were of all descriptions, while the tea which was served was a most elaborate one. Between six and eight o'clock in the evening the tables were filled, and the lady waiters were kept busy attending to the wants of the large number who took advantage of the opportunity to partake of the excellent spread. The customers for the aprons were also numerous, and the ladies were highly gratified with the result of their sale. The committee which had the arrangements in charge was composed of Mrs. Archer, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Geo. Rubidge, Miss Chamberlain and Miss Rubidge. The thanks of the committee is extended to all who so kindly assisted them in making the affair such a pronounced success.

YOUNG MEN'S RECEPTION.

A Successful Gathering at the Y.M.C.A. Rooms—Interesting Addresses.

The quiet which has prevaded the work of the Young Men's Christian Association in town for the past several weeks, caused principally by the general character of the recent meetings of Rev. Messrs. Crossley and Hunter and also by the fact that there has been no permanent secretary in the local association since Mr. Herbison left, was broken last evening by one of the most successful and encouraging reception meetings which has been held in the rooms here for many a day. There cannot be the slightest doubt in the minds of any fair thinking man that the work which the association does among the young men of the town is considerable and the influence which it has upon the young men who come within its circle is for good and good only. This being a fact then every one will or should take an interest in the Association's work and rejoice in its success. Last evening was the first time that Mr. R. J. Colville appeared before the Association as its general secretary, and he must have been encouraged and his hopes must have rose within him when he looked upon the splendid turnout of young men which crowded the rooms. That Mr. Colville will prove a most successful and popular gentleman in the position he has accepted no one doubts, for his record elsewhere and his brief residence here both give the local organization every reason to congratulate themselves upon having secured such a gentleman. His coming will undoubtedly awaken anew the interest of all the old members, while last night's reception cannot fail to infuse more zeal into the Association generally. The addresses given were all of a happy, interesting and earnest character which could not fail to have their effect.

THE LADIES' LABORS.

Between the hours of seven and eight, tea was served in the reading room to all the young men who wished to climb the stairs and partake. The edibles provided were ample and most tempting, and the ladies who were present, and who had given considerable time and labor to the preparations for the tea had no cause to regret their efforts, and the young gentlemen who took advantage of the opportunity and enjoyed the excellent tea provided also had no reason for regret. The ladies who were present and to whom the young gentlemen are more especially indebted were representatives of nearly all the churches. Their names were:—Mrs. H. S. Griffin, Mrs. Goldsmith, Mrs. J. R. Stratton, Mrs. Grundy, and Miss M. Dixon, Miss Rogers, Miss E. Stratton, Miss A. Fawcett and Miss Gilmour.

THE MEETING PROPER.

When President G. M. Roger took the chair to open the meeting proper the hall was crowded to its fullest capacity with an audience composed entirely of gentlemen, most of whom would come under the head of "young" men. The room had been most tastefully decorated with bunting and flags, and lacrosse sticks, paddles, snowshoes, etc., adorned the walls and gave a most pleasing and inviting appearance to the room. The Association band opened the programme with a selection and the Rev. P. Clifton Parker offered a brief opening prayer.

After the chairman had made a few appropriate introductory remarks, a sextette of male voices gave a chorus which sounded exceedingly well. The six gentlemen were Messrs. A. Miller, McCallum, Martin, J. Miller, Bowman and Mann.

A MINISTER AND A COUNCILLOR.

Then Rev. E. F. Torrance, of St. Paul's Church, was called upon, and in a short and pithy address he spoke of the pleasure he felt at addressing such a splendid gathering of young men and made appropriate and earnest reference to the Association and its work among the young men.

Councillor J. J. Hartley was the next gentleman called from the audience to address the meeting. The representative of the North Ward made a very neat and earnest speech, in which he referred to the days when he was a boy and when Associations for young men were things of the future in Peterborough and told the young men they should prize the organization and do all in their power to build it up. He impressed upon them the influence they were to have in the future of this Canada of ours and warned them against the glittering places which satan used to beguile young men from the paths in which they should tread. Mr. Hartley sat down amidst applause.

Mr. W. H. Dingle then contributed "The Norwegian Bridal Procession" a very pretty piano solo.

ANOTHER DIVINE AND AN EX-SECRETARY.

Rev. P. Clifton Parker then briefly addressed the young men. After expressing his pleasure at being present he spoke to them of the power and danger of the temptations that beset young men and advised them to take part in and identify themselves with the Association work.

Mr. W. J. Herbison, the late secretary of the Association here, then followed with a few appropriate remarks in the course of which he referred in flattering terms to Mr. Colville and urged the young men to support that gentleman in his work among them. When he had finished another chorus was rendered by eight gentlemen.

THE NEW SECRETARY.

Then the Chairman with a few eulogistic remarks, in which he said that the Executive Committee in pressing Mr. Colville to accept the position of secretary were most sanguine in their expectations and asked all the members to give that gentleman their earnest support, introduced the new secretary to the meeting.

Mr. Colville made an excellent address to the young men, in which he dealt with the reasons why the Association should be supported and thanked the members of the Association and the brethern generally for the kind reception they had given him and for the sympathy and interest they had evinced in the work since he came here. He said in coming here he did so feeling that God had called him to do a work and he called upon them to assist him in carrying on the Association work.

THE LINDSAY SECRETARY.

Mr. F. B. Utley, the general secretary of the Lindsay Association, was next introduced. Mr. Utley made a very happy address and urged the young men to be workers and not shirk the work and leave it all to the secretary. He congratulated them on having secured such an efficient gentleman as Mr. Colville for their secretary and closed his address by extending an invitation to as many of them as could arrange to attend a grand farewell which is to be given to the President of the Lindsay Association on May 14th, upon the eve of his leaving Lindsay. Mr. Wm. Norton then rendered a mouth organ solo which was loudly applauded.

ST. JOHN'S CURATE.

Rev. J. C. Davidson, of St. John's Church, was the next speaker and he gave the young men a most interesting address full of good advice. He told them that they should not feel that they were singled out because they were supposed to be laden with more sin than their elders, but told them it was because they were hopeful and had all their life before them and Christian work was therefore more productive among them than among the older persons.

THE TRAVELLING SECRETARY.

Mr. T. S. Cole, the travelling secretary of the Association, gave quite a lengthy address, in which he told of his experience with Associations and spoke of its great spread and growth. He said it was forty years since the first Association was organized in Canada through the London Association. The first Association on this continent was organized in Montreal, just ten days before the organization of an Association in Boston. The work had continued to spread until now they had 1,300 Associations on this continent, 47 of which were in Ontario and Quebec, and in these two Provinces they now had 24 men who were engaged solely in this work. He said general secretaries were supposed by some to have an easy time, but he called them an army of martyrs, for they had to entirely forget self and give themselves up to the work of the Association. After speaking further of the Association's growth he spoke of the great necessity there was for financial support, and he asked them to exercise self-denial in giving. He said the Young Men's Christian Association had greater freemasonry than any other society, for young men could find Associations in all parts of the United States, in China and Japan, in Constantinople, in Jerusalem, Nazareth, Tarsus and Damascus. He closed by impressing upon them the importance of reading the Scriptures, which were the only weapons with which they could fight the world, the flesh and the devil.

Mr. Utley then sang in good voice the solo, "Ashamed of Thee."

THANKS.

Mr. H. S. Griffin was the last speaker and he briefly urged the young men to take up the work in earnest and to contribute their money as they felt able. Before he sat down he moved a vote of thanks to the ladies of the different churches who had so kindly and in such an excellent manner catered to them that evening. The resolution was carried with great applause.

A vote of thanks was also passed to Mr. Jackson who had loaned the piano, and to Mr. J. J. Turner, who had with his usual courtesy supplied the flags for the decorations.

The meeting then closed by Rev. Mr. Pearson pronouncing the benediction.

At the Division Court.

At the Division Court this morning an interesting point arose in the case of Minore vs. the British Empire Insurance Co. Mr. W. J. Minore gave an agent of the company an application for insurance and a note for the first premium, the note being made in the agent's name. The company refused the application and Mr. Minore sued it for the amount of the note. It was shown in evidence that this claim was stated by the Company to the bondsmen. The evidence was taken and the case will be argued before Judge Weller in chambers.

The following Valuable Town and F
Properties, belonging to the Esta
of the Late Mr. O'Sullivan:

Of the organ recital given [illegible] week the Post says:—"The organ recital in Cambridge-st. Methodist church on Friday evening last, though, owing to the storm, it was rather thinly attended, was a success. The audience represented the best musical taste and culture in the town, and all were delighted by the ability and care with which the selections were rendered. Mr. Parker is a master of his art, and brought from the organ tones and combinations which astonished all who heard them. His pedalling is marvellous, and his sudden transitions from the thunder of the full organ to the almost voiceless sweetness of a single stop thrilled his hearers. His selections were good, and brought out the capabilities both of the player and his instrument. Miss Vair, soprano soloist of St. Paul's choir, Peterborough, a pupil of Prof. Parker, sang four solos with great sweetness and fullness of voice. She was repeatedly applauded and encored, as she deserved to be. The Lindsay Octette Club, accompanied on the organ by Miss Easton, maintained their high and well earned reputation in rendering the anthems selected, and were heartily applauded. We are pleased to be able to state that in reponse to the earnest request of the people here Professor Parker has consented to give another recital in the same church, with an entirely new programme, on Monday evening, May 20th."

One of the reasons why Scott's Emulsion has such a large sale is, because it is the best. Dr. W. H. Cameron, Halifax, N. S., says: I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, for the past two years, and found it more agreeable to the stomach and have better results from its use than any other preparation of the kind I have ever used." AT THE ASSIZE COURT.

The Foresters' Insurance Case Settled—Other Civil Cases.

The case of Rodgers vs. the Foresters was again taken up and Dr. Bell's evidence was resumed. To Mr. Laidlaw he said that the only occasion on which he saw delerium in Rodgers was on Tuesday evening, when Leonard, Dinwoodie and others were present. Rodgers showed fear and other symptoms. He denied that he had any ill feeling towards Mrs. Rodgers. The date on which Mrs. Rodgers came to him complaining of her husband was ten days or two weeks before Jan. 19th. The copy of prescription shown was different from what he and Dr. Fraser agreed upon on Tuesday evening and if used should be given carefully. If given every twenty minutes and continued it would result fatally. If the patient received a blow immediately before his illness it might have been important. Had heard he had been struck, but did not consider it in the treatment.

At this stage the parties to the suit consulted with a view to a settlement. His Lordship urged that a settlement should be come to, as it was a case which he thought it would be better for both parties not to have gone on with. After a brief consultation Mr. Hardy announced that he agreed to withdraw the defence and that the other side would withdraw the action, a certain amount agreed upon to be paid by the Foresters.

The amount agreed to be paid to the plaintiff was $750 and there was a compromise as to costs.

FIFTH DAY—FRIDAY.

MOORE VS. KENNEDY.

This was an action for ejectment under a mortgage. The defendant asked for the sale of the premises. Judgment referred to the Master at Peterborough to take the usual proceedings for sale of premises and for possession on sale being made.—A. P. Poussette, Q.C., for plaintiff; C. J. Leonard for defendant.

A TRESPASS CASE.

Shairp vs. Lakefield; Lumber company was an action of trespass of lot 4, 15th con. of Burleigh, north division. The plaintiff obtained a patent to the land in November, 1888, having purchased in March, 1884. The defendants were licensees and under the license cut pine timber on the lot last winter. The jury found that the value of the pine cut was $416, the the value of other timber cut $12 and that the damage done to the lot by cutting roads and leaving the brush was $100. The question of whether the patent or license should take precedence was reserved by the judge.—E. B. Edwards and G. H. Watson for plaintiff; A. P. Poussette, Q.C., and Johnston for defendants.

This concluded the jury cases and the jurors were discharged from further attendance.

The Masonic Excursion.

The annual Masonic excursion will take place this year to Toronto on a date to be arranged. An energetic committee has been appointed and sub-committees struck to look after the different details of the trip. As the different branches of the Order in town are represented on the committee a united effort will result in a successful excursion. A large number will no doubt wait for the excursion, as travelling under such pleasant auspices adds additional enjoyment to the occasion. Brethren from the lodges in the district will no doubt cooperate to some extent and such assistance will tend to increase the number who may attend. Particulars will be made public in a few days.

Girls as Piano Makers.

A curious evolution is said to be taking place in Tom Scanlan's New England piano manufactory, in Boston, among the working forces of that establishment. This gradual change which is occurring is that from male to female employes, and to such an extent that not only is it said that the majority of actions made in this factory are turned out by girls, but they have also been introduced into the varnish department, where girls and women are actually doing the varnish work on piano cases. The state of Massachusetts has a reputation for its great number of female workers, who are engaged at a great many industries usually attended to by men, but this is the first case, if true, where they have been employed in a piano factory to do the laborious varnishing of piano cases.—New York Star.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cents. S. C. Wells & Co., Proprietors, LeRoy, N. Y.

FOR MEN ONLY,

We wish to remind those people that are to be seen daily on our streets, with ill fitting and ill-made garments that no excuse can be offered for so doing when T. Dolan & Co. have at their disposal, one of the most magnificent stocks outside of Montreal. A stock from which no man can go away dissatisfied, or go away without learning what a progressive age we live in. Never in the history of trade has finer Goods been manufactured than this year, and our effort to buy in the leading markets of the world, has been crowned with success, by placing on our counters the largest variety of the Richest Goods those markets afforded. We wish to raise the standard of clothing in this town, and we say to the men do not be an eye-sore by wearing badly-fitting clothing, but come to a house where you can be suited in goods and suited in Style. Leave your order for a suit with us, and Mr. Simons shall see you fitted up as becometh a highly respectable man.

Yours very truly,

A Traitorous Rooster.

Here was a private soldier who would have made a good judge. He would have known how to "construe the law," as the phrase is, so as to get justice done.

Two men were cooking a fat fowl at their camp fire, when a corporal sniffed the unaccustomed odor.

"Hullo, boys! where did you get that chicken?"

"Oh, we confiscated him for talking treason."

"Talking treason! What do you mean! Chickens can't talk."

"No, but they can crow; and as sure as you live, we caught this rooster, this very afternoon, crowing with all his might for Jeff Davis."

The corporal passed on.—Youth's Companion.

The Royal Circus at Biarritz.

The aboriginal inhabitants of Biarritz have been considerably astonished and diverted by the demeanor and costume of the Highland gillie who sits on the box of the queen's carriage and who, by the way, is the individual who succeeded John Brown as her majesty's "personal servant," he being a near relative of that deceased domestic. Still more amused are the natives by the Indian menials, who, like the gillie, are arrayed in their native garb, but they have lost the gravity which importations from the "coral strand" are supposed to possess, for when the queen arrived at Biarritz they drove through the town in an open carriage with some of the female servants, and were roaring and shouting with laughter all the way, like a couple of Bedlamites.—London Truth.

A Fruitless Appeal.

Obdurate Father (freezingly)—Waste no words, young man. I've nothing but advice to give you. Go to those dear "boys" and, in the delightful vernacular with which you are familiar, inform them that the old man cannot be worked for a sucker.—Pittsburg Bulletin.

BEAUTIFUL JIM.

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER

Nancy came, who was standing by, took her hand. "My dear," she whispered, "believe me, it's far harder when you are so placed that you cannot go out whatever happens, when you know that, even if you hear the worst and you feel you are wanted ever so badly, you are bound at home by ties and restrictions which you cannot break. Oh! it is nothing to let one's husband go, compared with the one who is everything and yet nothing to you."

Mrs. Seton dried her eyes and looked up. "Yes, he told me a good deal about it, dear," she said, kindly, and with scarcely more than a faint sob catching her breath, "and be sure if he is in need of my help he will have it. I'd do anything for him for his own sake, but I'll do it for yours as well now, I promise you."

"How good you are," Nancy whispered, fervently, "small wonder he is so fond of you, Mrs. Seton. Some day, perhaps, I shall be able to do something for you, and if I ever can—oh, how I shall jump at the chance of being able to do it."

By this time the people were gradually clearing out of the station, and as the handsome dean had given his sturdy arm to Mr. Earle, Nancy and Aileen followed in their wake with Mrs. Seton.

The dean was trying hard to persuade the old man to abandon his idea of returning home that day, and to change his quarters from the Golden Swan to the more luxurious ease and quietude of the Deanery; for, as he said, "It will be a change for you, and if you go home at once you will mope and get thinking of danger to the boy, when as yet no danger exists; and besides, you do not know Blankhampton at all, though there is a good deal that is well worth seeing here, and there must be a great many people in the neighborhood whom you know more or less well."

But Mr. Earle was obdurate!

One more night, however, he did consent to remain at the Golden Swan, and he also promised to dine at Mrs. Trafford's, to meet a select but hurriedly gathered together company; and as soon as he and Nancy had finished their somewhat early lunch, he told her that he was going to keep himself very quiet until dinner time, and that he did not wish to be disturbed.

Nancy, therefore, put on her hat and went to see her friend, Aileen, who was tired too with the exertions of the morning; so the two girls dawdled away the lovely September afternoon on the terrace of the Deanery, in company, after an hour or so, with the girls from the residence and one or two men from the cavalry barracks, who had found their way thither I don't quite know how.

Then came the evening, spent as brightly and gayly—for little Mrs. Trafford knew how to make her parties go off well and her guests enjoy themselves, none better—as if the scene at the station that morning had been the beginning of a bridal tour for some especially fortunate young couple, rather than a setting out of some of their nearest and dearest to undergo the horrors of war. And to more than one it was a welcome relief from the dreary process of sitting down to think.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

NEWS AT LAST.

"If Nancy likes to come back to see you all when I am comfortably settled in town," Mr. Earle said to Lady Margaret and her daughter during the course of the evening of Mrs. Trafford's little impromptu dinner, "I shall be very glad to spare her. Not that I do not miss her when she is away from me, mind, but I get very well looked after in town, and can exist without her; and I do not forget," with a sigh, "that she is young, and that the tastes of May are different to the tastes of December."

"Oh, let us say October," put in Lady Margaret, pleasantly.

But the old man shook his head very decidedly.

"Nay, my dear lady, not only December, but getting very near Christmas time," he said, gently.

"Then I hope Nancy will come back to us again," said Lady Margaret, ignoring the remark, with which, by the bye, she altogether agreed, "and stay a long time."

But Nancy had no notion of planting herself for an unlimited visit in a country town, where news would be a day old and letters several posts in reaching her, and she shook her head as firmly as ever her old father could have done.

"Dear Lady Margaret," she said, "I could come for a week or so, but no longer. He," laying her hand on her father's arm, "misses me far more than he will own; he is afraid of making me conceited, I fancy. And besides that, I never feel easy in my mind when I am away from him. But why could not Aileen come up and stay with me for a few weeks?"

"Well, I really do not see that there is any reason," said Lady Margaret, with a laugh.

So they settled it, and the following morning the Earles left Blankhampton and returned to Earles Hope. While there Nancy had letters from her Beautiful Jim, written, or rather posted, from Liverpool and Queenstown.

He said that they were all well and fairly cheerful: that Tommy had been abjectly seasick up to that time, and had not turned out of his berth at all; and then followed a good deal highly interesting to Nancy herself, but not bearing much on the points of this story.

They remained about ten days at Earles Hope, not from choice, but simply because the house in Hans place could not by hook or by crook be got ready to receive them any earlier; and, on the whole, it must be owned that Nancy had rather a trying time of it, for the old man was a regular town bird, and loathed the country cordially.
